The minister plenipotentiary of the States and the undersigned minisrofforeign relations, being respecrively authorised and now ready to neociate and conclude a treaty of commerce between the two countries, and as several-months must elapse before such a treaty can be completed and ratified, during which time their commercial interest may suffer loss from the uncertainty now existing in the U. PARIS, Dec. 21. Sir-I have the honor to announce to you that his majesty the emperor, by a decision of the 12th of this month, has ordered to be placed at the disposition of their government 23 Americans, whom the town of Dantzic had fors it had to furnish to France. These sailors had been sent to Antwerp, and afterwards to Rochefort; and these successive removals having rendered impracticable the immediate proof of their citizenship, every decision on that subject was necessarily deferred. The usage is to deliver to the nearest consul those who are claimed by his government. Therefore, the 23 American sailors could not be sent directly from Rochefort to Cherbourg, as you. desired; but the minister of marine has directed the maritime prefect of Rochefort to have them struck off the rolls, and to send them to Rochelle, there to be put at the disposition of the consul of the U. States. I hasten, sir, to apprise you of this, and I have the honor to renew the assurance of my high consideration. No. 6.*

The object of the licences given to vessels of the U. States is distinctly defined to be merely to guard against false papers, and to prove the regularity of the voyage .---They are used only for colonial produce, and not at all for the produce of the United States, and we see in every instance, that a vessel loaded wholly with the produce of the United States, or in ballast, is respected by the government hore. At least I know it has been so, in every instance, since my arrival in September last; and there have been, I doubt not, 30 or 40 such vessels in France within that period. But a vessel loaded with colonial produce and sailing without a licence, would be certainly confiscated, whether she had violated the supposed decrees or not. Indeed, the regulation about licences is not, a maritime regulation, and it has nothing to do with neutral rights. It is, strictly speaking, a relaxation of the French navigation act, in favor of such particular persons as obtain them, to enable such persons to bring goods of an origin foreign to the United States into France. It is the same as if a vessel of the U. States, should, by a special relaxation of the English navigation act, obtain a licence to bring Brazil sugars or French wines into England. Such a licence would surely not be considered as a breach, on the part of England, of our neutral rights, neither would it be a breach of such rights to confiscate our vessels carrying such articles into Eng. without a licence. The violation of the navigation law, either of France or England, is not a neutral right, and therefore the punishment of such violation is not a breach of neutral right.

I have taken the liberty to be thus particular on this head, because in several instances, during the discussion with the ministers of the British government, I have seen a disposition in them to confound with the French maritime decrees not only this affair of relation to neutral rights, or to the decrees in question.

I will terminate this statement by rede to you in my letter to you of the 30th January, (and there is no impropriety in the repetition, since a greater length of time has given a wider scope to the declaration,) that since my arrival in September last, there has not been a single instance of the application leased, came into Havre, declared the of the Berlin and Milan decrees to an American vessel or cargo, and that I have not heard of their having been so applied, since the first of November, 1810, though many instances have occurred within the period, in which they must have been so applied, had they been in vigor.

It is difficult to conceive, probably impossible to procure, and certainly insulting to require, a mass of evidence more positive than this, or more conclusive of every unprejudiced mind. [Signed,] JOEL BALOW.

MR. BARLOW TO THE DUKE OF BASSANO. Inclosed in No. 9, of the 16th March.]. Copy of a letter from Mr. Barlow to the Duke of Bassano, dated the 6th of Feb. 1812.

My Lord-I understand that the orig Belisarius, of New-York, Capt. Lockwood, and her cargo is about to be confiscated, after report made to his lan, of the 17th December, 1807.

As I know positively that this American vessel left New-York the 17th revocation of the decrees of Milan and Berlin, with permitted articles, the produce of the soil of the United States, I am unable to account for this decision, without attributing it to an error of date committed in the report, in which it is possible that the year 1810, has been taken for the year 1811. I take the liberty, therefore, to submit this remark to your excellency, well persuaded, if there has been an error in the report, the justice of his Maesty will order a revision of the affair. I pray your excellency, &c.

NASHVILLE, May 19. INDIANS.

The party under the command of general Johnson, that we mentioned in our last paper, about to start against bout 800 men we are told, on Friday last, at Humphreys court house. These" men are the flower of the sixth brigade of militia of this state. Our informant states they were not a's well armed as he could have wished; but much better than any body of the militia he has seen for many years. He represents this little army to be in fine spirits, and manifesting much cagerness to meet their adversaries.

Some spies had returned from the head of Sandy, who stated they did not go to the new town, but that they met some Chickasaw Indians who stated that Tecumseh, the brother of the Prophet, was at the town, and that he was anxious for the whites to come on, as he said he was prepared for them -that he had 600 warriors, the best of the Shawanese, Wyandots, Creeks, and Cherokee nations, and he defied the whole power of the United States,

This report fired the breasts of the little army. They pressed for expedition. About Thursday if they have no delays they will probably arrive at the new town on the head of Sandy ...

We may therefore by next Tuesday probably hear something from that quarter of an interesting nature. Col.
