SPAIN.

We have, says the Aurora received the Madrid Gazette, of the 9th, 12th, and 11th of August—and a letter from an American traveller, of the 20th of the same month; papers down to the latter date are mentioned, but have not been received.

There is nothing new in this city, (Madrid) except that the king has agreed to abolish the slave trade, in consideration of the sum of £200,000 sterling, to be paid by Great Britain, which will be liquidated by bills on merchants in the ports of Spain, who will have permission to import British manufactures to that amount.

The expedition to Buenos Ayres, which I learn has been long agitated, continues to be spoken of still, but that appears to be all that is done on the subject, for those who have been in the place for a long time, say, that it appeared to be as far advanced every day for six months past, as at this moment.

Those who made purchases at the sale of the personal estate of the late Jacob H. Manning, deceased, are informed, that their notes are in the hands of the Subscriber, and that they became due on the 30th day of last month, and unless immediate payment is made in Baltimore, Virginia, District or United States paper, they will be put into the hands of an officer for collection.

THE FORT FOLIO.

TRUE BEAUTY.

'Tis not the aburn lock of hair, That plays in ringlets round the fair; 'Tis not her cheek o'er spread with smiles; 'Tis not her voice which care beguiles; 'Tis not her lips with roses dress'd; Where vagrant bees would fondly rest; 'Tis not her blue eyes thrilling glance; 'Tis not her feet that tread the dance; 'Tis not the grace with which they move, That warms my heart with ardent love.

But 'tis her finely pallid'd mind, By Virtue's rarest rays refin'd; Like Hesper at the eve of day, When Sol. emits his latest ray; Modest and meek, without pretence; To e'er charms than charms of sense— To charms which shine when beauty fades, And wrinkled age the form invades; 'Tis these a lovely maid aspires, And these awake my bosom's fires: For they can warm my throbbing heart, Without the aid of fancy's art.

When time uplifts his palsy'ing hand, And strikes the visage with his wand; When cheeks no more with ruddy glow, And silver'd curls resemble snow; When eyes have lost their humid blue, And lips have chang'd their roseate hue, Ah! then how weak is Beauty's power, To charm the slowly passing hour.

SEDLEY.

THE VOICE OF HIM I LOVE.

Hence far from me, ye senseless joys! That fade before ye reach the heart— The crowded dome's distracted noise, Where all is pomp and useless art!

Give me my home, to quiet dear, Where hours untold and peaceful move; So fate ordain I sometimes there, May hear the voice of him I love.

I hate e'en music's pleasing power, When giddy crowds my tones attend; But love to sing, at evening's hour, To soothe the sorrows of a friend.

I love to breathe the plaintive lays, That Henry's heart and taste approve; For oh! how sweet, in tones of praise, Sounds the dear voice of him I love.

The praises I from others hear, Some joy may to my pride impart; But Henry's wake the rapturous tear, For his appraises touch my heart.

From busy crowds o'erj'd I fly, With him in lonely shade to rove; For in the gayest scenes I sigh, To hear the voice of him I love.

I love the drama's magic powers, Seek music's e'er crowded shrine, In learning pass the studious hours, Or try the Muse's wreath to twine.

Yet still I feel a joy more dear, Tho' I these pure delights approve, When, in retirement's scenes, I hear The soothing voice of him I love.

TECHNICAL TOASTS.

Given at the anniversary celebration of the Mechanic Association in Portsmouth, (N. H.)

[Blacksmiths.] The day—May the prosperity of the Society increase with each returning anniversary, and no link in the chain of our social compact feel the effects of the cold east.

[Joiners.] The Constitution of the United States—A finished piece of workmanship, well planned and joined—confusion to the man who would attempt to back it with the hatchet of discord.

[Printers.] The President's Tour—A good token well worked off.

[Bookbinders.] All societies similar to this—A good batch well set—may it never be burnt nor slack backed.

[Cabinet Makers.] Mechanics—May they never be cumber'd with superfluity, nor tarnish'd with hypocrisy—a becoming self-respect is their genuine polish.

[Shoemakers.] Our Country—May it grow stronger and stronger, no threat of its Union be broken, and should its liberties be hereafter attacked, 'perish the man whose sole is backward.'

[Tailors.] The heroes of the late War—the man who attempts to wabble from their well earned fame is a backstitch in honor or a goose in intellect.

[Copers.] The government of the United States—Its heading has been examined and pronounced sound.

[Watchmakers.] Agriculture, Commerce and Manufactures—The main spring of our Independence; may they ever be well regulated and keep time together.

FROM LATE ENGLISH PAPERS.

A private letter from Paris draws a curious picture of the state of the public mind in some of the French departments. A sudden change of sentiment has been effected on religious subjects, it appears by the well meaning, but perhaps over zealous, exertions of a more handful of Catholic Missionaries. They have, it seems selected for their experiments the districts which, 20 years ago, were most infested with the manical principles of the revolution. Around Nantz and Bordeaux nothing now attracts so much attention of the traveller, as the daily pilgrimages of royal pentant and converted Atheists, to crosses erected by themselves to expiate their former crimes against religion. The exertions of these Missionaries are certainly praiseworthy, and we have no doubt will contribute towards the reformation in morals, which we trust is gradually spreading among the French people.

They write from Poland, that a forester, having heard that a reward of 500 crowns was offered to any person who would kill a wolf, which was the terror of the neighborhood, resolved to obtain it. This furious animal, accustomed during the late campaigns to live upon the dead bodies of the soldiers, would not attack the flocks, but used to fly upon the shepherds and devour them. The forester took his child, only about two years old, and fasten'd it to a tree near the cottage, with a view to attract the animal, while he remained upon the watch with a musket. The wolf came, and was instantly killed; the infant sustained no injury, and the man claimed the reward.
