Marriage.

Married persons, or those contemplating marriage, being aware of physical weakness, should immediately consult Dr. J., and be restored to perfect health. Office No. 7, South Frederick street, Baltimore, Md., on the left hand side, going from Baltimore street, 7 doors from the corner. Be particular in observing the number, or you will mistake the place.

Dr. Johnston,

Member of the Royal College of Surgeons, London, Graduate from one of the most eminent Colleges of the United States, and the greater part of whose life has been spent in the Hospitals of London, Paris, Philadel-phia and elsewhere, has effected some of the most as-consisting cures that were ever known. Many troubled with a further in the area and head when selecen great with a ringing in the cars and head when asleep, great hervousness, being alarmed at sudden sounds, and bashfulness, with frequent blushing, attended some-times with derangement of mind, were cured immediately.

Take Particular Notice.

Dr. J. addresses all those who have injured themselves by private and improper indulgences, that secret and solitary habit, which ruin both body and mind, unfiting them for either business or society. These are some of the sad and melancholy effects produced by early habits of youth, viz: Weakness of the Back and limbs, Pains in the Head, Dimness of Sight, Loss of Mascular Power, Palpitation of the Heart, Dis-pepsia, Nervous Irritability, Derangement of the Diges-tive Functions, General Debility, Symptoms of Consumption, &c. MENTALLT.-The fearful effects on the mind are much to be dreaded; loss of memory, confusion of ideas, depression of spirits, evil forebodings, aversion to society, self distrust, love of solitude, timidity, &c., and some of the evils produced.

Nervous Debility.

Weakness of the system, nervous debility and prema-ture decay, generally arising from the destructive habit of youth, that solitary practice so fatal to the healthful existence of man, and it is the young who are most apt to become its victims from an ignorance of the dangers to which they subject themselves. Parents and guarto which they subject themselves. Parents and guar-dians are often misled with respect to the cause or source of disease in their sons and wards. Alas! how often do they ascribe to other causes the wasting of the frame, Palpitation of the heart, dyspepsia, indigestion, derangement of the nervous system, cough, and symp-toms of consumption, also those serious mental effects, and each based memory dear series formities require such as loss of memory, depression of spirits or peculiar fits of melancholy, when the truth is they have been indulging in pernicious but alluring practices, destruc-tive to both body and mind. Thus are swept from existence, thousands who might have been of use to their country, a pleasure to their friends, and ornaments to society

GOOD SENSIBLE TALK. THE FINE OLD ARKANSAS GENTLEMAN.

Those of our readers at all familiar with the story and leading characters of our sister State of Arkansas (says the N. O. Delta) will scarcely require a hint as to the anthorship of the exceedingly clever song which we publish below. It bears the unmistakable imprint of the most versatile genius, ablest lawyer, the best hunter, the most distinguished orator and poetand last, though not least, jolliest good fellow in the Southwest.

SONG. THE FINE ARKANSAS GENTLEMAN.

Now all good fellows, listen and a story I will tell Of a mighty clever gentleman who lives extremely well, In the western part of Arkansaw, close to the Indian

Where he gets drunk once a week on whiskey, and immediately sobers himself completely on the very. best of wine: . A fine Arkansas gentleman close to the Choctaw line.

This fine Arkansas gentleman has a mighty fine estate. Of five or six thousand acres or more of land, that will be, worth a great deal some day or other if he don't kill himself too soon, and will only condescend to wait: And four or five dozen negroes that would rather work than not.

And such quantities of horses, and cattle, and pigs and other poultry that he never pretends to know how many he has got; This fine Arkansas gentleman close to the Choctaw line

III.

This fine Arkansas gentleman has built a splendid house. On the edge of a big prairie extremely well populated with deer, and hares, and groups; And when he wants to feast his friends, he has nothing more to do, Than to leave the potlid off, and the decently-behaved birds fly straight into the pot, knowing he'll shoot them if they don't, and he has a splendid stew; This fine Arkansas gentleman close the Indian line.

This fine Arkansas gentleman makes several hundred hales.

Unless from drought, or worm, or getting a bad stand or some other such contingency, his crop is short or fails

And when it's picked, and ginned, and baled, he puts it on a boat And get aboard himself likewise, and charters the bar and has a devil of a spree, while down to New Orleans he and his cotton float;

And when he gets to New Orlcans he sacks a clothing store, t the City Hotel, the St. Louis, the St. muts m

The world is full of life-full of action .-And yet here are those who loiter on the great race of life. They pass along and leave no record of deeds to live after them. No laudable ambition seems to stir their sluggish souls. No soaring aspiration seems to throb in their hearts. They bask in the sunshine and shun the conflicts where mind grapples with mind, living a brief day, and living in unbroken light. Our young men do not appreciate the privileges of this day. They do not make good use of the advantages that surround them: There are many of them who are nobly struggling to do so, but hosts of others seems to have no ambition. No impulse stirs them. The world in its progress brings its resources to their very doors, but they have not sufficient energy of character to reach out and grasp them. We see much to regret in society. The young hearts, where lie the hopes of our country, are too ingloriously idle, or frittering away their usefulness and influence. Let a person pass through the country and mingle with the gatherings of our young men, and they will look with sorrow on the frivolous character presented. Why so much ill-breeding ? Why so much vulgarity and profanity? Why so rude and repulsive a disregard of all the little courtesies of life ? Why is their conversation so grossly coarse? We miss the heart-born of politeness that should characterize the conduct of the true gentlemen. We even see those claiming gentility and respectability treating strangers-nay, women-with marked discourtesy and insult. And where is the fault. There are some "good old ways," which ought not to be departed from-counsels which should not be forgotten. We depreciate arrogant, selfish and repulsive manuers which, so generally, mark-the character of young people. There is no truer mark of a gentleman than courtesy in the treatment of others. Stale slang is no accomplishment-it is a stain.-

The ill-bred retort degenerates into deliberate insult. The young man who thinks he is not a "blood young man" until he can show how little he cares for the unpretending, but shining

Of all the spies, human or animal, envy is the most persevering, prying, observant and indefatigable in its serpent-like attributes. When the great Frederic of Prussia put the question severally to each of his courtiers, requesting their opinion as to the best remedy to sharpen the eye-sight; some recommended fennel, some glasses, some one thing and some another till it came to Actias, who very gravely advised his sovereign to try envy.

THE PASSION OF ENVY.

Whatever we do or say, is straightway snapped up by this lurking sinister meddler, distort-ed and disarranged by this eldest born of Malice, and then given to the crew of semi-demons ever lurking along the hedge-row of vice, as a by-word and matter of ridicule. Whatever we do ill, is magnified by this imp of Hate, to absolute wickedness, and even our best actions and motives are distorted to very hideousuess of aspect. All our failings are watched and blazoned forth to the gaping crowd, ever ready to grasp at a fault in a fellowbeing and for that fault crucify him without

Envy is the lowest, vilest, meanest of all the passions that ever swayed the human heart .---And while Faith, Love, Hope, Justice and all their sister virtues, combine to ennoble and elevate humanity; and while Hate, Revenge and blear-eyed Malice, are but semi-active qualities, dependent upon other circumstances foreign to their influence, for their action, for their very existence, Envy is ever on the alert, ever in action, playing the insidious spy.

Dependent upon no circumstances, indigenous to no clime or country, it leaps into instant being full-fledged like Minerva from the brain of Olympus' Thunderer, and the first act of the young fiend is mischief.

Envy is so cowardly and contemptible an attribute that it exults in wretchedness, and laughs and makes it more wretched still. He that would avoid Envy in himself, must possess honesty and independence enough to despise it in others. But he that would avoid the danger of it in others, must keep well clear of their company.

THE DEAD WIFE.

In comparison with the loss of a wife, all other bereavements are trifles. The wife-she who fills so large a space in the domestic heaven, she who is busied, so unwearied in laborqualities of modesty and home simplicity, coming for the precious sons around her-bitter, bitter is the tear that falls on her cold clay !--You stand beside her coffin and think of the past. It seems an amber colored pathway. where the sun shone upon beautiful flowers, or

INTERESTING STATISTICS.

An article in a late number of the New York Post presents the following very interesting statistics, compiled from an appendix to a report of the Secretary of the Treasury to the United States Senate, on the Colonial and Lake trade of the United States:

Our average imports from 1821 to 1826, spe-cie included, were $80,878,348; from 1848 to 1852 they were $181,966,579, showing that they have more than doubled in thirty years. Our average imports from 1821 to 1826 were $69,439,785, and from 1848 to 1852, $175,-943,360. In 1821 the tonnage of the United States was only 1,298,958 tons; in 1852 it was 4,138,441 tons, showing that it has more than trebled in thirty years. Next to Great Britain, we have a larger tonnage than any nation in the world, and in five years, at the present rate of increase, we shall surpass Great Britain.

The value of our annual products exceeds hree thousand millions of dollars, of which ony about $170,000,000 are sent abroad, leaving $2,830,000,000 to be consumed at home and interchanged among the States. At least $600,000,000 is thus interchanged between the States of the Union.

The total debt of the several States in 1851 was $201,541,624, which was less by some millions than it had been during the previous ten years. The value of property assessed in the same States was $5,983,149,407, the real value being, however, $1,068,157,779-a pretty good security, we think, for their debts, whether owing at home or abroad.

The total population of the villages, towns. and cities of the United States is only 4,000,000, while the rural population, "the honest pea-santry, their country's pride," is 19,263,000.— The four cities of New York, Boston, Philadelphia, and Baltimore contain a population of 1,214,000, the amount of whose real and personal property is $702,000,000 or $578 each. The property of the rural population is $2,312,-000,000, or about $120 each.

From returns from the agricultural crops it appears that we raise annually $143,000,000 in wheat, $391,200,000 in Indian corn, $190,-275,000 in hay, $70,840,000 in oats, $73,125,-000 in Irish potatoes, and $129,000,000 in cotton-the whole crop being $1,752,583,042. The animals slaughtered are worth quite as ment Society have Resolved, That an appeal be made to the vo-ters on that occasion with a request that a contribution be taken up in each election District in the State, in aid of the great National Monument now being erected in the City of Washington in honor of the Father of his Country.

In complying with the resolution, I feel that it would be entirely superfluous to add anything to stimulate the patriotism or to attempt to increase the veneration and love of those to whom the memory of Washington must ever be cherished and held sacred. They cannot but feel a peculiar pride in doing honor to one who by his birth and illustrious life has shed imperishable glory on their native State. To manifest their respects, love and veneration for him who was and ought ever to be "First in the hearts of his Countrymen," another opporunity will be afforded at the ensuing election. of contributing to the great Monument now in course of erection in his honor. For this purpose, the Commissioners of election, Sheriffs, or any other patriotic citizen who feels an interest she is, to all intents, morally, if not physically, dead.

in the accomplishment of this noble object, are respectfully requested to put up the boxes at the respective places when the election will be held, to receive such contributions as may be made by the voters and others so disposed, and to transmit the several amounts thus contributed to the Hon. Elisha Whittlesev, General Agent of the Society. This favor is respec-tively solicited by the Board as an act of patriotism and in honor of the illustrious Father of his Country, and especially as no agents can conveniently be appointed to perform this noble and gratifying duty. MRS. HOWARD, OF NAPOLEON NOTOBIETY.

The following extract of a letter from a Balimore correspondent of the New Orlcans Crescent, gives some interesting particulars of this celebrated woman :

"The late marriage of the Emperor of France, and the putting away of Mrs. Howard, as she is called, his former mistress, has a peculiar interest here. This Mrs. Howard is the daughter of distinguished family of this city, but has long been considered by them as dead. When young, she was distinguished for her beauty and wit, as well as her extraordinary amorous propensities. She went to England, was introced into the highest society there by the daughter of a Maryland family, who is now one of the brightest ornaments of the British nobility. There she was married to a titled gentleman, and after committing a number of in-discretions and giving her friends an infinite degree of trouble and anxiety finally irretrievably disgraced herself by eloping with a gay young officer. After being in succession the mistress of several noblemen, she attached herself to Louis Napoleon, with whom she has remained a number of years. A real affection is said to have existed between them, several children having been the fruit of their connexion. Her banishment to England and her rumored abstraction of important secret papers from the Emperor's private apartment is the last phase in her eventful life. After her fall, finding her reclamation impossible, her friends here announced her dead, and even went through the ceremony of inferring her supposed remains in Greenmount Cemetery, and to them

GENERAL HAYNAU'S CORPSE.

A most extraordinary account has reached us in a private letter from Vienna, to -a high personage here, and has been the talk of our salons for the last few days. It appears that the circumstances of the death of General Haynau presented a phenomenon of the most awful kind on record. For many days after death, the warmth of life yet lingered in the right arm and left leg of the corpse, which remained limp and moist, even bleeding slightly when pricked. No delusion, notwithstanding, could be maintained as to the reality of death, for the other parts of the body were completely mortified, and interment became necessary before the two limbs above mentioned had become either stiff or cold. The writer of the letter mentioned that this strange eircumstance has produced the greatest awe in the midst of those who witnessed it, and that the emperor had been so im-

Often had I heard of happiness, but was ignorant of it myself. My heart inquired if was all a phantom-a thing of fiction merely, and not of fact? I determined to travel through the earth and see if it was in the possession of any mortal. I beheld a King on his stately throne.-Subjects obeyed his laws. A multitude of servants came and went at his bidding .-Palaces of the most costly materials were at his service, and his tables groaned with the richness of their burdens. He seemed furnished with all he could desire, but his countenance betrayed that he was unhappy. I saw a man of wealth. He resided in an elegant mansion,' and was surrounded by every luxury; but he lived in constant fear of losing his possessions. He was constantly imagining that all his property would be con-sumed or taken from him. Thus picturing to his own mind the miserable condition of himself and family, he was not satisfied with his present wealth. The more he had, the more he desired. Surely, here was not happiness. I looked upon a lovely valley surrounded by hills. In the midst of it stood a neat little village. Gurgling streams came murmuring down the hillside. The lambs frolicked merrily about. Cattle grazed in the verdant pastures, and now and then went to quench their thirst at the nearest spring, or the purling brook. Everything seemed pleasant. I thought certainly here is happiness. But I visited the inhabitants of this beautiful spot, and saw that they were not happy. They lived not peaceably among themselves, and murmured because great wealth was not their portion, or that they were not born to high station. I beheld a fair young creature, blessed with health and beauty. She was the life of the ball room, and received the most constant attentions. But I perceive that she was not truly happy. These things could not satisfy the longings of her heart. I saw a true and heartfelt Christian. He was constantly exercising love to his fellow men, and doing all in his power to extend the knowledge of Jesus Christ and Him crucified. He trusted not in the vanities of this life for happiness. He sought not this world's riches, but laid up for himself a treasure in Heaven. His soul was at rest, and at peace with God, and with mankind. Although he experienced many trials, both in public and private, still he was cheerful, and content with his lot. He only of all these was possessed of true happiness. [Pettengill's Reporter.

THE CHARMS OF LIFE. There are a thousand things in this world to afflict and sadden-but, oh! how many that are beautiful and good ! The world teems with beauty-with objects which gladden the eye and warm the heart. We might be happy if we would. There are ills that we cannot escape-the approach of disease and death, of misfortune, the sundering of earthly ties, and the cancer worm of grief-but a vast majority of the evils that beset us might be avoided .-

the stars glittered overhead. Fain would the soul linger there. No thorns are remembered above that sweet clay, save those your hand may have unwillingly planted. Her noble, tender heart lies open to your inmost sight .--You think of her now as all gentleness, all beauty and purity. But she is dead! The dear head that laid upon your bosom, rests in the still darkness upon a pillow of clay. The hands that have ministered so untiringly are folded, white and cold, beneath the gloomy portals .--The heart, whose every beat measures an eternity of love, lies under your feet. The flowers she bent over with smiles, bend now above her with tears shaking the dew from their petals, that the verdure around her may be kept green and beautiful.

PAYING LIKE A SINNER.

Several years ago, in North Carolina, where t is not customary for the tavern-keepers to charge the ministers anything for lodging and refreshments, a preacher presumingly stopped at a tavern one evening, made himself comfortable during the night, and in the morning entered the stage, without offering pay for his accommodations. The landlord soon came running up to the stage, and said, "There was some one who had not settled his bill." The passengers all said they had, but the preacher. who said he understood that he never charged ministers anything. "What, you a minister of the Gospel-a man of God?" cried the innkeeper; "you came to my house last nightyou sat down at the table without a blessing; I lit you up to your room, and you went to bed without praying to your Maker (for I stood there until you retired ;) you rose and washed without prayer, ate your breakfast without saving grace; and as you came to my house like a sinner, you have got to pay like a sinner !"

ONLY A CHILD.

Who is to be buried here ?" said I to the Sexton. "Only a child, ma'am."

Only a child? Oh! had you ever been a mother-had you nightly pillowed that little golden head-had you slept the sweeter for that little velvet hand upon your breast-had you waited for the first intelligent glance from those blue eyes-had you watched its slumbers tracing the features of him who stole your girlish heart away-had you wept a widow's tears over its unconscious head-had your desolate, timid heart gained courage from that little piping voice to wrestle with the jostling crowd for daily bread-had its loving smiles and prat ling words been sweet recompense for such sad exposure-had the lonely future been brightened by the hope of that young arm to lean upon that bright eye for your guiding star-had you never framed a plan or known a hope or fear, at which that child was not a part: if there was naught else on earth left you to love-if disease came, and its eyes grew dim; and food, and rest, and sleep, were forgotten in your anxious fears-if you paced the floor hour by hour, with that fragile burden, when your very touch seemed to give comfort and healing to that little quivering frame-had the star of hope set at last-then, had you hung over its dying pil low, when the strong breast you should have wept on was in the grave, where your child was hastening-had you caught alone its last faint of the evils that beset us might be avoided.— The curse of intemperance, interwoven as it is is last fluttering sigh breathed out on your breast

Our whole steam marine, therefore, amounts to 1.390 vessels, with a tonnage of 417,226, manned by 29,377 men, and carrying, besides freight, about 40,000,000 of passengers every year. In this vast travel, only 750 lives were lost in 1852 -far too many, but not so many as some people, who fancy every steamboat a powder-house, are prepared to expect.

The amount of money paid into the treasury of the United States, as duties on foreign goods, in the year 1852, was at New York, $28,772,-558; at Philadelphia, $3,715,126; at Boston, $6,250,588; and at Baltimore, $1,063,530. It will be seen that New York more than trebles all the other cities.

There are 12,808 miles of railroad in operation in the United States, and 12,612 in progress-more than in all the rest of the world.

ELECTION DAY.

The people of Jefferson County will bear in mind that the day of election is just at hand. On Thursday next, the voters of Virginia, will again be called upon to exercise that great privilege which is inestimable to Freemen, but formidable to tyrants. It should be so used as to promote the public good, accord with your own conscientious convictions of public duty, and without fear, favor or affection. At this election, there is to be a member of the Board of Public Works, for the 3d Section : one member of Congress, to represent the 8th District, and two members of the House of Delegates of Virginia, to be chosen, all of which offices are important in themselves and worthy the consideration of the people, as to their selection. The merits and demerits of the by." Justice, sound policy and the triumph of De-

DEMOCRATS, LET US REASON TOGETHER.

This is the last opportunity we will have to communicate with you through the press before the election. The candidates selected by your respective Conventions have now been before you for several weeks, and ample time has been afforded you to canvass their merits in your minds, and to determine what action your principles and a sense of justice demanded at your hands. To these considerations alone we must address ourselves. With prejudice and passion, we cannot now converse; the considerations of great public concern outweigh and override all minor influences, and ought to have control over the actions of every true Democrat-so far at least as the Congressional election is concerned, which is to have a direct and immediate effect upon our national concerns and the principles which have been so triumphantly vindicated in the election of General

PIERCE to the Presidency. A candidate for Congress from the 8th District has been chosen by the Democratic Convention; in the person of the Hon, CHARLES JAMES FAULKNER. TO the decision of that convention we cheerfully bow and take the candidate with equal cheerfulness-recognizing, as we do, in him a most able representative, with all the talents, industry and ability to represent his District and his country with marked distinction and usefulness. Of his own free will and accord he has sundered himself from his former political associations, and has come to our standard, and has unreservedly placed himself upon our platform. "for weal or for woe." What more does any reason able man and patriot want? What prouder vindication does any man want of the truth and force of Democratic principles than the attraction to them of such men? He has signalized his adoption of them, by many powerful vindications of them upon the floor of Congress, and upon the hustings in the face of the foe, and amidst the most continued shower of vituperation and abuse ever poured upon the head of any man. Were he not a mark worthy to be shot at, so many shafts would not be hurled at him. Were the Whigs not conscious of their loss, they would not trouble themselves so much to vituperate and abuse him. Are there no reasons in these considerations, Democrats, to induce you to come forward in your full strength and support him cordially and patriotically? Suppose any other man of the number of distinguished men of our party in the District had received the nomination, and the Democratic hosts of glorious old hope there may be no occasion to witness a similar Berkeley, "redeemed, regenerated and disenthralled," as she is, had refused him their support, because their favorite Faulkner had been set aside-what would have been said and thought by every Democrat ?---Then, will any Democrat turn his back upon the Democratic masses there, and throughout the District against all Democrats, who prefer Mr. Faulkner for this race? We hope and trust not. Justice, Democratic principles and policy forbid any such step. We cannot always get our favorites in nominations then there is only one course to pursue, if we wish to preserve party organization through the means and instrumentality of Conventions, and that is, to let the nominee of the Convention be the favorite of the Democracy. This mutual confidence must exist, or dis organization and disaster must be the results, and inure to the exclusive benefit of the common foe .-

EXECUTION OF NEGRO GEORGE.

On Friday last, occurred in our community one of those disagreeable incidents in its history, the impressions of which are not easily effaced. The negro boy George, who had made a most violent and unprovoked attack upon his employer, Mr. SAML, H. BROWN, in obedience to the Sentence of the Court after a fair and impartial investigation of all the circumstances connected with the affair, paid the penalty of his life for the heinonsness of the offence. Quite a number were in attendance to witness the execution, though every thing connected with its disagreeable performance, passed off quite as well as could have been expected, and in many respects creditable to those whose unpleasant duty it was to carry out the sentence of the law, as well as those whose curiosity alone induced them to be present, as spectators upon so solemn an occasion. The gallows had been erected on the lot of Mr. ANDREW HUNTER, near town, and at about 12 o'clock, M., the negro, under charge of the High Sheriff, Mr. JOHN W. MOORE, and the Jailor, Capt. JOHN W Rowan, as also the Potomac Rifle, of Shepherdstown; walked from the Jail to the place of execution. The Rev. W. B. DUTTON, the officiating Clergyman, as also Dr. W. A. DougLASS, the Physician were assigned appropriate places in the line of procession. The boy had been clad in the habilaments of death before he left the Jail, and though he moved with a firm step, and manifested much less concern than many spectators who were presen yet as the mournful pageant moved through the town, it produced considerable sensation. The proceedings at the scaffold were of but short duration The negro addressed the crowd in but a few words. in which he declared his willingness to die, and his hope of preparation for eternity. He bid an affectionate farewell to the multitude, and hoped to meet them all in heaven. The Rev. Mr. Dutton then offered up to the Throne of Grace, a most feeling and appropriate prayer, which we have heard universally commended for its peculiar fitness to the occasion, and the fervor and eloquence of its appeal, The cap was then adjusted, the signal given, the rope cut by the High Sheriff, and in some two or three moments the negro pronounced to be dead. The example thus furnished, for the violation of law and the insubordination on the part of our negroes, will no doubt prove a salutary lesson for good, and we occurrence for many a day to come. The day before the negroe's execution, he made a onfession as to having carried the "corn-knife" with him into the corn-house, the morning on which the difficulty occurred, as also having it under his coat at the time he ate his breakfast. This was the only link of evidence wanting, to establish most clearly and unequivocally the premeditation of resistance against his master's authority, even unto death if it were necessary. That Mr. Brown escaped with his life, is more owing to his own powers of resistance. than any abatement of effort on the part of the negro, to accomplish what has been clearly established to have been his premeditated purpose, to resist at the sacrifice of life. The poor negro received during his confinement in jail, the kindest attention upon the part of our Clergymen and other religious advisers, and as to both his temporal and spiritual welfare, the community manifested a becoming interest. He was exceedingly illiterate, and exhibited throughout a

By request of some of our Harpers-Ferry friends, we subjoin the Report of the Military Committee the House of Representatives, on the propriety of aboishing the Military and substituting the Civil Superintendency at our National Armories. The Report clearly and succinctly sets forth the wrongs which are complained of, the rights which are invaded, and the fact clearly established that the Military system is not only wrong in its theory, but inefficient in practice. Mr. FAULKNER has been the firm, constant. and unwavering friend, who has labored by day and by night to effect its overthrow, and his services, we are sure, will be gratefully appreciated by men of all parties, who have felt the rod, and made to suffer from the rule of military discipline, where it is nei-

NATIONAL ARMORIES.

Report of Military Com'tee, Aug. 13, 1852. Mr. GORMAN, from the Committee on Military Affairs, made the following Report: Attairs, made the following Report: The Committee on Military Affairs, to whom we re-ferred the petitions of sundry citizens of Vir; inia, praying for the discontinuance of the month y and for the restoration of the civil superintendences at the national armories of the United States, have, accord-ing to order, had the same under consideration, and submit the following report: There are now in the United States two national armories for the manufacture of small arms, one situated at Springfield, in the State of Massachusetts, the other at Harpers-Ferry, in the State of Virginia.-These manufactories have been, from their first establishment, at a very early period of our government, until the first day of April, 1841, under the manage-ment and control of superintendents selected from the civil pursuits of life, and distinguished for their energy, capacity, and peculiar fitness for the duties of their station. A reference to the consecutive annual reports made to Congress for many years, will show that during the entire period that these manufactories were under the management of persons so selected, the high-est testimony is uniformly borne, by the departments to which they were responsible, to the vigor and effi-ciency of the system then existing, to the general economy of their management, to the order and subordina tion prevalent in them, and to the gratifying and increasing improvement in the machinery used, and in the excellence of the fire-arms fabricated there. Contentment and order prevailed among the operatives permanent residences were acquired by the intelligent nechanics there employed; and active zeal was manifested for the public interests, and mechanical skill and ngenuity stimulated to its highest point, from which the government has derived inappreciable benefits .-These manufactories have been, since 1815, under the supervision and control of the ordnance department In 1839 a change was made in the head of the Ordnance Department, and Licutenant Colonel Talcott was transferred to the place for many years before filled by Colonel George Bomford. By referring to the official reports of that and the subsequent year, it will be seen that Colonel Talcott, who afterwards took a conspicuous part in accomplishing a change in the ad-ministrative policy of those armories, was forced to bear his testimony to the results of the system there n operation. In his report of the 29th of November, 1839, he says

The superiority of the small arms recently fabricated over those formerly made, evinces the utility of pub lic establishments for improving this branch of manu-facture." And in his report of the 30th November 1840, he says: "The manufacture of muskets according to the new model has been successfully established at both of the national armories. The substitution hereafter of percussion in place of flint locks, which most shocking indifference, as to the dread fate that is becoming general in Europe, will render the arms as nearly perject as can be attained; and judging from the specimen of foreign arms of the most approved patterns, recently imported, decidedly superior to any arms of foreign manufacture." A short time subsequent to the transfer of Colonel From the following extracts from the last issues Talcott, four officers of the board of Ordnance were designated by the Secretary of War to proceed to Europe, and visit the most important arsenals, cannon foundries, and manufactories of small arms. And having spent a few months in the discharge of the duties assigned to them, they returned and made their report in November, 1840. From the period of the re turn of this commission from Europe, the purpose seems to have been systematically and pertinacio pursued by the head of that department to place the national armories of the United States under the same "Mr. Boteler closed with a beautiful exhortation to administrative system which was found to prevail in somewhat similar establishments in some of the most the Whigs of Loudoun; and our only wish is that every one of them could have been there to have heard despotic monarchies of Europe. If any effort was made, as doubtless it was, to influence the then Secre tary of War, the Hon. Joel R. Poinsett, to favor thi change, that effort proved wholly unsuccessful. On the 4th of March, 1841, a new administration came into power, when Mr. Bell, yielnidg too ready an car to the suggestions and recommendation of the ordnance officers, on the 1st of April, 1841, within a few weeks after his appointment as Secretary of War, dismissed the civit superintendents from office, and appointed military officers to take the charge of these establishments. How far this step was in accordance with, or in violation of law, the committee will not stop here to inquire. They have no hesitation, how ever, in expressing their opinion that it was harsh and ill-judged-unjust to and oppressive upon the mechanics employed in the public service-and in no respect promotive of the interests of the government. In the session of 1841-2 the attention of Congress was invited to the subject, and it is much to be regretted that it was not brought forward as an independent measure of policy, instead of being blended as it was, with the provisions of a bill for the general re-organization of the army. And yet, even in that form, when first submitted to the Senate, that body, by a vote of near two to one, after debate, struck out the section legalizing the military superintendencies. A change of opinion was subsequently produced in that body by a manuscript statement of important facts, prepared and signed by the head of the Ordnance De partment, and placed upon the desk of each Senator on the morning of the day upon which the bill was acted upon, and which statement it is confidently believed and asserted could not then and cannot now be sustained by impartial evidence. In the House of

Why, indeed, should military men desire such situ-ations? It would seem to us that their true ambition would lead them to desire a place in the line of their duty; in the command of men trained and discipline to arms, and not to be thrown into a position of con stant collision with artizans and n anneed to the rigid restraints of military life, and unistomed to the dialect of the camp, radation in submitting to restriction ns which how ever appropriate in the camp, are only productive of irritation in the civil employments of life. The committee, therefore, being of the opinion that the military superintendencies now established at the national armories should be abolished, and the civil superintendents restored, beg leave to submit the acnpanying bill.

THE CONGRESSIONAL CONTEST.

As the election approaches both parties seem preparing for a contest. The Whigs show fight in every district where they possess the shadow of a chance. In the 1st or Accomac District, a Whig Convention has at last met and nominated an opponent to Gen. Bayly. Mr. Louis C. H. Finney, of Accomac, is the nomines, and we suppose will accept. We cannot entertain much doubt of Gen. Bayly's election. Mr. Finney, however, is a man of great personal populari-ty upon the Eastern shore, and the District is Whig by a small majority. If Gen. Bayly had not the in-side track we should think his success improbable.-As it is, however, we confidently anticipate his re-In the 2d or Norfolk District, we are not aware o any organized opposition to the Hon. John S. Millson who has been nominated by a Democratic Conven tion for re-election. Some dissatisfaction has been expressed, and Dr. Arthur R. Smith, of Norfolk counnow a member of the State Senate, and Timothy Rives, of Prince George, have been named as indepen dent Democratic candidates—but we suppose that neither of them will rebel against the decision onvention. No Whig is in the field as yet, but Jno R. Kilby, Esq., of Nansemond, a member of the last House of Delegates and one of the Scott electors, is suggested as a candidate. If there be no Democratic opposition to Mr. Millson, his election is absolutely

In the 3d or Richmond city District, an animated canvass is going on between Messrs. Caskie and Cole man, and as the District is close, we fear the result is doubtful. The withdrawal of Mr. Botts has united the Whigs, and their strength in Richmond city can be very easily expressed at the polls. Mr. Caskie la-bors under the disadvantage of relying upon the country vote in counties where no local election of suff ient interest to provoke a full vote is to be held. It s to be hoped that his friends are alive to the importance of active effort and will spare no exertion to ecure his return to Congress.

In the 4th District, Hon. Wm. O. Goode of Mecklenhurg, is the Democratic candidate, and will cer-tainly be elected. Wyatt Cardwell, of Charlotte, announced himself as a Whig candidate some time ago, but since then a Democratic Convention has pass upon the pretensions of the Democratic aspirants, an Messrs. Campbell, Hopkins are now out of the field Mr. Goode was a member of Congress some year since, but is better known as the chairman of Finance in the House of Delegates. Some difference of opin-ion may be entertained as to the justice of some of the positions he assumed respecting the public debt, but no one can question his ability or integrity. We know the man, and a purer patriot we do not believe s contained in the limits of this Commonwealth.

The 5th District is composed of portions of the old 3d and 4th, and includes the residences of Messrs. Thomas S. Bocock and Thomas H. Averett, who represented those districts in the last Congress. Both of these gentlemen were candidates for re-election, but agreed to submit their claims to the decision of a Convention. That Convention was held a week or two since at Pittsylvania Court-House, and nominated Mr. Bocock. We regret to see by a card in the Richmond Enquirer, however, that Dr. Averett is still a candidate. He promises to make public the reasons of his course. They should be very sufficient ones to justify it, as a persistence in his present position must ensure the election of a Whig. John T. Wootten, Esq., of Henry, formerly a member of the House of Delegates, is the Whig nomince.

"VIRGINIA FREE PRESS." FOR THE SPIRIT OF JEFFERSON.

MR. BELLER-"Peter" wishes to say a few words to the editor of the "Free Press" before the election comes off. In the first place, the election of CHARLES JAMES FAULENER, to Congress, will be a fixed fact long before the editor will succeed in ferreting out "Peter," but I can assure him that "Peter" was not a delegate to the Winchester Convention, nor is he an aspirant for office under State or Federal Government. And the editor's remarks about my capacity for the office he thinks is sought, are duly appreciated —being aware that he is accustomed to measure other persons' grain in his own half-bushel. But, thank God, I am no office-seeker. I, for one, Mr. Editor, will controvert the statement made by the Democratic Delegate of Jefferson, refer-red to by the "Free Press," if that delegate will say Mr. Faulkner was within the church-yard walls more than five minutes during the night session of the Convention. He, in the first place, was escorted (at the request of a delegate) by "Peter" himself, from the residence of his brother-in-law, to the corner of Kent and Water streets, after the first ballot had been ta-ken, and it had been ascertained beyond a doubt that would receive the nomination. There he remaind until the friend who had sent for him was in ormed of his whereabouts, who went and held an nterview with him. Mr. F. then went to the Taylor lotel. In the second place, and after the 3d and last ballot had been taken, the editor of the "Martinsburg complican" went after him and could not have pos ibly returned within more than five minutes befor committee appointed to wait upon him had left the Church. Thus much for the veracity of the Free Press Democratic delegate. One word more, and then "Peter" will retire until after the battle's fought and the victory's won by the Democracy of the Eighth Congressional District— The Free Press states that "the attempt [as it terms it] to convey the impression that Mr. Boteler is a 'mixed-basis Whig,' will not do in this (that) county" -"that 'Peter' may deceive the ignorant, but he cannot mislead the intelligent"-"that 'Peter' would pro bably obtain his design better by keeping sight of the truth." Now, all that "Peter" has to say to this, , that a reference to the poll-books at the election r members of the Convention to revise the Consti ution, will show Mr. B.'s vote recorded for EDMUND PENDLETON, of Berkeley—the only avowed mixed-basis (Whig) candidate for a seat in that Convention.— Moreover, "Peter" has been informed, from a reliable ource, that in the discussion at Berryville, the other day, upon Mr. Faulkner's charging Mr. Boteler with that role, Mr. B. replied that he had voted for Mr. P. on that occasion ; and furthermore stated, that in the event of Mr. Pendleton's ever again becoming a canidate for any office, had he a thousand votes, they vould all be cast for him! Is the editor of the Free Press ignorant of the fact that that was the very idenical vote which, in a great measure, defeated Mr. Bote ler for the State Senate two years since?

Verily, the editor of the Free Press is as short nemory as he is unfortunate in guessing who is PETER

Democrats of Virginia, close up the column ! Your nemies, the Federalists and Whigs, whom we lately routed, "horse, foot, and dragoons," when led by a gallant General, on the great battle-field, extending from the Atlantic to the Pacific—these enemies whom we then laid prostrate in the dust (either dead or eigning death as the British at the battle of New rleans) have been galvanized into life by the murnurs of discord and strife among some of our leaders -these galvanized Federalists have taken to the bush and determined to adopt their Mexican friends mode of warfare, guerilla ambush and strife-these galvanized Whigs, oblivious to their former boasted principles, fight only for place and personal preferment, and hope for success only through dissensions in the Democratic ranks! Shall they triumph? Shall the Democracy of Vir ginia, who claim the honor of first naming and nominating our present Chief Magistrate, be the first, after his triumphant election, to abandon the standard erected by themselves? FOR THE SPIRIT OF JEFFERSON

Mr. EDITOR: The " Free Press," of the 19th instant, has an article under the above caption, which charges

Mr. Faulkner with a dereliction of duty or effort, during the last session of Congress, in obtaining a large extra appropriation for making streets and highways

This wanton attack upon the honest and industrious efforts of Mr. Faulkner, is solely designed by his poponents, in the hour of their desperation, to affect is well and justly earned popularity at this place-but like all such subterfuges it will miss its aim, for the great mass of our people observed Mr. Faulkner's movements with so much interest, that most of them are much better posted than "A Citizen," especially

"A Citizen" complains of a lack of courtesy from

Mr Faulkner towards Col. Huger, the commanding officer here; in this he is mistaken, for Mr. Faulkner assured Col. Huger, through a letter to a gentleman at this place, that it would give him great pleasure to aid him, in trying to get the extra appropriation he desired. We are not aware that Mr. Faulkner was under any particular obligation to call and see Col.

Mr. Faulkner may not have conferred with "A Citizen," but he did with citizens, as to the propriety opening streets, &c., and we are very much inclined to the opinion that the proposition to apply the funds accruing from the sales of the public lands, &c., at this place, to laying out, grading streets and furnishing the town with good and pure mountain water,

"A Citizen" says he is " a property holder," well 1 suppose he is chagrined because Mr. Faulkner did not get the Government money to make a street or pave-

If "A Citizen" had informed himself as to the proceedings of Congress, upon this subject, he would have seen the utter inutility of Mr. Faulkner's attempting to get an amendment for an additional apropriation tacked on in the lower House to the extra appropriation bill, asked for by the Secretary of War-as that bill had been cut down by the Commit tee on Ways and Means from $43,500 to $28,900 .--

The very best efforts and ingenuity of Mr. Faulkner was exercised in connection with this matter-he conferred with Mr. Mason and it was agreed upon that an amendment to increase the extra appropria tion bill for this place should be offered in the Senate, and which accordingly was done, and passed that body. It was then returned to the lower House, and the Committee on Ways and Means again offered op position by recommending a disagreement to the Senate amendment. Here Mr. Faulkner took issue, and in a zealous debate advocated the Senate's amendment, and by his efforts got the bill increased in the lower House from $28,900 to $53,000-this sum is $10,000 over and above what was asked for by the Secretary of War. Now, citizens, you can judge whether or not Mr. Faulkner rendered (according to MEXICO.

The dates from the city of Mexico, by way of Vera Cruz and Havana, are to the 3d instant. Santa Anna since his manguration, has taken decided steps in the organization of his government.

On the 22d of April, he created his various departnents of government and his ministry. On the 23d altimo, Santa Anna published his decree respecting the press. The system which he has established inst like that which exists in France and Spain, and other nations on the continent. The liberty of the press is completely annihilated-and nothing can be published that he does not like.

Gen. Arista had been banished without injury to his person or property. He addressed the following reply to the order of banishment from Tornel the minister of war:

 I cannot conceive in what or why. my presence in the country should be an obstacle to peace and tranquility, (Tornel had so declared in his order of expatriation.) In the letter you sent me is order of expansion.) In the letter you sent me is an expression, (in substance, that while you, (1) re-main in Europe, I shall enjoy my rank, and its sala-ry,) which seems to indicate that it was a crime to have sustained friendly relations with Carbajal and other North American Federalists established on the fontier. I must say to you, then, that the Federalist fidea and sympathies which I entertain for the insti-tutions of North America have not committed me to any action that should subject me to this punishment of exile. I desire the happiness of my country, and to obtain it, I see no other way than that of adopting Federal institutions, and if you please, annexation to the United States' from which there would come to Mexico a fountain inappreciable of riches and pros-perity, though there would be lost by it that great enigma, that quadrature of the circle, which Ge Santa Anna calls nationality (nacionalidad.)

Arista then protests solemnly against the act of tyranny which banishes him.

THE MYSTERIOUS CASE OF ABDUCTION

The young lady, Miss Emily Teal, who was seized and forcibly carried away from her father's house at Bergen Five Corners. New Jersey, on Thursday night, at about 9. o'clock, was return in an equally mysterious manner on Friday night. She was found in an almost insensible condition on the steps of her father's house early on Satur-day morning, dressed in her night clothes, as when taken away. She is very ill, excited, and fever-ish—so much so that the physician has ordered that she be not questioned until she somewhat recovers. We learn from a reliable source that the account which she gives of the occurrence is, that as she was returning to the house on Thursday evening, she was seized when passing through the arbor, and instantly blindfolded and gagged, and conveyed in a frightened and almost fainting condition to a carriage not far from the house. She was driven rapidly away, and, as it seemed to her, a long distance to a house, blinded and almost insensible. She crossed no ferry. She found herself, when unblinded, in a small poorly furnished apartment, which was darkened and lighted by a lamp dimly burning. She was left nearly all the while alone in this room, until Friday night .-She recollects seeing an ordinary looking woman and well dressed man in the room, but probably would not be able to recognise them.

When returned, she was walked all the way through woods and fields, blinded and gagged, and left in the road which runs from Bergen Corners to Hoboken fer-ry, at a point half a mile from her father's residence. She made out to get that distance to her home, and was too much exhausted to alarm the family. Food and drink were offered to her, but she refused them, and partook of nothing in the least during her absence. No violence was offered to her except carrying her away. The motive which led to this strange outrage remains to be known. It is conjectured that the ruffians intended to seize some one else, and finding that they had the wrong person, returned her as soon as possible. It is believed that she was not ta-ken out of Hudson county. No little excitement and alarm has been created in that neighborhood by the event. The rumor that she had been traced acro argument, but what is most needed to insure success is action. ACTION, from this hour until the election .--See that the vote every where is at the polls. There is by far too much apathy to bring out the vote, unless the active and energetic will bestir themselves Among the several candidates presented, there is certainly some one having claims enough upon your good opinion, to justify your devoting one hour or one day, if necessary, to the cause in which you are alike interested-a cause in which you are alike to share the fruits of success, or the mortifications of defeat. To the work, then, in hand. Let every Democrat of Jefferson, at least, after the election has come and gone, have the consciousness of having discharged his duty to himself, to his country and to his party.

WASHINGTON MONUMENT. -

An appeal will be again made to the voters of Virginia, for a contribution at the ballot-box on Thursday next, in behalf of the Washington Monument --We are requested on the part of the Commissioners of election to state, that boxes will be prepared for that purpose at the several election Districts of Jefferson county, and such contribution as voters may feel themselves justified in making, is most respectfully solicited, and will be speedily forwarded to its proper destination. The Monument is now about 100 tect in heigth, its means are insufficient for its completion. and to what State, more than to Virginia, the birthplace and the grave of the illustrious Washington. can an appeal for assistance be made, with a positive certainty that her mite will be cheerfully given to the patriotic purpose of commemorating the virtues of her honored son.

THE CONGRESSIONAL CANVASS.

Virginia was the first State to step forward in the Baltimore Convention, and nominate General Pierce for the Presidency, and having had her nomination confirmed by her sister States, she came forward to the polls and ratified it with one of the largest majorities ever cast by her. Now the question is, does she mean to send a delegation to Congress to support his Administration, or stultify herself by allowing the Whigs to carry several of the Districts by dissensions and distractions in the Democratic ranks? We trust that better counsels will prevail not only in our own district, but in others, and that the Democracy of Virginia will be represented in the next Congress by, thirteen able and distinguished representatives.

The Whigs will leave no stone unturned to divide and distract, as that was the caucus determination and advice by the Whig Legislative caucus, at Richmond, on the eve of their late adjournment. But we hope to see their schemes gloriously and triumphantly byerwhelmed. We feel confident of a decisive victory in this District, and hope our friends everywhere in the State will succeed. Then, Democrats, come to the polls and do the work right. If any Democrat feels disappointed in not having his favorite, let him lay his disappointments upon the altar of his principles, and all will be well. Full justice in due time will be done to others, and we feel assured none will be more forward in rendering this justice, in this District, than Mr. Faulkner and his friends. We know many of his prominent friends well-better men. truer men, and more talented men, cannot be found in the District. They would have supported now and will support again any other good and true Democrat, as readily as they are now doing him.

POLITICAL DISCUSSIONS.

The competing candidates for Congress from this District Messrs. FAULKNER and BOTELER addressed the people of Warren, at Front Royal, on Monday week, and of Hampshire, at Romney, on yesterday .-Mr. BOTELER is aunounced to speak at Harpers-Ferry on to-night. MILITARY.

The Richmond Mail, alluding to the Democratic mination of this District, says: "Men who could'nt become Corporals in the Whig army, go over to the Democracy, and straightway are made Generals and Field Marshals." And after getting their commissions, they turn ound and give their former comrades a most tremendous threshing. What kind of a party must that be which, under the lead of its able Generals, can e beaten by a deserter from the rank and file ?-But the Mail's remark does not apply to the individual it is aimed at. He was more than a Corporal. The Whigs, though never sure of his thorough adhesion to them, never could hoist another man over his shoulder; and they often tried it.

Although it is stated that dissensions both gentlemen, and in making the change the wishexist in various portions of the District, we can not believe that any loyal Democrat, on mature reflection, will refuse as between Mr. BOTELER and Mr. FAULE

Representatives the opposition to the introduction of the military system into our national armories was decided, firm and unyielding, until the differences between the two Houses reached that point that it became necessary to yield to this feature of the Senate's bill, or lose altogether an important measure of general policy. It was under these circumstances that this system of which precedents can only be found among the most despotic monarchies of Europe, was carried-a measure which resulted in driving from employment hundreds of the most intelligent and valuable mechanics which this government ever had in its employment, and which now operates with a crushing and deadening influence upon the spirits and enterprise of those whose necessities still force them into the service of this branch of the government. The committee, after the most careful examination have not been able to perceive one beneficial result which has been derived to the government from the substitution of the military for the civil superinten-

It has not reduced the price of the musket, but on the contrary, when the large outlay for new machinery is estimated ; when the price of labor and materials under the two systems-the substitution of the percusion for the flint lock-are considered, the price must be regarded under the present system as greate than it was under the former.

It has not promoted economy in the general expenditure of these establishments, on the contrary a tendency to waste and extravagance has been manifeste in tearing down buildings before deemed ample and ommodious, and in the erection of dwellings of unnecessary size and magnificence, and other expenditures made there, of which will appear in the large appropriations asked from Congress and made for such

The principal argument relied upon for the change of system was, that it was an item of a pilan for a gen-eral reduction of expenses. It was said that the ordnance officers were already in the employment of the government at fixed pay without sufficient duties to perform ; that they could be conveniently spared as substitutes for the civil superintendents, and that thus the government could be saved the salary of two useless officers. "The expense," argued the chairman of the Committee on Military Affairs in the Senate." saved by the transfer of miltary men to these places, it was true would not be much, yet the change would effect the abolition of two useless officers." The utter futility of this ground of economy for the proposed change is manifest not only in the fact that the ordnance corps has been since that time largely increased, but in the in creased outlay of money upon those establishment since the introduction of the military system. Not only has the existing system been without any beneficial results to the government, but its operation has been injurious in the adoption and extension of a principle hostile to the character and genius of our institutions, and in the spirit of deep seated discontent which it has produced among the operatives whereever is has been enforced. Miltary discipline is proper and necessary among men trained for the purposes of war. It is wholy un-suited to a civil establishment, and is illy adapted to the habits and tastes of our free born mechanics. The annoying and vexatious restrictions to which they are subjected without any corresponding benefit to the government, the extent to which their enterprise and spirit are crushed by petty regulations and despotic or-ders, should cause a paternal government to look with aversion upon any system accompanied by such results.

In the 6th District, Hon. Paulus Powell, late mer ber, is the Democratic candidate. He is opposed by Alex. Moseley, Esq., editor of the Richmond Whig .-Mr. Moseley resides in Buckingham county, and was nominated by a Whig Convention which recently met in Scottsville. We entertain no doubt of Mr. Powell's re-election.

The 7th District is our own. Gov. Smith is the only Democrat in the field. The Alexandria Convention declined to make a nomination, but in so doing protested against the position of Gov. Smith. Edgar nowden, Esq., editor of the Alexandria Gazette, has been induced to present himself as a Whig candidate. The District is very decidedly Democratic.

In the 8th District, Hon. Charles J. Faulkner is a The Democracy of the Union must not be astounded andidate for re-election, endorsed by a Democratic Convention. He is opposed by Alexander R. Shenandoah, Hon. John Letcher, present member, is the Democratic candidate. He will of course be reelected, as the majority for Pierce was about 3,000. The Whig vote will be cast for Tyre Maupin, Esq., editor of the Harrisonburg Republican.

In the 10th District, we know of no Whig opposiion to Dr. Zedekiah Kidwell, Jr., of Marion, who is the Democratic nominee. Mr. Clemens, late member, is left out in consequence of some agreement between the river and mountain counties to share the repreentation of the district.

In the 11th or Harrison District, John F. Snodgrass s the nominee of the Democratic Convention. Chas. S. Lewis, Esq., late delegate from Harrison, is in the field as an independent candidate. John S. Carlisle Esq., of Barbour, formerly in the State Senate, was also a candidate at one time, but we believe he has withdrawn. The Whigs have taken advantage of the Democratic dissensions to bring into the field a canlidate of their own, who will be elected we suppose if Mr. Lewis insists upon running. Our Whig friends are partial this year to the editorial corps, and in this district they manifest their partiality by rallying around Alex. M. Sterrett, Esq., editor of the Parkersburg Gazette. There are no less than four Whig editors now candidates for Congress, viz: Messrs Moseley, Snowden, Maupin and Sterrett.

In the 12th District, Hon. Henry A. Edmundson, Democrat, is a candidate for re-election. We are surprised to see that he has no opposition, as the disrict, though it gave a majority of some 500 or 600 for Pierce, gave Mr. Summers, in the preceding gubelection, a much larger majority-we beernatorial lieve about 1500. In the 13th District, Hon. Fayette McMullen, present Democratic member, will walk over the course. [Fredericksburg Recorder.

THE LAST MUSTER.

The last General parades of the Militia of Virginia, around which clusters so many associations -some of youthful follies and indiscretions, whilst others are looked to with fond recollection-terminates with the present month. The parade in our own county, as has been the case generally throughout the State, was an exceedingly slim affair. It occurred on Saturday week, and really as contrasted with "what use to was," was melancholy to look upon. The "Tenth Legion" thus announces the last funeral obsequies to the Militia System of

Virginia:

"The Last of the Mohegans"-"The Last Rose of Summer"-" Hoe's Last Fast Press"-what are they all, when read and considered, in comparison with the "Last Muster ?" When Cooper and his cotemporaries shall have been forgotten, the "Last Mus will be cherished in the historic niche of the mind for many generations! For why? Can time, with its corroding tooth, obliterate from the midst of that pa-triotic band of braves who have been annually drawn up in battle array, by asinine commandants and their plumed and chapeaued subalterns, the hal-lowed associations of the "Big Muster?" Hardly.--Blooming in perennial freshness, the cadaverous Colonel, with his waving plume and war-steed-the sonorous voice in which they are commanded to execute the manœuvres as given by Scott-the glorious privilege of regaling the flagging energies with ginger-bread and beer—these incidents will only cease to be cherished and remembered when the "Last Muster Man" shall have gone to the tomb of the Epaulets.

the judgment of "A Citizen") you real service. As to "A Citizen's" insinuations or suggestions as to the designs of Mr. Faulkner in the selection of his The editor of this paper assumes a curious position in the present Congressional canvass. To ward off the charges of inconsistency, he throws the onus of retime to move the subject for abolishing the military system-they are unwarranted by common sense, for monsibility on the shoulders of Mr Faulkner avering that the articles which appeared in the Press no man can command the action of Congress at his October, 1851, as editorials were not the productions of his pen, but were written by Mr. F. himself. This all very well. But it is the last subterfuge which we have seen. Had those articles appeared as communications, there would be some justification in the disclosure; but when they appeared as editorials-being thus wholly endorsed by himself, it seems to us that an exposition of authorship as a plea of not guilty, is not only ridicilous but unjust. The editor, however, seems to chuckle at the discovery of a change in the Argus. We do not shrink from our responsibility by alleging that some one else wrote our articles. We can look back through the "glimmering twilight" of two years and recognize the productions of our own pen. No "change has come o'er the spirit of our dream" in reference to principles. We do not float on the surface of popular opinion ready to be wafted in any direction which the breeze of expediency may chance to blow. Hence, our consistency. We opposed Mr. Failkner when Mr. F. was identified with the Whigs—"though not very decidedly." We suport him now when he is decidedly identified with the Democrats. We are not men-worshipers. Mr. Faulkner has changed—so has the Free Press. But such a change!—Romney Argus. OF The Whigs of the Frederick Congre District seem to have determined that Mr. FAULK-NER shall run the gauntlet. They assail him with a fierceness that knows no bounds-the "good old Democrats" are appealed to to stand aloof from the contest and see Mr. F. defeated-and the friends of other gentlemen, whose claims were before the Con-vention that nominated Mr. F. are advised that it would be highly improper and inconsistent in them to support the nominee of that Convention. Every intelligent man understandss all this hue and cry against Mr F; that it is because he has repudiated Whig principles and joined himself to the Demo-cratic party, the principles of which, he believes, will preserve the unity of the nation) defend its honor and fame abroad, and conduct it in the path of peace and prosperity. These attacks upon the Democratic candidate, if they have any effect at all, will be to concentrate the party upon him. We see no reason to apprehend his defeat, if the coun-ties of Page and Warren will do their duty on Thursday next .- Tenth Legion.

The department for machinery, agricultural implements, &c which is distinct from this is not yet prepared. The root is now nearly complete, except the dome, and the floors are in such a forward state forty-eight hours will suffice to finish them, after the dome is up. There is comparatively little more glazing to be done. The galleries are to be faced with ornamental railing of iron wire, painted white, with gilt rosettes, and lined with crimson cloth. The outside of the building will be ronzed, with all the prominent points touched with gold. The effect when lighted by the sun, will be very superb. The whole structure will be surrounded with a substantial wrought iron fence 61 feet in height, to be erected the present week. The space intervening between the fence and the Palace will be terraced and laid ont in flower beds and grass plats.

ABOLITIONISTS .- By an article in the New York Express it appears, that the abolitionists of the North are more than ever emboldened to proclaim their hostility to slavery, the fugitive slave act. &c. In the late Anti-Slavery Convention held in New York, the deaths of Clay, Webster and other friends of the Union were made a cause of rejoicing; and even Washington was denounced as unworthy of respect. Men and women, black and white participated in the acts of the convention-and from the fury which appeared to possess some of the speakers, it might be supposed hat the Southern States were in the most in danger of being overwhelmed by these fanatics. But the blowing of this extra steam will be harmless.-Should any of them have occasion to cross to the south of Mason and Dixon's line they will be careful to keep still tongues in their heads. These fanatics fin their friendship to the colored race to intemperate harangues' but will not touch their pockets to assist a negro, unless it be a fugitive slave. LATE AND INTERESTING FROM MEXICO .- By advices from the city of Mexico to the 3d instant, we learn that Santa Anna has created a Procurador General with a salary of $4,000, and with the honor and de corations of the supreme court of justice. He is to b presiding judge over all cases of appeal. He has also created a council of State of twenty-one members, to be distributed into five sections, corresponding to the departments of the government. itself very witty at the expense of Mr. Armstrong, b devoting a very small editorial to him, in every sense it can be taken, by sneeringly saying that it " has understood Mr. Armstrong was a member of the late Reform Convention !" Yes, he was, and enjoyed the high regard of his associates from all parts of the State, and of no one, as we have repeatedly heard, more than the most distinguished Whig in the State, the Hon. George W. Summers. He was one of the most prudent, discreet and sensible men of that able and distinguished body. Faithful and true upon all occasions to his cause and his friends, he won the regard of all. We have learned from distinguished members of that body that he did not speak-often. but whenever he did participate in the debatcs he commanded the fast attention of the whole body. He will carry the same sound sense and unbending integrity into his new position that he has always dis-played, when in the public service. The Republican will gain no credit by its small sncers at so good and worthy a citizen.

THE HIGH PRESSURE BOYS !

We are so much amused at the splendid victory which the Whigs are enjoying in anticipation over the Democratic party in this Congressional District that we hardly have the heart to disturb them .-They are always on the high pressure before an election, but oh! afterwards! the champagne becomes decidedly flat.

05- O. H. SINGLETON, Esq., of Mississippi, a bro ther of W. G. Singleton, Esq., of Winchester, has been nominated as a candidate for Congress from the 3d Congressional District of that State. Mr gleton is not only an able man, but a sterling rat, and goes into the contest with every aurury of success.

es of Mr. Boteler were quite as much if not more deerred to than those of Mr. Faulkner. We have never known a canvass marked by such reckless assertions as those which characterize the present one for Congress. The most unfounded and improbable statements are industriously circulated in every portion of the District to prefudice the election of Mr. Faulkner. We avail ourselves of this last occasion which we shall have of solemnly appealing to our Democratic friends to be on their guard against these misrepresentations-to discredit these unfoundcd statements-and to understand that they are all gotten up for mere electioneering purposes. The authors themselves will laugh at them and all who are gulled by them, one week hence.

LUTHERAN SYNGD.

The General Synod of the Lutheran Church of the United States, is now sitting in Winchester, and is one among the largest and most important meetings of the kind ever convened in this section of country. Its sessions commenced on Saturday last, and will continue through the week. This body meets every third year, and now embraces, as we learn, all the Synods of the United States, about one thousand Clergymen, and over three thousand Congregations .--There are from three to four hundred Clergymen expected to be in attendance at the present meeting, many of them among the most learned and eloquent Divines of the country.

SHODEN DEATH

We are pained to learn that on yesterday, as Mr. THOMAS BENNET, of this county, was going out to his work, (being a carpenter by trade,) he fell to the ground from an affection of the heart. He was car-ried to his home, but died in a very short time. He was some 50 years of age, and leaves a large family to mourn his unexpected decease, NER, to support the latter gentleman. What may be gained by defeating Mr. FAULKNER? Nothing literalnothing, but everything is to lose. In that event the District will be represented by a Scorr elector and a rabid Whig. It will throw a fire brand into the ranks and cause dissensions that will never be healed. This will be the result of the conduct of those who choose rather to be factious than acquiesce in the choice of the majority. Mr. FAULKNER was nomi-nated by a full and fair Convention, and it is the duty of every Democrat, if he desires the preservation of the organization of his party, to sustain the nominee. He is undoubtedly thorougly identified with the Democratic party in feeling and principle, and, if no other reason coul be urged to sustain him, the very fact of his being traduced and vilified by the Whig party through out the State-of his being denounced in the most o jectionable terms and vindictive feelings—should be sufficient to rally around him the whole Demo-cratic phalanx of the District. But the fact of his being the nominee of the party should induce every De-mocrat to give his strength and influence to secure his election, and the success of the principles of the Democratic party. Before another issue of our paper will wend its way in the mountains and valleys of the counties of Page and Warren, the die will then have been cast—the contest decided. We cannot, therefore, too strongly urge the unwavering Democracy of those counties to sustain the nominee of the Convention with unanimity. Let not the pestiferons breath of dis caused by aspirants in other portions of the Distric infect your free Democratic mountain air. The nob Democracy of Pageand Warren are devotedly attached to the principles of our party, and under that banner it is immaterial who leads the column, they are always found battling with an energy that never tires and a zeal that never abates. Show your devotion and a zeal that never abates. Show your devotion to your principles on Thursday next, by giving a uni-ted and strong support to the Hon. CHARLES JAS. FAULKNER, the nominee of the Convention. In the name of the party—in the name of your cherished and venerated principles, we call upon you to do your duty, as true and unifinching republicans. [Valley Democrat.

The free and independent mechanics of this nation constitute one of the strongest pillars of its support and no system should for a moment be tolerated among us that impairs their sense of personal independence, that degrades them to mere machines of labor and places them under restrictions that would be revolting to a slave. "The discipline of the army," revolting to a slave. "The discipline of the army," re-marked a distinguished senator in the debate of 1842, "was essentially and absolutely despotic and utterly inconsistent with freedom in a state of peace; and it was on this account that so much discontent had been experienced and so many complaints made against the superintendence of military officers over the con-struction of public highways. The armories were great workshops and you might as well appoint an officer to superintend a nill because flour and meal are necessary to the subsistence of the army, as to apomeer to superintend a min because nour and meat are necessary to the subsistence of thearmy, as to ap-point him to superintend the maufacture of arms mere-ly because he is instructed in the use of arms." "Where-ever such an experiment has been tried," observed another distinguished senator, "it has been found to produce disastrons consequences."

has long since been an anti-military man; well, I do not know that this would be a new revelation, but what could he do for us in Congress, when the whole Whig party, with but four or five exceptions, voted in favor of retaining the present military system, it being a part of their creed or policy to consolidate the offices of this Government, and is it not very pre-sumable that Mr. Boteler would have to whip into narty line if he went to Congress. Citizen Mechanics, you have the evidence that Mr Faulkner is your honest and ardent advocate; are you willing to suffer yourselves to be imposed upon by mere flattering and false declarations, that party ha a greater claim upon your suffrage than your interest, and that party, too, whose management has cut off from you, under the cloak of ordnance neutrality, your means of living—for I assure you, that notwith standing "A Citizen" has insinuated that Mr. Faulkner's management has brought about the present de pressed condition of affairs here, that it is entirely and justly attributable to another source, and that there is no absolute necessity for this general suspension of the Armories, as there is always a large con-tingent ordnance fund from which the work can be kept going on, at the discretion of the commanding officers or chief of ordnance. Then come up to the polls on Thursday next and ive your united and undivided vote for the mechanics' friend, CHAS. JAS. FAULENER, and thereby show that as American citizens you are in earnest in your opposition to the experiment of fastening upon you a JUSTICE. opposition to the experim military rule. FOR THE SPIRIT OF JEFFERSON.

Mr. Editor :- You, no doubt, in common with good citizens of this old Mother of States, rous that this road should be judiciously located. We will however yield to our fellow-citizens of our ancient trading town (Alexandria) a larger share of solicitude on this subject. Their true interest is to attract to their city as much of our rich products as the location of this road can command. By doing so a greater number of agriculturists will be accommodated, and the object of the Legislature sustained. Their interest is our interest, and the State's interest. Promote their interest and we share it whether we get the road on our favorite route or not. With this view I regret that the location cannot be committed to five gentleman selected by the citizens of Alexandria. Freed from all the local and rival influences and prejudices, likely to be engendered by the advocates of the several routes spoken of, they would pursue their way to Paddytown, step by step, with an eye as true to the interest of Alexandria as the needle to the pole. Would they not want every barrel of flour, every bushel of grain, every ton of iron, iron ore, and in fact every ton of everything, they could induce to take the road ? To accomplish this great object, would they not seek the route, where all these articles are most abundantly produced ? I think the Keyes' Gap route could not suffer much in such an issue. The routes spoken of are Harpers-Ferry, Keyes' Gap and Snickers'Gap; one of which must be taken if the road is ever made.

1st. From Meraodria by Leesburg and Harpers-Ferry to Paddytown is 1131 miles. From Alexandria by Leesburg. Keyes' Gap and Charlestown to Paddytown is 109 miles. From Alexandria by Leesburg, Snickers' Gap, Berryville and Winchester to Paddytown is 107

These distances were ascertained by reference to Mr. Vaisz's Map made for the Board of Public Works of Virginia. They are given without regard to deviations from air lives, that must occur in the adoption of either route. It is therefore not probable as the Bloomery

Gap must be a point that either will gain any ad vantage from location.

It will be perceived that the Keyes' Gap route is 41 miles shorter than by Harpers-Ferry, and only wo miles longer than by Snickers' Gap.

All that I ask, is, that these several routes shall be carefully examined, and which ever will conter upon the State generally the greatest advantages, and make the best returns to the stockholders, should be tak n.

I will now proceed to state why I think the Keyes' Gap route will be most likely to accomplish

Ist. From Alexandria to Keyes Gap it can be located so as to embrace the best lands of Loudoun. and to accommodate many of her flouring Mills. and. In descending the West side of the Blue Ridge, inclining South, it can be made to strike the Shenandoah river at Little's Falls, ninety feet above the level of the Potomac at Harpers-Ferry, or if a higher point is preferred, the bluffs of eithe shore a short distance telow the Falls, admit of cons ructing a bridge at least 160 feet above the level of the railroad tracks at Harpers-Ferry.

3rd. If Little's Falls should be preferred as the crossing point, it will ensure the improvement of the river up to Manassa Gap, which can be done at a trifling expense, and supercedes the necessity of its improvement down to its junction with the Potom=c, thereby securing for transportation the entire preduct of the richest portion of the Valley bordering on the Shenandoah forty miles.

4 h. At the highest point it leaves the west bank of the Shenandoah on the point of a ridge that will make the grade very light to the general level of the country around Charlestown, supposed to be at least 200 feet above the floor of the Itailroad bridge at Harpers-Ferry.

5 h In its passage across Jefferson county to the Berkeley line at the mouth of Mill Creek, it will be convenient to eleven Merchant Mills that manufacture a large quantity of wheat grown on the lettile lands surrounding them.

6th. From the Jefferson line up Mill Creek through Berkeley to Frederick county line, and from tacace across Frederick to Hampsnire county line, it would accommodate six or eight in rehaut mills. that grind the greater part of the wheat produced in the south of Berkeley and the porth of Frederick embracing some othe finest landsinthetwo counti s. In taking his route through the counties of Jetferson, Berkeley and Frederick, after crossing the Winch-ster road, it would occupy a country between that road and the Baltimore and Onio road that would gladly embrace the advantages off-red. and secure to itself a much larger quantity of produce than by Snickers' Gap, and do far less injury to that road. It would compete tor less of its profitable trade and travel, and might, by a short consecting link from the nearest point north-west, of Winchester, more than counterbalance all the damage of crossing it, by making it the channel of-supplying Winchester and all the intervening rotats to Charlestown with coal at less cost than they now are. «It is the opinion of those better in'ormed th I am, that the demand is so rapidly increasing coal on the seaboard, that several more channel addition to those we now have, cannot meet the mand. It so, why cannot the Winchester road made use of to carry coal to the canal at Harp Ferry, when the produce boats in the month of M. June, July and August, have but little to do, a would be gladly employed in boating it to Alex dria ? It may be said that the coal cars cannot got to the canal For this there is a temedy, making a short road from Keyes' Switch to the Furnace, where there is ample room for all the p duce of the Valley, and where coal can be as c veniently unloaded into boats, as it now is from th Railroad into ships at Locust Point in Baltimore. I have made these suggestions, hoping to draw the attention of others to the subject. I have very little knowledge of the country from Frederick county line to Paddytown, but understand there is no choice of routes as there is but one that can be taken. I think I can say, without fear of contradiction, that a railroad located near the line herein indicated to the Hampshire line, would pass over more fertile land, convenient to more merchant mills and fine water power and would command a larger amount of agricultural products, than can be had on any other line in any other direction from Alezandria of the same length. I doubt very much whether a road can be run from any city or town in Virginia of the sam - length to any point of the compass in or out of the State, that would posses as many advantages as this line. If there can be such a line found you will please name it for the bene-SHENANDOAH.

IMPORTANT DECISION WITH REGARD TO WOMENS' PENSIONS.

Secretary McClelland has made an important decision with regard to the interpretation of the act of 1853, respecting widows of revolutionary offi. cars, &c. As a great number of persons are deeply interested in it, we publish the following statement of it from the New York Herald :

By the act of February 3, 1843, it was enacted that "the wide ws of all others," &c., of the Revolution, who were married subsequent to January, 1800, shall be entitled to pensions "in the same manner as those who were married before that date.' It was contended by the claim agents that this statue merely operated as a reveal of that provision of the pension law of 29th July, 1848, which ex-cluded from its benefits those widows who were married subsequent to 1st January, 1800; and that, therefore. those widows who were married subsequent to 1800 were entitled to-pensions, commencing on the 4th March, 1848. the same as those who were pensioned under said act of 20th July; 1848.

The case was presented to the Secretary on the single question as to the period of the commence-ment of this new class of pensions granted by the act of February, 1853. The Secretary held that the words "in the same manner," used in the, act of 1853, cou d not be regarded as necessarily cmbracing the time of the commencement of the pension, nor the term "were married before that date." as relating exclusively to the act of 1848, as several acts had been passed granting pensions to widows who were married at different periods prior to the 1st of July, 1850; that the period of the commeacement of the pension was left in doubt by the act of 1852; and that, although the rule proscribed by the act of Mar, 1820, fixing the commencement of pensions at the date where proof is completed, might with propriety be adopted, yet it would se-cure greater uniformity to construe the law as granting the pension to commence from its date, and he accordingly so decided.

MEXICAN MUSTANG LINIMENT. This is to certify that the Mexican Mustang Lini-This is to certify that the Mexican Mustang Lini-ment has been used quite extensively in the stables of ADAMS & Co's Great Southern, Eastern and Western Expresses, for curing Galds, Chafes, Scratches, Sprains and bruises, and it has proved very effectual. Many of their men have also used it on themselves and their families, and they all speak of its healing and reme-dial qualities in the highest terms. One of our hostlers got kicked, and badly cut and bruised on his knees usual, the MUSTANG LINIMENT was resorted to, and the soreness and lameness was soon removed, and it was perfectly well in three or four days. We have no hesitation in recommending it as a valuable preparation, to be used externally on man or beast. J. DUNNING,

Foreman of Adams & Co's Express stable, New York. We take great pleasure in recommending the MEX

A PALPABLE PARODY

"Tis the last rose of summer."-MOORE. T

'Tis the last golden dollar, Left shining alone; All its brilliant companions Are squandered and gone; No coin of its mintage Reflects back its hue: They went in mint-juleps And this will go too? II.

I'll not keep thee, thou lone one, Too long in suspense; Thy brethren were melted. And melt thou to pence ! I ask for no quarter, I'll spend and not spare, Till my old tattered pocket Lies centless and bare! III. So soon may I foller, When friendships decay,-And from beggary's last dollar The dimes drop away!

When the Maine law has passed And the groggeries sink, What use would be dollars With nothing to drink.

HOW TO AVOID A BAD HUSBAND.

1. Never marry for wealth. A woman's life consisteth not in the things he possesseth. 2. Never marry a fop, or one who struts about dandy-like, in his silk gloves and ruffles, with silvered cane, and rings on his fingers; beware ! there is a trap!

3. Never marry a niggard, a close-fisted, mean, sordid wretch, who saves every penny 'or spends it grudingly. Take care, lest he stint you to death !

4. Never marry a stranger, on one whose character is not known or tested. Some females jump right into the fire, with their eyes wide open!

5. Never marry a mope, or a drone, one who drawls and draggles through life, one foot after another, and lets things take their own course. . 6. Never marry a man who treats his mother or sister unkindly, or indifferently. Such treatment is a sure indication of a mean and wicked beast.

7. Never, on any account, marry a gambler, a profane person, one who in the least speaks lightly of God, or religion. Such a man can never make a good husband.

8. Never marry a sloven, a man who is negligent of his person, or his dress, and is filthy in his habits. The external appearance is an index to the heart.

9. Shun the rake as a snake! a viper! a demon !

10. Finally, never marry a man who uses tobacco in any form, or who is addicted to the use of ardent spirits. Depend upon it, you are

YEARS OF MISERY, And to her husband the constant toil and anxiety of mind, necessarily devolving upon him from sickness of the wife, without giving him the opportunity of ac-quiring that competence which his exertions are entihed, and the possession of which would secure the happiness of hunself, wife, and children.

SECURE THE MEANS OF HAPPINESS By becoming in time possessed of the knowledge, the want of which has caused the sickness and poverty of thousands. In view of such consequences, no wife or mother is excusable if she neglect to avail herself of that knowledge in respect to herself, which would spare her much suffering, be the means of happiness and pros-perity to her husband, and confer upon her children that blessing above all price—healthy bodies, with healthy minds. That knowledge is contained in a lit-

BY DR. A. M. MAURICEAU,

Professor of Diseases of Woman. One Hundredth Edition. 18mo., pp. 250. Price 50 cts.

[ON FINE PAPER, EXTRA 1INDING, $1.00.] First published in 1847, and it is not surprising or won-derful, considering that every Feaale, whether married or not, can here acquire a full knowledge of the nature, character and causes of her complaints, with the various symptoms, and that nearly half a million copies should have been so'd. have been so'd.

It is impracticable to convey fully the various sub-jects treated of, as they are of a nature strictly intendded for the married, or those contemplating mar-riages, but no female desirous of enjoying health, and that beauty, consequent upon health, which is so con-ducive to her own happiness, and that of her husband, but either has or will obtain it, as has or will every husband who has the love and affection of his wife at heart, or that of his own pecuniary improvement.
