A Cure Warranted or no Charge, in from one to two days.

The many thousands cured at this Institution, and the very extensive practice of Dr. Johnston (exceding all others) is a sufficient guarantee that he is the only proper Physician to be consulted.

Dr. Johnston,

Member of the Royal College of Surgeons, London Graduate from one of the most eminent Colleges of the United States, and the greater part of whose life has been spent in the Hospitals of London, Paris, Philadelphia and elsewhere, has effected some of the most astonishing cures that were ever known. Many troubled with a ringing in the cars and head when asleep, great nervousness, being alarmed at sudden soutids, and bashfulness, with frequent blushing, attended sometimes with derangement of mind, were cured immediately.

A Certain Disease.

When the misguided and impudent votary of pleasure finds he has imbibed the seeds of this painful disease, it too often happens that an ill-timed sense of shame, or dread of discovery, deters him from applying to those who, from education and respectability, can alone befriendhim, delaying till the constitutional by imptoms of this horrid disease make their appearance, such as ulcerated sore throat, diseased nose, nocturnal pains in the head and limbs, dinness of sight, deafness, nodes on the shin bones and arms, blotches on the head, face, and extremities, progressing on with hess, nodes on the sain bones and arms, blotches on the head, face, and extremities, progressing on with frightful rapidity, till at last the palate of the mouth or the bones of the nose fall in, and the victim of this awful disease becomes a horrid object of commiscra-tion, till death puts a period to their dreadful suffer-ings by sending them to "that bourne from whence no traveller returns." To such therefore, Dr. JOHN-STON pledges himself to preserve the most inviolable accrecy, and from his extensive practice in the first hospitals of Europe and America, be can confidently recommend the most safe and speedy cure to the un-fortunate victim of this horrid disease.

It is a melancholy fact, that thousands fall victims to this dreadful disease, owing to the unskillfulness or ignorant pretenders, who, by the use of that deadly poison, mercury, ruin the constitution, and either send the unfortunate sufferer to an untimely grave, or makes the unfortunatesufferer to an untimety grave, or makes the residue of his life miserable.

Take Particular Notice.

Dr. J. addresses all those who have injured themselves by private and improper indulgences, that secret and slitary habit, which ruin both body and mind, unfiting them for either business or society. duced by early habits of youth, viz: Weakness of the Back and limbs, Pains in the Head, Dimness of Sight, Loss of Muscular Power, Palpitation of the Heart, Dis-pessia, Nervous Irritability, Derangement of the Diges-tive Functions, General Debility, Symptoms of Consumption, &c.

MENTALLY.—The fearful effects on the mind are much to be dreaded; loss of memory, confusion of ideas, depression of spirits, evil forebodings, aversion to society, self distrust, love of solitude, timidity, &c., are some of the evils produced. Dr. Johnston's Invigorating Remedy for Miscellaneous.

[Published by Request.] Church Music.

The following letter from one of the missionaries of the Prince of Darkness to his master upon the subject of Church Music was intercepted by some contributor to the New York Musical Review, in which it ap-

In obedience to the commands of your Infernal Highness, I have the honor to report the progress and present state of the important enterprise committed to me, namely that of obtaining control of the church music in America, and subverting it to the service of your Highness. In performing this duty I am able to congratulate your Highness on the progress which has already been made, and the bright prospects for the future. It has been necessary to proceed with some caution in this work, in order to avoid, as far as possible, alarming those righteous persons who, acknowledge no allegiance to your Highness. tisfied it will compare favorably with that of any might otherwise defeat our purpose. It affords me satisfaction to report that these are in a state of as entire torpitude with regard to the musical portion of church service as could be desired. In order to quiet their consciences I have suggested to them that as they do not understand music, they have no duty with regard to it; that they must leave it to those who have knowledge. With a lit-tle caution I believe that your Hightess has nothing to fear from them. They seem quite willing that you should shape their music as you please. Indeed a large majority of churchgoers, and even members, seem greatly delighted with the changes which have already been affected by the agents of your Highness, and are disposed heartily to second any future

I have the honor of reporting that the introduction of opera-singers into church choirs. desired by your Highness, has been so well accomplished that there is even a competition among congregations as to who shall secure them. The secularizing of church music has steadily progressed, with marked effect in furthering your Highness' ends. Opera airs, dances and negro airs, have from time to time been cautiously introduced with impunity. It was necessary to move with much circumspection at first, and accordingly I attempted only some airs whose secular associations were not so unmistakably on your Highness' side as might otherwise have been desirable. Thus the "Auld Lang Syne" was one of the first set to sacred words for use in social religious gatherings, and its success has been complete. TO THE FARMERS.

I HAVE had fixed up at the DEPOT a pair of FAIRBANK'S PLATFORM SCALES, for weighing Cattle, Hogs, and Stock of all kind, &c., and have also made pens for loading stock on the cars. Farmers or traders can have there stock not only loaded on the cars here but can weigh them before leaving. September 12, 1854.

E. M. AISQUITH. Some of those who were confirmed in their oppositions to your Highness have undoubtedv used this air without much detriment to the worship they were paying your Highness' great Enemy; but it was a step in the right way even with them; while with the others, it has served to revive thoughts of convivial gatherings and other associations most favorable to our cause, just at a time when it was most important to your Highness to destroy certain religious impressions which had been made. Other secular airs have been from time to time introduced with entire success. It is true that some stubborn foes have opposed a warning voice, but I have raised against them the cry of "fanaticism," "illiberality," etc. I have asked if "the devil should have all the good music?" and similar questions which have often silenced your foes. Your Highaugust name, in consideration of my lo

The introduction of as much as possible of your Highness' favorite school of music, the theatrical and its adjuncts, has not been lost sight of. I have reported the successful introduction of opera singers in the place of the Asaphs, Hermons, and Jeduthans, as leaders of the worship of those who have withdrawn from the assemblies of your Highness. their attention so completely that when it is of a sufficiently light and frivolous character, and especially is surrounded with secular associations, your Highness has little to fear from words.

In addition to this I am happy to state that there are some who openly advocate music without any words at all, holding up the idea that art is the principal object of worship, and that perfection in art is the great thing to which all efforts in church music should be directed. That your majesty will approve of this sentiment I doubt not, since whatever tends to dethrone Deity must have a favorable influence on your Highness' cause.

The practical benefits of having the operatic and dance-music and singers in the church, will at three occur to your Highness. Thus, while the first tune is performed, a portion, at least, of the audience will be reminded how gracefully a favorite dunseuse turned a birouette to that particular air the night before. In the second, they may recall how delicately some Signor sang the same music to the original amorous song at the opera. It is, however, unnecessary to expatiate, as all this, and much more has long since occurred to the subtle cunning of your Infernal Highness.

I have the satisfaction of assuring your Highness that I have large expectations of what may yet be accomplished. So indifferent to the whole subject of the singing seem those usually active and watchful enemies of ric of art-a nature, intellectual, spiritual, your Highness, the clergymen, that I apprehend you need to fear little from them. They may be easily quieted with a mere sensual musical effect, so that if the music goes smoothly and helps to draw a full house, they are satisfied. Beside, I have been successful in many cases in stirring up the bitter opposition of the people to any interference on the part of the ministers in this subject ; so that for their own security; it has become necessary in many places for them to give up the singing exercises entirely into the hands of the occupiers of the organ-loft. Your Highness has well remarked that if you could gain entire ascendency in the music-gallery, you need not be afraid but that you can easily neutralize any efforts against you which are made in the pulpit. If I can now succeed in introducing a foreign language, as the Latin or Italian, I may then soon use the opera text; the dresses and dances may soon follow, rendering your success complete. It seems al- its vesture in the life to come; to accustom most too much to hope, but when what has itself to discern in all vicissitudes of thingsalready been done is considered, the idea does | the change and falling leaf; the golden harvest, not, after all, seem so preposterous.

There is one movement which is pregnant with danger to your Highness' interests in respect to this enterprise, and which I have not failed to oppose with all the cunning and falseho d at my command. I allude to the efforts which have recently been made for the revival of Congregational Singing. Should this style of church music again come in vogue, there is reason to fear your Highness' interests will suffer severely. If the people themselves begin to take an active interest, and indeed actually to take part in singing the praises of God, my efforts to keep out the true spirit of worship will. I fear, be useless, for it is necessary in this manner of singing to use only a few simple tunes, and the exercise becomes one of actual worship, rather than a mere musical performance. When the people take part in the singing themselves, there is little opportunity for the introduction of your Highness' servants from the opera, or of the attractive opera and dance-music. I have, therefore, labored actively in opposition to this measure. I endeavored, first, to enlist choirs and organists against it, by persuading hem that if this style of music should prevail their services would be less appreciated. I have also urged, through such mediums as I could command, that the highest form of air should be used in the praise of God, and that n Cugregational Singing this is impossible.-I have succeeded in persuading some very good men to use this argument very pertinaciously, and to enlarge upon it extensively. I have urged against those who are most prominent in this movement, interested motives, and n al other ways have endeavored to destroy their influence. In short, I left no labor unperformed to prevent the success of this measare, which I deem fraught with so much danger, and which might prove as injurious to your Highness' purpose, as was the universal psalm-singer at the time of the so-called Reformation, in the times of the daring and reckess Luther, or at the time of the renegade, who, fleeing your Highness' authority, so effectually renounced the world, the flesh, and your Highness, on the inhospitable shores of New England in 1620.

In a future report, I hope to have the honor of giving a satisfactory view of instrumental music: for I have often found it easy to exert an important influence upon the organst, and to induce him, in voluntaries and interludes, to serve your Highness most effectually by throwing out the most fascinating reminisences of pleasurable assemblies, mots destructive to religious thoughts and emo-

Reading a Love Letter. An incident of simplicity is afforded by the following little story, told to a contemporary by a friend, in whose words it is given! Molly, our housemaid, is a model one, who handles the broomstick like a scepter; and who has an abhorrence for dirt and a sympathy for soupsuds that amounts to a passion.-She is a bustling, bright-eyed, rosy-cheeked Hibernian, who hovers about our book shelves, making war upon our papers, and goes about thirsting for new worlds to conquer in the shape of undusted and unrighted corners. One day, she entered our library, in a conness will, I trust, excuse this liberty with your fused and uncertain manner, quite different from her usual bustling way. She stood at him his cue—when he knelt down and said the door, with a letter between her thumb and grace over his dead boy and then got up and finger, which she held at arm's length, as if stuck his wife with the butcher-knife; but in answer to our inquiries as to her business, she

I have not time to dwell on the second reason, by which I suggested that labor should be persuaded to seek knowledge, though it would deserve a fuller handling. You find that reason in the tendency of culture and learning to refine the work-day life, and adorn it; to disengage it from the contacts of matter, and elevate it to the sphere of ideas and abstraction and spirituality; to withdraw, as Dr. Johnson has said, "to withdraw us from the power of our senses; to make the past, the distant or the future predominate over the present, and thus to advance us in the dignity of thinking beings." Surely we need not add a self-inflicted curse to that which punished the fall. To earn our bread in the sweat of our brow is ordained to us certainly; but not, therefore, to forget in whose image we were made, nor to suffer all beams of the original brightness to go out. Who has doomed us, or any of us, to a labor so exclusive and austere, that only half, the lower half, of our nature can survive it? The unrest of avarice or ambition, or vanity, may do it; but no necessity of our being, and no appointment of its author. Shall we, of our own election, abuse ourselves? Do you feel that the mere task of daily labor ever employ the whole man? Have you not a conscious nature, other and besides that which tills the earth; drives the plane; squares the stone; creates the fabmoral; capacious of science; capacious of much beyond the sphere of sense, with large discourse of reason-looking before and after, and taking hold on that within the veil !-What forbids that this nature shall have its daily bread also day by day? What forbids that it have time to hourish its sympathy with all kindred human blood, by studying the grand facts of universal history; to learn to look bevond the chaptic flux and reflux of mere appearances, which are the sutside of the world around it, into their scientific relations and essential quality; to soar from effects to causes, and through causes to the First; to begin to recognise and to love, here and now, in waning moon or star of evening, or song of solemn bird, or fall of water, or "selfborn carol of infancy," or transcendant landscape, or glorious self-sacrifice-to begin to recognise and love in these, that beauty here, which shall be its dwelling place and of snow, the temporary death of nature, the of (as the case might be,) that the reading opening chambers of the South; and the unresting round of seasons-to discern not mere-

I do not say that every man, even in a condition of competence, can exemplify this noble culture and this rarer knowledge. But, I will say, that the exactions of labor do not hinder it. Recall a familiar, though splendid and remarkable instance or two. Burns reaped as much and as well as the duller companion by his side, and mean time was conceiving an immortal song of Scotland; and Hugh Miller was just as painstaking as a stone-mason and as good a workman as if he had not so husbanded his spare half hours and moments as to become, while an apprentice and a journeyman, a profound geologist, and master of a clear and charming English style. But how much more a man was the poet, and the geologist; how far fuller the consciousress of being; how much larger the daily draft of that admiration, hope and love, which are the life and voice of souls!

> [Rufus Choate's Danvers Address. Gfeat American Tragedian.

A writer in the Detroit Advertiser, who signs his name as Philander Doesticks writes from New York an account of a visit to one of the theatres, where he saw a great American tragedian, named Hellitisplit, whom he describes as follows: "I must confess that I was awed by the terrific, yet serene majesty of his appearance .-When I saw the tragic, codfishy expression of his eyes, I was surprised; when I observed the flexibility of his capacious mouth, opening and shutting like a dying mud-sucker, I was amazed. When my eyes turned to his fingers, which worked and clutched as if feeling for coppers in a dark closet, I was wonderstricken; but when my attention was called to the magnitude of his legs, I was fairly electrified with admiration, and could not forbeat asking Bull Dogge if those calves were capable of locomotion. The admiring audience, who had kicked up a perfect young earthquake when he came on, only ceased when he squared himself, put out his arms, and prepared to speak. That voice! Ye Gods! that voice!-It went through gradations that human voice never before attempted, imitating by turns, the horn of the City Hall Gabriel, the shriek of the locomotive, the soft and gentle tones of a forty horse power steam saw mill, the loving accents of the scissor grinder's wheel, the amorous tones of the charcoal man, the rumbling of the omnibus, the cry of the driver appertaining thereto-rising from the entrancing notes of the infuriated house-dog to the terrific cry of the oyster vender, Several times during the piece I was much affectedwhen he wound his arms around his wife, stuck his head over her shoulder, and kissed the back part of her neck-when he made a grand exit with three stamps, a hop, a run, and two long straddles-when he talked grand about the thunder, and shook his fist at the man in the flies-when he killed the soldiers in the council room, shouted for them to 'come one and all,' and then ran away for fear they would -when he swore at the man who did not give she had a gunpowder plot in her grasp. Southern Literature. There is no more gratifying spectacle to the mind's eye of a Southerner that the evidence of self-reliance which are beginning to manifest themselves around us. As England once was, and to no slight extent now is, conscience keeper and opinion framer of the people of North, so they, in their turn have ratailed to us nutmegs, literature and notions generally, until our pupilage has become complete.— And when occasionally, a feeble note of deprecation would come from the Southerner, jealous of the honor and reputation of his section. it would be answered either by taunts; or by hypocritical wail over the "contracted spirit" manifested by the complainant, coupled with pompous parades of enlarged views and national sympathies, with divers other tubs as specious and disreputable, for their amu:ement of the Southern whale. Finally, men begin to think that the North was our tutor jure divino, and that we committed a grevious sacrilege if we refuse to receive with all docility the baby-ish platitudes of Peter Parley, and the ologies and 'osophies of Yankee school ma'ains, as Thomaston, or painted hams from the land of steady habits.

well as hard cider from Newark, lime from For ourselves, we are rash enough to be frightened by none of the impending fulminations consequent on disobedience; we desire to see a sectional literature—intensely, thoroughly sectional-and we fancy that we see the dawn of the era when our desire in this respect will be gratified. Two of the first contributions to American literature, which the current year has afforded, have come from Virginia; one of the best works on government ever written has come from South Carolina within the same period; a new and complete edition of of the works of Wm. G. Simms has been demanded by the reading public, and a Virginia novel has run through a half dozen editions. Still further south medicine and theology have received two valuable accessions, and an enlarged and liberal taste is gradually growing ub, which must ultimately eventuate in the greatest benefit to the literature of the South. We reiterate our hope that we may live to see the day when the South will make her own poetry as well as her own pantaloons, and her novels as well as nankeen. The sound views in the following paragraphs taken from the last number of the Citizen, (Mitchell's paper) render unnecessary any apology for their insertion here: It has been to us a species of puzzle, public of the Southern States are in a great measure, dependent for their periodical litly the sublime circle of eternal change, but the erature upon the North. Yet up to this present writing the circumstance may be easily accounted for. There are, perhaps, more men of literary leisure and of high education, in the -and the "varied God"-filling and moving, South-proportionally to population, than at the North; but there is no such numerous class who live by their literature and education. In the North there is, apparently, more business enterprise, have for its great aim and end to supply that which is demanded at the lowest possible penny, be it a rocking chair or review-a magazine or a threshing machine.-Now, everything in this country is done upon commercial principles, and stand upon the basis of cents. Southerners, too, are more indolent; they have been content to get everything made for them, whether in England or New England; and, until of late, they lazily adopted the very habits of thought and phra-seology which were moulded in the forms of a little pure air at times." British Society and Anglo-Saxon Civilization. They did not sufficiently advert to the circumstance that this element was bitterly hostile to them and their institutions; and if they, in their languid insouciance, allow it to operate long unchecked, it would end in the destruction of their whole social economy, in the forfeiture of their property, in the casting them forth from the family of "civilized communities," and, at last, in the cutting of their throats. Nothing short of this.

The South will not be able to endure this kind of tampering any longer, and there is no occasion why it should. It can no longer spare its men of genius to minister to the Harpers and Putnams, like poor Edgar Poe, a sweet singer and cunning essayist, of whom the Virginia University was once proud, but whom New York and Philadelphia drove mad and starved. Neither can the South safely take any longer for its monthly reading, the platitudes of the abolitionists, who quote the Bible for the "Unity of the Human Race," (which the Bible does not assert,) but contemn the same Bible as an authority for slavery, (upon which the Bible is clear,)—who have the face to appeal to Christianity, yet are ready to call the Apostle Paul a "doughbecause he returned a fusitive slavewho take British opinion as their standard, and find excellence or utter abomination in everything American, precisely as it approaches or recedes from that sublime exemplar.-There were great nations before the English; there are greater nations than they ever will be. There have been moralities unknown to Exeter Hall; and wisdom will not die with the writers of the Edinburgh Review.

.... A volume of poems by Thomas William Parson, of Boston, has just been issued by a publishing house in that city. The author seems very high rank among the poets of our country. The following, "Upon a Lady Singing," is one of the sweetest things we have read for many a day. It possesses the singular beauty and freshness of the old masters, while it surpasses them in the witching harmony of its versification .- Western Critic.

"Oft as my lady sang to me That song of the lost one that sleeps by the sea, Of the grave on the rock, and the cypress tree, Strange was the pleasure that over me stole, For 'twas made of old sadness that lives in my soul.

"So still grew my heart at each tender word, That the pulse in my bosom scarcely stirred, And I hardly breathed, but only heard: Where was I?-not in the world of men, Until she awoke me with silence again.

"Light shadows played on the pictured wall, From the maples that fluttered outside the hall, And hindered the daylight—yet ah! not all; Too little for that all the forest would be, Such a sunbeam she was and is to me! "When my sense returned, as the song was o'er,

I fain would have said to her, 'sing it once more;'
But as soon as she smiled my wish I forbore;
Music enough in her look I found,
And the hush of her lip seemed sweet as sound."

DISCOVERY .- A German has recently discovered that air passed through cotton no longer possesses fermentation or putrefaction. The apparatus made use of in producing this result is simply composed of a glass globe, hermetically closed by a cork covered with wax, and provided with two tubes, one of which is in communication with one of the extremities of the filterer, which is itself terminated by a small tube at right angles; the second tube serves as an aspirator, going down almost to the bottom of the globe, and communicating hermetically with a gasometer; the globe contains the fermentable substance, and meats and broth subjected to the process will keep good for several weeks.—Banner.

'I should be most happy,' he replied, 'but I never take sugar in my wine?'

The Closing Scene: BY T. BUCHANNAN READ. The North British Review pronounces this poems the best that has ever been written by an American Within this sober realm of leafless trees,

The russet year inhaled the dreamy air, Like some tanned reaper in his hour of ease, When all the fields are lying brown and bard. The gray barns, looking from their hazy hills, O'er the dim waters widening in the vales, Sent down the air a greeting to the mills, On the dull thunder of alternate flails.

All sights were mellowed, and all sounds subdued,
The hills seemed farther, and the stream sang low;
As in a dream, the distant woodman hew'd
His winter log, with many a muffled blow. Th' embattled forests, erewhile armed in gold,
Their banners bright with every martail hue,
Now stood, like some sad beaten host of old,
Withdrawn afar in Time's remotest blue.

On slumb'rous wings the vulture tried his flight;
The dove scarce heard his sighing mate's complaint;
And like a star, slow drowning in the light,
The village church-vane seemed to pale and faint. The sentinel cock upon the hill-side crew; Crew thrice, and all was stiller than before-

Silent till some replying wanderer blew His alien horn, and then was heard no more. Where erst, the jay within the elm's tall crest Made garrulous trouble round the unfiedged young. And where the oricle hung her swinging nest By every light wind like a censer swung. Where sang the noisy masons of the eaves, The busy swallows circling ever near, Foreboding, as the rustic mind believes, An early harvest and a plenteous year;

Where every bird which charmed the vernal feast, Shook the sweet slumber from its wings at morn; To warn the reapers of the rosy east; All now was songless, empty and forlorn. Alone, from out the stubble piped the quall,

And croak'd the crow, though all the dreary gloom; Alone the pheasant, drumming in the vale, Made echo to the distant cottage loom. There was no bud, no bloom upon the bowers;
The spiders wove their thin shrouds night by night.
The thistle-down, the only ghost of flowers,
Sailed slowly by—passed noiseless out of sight.

Amid all this-in this most cheerless air. And where the woodbine sheds upon the north Its crimson leaves, as if the year stood there, Firing the floor with his inverted torch— Amid all this, the centre of the scene, The white-haired matron, with monotonous tread Plied the swift wheel, and, with her joyless mein, Sat like a Fate, and watched the flying thread.

She had known sorrow: He had walked with her,
Oft supped, and broke with her the ashen crust,
And, in the dead leaves, still she heard the stir Of his black mantle trailing in the dust. While yet her cheek was bright with summer bloom Her country summoned, and she gave her all; And twice, war bowed to her his sable plume; Re-gave the swords, to rest upon the wall. Re-gave the swords-but not the hand that drew

And struck for liberty the dying blow; Nor him, who to his sire and country true, Fell 'mid the ranks of the invaking foe. Long, but not loud, the droning wheel went on, Like the low murmurs of a hive at noon; Long, but not loud, the memory of the gone Breathed through her lips a sad and tremulous tune

At last the thread was snapped, her head was bow'd; Life drooped the distaff through his hands serene; And loving neighbors smothed her careful shroud, While Death and Winter closed the Autumn scene.

Winter Gardening. There are a few golden rules to be observed during winter, of which may be enumerated the following: "Water all plants that require it in the morning; leave no water in the saucer of any plant after the whole has become saturated through; never water by drips, but give the whole a good soaking, or the consequence often is that the top of the mould is wetted, while the lower, containing the roots, is dust; sponge over the foliage as often as it becomes dusty; take a pointed stick and once in awhile stir the surface of the soil, but not deep enough to disturb the roots; this acts the same part as hoeing in summer, and tends vastly to promote the growth of the plants. Give each plant space enough for air to cir-

A Snake Story. " During the Florida war," said the speaker, "I was with the American army. One day I shouldered my gun, and went in pursuit of game. In passing through a swamp I saw some-thing a few feet ahead of me, lying upon the ground, which had every appearance of a log, it being some forty feet in length, and about one foot in diameter. So positive was I that it was nothing but a log, that I paid no attention to it; the fact is, I would have sworn before a court of justice that it was nothing but a log-

You see, I had never heard of snakes grown to such huge dimensions, and the fact is, I never should have believed it if I had." "Well," he continued, "between me and the log (as I took it to be) was a miry place which it was necessary for me to avoid. I therefore placed the but of my gun on the Arkansas Girls. The Memphis Express tells the following story of a friend of the editor's who went over into Arkansas recently, to attend a "breakdown," that is, a dance :

"The ladies, upon the occasion, were arrayed in their best, with all the gay colors that an uncultivated taste could suggest. The gentlemen were dressed in homspun cloths, and none but our friend had broadcloth upon his back. During the evening sweet potatoes of an enormous size, roasted in the ashes, were handed round to the company, together with to have risen, almost at a single bound, to a a handful of salt for each guest. A beautiful young lady soon became smitten with our friend (perhaps with his magnificent moustaches,) and resolved to dance with him. She thereupon turned to a friend, and addressed

"Sal, hold my tater while I trot round with that nice hoss what's got on store clothes." "Our friend was clinched accordingly; he could not extricate himself from the grip of the rustic beauty, and was obliged to "trot round" after her for one mortal hour before he could obtain a respite from his labors. He made his escape the first opportunity, resolving that he would never again go to an Arkansas "break-

A lawyer at Poughkeepsie was applied to, during his lifetime by an indignant neighbor, for his opinion on a question of law in which the interests of the latter were materially involved. The lawyer gave his advice and charged the poor fellow three dollars for it. "There is the money," said his client; "it is all I have in the world, and my family has been a long time without pork." "Thank God!" replied the lawyer, "my wife never knew the want of pork since we were married." "Nor never will," the countryman rejoined, so long as she has such a hog as you."

The lawyer was so pleased with the smart-ness of his repartee that he forgave the poor fellow and returned him his money. We believe all but the last part.

Bevastopol holds stoutly out. The substance of the news is, that the allies had met with an important check, and had not made much progress. General Canrobert sends officially to the French Minister of War, under date 22d October, that "the French approaches continued to advance according to previous plans. The difficulties met with are two

f.id, viz.: the rocky nature of the soil; and secondly the heavy calibre of the enemy's artillery, while the French can only depend on their 63-pounders and 12 inch mortars. This explains the delay. On the night of the 20th, the enemy attempted to spike the French guns, but failed, and the Russians who did enter the batteries were killed. The French losses are not so great as might be expected, and the wounded are sent to Constantinople, where the hospitals are in an effective condition. The health of the arm; is on the whole satisfactory, although sickness has appeared among the gunners from the ships. (Signed) CANROBERT.

The total French loss from the 17th to the 28th

Private accounts in the Moniteur contain the French narrative to Oct. 30. On the 25th ultimo 20,000 Russians attacked the French rear, which was defended by the Turks from the redoubts, and took possession of them. The Engfish commenced an attack, and sent word to General Caarobert, who hastened the second division and a squadron of Chasseus to their relief. The united French and English cavalry repulsed the enemy by a brilliant charge, in which the combat was sustained five minutes with the sword. The positions were retained. The English loss was 400, and the French loss not quite so great.

On the 25th the Russian army appeared on the plains of Balaklava, but the battle which took place was of no particular consequence, although the English experienced some loss in a charge which was repulsed by them with great vigor. On the following morning 5,000 men left Sevastopol and attacked the left wing of the British troops, but were beaten back. The Russians then rallied again and repeated the attack, but were again defeated with considerable loss.

The Baltic fleet is still at Kiel bay, no sailing orders having been received. The steamers are fully coaled and ready for sea.

This dis-sension lass openly manifested itself in one of the lodges in this city. A few weeks ago one of the members thoroughly disgusted with the stealthy, skulk-ing character of the proceedings of an organization which professed to maintain principles dear to every true American's heart, in a plain, straightforward manner, undertook to have the seal of secrecy removed. He prepared, and undertook to submi the following preamble and resolutions: "Whereas it would be more accord with the spirit of the free in: titutions of our country, and with our paracter as citizens thereof, that we should divest ourselves of all unnecessary concealment; and whereas we are responsable only to the constitution and laws of the United States for our purposes and acts, there can be no existing necessity to, withholding our names as members of the Supreme Order of the Sous of the Sires of Seventy-six from the public: There-

After considerable delay and badgering for an alleged want of jurisdiction, the above preumble and resolution were finally read by the member in ques-tion before the council to which he was attached.— The president decided that the resolution was imadmissible. An appeal was taken, and the president's decision sustained by a unanimous vote. The author of the resolution then took leave of the "workers in darkness," and formally withdrew from the order .-Further comment is unnecessary. [Washington Union.

The Know Nothings Denounced. At a meeting of the Democratic party in Petersourg last week, to appoint delegates to the Staunton Convention, the following resolution was adopted by an almost unanimous vote: Resolved. That the thanks of the democracy of this city are due and hereby tendered to the Hon. Henry A. Wise of Accomac, for his bold, able and eloquent letter against the principles of the organization called Know Nothings; a letter which they deem as unanswerable as it is fearless and eloquent and as but another proof of the devotion of its author to democratic principles, and the cause of civil and religious

The Democrats of Prince George county are harder on this organization. They say-"Curiosity might lead children to assemble and hear the parrol cry of Know Nothing, Know Nothing; but intelligent men who have heretofore fought with their principles inscribed upon their banners, floating aloft at mid-day, will look down with contempt on this Northern heresy for the suppression of Southern rights," and further, that "under no circumstances will they support any man for any office who belongs to such an order, or who advocates such doctrines." their trenches within 300 yards of the Russians works, The Obstraction to Justice from the Oath of Know Nothingism.

The proceedings on a late criminal trial in Massachusetts have developed the startling fact that the obligations entered in direct conflict with the adcopy so much of these proceedings from the Lowell Advertiser as shows clearly the practical working of their oaths in effecting the credibility or competency of Know Nothings as witnesses in court .-When the witness takes the stand be swears that he will state "the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth." When asked the question whether bound by an oath, if he answers that he cannot testify without criminating himself and subjecting himself to punishment, he is not a competent witness. If he answers that he is such member, and so bound by oath, he thereby violates the obligation of that oath, and discredits himself as a witness .-In either point of view the administration of justice is obstructed and thwarted. This case exhibits Know Nothingism in an entirely new light. We have heretofore regarded it as an engine of political and religious intolerance and proscription. case in Massachusetts, however, shows that this was but a partial view of its enormity. The necessary consequence must be, that those who attach themselves to the order and assume its obligations become incompetent as winesses, and for the same reason, alike incompetent as jurors. No man will feel safe when his rights are to be determined upon testimony or upon verdicts proceeding from witnesses or by jurors who are bound by oaths which dis-qualify them to act in either capacity. The result must be, that whilst the Know Nothings are combining to exclude naturalized foreigners and Roman Catholics from the full rights of citizenship, they will exclude themselves from the rights of witnesses and jurors. Thus it often happens that attempts to inflict wrongs on others recoil and overwhelm the guilty. Without dwelling further upon the sub-dangers of Know Nothingism .- Washington Globe. Would Rather Le in Slavery. The Cincinnati Gazette, of Wednesday, has the following: "In the police court, yesterday, a colored man named John Stewart, was arraigned on charge of stealing a quantity of clothing from an elderly colored woman. Stewart plead guilty, and offered in minigation that he was out of funds and food, and Lad taken this course to provide himself with the necessaries of life. He stated to the court that a short time since he was a slave in Ruleigh. South Carolina, and upon being informed of the kind treament he would receive from the abolition st in the North, if he would become a free man, he concluded to purchase himself, and did so at a cost of $900.— He left his master and came to Ohio. Since I came here, continued Stewart, I have been kicked about and abused by all classes of white men. Can't Let work from no one and to borrow money to Let I read with, that is out of the question. I did a great de d'het er there than I ever did here.' Here the defendant took his sent to await the sentence of the court, which was that he to sent to the chain gang at hard labor for one month, and pay the costs of prosecution. Stewart said he did not mind the hard labor and was thankful for the prospect of getting something to eat in jail. He declared that as soon as he got out he would go south and become a slave

Santa Anna is said to be again so short of funds that he is making a strenuous efforts to negotiate or anticipate the payment of the remaining $3,000,000 of the American indemnity, before the adjustment of the boundary, upon which it is contingent. The conscription for the jurpose of filling the ranks of the army is being actively carried on in the department of Vera Cruz. The people are very loth to fight for Santa Anna, and many of the conscripts have to be tied together until properly placed in the Larracks.

The house of Mrs. Anna Kelso, in Hampshire county, two miles from the Frederick line, was the s ene of an outrageous attempt at robbery early in the morning of the 17th inst. The robbers, two in number, effected their entrance through a window of the room where Mrs. Kelso was shelling, and it was not until they had examined several bureaux and trunks, and were in the act of opening a chest, that Mrs. Kelso awoke. They then seized her-and threatened to shoot her if she die not give up the money she had in the house. Then ise that was made brought down the widow's two sons, one with a gun in his hands, but it was so dark that before he could see the robbers he was raught and in the burry forward the much needed relief to the Crimea. scuffle that ensued the gun fell upon the floor, and young Kelso immediately after received a severe swore they would kill her instantly if she did not get them the money. This she courageously refused to do, and the robbers were compelled to leave with-out the object of their search, having become alarmed at the departure of the younger Keiso, a lad of seventeen, in quest of help. There had been a sale at the house a few days before, and the fact that Mrs. Kelso had some money about her was known to certain suspected parties, who may yet be identified and brought to justice. - Winchester Republican.

Distressing Occurrence. It gives us paint to note an occurrence that has thrown into the deepest distress the family of Jonathan Jenkins, living about nine miles west of town. Mr. Jenkins has been on a visit to the Western States, in company with some of his neighbors, for the last six weeks, and the recent accounts of railroad and steamboat disasters, succeeding each other with such frightful rapidity, are supposed to have so preyed upon the mind of Mrs. Jenkins as to unsettle her reason with the belief that her husband was lost, Early on Friday morning last, she quietly left the house, whilst all were asleep, and a few hours after her lifeless body was found in the mill-race near by. Some years ago, Mrs. Jenkins lost a son by an accidental death, and it is thought her mind never recovered from the shock then received. The sad occurrence of last week will be a severe blow to a kind husband, upon his return. [Winchester Republican of Friday. On Friday last the renowned Phineas T. Barnum, of Joyce Heath, Jenny Lind, Tom Thumb, and woolly-horse memory, applied to the Supreme Court of the State of New York for an injunction to stop the sale of a book of which the following is the title: "Your Money and My Life. Autobiography of Petite Bankum, the great Yankee showman. Judy Heath, the nurse of Washington; the fudgemermaid, the woolly horse, the whiskered lady, the Fairy Light Guard, the Hoboken-buffalo chase, the fire annihilator; Jenny the nightingale; the poultry show; sketches of distinguished characters, including Greet horn; the great Our Ned, the little Lyksey, the artificial durang-outang, and thirty superb illustrations, are here exhibited without extra charge.-For sale here, price 50 cents. Published by F. F. Harris' No. 102 Nassau street, New York. Barnum sets forth that he has now in the press his Autoliography, which has been already announced, and that the book of which the above is the title, is intended to catch the dollars in transitu, and transfer them to some other pocket than his. He says he is to receive a heavy per centage from his publisher, Redfield, for every copy sold, and he thinks from the great number already ordered, the sale will amount to several hundred thousand copies. The court had not decided at last accounts. The Herald, which is not friendly to Barnum, intimates that he has lost money, and gotten into a tight place of Another biographical humbug, soon to be pene-trated, is the life of Horace Greely, written by him-self. We hope he will tell us when he last washed his face and hands, and put on a clean shirt, if his memory run back so far. At present, there are great doubts as to the exact time, not at all relieved by a close inspection of the philosopher's person.— The same Herald says, the inducement to this auto-biography is the downfall of copper-stock. Along with others of the fancy description, it has fallen to nothing. But Horace will make it up in brass. He will not perhaps be able to say with his name sake, I have erected a monument more durable than brass," but he can say that he tried to build one, at least out of that material.

A third humbug in the autobiographical line is to be that which records the adventures of the renowned chevalier Wickoff, the business man of Fanny Elssler. Wickoff, if he should think proper, can write one of the most amusing autobiographies that can be conceived. The Herald predicts that he will sell half a million of copies in less than a year: Seriously, we regret to secanto-blography degraded in this manner. The time was when those who undertook to write their own personal histories, were persons of some weight in society-men who had figured largely on the theatre of the world .-Many of the greatest the world ever saw, in the mean time-nay, the larger proportion of them have gone down to the grave without writing their own lives. We dare say Shakespeare or Milton never dreamed of such a thing: What would the world not give for a genuine biography of either? But when it comes to Barnum and Greely, the Lord have mercy on as. The War in Europe. Very angry notes are known to have recently passed between France and England on one side and Prussia on the other. The design of these pro-tocols is to induce Prussia to declare for or against the Czar. There is little prospect of the war being terminated during the p. gent pear. In all probability the allies will have learned wisdom before the commencement of the campaign in 1855. Then, instead of fighting in the Crimea, at the very extremity of the Russian Empire, they may have determined to also carry the war into the vital part to attack Russia in a central place. This can scarcely be done without the assistance of Prussia, through whose territories the hostile and invading army would have to march, as was done in 1812.

Louis Napoleon has now an army of one hundred and fifty thousand men in the vicinity Boulogne, a position whence they could readily march upon itussia. It is alleged that this immense force, which will winter in its present encampment, is to be sent against Prussia in the spring, unless Frederick Wil-The Banshee steamer arrived at Constantinople ministration of the law in courts of justice. We liam join the alliance against the Czar. Louis Napoleon, if no other means will do it, (and protocols are only paper pellets.) may desire to entice Prussia, by force. An extension of the war appears inevitable, and, should it take place, who knows but that, when the contest is concluded, a new arrange ment of European territories may take place, to amend that under the treaty of Vienna, in 1815, by which France may fulfilt her long-cherished dream of once more obtaining the Rhine as one of its boundaries; an arrangement which, as under the elder Napoleon, would take a large slice from Prussia? We are very confident that Louis Napoleon has some political views which he keeps to himself, but bears constantly in mind. By-and-by, perlaps Prussia may be the "sick man," with France as residuary legatee. [New York Daily Times, f From the Alta Californian, October 27.1 Terrible Slaughter of Human Beings-Whole Family Butchered -- Robbery and Arson.

Messrs. Editors :- The citizens of our quiet little own were taken by surprise this morning on hearing that a whole family had been brutally murdered last night by a band of robbers consisting of Mexicans and Americans, seven in number, at a house kept by a colored man, named James Anthony, or, as he was commonly known here as Anton, at the Pass at Salinois river, twelve miles from Monte-

It appears that these men, all well armed, called a Auton's for the ostensible purpose of buying some cigars and something to eat, when they knocked down and nearly killed Anton, and then began to rob and pillage the house of everything that was valuable, but their principal object was money, of which they obtained about $2,000. They then brually murdered the father, wife and child of the landord, and a Frenchman, after which they set fire to the house, and burned it to the ground, to conceal their horrid crime.

During the robbing and murdering the lights were extinguished, by which means Anton man-aged to escape from the house and conceal himself in the bushes until morning, when he gave the alarm to the neighbors. He came in this morning and related the circum stances, when the sheriff and a dozen men started in pursuit of the murderers. If they be caught, it is ery probable they will not have a trial by jury,

Meiges, who was lately elected Com troller of the city of San Francisco by the Know Nothings, and his brother Henry Meiges, have committed the most during and a trocious frauds that we have ever recorded. They have forged Comptroller's Warrants upon the city for near a million of dollars, and have left individual indebtedness for nearly another milli n. Their scound elism have thrown the whole city into consternation and terror. Comptroller. The Know Nothings of San Francisco have thus soon been called upon to mourn the loss of a rother, who it seems is desirous to becoming a foreigner. We presume they will, in his stead, bring forward a other candidate for the place, as moral, as religious and as American in his principles as leiges, and one as earnest in his denunciations of Catholics and foreigners. Scene in Court. At about 2 o'clock on Saturday, the 18th instant. the jury in the case of Frederick Loebig, charged with the murder of Matthias Smith, and who had been shut up from about half past 2 o'clock, p. m. of the previous Thursday, came into court, and rendered a verdict of not guilty. The scene will not soon be forgotten by those who witnessed it. The faithful, affectionate wife of the prisoner, who throughout the trial has never for a moment absented berself, stood weeping and wailing by the side of her husband to hear the result, to her, as to him an announcement of fearful importance. A breathless silence, broken only by the sobs of the poor woman, reigned through the court as the clerk, in a clear and solenin voice, said, "Frederick Loebig, stand and hold up your right hand." The prisoner, pale and a_itated, but sustained by his affectionate wife, did as he was directed. The clerk continued-"flow say you, is the prisoner guilty of the matter where-of he stands indicted, or not guilty?" The result we have stated, and no sooner was it known, than the man over; owered by his feelings, sank down into the arms of his affectionate wife, she scarcely knowing what to do-almost beside herself with joy not enough, rushed forward and seizing the hands of the counsel who defended him bathed them with her tears. Truly has the poet said-memory .- Hagerstown Mail.

"Oh, woman, lovely woman! Nature made you to temper man, We had been brutes without you; There's in you all that we believe of heaven, Eternal love and ever asting faith."

Many of the bystanders—among whom were stern, rough men—whose cheeks perchance had not been wet with tears since childhood, poured forth nature's sinless tribute, and as the prisoner and his wife left the court-house, surrounded by their friends, hon-ored their affection by a silent prayer for their future happiness. We do not think there was one present who did not feel the inestimable value of woman's undying love.-Lallimore Sun. The Money Crisis.

The pressure in the money market has been productive of failures in some of the most extensive of mercial houses of the cities, and of a number of West-ern Banks. The free banks of Indiana seem to have had names, but no local habitations. Three banks in Chicago and one in Cincinnati have just closed doors, in addition to others reported before.

The run on the Exchange Bank of Selden, With ers & Co., in Washington, commenced on Monda and has continued with unabated vigor. They re deem their paper with the notes of the Trans-Alle-ghany Bank, their obligation only being to pay in Virginia money. The Baltimore brokers refuse the latter, and also the issues of some other of the free Banks located in distant counties of this State. There was a pretty free circulation of the notes of the Exchange bank hereabouts, but we suspect much has been sent off by this time.

The reckless irresponsibility with which free banks has been conducted in some parts of the country have contributed their share to the present condition of things.—Willelesser Republican.

WE advise all persons owning Virginia Lands, and desiring to sell the same, to Advertise-first in their own local papers, so that their neighbors may become acquainted with their desire; and next in some journal of wide circulation, printed at a distance, so that the attention of strangers may be drawn to the property. THE BESS PAPER IN PENNSYLVANIA TO ADVERTISE VIRGINIA LANDS IN IS THE VALUEY SPIRIT TO SPIRITE WINDS PENNSY LVANIA TO ADVERTISE VIRGINIA LANDS IN, IS THE VALLEY SPIRIT, published at Chambersburg, Pa., by P. S. Dechert & Co. Ita circulation is three times as large as the average circulation of County papers in Pennsylvania, and care has been exercised to have it extensively circulated among the agricultural community, they being generally the most substantial patrons. It is generally believed that an advertisement of Real Estate in this paper, will be read by more Farmers, and therefore by more persons disposed to purchase that kind of of properly than if inserted in any other journal in this part of the country. The Valley Spirit's circulation lies mainly in the rich and populous counties of FRANKLIN and CUMBERLAND, but yet it is not confined to those counties. It circulates also in Adams, York, Lancaster and Lebanon on the East, Ful-FRANKLIN and CUMBERLAND, but yet it is not confined to those counties. It circulates also in Adams, York, Lancaster and Lebanon on the East, Fulton, Bedfordand Somerset on the West and Runtingdon, Juniata, Perry and Centre on the North-From these parts of our State many Agriculturists have removed to Virginia, and others, it is not to be doubted, will year after year follow. Would it not be good policy for Virginians to bring their property to the notice of those who are contemplating a removal to their State by advertising it in our paper?

York, this making 10 Premiums in two seasons, in competition with the most celebrated Separators of the day; proving conclusively, that simplicity in construction, cheapness in price, and durability in matchine, is being fully appreciated, and the old complicated costly separators must yield their piece to a superior machine. This Machine, for threshing, separating, cleaning lwike, screening and bagging, (by one simple operation,) all kinds of Grain—the greatest labor-saving machine extant, for simplicity, durability, cheapness and capacity, it has no rival in the world. It is capable of turning out, ready for the mill or for seed, from 300 to 500 bushels of Wheat per day, with 6 or 8 horses, and 8 hands—or from 500 to 800 bushels with 12 horses and as many hands, doing the work cleaner; and breaking less grain, than any machine now in use. This machine received the first premiums at the Maryland State Fair, Balt., in 1852, and 1853; the Washington Ca., Md. Fair; Valley Agricultural Fair, of Va., in 1852 and 1853; the Rappahańnock Agricultural Society at Port Royal, Va.; the first premium at the Illinois State Fair, 1853, at Springfield; and a Silver Medal at the Indiana State Fair, at Indianapolis, 1853.

This machine is so simple in construction, that the one fan and shoe completely cleans and bags the grain, dispensing with all the complicated machinely (and consequent liability of derangement) in all other separators, thus making it more desirable to the farmer.

CRYSTAL PALACE. World's Fair, New York, United States of America-Association for the Exhibition of the Industry of all Nations. EXCELSIOR:

THE association for the Exhibition of the Industry of all Nations awards to ELISHA S.SNYDER, of Charlestown, Jefferson county, Va., the highest premium Bronze Medal, with special approbation, for the combination he has effected, and the practical application he has given the same, in his Lab r Saving Machine for Threshing, Separating, Cleaning and Bagging Grain,—Hon. Freas, Germantown, Penn.; Hon. Henry Babbit, Brooklyn, L. I., acting Secretary in Class 9, Jury C.

My Patent Premium Threshing, Separating, Cleaning and Bagging Grain Mackine, is for sale; which received the first premium at the Crystal Palace, New York, over all Threshing, Separating, Cleaning and Bagging Grain Mackines on exhibitio—thus proving conclusively that simplicity in construction, cheapness in price, and durability iff my machine, is being fully appreciated, and the old and new costly, inferior, complicated separating Machines must yell their places to a superior Lalar Salving Machine. The celebrated Machine for Threshing, Separating, Cleaning twice, Screening and Bagging. ing, Separating, Cleaning twice, Screening and Bagging Grain by one simple operation. The greatest labor saving Machine in the world for separating all pure and impurities. This machine throws the straw to itself, the chaff to itself, the wheat in the bag, the Everything has a place, and everything is in its place to suit the conveniences of the farmer. For simplicity, durability, cheapness and capacity it has not equal in the world. As for what has been stated in the different papers concerning Mr. Zimmerman's Ma-chine receiving the first premium at the Crystal Pal-ace, New York, is false, and not true. It is also stated that Mr. Zimmerman received a number of premiums' at and other fairs. That I know nothing about at ..., and other lars. That I know nothing about —perhaps he did; but it is very easy to win the race, as the boy said when he ran by himself. But my honorable Fletins, this was not the case at the Work!'s.

Fair, New York. Mr. Zimmerman had a number of other boys to run with, besides himself, which made the race more difficult for him—so much so, that he,
Mr. Zimmerman, was neither the first nor second—so Mr. Zimmermah; was neither the first nor second—so you may judge where he was.

These are facts that cannot be denied. The undersigned would inform the public that his Farmers' Labor Saving Machine for Theshing, Separating, Cleaning, Screening and Bagging all kinds of Grain, is for sale. Farmers wishing to huv the best machine in use, will address JOSEPH GLAZE, Frederick City, and the same and nost that the best and nost them. TUESDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 28, 1654.

The Staunton Convention. The time is rapidly approaching when the Democ acy of Virginia will assemble, to select one of her many worthy and distinguished sons to bear her standard, triumphantly we trust, through the important contest which is before us. The people look forward with intense interest, and are awaiting with anxiety the action of that Convention. For there has rarely assembled in the good old common wealth a convention of her people, upon whose action depended the decision of a more important and moentous question than the one there to be decidedit is none other than the question will Virginia continue as heretofore, to be true to the great principles of the Democratic party, or is she now for the first time in her history to repudiate those principles: which she has ever so nobly defended aild successfully advocated. For in the language of the Enouirer, it is our deliberate conviction that the Stauriton Convention will determine the destiny of the Democratic party in Virginia-will settle for long years to come the problem of its continued ascendency or its overthrow and banishment from power. Let then every member of the convention ponder well, the importance attached to his actions, and the responsipility which rests upon him. Let all reflect and decide, whether it is not better in a laudable spirit of conciliation to sacrifice, if necessary, his prejudices and his own personal predilections, for the good of the whole party, than by an obstinate resistance and an unpardonable pertinacity, to jeopardize that harmony of action, which has come all important and absolutely necessary to our success in the crisis before as Shall Virginia fall at last from the exalted position which she has so long occupied, and to which she has been raised by her noble sons who have fought and fallen in the cause? Shall that glorious standard, which we have so often followed to successful victory, be lowered at last, and trailed in the dust; and smeared in the fifthy slough of anti-republicanism and intolerance? Shall she who was the first to nerve the arm, and strike the blow, for freedomthe first to raise her voice for Religious toleration now be compelled to submit to the rule of one elevated by the fusion of Old Federatism and Modern Intolerance? We trust not. We invoke von then to united, harmonious, and concerted action. Our enemies are strong, and are united for the sole purpose of our defeat. By the union of disaffected Democrats, and those who have been base enough to embrace an organization started at the North by Abolitionists, for the avowed purpose of violating the Constitution of their country, and in violation of our sacred Bill of Rights, and the Statute law of Virginia, with the Whigs, our old enemies, we may be defeated. The weight of our usual majority may be thrown against us by the desertion of a few thousand votes.

Remember that an important crisis in the affairs of the nation is fast approaching, the consequences of which none can tell. Let not the example of Virginia be wanting in the cause of the South: Remember her great influence in the councils o the nation. The cause of the South, and the cause of the Democracy of Virginia. is one and the same. Let all then, unite in the support of the nomince of the Convention, whosoever he may be, for it will be the conflict of Republicanism and Religious freedoin on the one side, and Anti-republicanism and intolerance, upon the other. In the great crisis which is now approaching in the affairs of this nation, the price of the Constitution, and the Union is the stake -nothing less can satisfy the abolition fanaticism of the North. The gloomy storm that is brewing will soon burst upon us in all its malignant fury. Let us meet it like men. Let Virginia hoist the proper colors and take her stand in the cause of toleration and

The Next Congress.

On Monday next, 4th of December, the 33d Congress will assemble. The administration will be in a minority in the next House. The recent elections have been influenced so completely by Know Nothingism, that in some of the strongest Democratic Districts opposition Candidates have been returned to Congress, and we do not think we hazerd much In the assertion, that Free Soil and Abolitha will have h tenjority.

This is a deplorable state of affairs. Has this virtue departed from the people? Have men given themselves up entirely to the wild passions of politi-'cal furorists?' Are the time-honored principles, the successful operation of which, have made our country great, prosperous and happy, to be swallowed up and lost in the mad, delirons excitement that phrenzied men create . Does not every recent indication go to prove that the God of discord hat taken complete possession of the hearts of the Northern people, and that His power will be felt to an extent almost unimaginable in the next session of Con-

The North appears determined to force the South to violent and extreme means. They have sent delegations to Congress who are almost a unit in their determination to oppose her just rights, to outrage her feelings, and to destroy her interests. There is scarcely a hope left, that justice will be us, that a right will receive protection or an interest respect. What is the Souh to do?

We had the pleasure of attending two Concerts, given by Miss George, (a blind girl, edweated in the Asylum, at Stanuton Va.,) during last week. She sang some beautiful songs, very well. She was an object of charity, being poor and destitute, and needed money to purchase books, to that her burdensome life might be lightened. We are sorry to say that her Concerts were very slimly attended. Persons will give ten or twenty dollars to a charitable purpose, where they know it will be nois-'ed, but not one quarter to a poor blind girk.

63-There is said to be about three thousand Negroes entitled to vote in New York city under the provision of the State Constitution which requires a olored man to have been three years a citizen and possessed of freehold estate of the value of $250 over and above all debts and incumbrances charged thereon, and upon which a tax shall have been paid.

[Salurday Express. This is true. And It is also a fact that the Know-Nothings (to whom our neighbor is said to belong) would exclude a white man, who happens to have been born out of the country, from voting until he has been TWENTY-ONE years a citizen! What a beautiful commentary on Know Nothingism this is! Such a stroke of policy, it is believed, is a favorite project of Napoleon III. who hopes thereby to cripple Russia's influence over the German Powers, and as the influence of Russia diminishes, to build up that of France in its room. A pamphlet which has just appeared in Paris, entitled "A Letter to the Emperor on the Eastern question," is suspected of having been inspired by Government suggestion. It argues the case with some ability. Still we do not think there can be much foundation for these reports. AT-It is said a National Know Nothing Convention met in Cincinnati on the 15th inst, to make arrangements for the next Presidential election. 03-The members of Congress are beginning to arrive in Washington. 'Congress assembles on Monday the 4th of December:

The Duty of the South: In the North, wherever even the Democratic party has suffered defeat, (says the Washington Sentinel,) a faithful band has adhered to its organization .-Those who have in the midst of disaffection adhered to the men and measures of the Democratic party, merit and will receive the thanks of the Democracy in every section of the Union. They have stood up boldly and faithfully against the rushing torrent of fariaticism, regardless of all mere personal considera-tions. It should be a subject of gratulation to the South that so many true, sound, and pure men were found, ready, if necessary, to sacrifice themselves in desence of its rights. The sectional issues presented by Abolition and Freesoil were boldly, fearlessly and eloquently met on Northern ground by Northern Democrats, and if the fierceness of the contest shows that the undertaking was a perilous one, the greater is the honor to be awarded to them. Will not the South sustain these patriotic men? Will, not the South in its every organized movement, whether at the ballot-box or not, show that it justly and properly appreciates the gallant services of these faithful men? The South has ever been eminently conserva tive: It has as little natural sympathy for fanaticism as for Abolition. When it sees that every element of faction united to prostrate the men who defended Its rights and sustained its honor, it will lend no countenance to any cause or any men identified with such an attempt. A noble opportunity is now presented to the South of vindicating its proud boast that factions have no resting places within its boundaries .-The time has come when it can strike a blow at that fanaticism which waged battle against its own defenders in the North: We believe that the South will meet this new responsibility with becoming spirit.

It is rumored in Brussels that the grand-daughter of Louis Philippe, the Princess Charlotte of Belgium, is the intended wife of Prince Napoleon, heir presumptive to the throne of France. [From the Alexandria Gazette.] GAZETTEER OF VIRGINIA .- We have seen notices the most flattering from adjacent sections of our State, in reference to this great enterprise now being prepared for the press, by RICHARD EDWARDS, Esq., a gentleman, we should judge, from the high testi-monials which he bears, well qualified for the task; a Work of this kind will be very valuable as a Book of reference, as a guide to the Emigrant, and as a grand achievement of the unexampled natural ad-vantages, of which we are blessed, as a State. We ordially recommend it, a more use ul Book could not be bought for either the desk or the table.

From the Wheeling Intelligencer 1 We take great pleasure in drawing the attention of our citizens to a very worthy enterprise, and hope it will be well supported. Parson D-, who was distinguished as an aider and abettor in runaway couples and Grenta Green marriages, was once aroused at a late hour in the night when all had retired, by a long, slab sided Yankee, who was exceedingly anxious to get "hitched, as the gal's father was after them." The eager applicant stood on the door-sill, while Jemima was restlessly moving in a lumber wagon not far disent. The night was cold, and the parson who did not much relish the idea of unrobing himself to attend to their wants, soon appeared at the window, and remarked to Jonathan, that if it made no difference to him, he would read the ceremony where he was, and the par-

The ceremony was quickly performed, and the happy couple were about driving away, when Jonathan, who seemed to think all was not right, shouted from the wagon, "What is the damage?" The minister told him if he had anything to give, he would be obliged to him if he would slip it under the door, and he would come down and get it in the morning. Jonathan fumbled for a moment in his pockets, and then approaching the door, carefully deposited something beneath it, and went on his way rejoicing. STABLER'S DIARRHŒA CORDIAL,

For Coughs, Colds, Brunchius, Croup, &c.

STABLER'S DIARRHEA CORDIAL.

THE valuable medicines above named, are not empirical, but are prepared in agreement with the experience of some of the most learned and judicious practitioners, and are not secret, further than is necessary to protect the proprietors and those who use them from loss and imposition, as the component parts have been made known, confidentially, from time to time, to perhaps 500 Physicians!!! in Maryland, Virginia, District of Columbia, Ohio, and other places, all of whom, without a single exception, have approved of the formula, and most of them acknowledge that they are the best remedies that they have ever known for the cure of the diseases for which they are recommended. Our confidence in the excellence of these medicines, added to our destre to avoid the just prejudice of the medical profession against secret and quack nostrums, induced us to adopt this candid course.—Weappend a few of the notices we have received from Physicians:

From Dr. Wm. H. Farrow, Snowhill, Md.

Gentlemen—I have frequently in my practice prescribed your "Stabler's Anodyne Cherry Expectorant" and "Diarrhes Cordial," with great satisfaction to myself, and to the entire relief of such diseases as they profess to cure. I consider them happy combinations of some of our most valuable and safe therapeutical agents, and must be of infinite worth to the afflicted and mankind at large. In furnishing the medical profession with these active and concentrated preparations, so convenient for administration, and of a standard quality, you have rendered them an eminent service, and I can do no less than exmestly recommend these preparations to practitioners, and especially in the country, where the impurity of commercial Drugs is one of the greatest obstacles to the success of the Physician.

Dr. W.S. Love, writes to us that he has administer-Dr. W.S. It has in a few weeks done her more good than all the remedies she weeks done her more good than all the remedies she has heretofore used under able medical counsel.

From Dr. H. P. Worthington, Lawrel, Md.

"After several months use of your Expectorant, both in my own family, and in general practice, I am confirmed in the opinion expressed of it, when first made acquainted with the recipe. For one I thank you for so convenient and elegant a preparation of the Wild Cherry."

From Geo. Getry, M. D., Somerset Co., Md.

"Gentlemen—I have used many of the different Cherry Expectorants, and I do assure you that yours far exceeds any I have ever tried."

From Dr. J. R. Andre, of Kinsington, Talbot Co., Md.

"Having examined the component parts of Stabler's Anodyne Cherry Expectorant; also of Stabler's Diarrhoza Cordial, and having used them in practice, I feel no hesitancy in recommending them."

no hesitancy in recommending them." From J. E. Marsh, M. D., Kent Co., Md.

"I have made free use of your Diarrhoza Cordial, in my family. It gives me much pleasure to add my testimony to that of others, in favor of its efficiency." From Samuel Martindale, M. D., Chesapeake City, Md. "I have much pleasure in adding my testimony in favor of your valuable Cherry Expectorant. I have, after an extension use found it temperates all my accounts." after an extensive use, found it to answer all my expectations.

From Dr. Danl. W. Jones, Somerset Co., Md.

"I have given your Expectorant and Diarrhea Cordial a fair trial, and am delighted with their effects, never having had them to fail in a single instance. I shall take pleasure in recommending them.

We have been favored with a written certificate, We have been favored with a written certificate, cheerfully given by numerous Medical gentlemen, in Maryland, Virginia and Ohio, which alone should convince the most doubting, that these are really "Good Medicines;" after stating that they are acquainted with the composition of both the Expectorantand Cordial, and that they have administered them to their patients, they testify "that they are remedics of great value, safe, efficient and well worthy of the patronage of the Profession and the Public, that they are more reliable than any other proprietary medicines with reliable than any other proprietary medicines with which we are acquainted." &c. The above notices of recommendation from mem bers of the Medical Faculty, Pharmaceutists of high standing, and Merchants of the first respectability.

Our readers. Mr. Bullis a merchantof high character.

Sandy Bottom, Middlesex County, Va., August 29th, 1853.

Messrs. Mortimer & Mowbray—Gents: You may think it strange that I have taken the liberty to write you this letter, but I do so under circumstances that justify it. As you are the Agents for Hastron's Vegetable Tincture, I deem it expedient to address you this note, hoping it may be a part of the honorable means of giving this medicine that notoriety which its merits deserve.

Being in the habit of vending medicines which relate to the patent, and regular system, I consider myself to some extent, a judge of the real merits of many of them. My experience teaches me that "Hampton's Tincture" is a medicine of real merit and intrinsic value. When I say this, I do not say that it is an infallible cure, in all cases, but I mean to say that "Hampton's Tincture" will favorably operate in all diseases originating from a want of proper secretions of the gastric juices, bad digestion, and consequently bad deposit of animal matter from that source. I believe that many diseases located in various parts of the system, such as inflammation, Ulcers, Scrofula, etc., originally have their being in the stomach, from badfood, bad digestion, and consequently bad depositions of the circulation to those parts; and I will believe Hampton's Vegetable Tincture will even react these causes.

Having found out, myself, what it is, I recommend lieve Hampton's Vegetable Tincture will even react these causes.

Having found out, myself, what it is, I recommend it to others in such cases, as I have described, and I have done it upon the "no cure no pay system," and I have yet to have the first bottle returned, or the first objection about the pay. It is a great pity it cannot be more extensively circula ed among the people.

* I warrant it in the following cases:—Gout, Rheumatism, Inflammations which proceeds from the stomach, Sores, Scrofula, Dyspepsia, long standing cases of Ague and Fever; first stop the chill, and then give the Tincture—the difficulty in this case is not in stopping the chill, but the return of it, this the Tincture will certainly do. In general debilitations, I warrant it, and as I said before, I have procured a trial of it in this way, which otherwise I could not; the people have been humbugged by patent medicines so long, that they are afraid of all. This is clearly a stomach medicine, it works all its wonders there, and in all such cases it is a specific, if anything in the in all such cases it is a specific, if anything in the world is. orld is. Having given the Tincture a fair trial with myself, in my family and neighborhood, I think I am warranted in what I say about it, and which I do without any other interest than the wish to see it in general circulation, and in every man's family, where it ought to If what I say be doubted by any of the afflicted, and
