So fair to look upon. Those bright and lovely maidens Who seemed so formed for bliss, Too glorious and too heavenly. For such a world as this! Whose soft dark eyes seemed swimming

In a sea of liquid light; And whose locks of gold were streaming O'er brows so sunny bright.

Whose smiles were like the sunshine In the spring time of the year-Like the changeful gleams of April They followed every tear! They have passed—like hope—away— All their loveliness has fied— Oh I many a heart is mourning That they are with the dead. And yet—the thought is saddening. To muse on such as they— And feel that all the beantiful Are passing fast away ! That the fair one's whom we love, Grow to each loving breast, Like the tendrils of the clinging vine; Then perish where they rest. And can we but think of these In the soft and gentle spring, When the trees are waving o'er us;

And the flowers are blossoming ! For we know that winter's coming With his cold and stormy sky-And the glorious beauty round us Is blooming but to die 1

We find the following rather curious and some what examplers ted calculations in reference to Tobacco, in an exchange paper : How MUCH TOBACCO IS USED .- The present annual production of Tobacco is estimated to be 4,000,-000,000 pounds-four billions of pounds1 This is all smoked, chewed or snuffed. Suppose it all made in cigars, one hundred to the pound, would produce 400,000,000,000-four hundred billions of cigars !--The cigars at the usual length-four inches-if joined together, would form one continuous cigar 25,252,-525 miles long-would encircle the earth more than one thousand times. Cut up into equal pieces, 240,-000 miles in length, there would be over one thousand cigars, which would extend from the centre of the earth to the center of the moon. Put these cigars into boxes 10 inches long, 4 inches wide, and 3 inches high-one hundred to the boxt would require 4,000,000,000 boxes. Pile up these boxes in a solid mass, and they would occupy a space of 294.444.444-two hundred and ninety four million cubic feet! If piled up 20 feet high, they would cover a farm of 338 acres. Let some boy who reads this, estimate how large a village or city would be required to furnish storehouses for all these boxes.

If a person smoke a cigar every twenty minutes, and continue this night and day, it would require an army of two thousand five hundred such smokers six thousand years to consume the above; and if each person smoked only four cigars a day-a pretty fair allowance we should say-it would take forty five thousand smokers six thousand years-a longer term than the human race has existed-to smoke up all the tobacco now produced in a single year. Allowing this tobacco, manufactured, to cost on an average 10 cents a pound, and we have $400,000,-000 expended every year in producing a noxious, deleterious weed. At least one and a half times as much more is required to manifacture it into marketable form, and dispose of it to the consumer. At the very lowest estimate, than, the human family expended, every year, $1'000,000,000, in the gratification of an acquired habit-or S1 for every man woman and child upon the ear th!

This sum would build two Railroads around the earth at a cost of twenty thousand dollars per mile. or 16 Railroads from the Atlantic to the Pacific-It would build one hunded thousand churches, costing ten thousand dollars each ; or five hundred thousand school houses, costing two thousand dollars each; or one million dwellings, costing one thousand dollars each. It would employ one million of preachers and one million of teachers, giving each a salary of five hundred dollars. It would support sparkling showers, the wind tossed the branch of her loving me again. I did not even know 3,333,333 young men at college, giving each three hundred dollars per annum for expenses. NO. 50.

At one of the entertainments given on shore by the officers of a British frigate, the conversation turned upon rifle shooting, which led to an animated discussion, in which our officers took an active part.

'I have often heard,'commander of the Thunderer, 'that you have fellows in your country called Kentuckians, who are great shots with a rifle.'

'Yes, sir,' replied Lieut. N., 'their fame is great in that line, they commene practicing in childhood, and in course of time become excellent marksmen.'

'They may be very clever: but I believe we have some better shots on board of our vessel ?

'I do not belong to that section of the coun-try.' observed Lieut: N., 'and have but little practice with the rifle; but if I mistake not, we have a Kentuckian in company at present who will stand up for his native State. 'Yes, on all occasions,' said our purser, a tall, muscular descendant of one of the first families of that State. 'What say you, then, gentlemen, to a shooting match to-morrow morning."

'Agreed, with all our hearts,' said the, tall Kentuckian.

The next morning they met in a beautiful grove, and placed the target seventy-five yards distant. The English ritle is different from the American, the barrel being shorter and the stock heavier. Six picked men from the Thunderer were on the ground, all of whom fired. Not one, however, cut the paper, (the size of a dollar, )although several of the balls came close to it. The shots were considered excellent by the English; and French officers, and the natives were greatly astonished by the proficiency of the riflemen.

The commander of the Thunderer, turning to the purser, with a smile, said : 'What do you think of that? I take it you find it difficult to come up to that."

"You may think so; but I consider it no shooting at all,' said the purser.

You ride a high horse,' said the French of-

Miscellaneous. [From Household Words.]

MY CONFESSION. I had always been a passionate boy. They said I was almost a fiend at times. At others I was mild and loving. My father could not manage me at home; so I was sent to school. I was more flogged both at home and at school than any one I ever knew or heard of. It was incessant flogging. It was the best way they knew of to educate and correct me. I remember to this day how my father and develout of me." This phrase was burnt at last into my very being. I bore it always conscientiously about me. I heard it so often that a dim kind of notion came into my mind that I really was possessed by a devil, and that they were right to try and scourge it out of me. This was a very vague feeling at first. After events made it more me, I had something to say to him, and my that two miniature cases were lying among definite. Time went on in the old way. I was forever doing wrong, and forever underpunishment-terrible punishment, that left my body wounded, and hardened my heart into stone. I have bitten my tongue till it was black and swollen, that I might not say that I repented of what I had done. Repentance then, was synonymous with cowardice and shame. At last it grew into a savage pride of endurance. I gloried in my sufferings, and I knewthat I came the congerer out of them. The masters might flog me till I fainted, but they could not subdue me. My constancy was greater than their tortures, and my firmness superior to their will. Yes, they were forced to acknowledge it-I conquered them; the devil would not be scourged out of me at their bidding; but remained within me as mine. When I look back to this time of my boyhood. I seem to look back over a wide expanse of desert land, swept through with fiery thorns. Passions of every kind convulsed my mindunrest and mental turmoil, strife and tumult, and suffering never ceasing ;-this is the picture of my youth whenever I turn it from the dark wall of the past. But it is foolish to recall this now. Even at my age, chastened and sobered as I am, it makes my heart bound with the old passionate throb again, when I remember the torture and the fever of my bayhood.

I had few school-friends. The boys were afraid of me, very naturally; and shrank from any intimacy with one under such a potent ban as I. I resented this, and fought my way savagely against them. One only, Herbert Ferrars; was kind to me; he alone loved me, and he alone was loved in return: Loved-as you may well believe a boy of warm affections; such as I was in spite of all my intemperance of passion, isolated from all and shunned by alike; the chief of all; clever; like a young Apollo among the herdsmen - supreme in the grace and figure of his dawning manhood. I never knew one so tinselfish-so gifted and so striving, so loving and so just, so gentle and so strong.

We were friends-fast, firm friends. The other boys and the ushers, and masters, too, warned Herbert against me. They told him continually that I should do him no good, and might harm him in many ways. But he was faithful, and suffered no one to come be-tween us. I never had been angry with Her-tween us. I never had been angry with Her-

I turned from the cliff resolutely, and went towards home: Not a limb failed me, not a moments weakness was on me. I went home with the intention of denouncing myself as the murderer of my friend; atid I was calm because I felt that his death would be avenged. I hoped for the most potent degradation possible to humanity. My only my master used to say " they would flog the desire was to avenge the mulider of my friend on invself his murderer : and I walked along quickly that I might overtake the slow hours and gain the expiation. I went straight to the master's tooth. He What had I to say?

I knew then that I was shut out from expiation-as I had shutmyself out from reparation in my terrible deed. Day and night always haunted with a fierce thought of sin, and striving hopelessly to express it.

I had now come to that time in my life when I must choose a profession. I resolved to become a physician, from the feeling of making such reparation to humanity as I was able, for the life I had destroyed. I thought if I could save life, if I could alleviate suffering and bring blessing instead of affliction, that I might somewhat atone for my guilt .--If not to the individual, yet to humanity at large. No one ever clung to a profession with more ardor than I undertook the study of medicine; for it seemed to me my only way of salvation, if, indeed, that were yet possible-a salvation to be worked out not only by chastisement and control of my passions, but by active good among my fellow I shall never forget the first patient I attended. It was a painful case, where there was much suffering, and to the relations-to the poor mother above all-bitter anguish. The child had been given over by the doctors, and I was called in as the last untried, from despair, not from hope. I owlered a new remedy, one that few would have the courage to prescribe. The effect was almost miraculous.

I sat by her for a long time this day, wondering, as I so often wondered, who it was that she resembled, and where I had met her before, and how, for I was certain that I had seen her some time in the past. She was lying back in an easy chair-how well I remember it !--

As she spoke, for some strange fancy she knew now where I had seen her before, lying as now with, her sweet face turned up to the sky; looking, as now, so full of purity and love; calling me then to innocence as now to reconciliation. Her angel in her likeness had once spoken to me through the waves, as Herbert's spirit now spoke to me in her.

The darkness gathered closer and closer .--But I fought off bravely, and kneeling humbly, for the first time I was able to make my confession. I told her all. My love for Herbert; but my fierce fury of temper; my sin, but also how unintentional; my atonement and then in the depth of my agony, I turned to implore her forgiveness.

'I do,' she said, weeping. 'It was a greivous critic-grievous, deadly-but you have expiated it. You have repented indeed by self subjugation, and by unwearied labors of mercy and good among your fellow men. I man who is do forgive you my friend, as Herbert's spirit his father.

The darkness fell from me as she kissed my hand. Yet it still shades my life; but as a warning not as a curse; a mournful past, not a destroying present, Charity and active good among our fellow men can destroy the power of sin within us, and repentance in deeds-not in tears, but in the life-long efforts of a resolute man-can lighten the black-

Beautiful Sketch.

It was night. Jerusalam slept as quietly amid her hills as a child upon the breast of its mother. The noiseless sentinel stood like a statue at his post, and the philosopher's lamp burned dimly in the recess of his chamber. But a darker night was abroad upon the earth. A moral darkness involves the nations in its unlighted shadows. Reason shed a faint glimmering over the minds of men, like the cold and inefficient shining of a distant star. The immortality of man's spiritual nature was unknown, his relations to heaven undiscovered. and his future destiny obscured in a cloud of mystery.

It was at that period that two forms of such firing in old Kentuck. Rolling a quid etherial mould hovered over the land of God's chosen people. They seemed like sister angels sent to earth upon some embassy of love. The one was of mujestic stature, and in the well formed limbs which her snowy drapery hardly concealed, in her erect bearing and steady eye, exhibited the highest degree of strength and confidence. Her right arm was extended in an impressive gesture upwards where night appeared to have placed her darkest pavilion-while on her left reclined her delicate companion, in form and countenance the contrast of the other, for she was drooping, like the flower, when unmoistened by refreshing dews, and her bright but troubled eve scanned the air with ardent but varying glances. Suddenly a light like the sun flashed out from the heavens, and Faith and Hope hailed with exulting songs the ascending Star of Bethlehem. Years rolled away, and the stranger appeared in Jerusalem. He was a meek, unassuming man, whose happiness seemed to consist in acts of benevolence to the human race. There were deep traces of sorrow on his countenance, though no one knew why he grieved, for he lived in the practice of every virtue and was loved by all the good and wise. By and by it was rumored that the stranger workmirals' and a more joyous party never met at ed miracles-that the blind saw, the dumb Malta. spoke, and the dead leaped to life at his touch -that when he commanded, the ocean moderated its chaffing tide, and the very thunders articulated. He is the son of God. Envy assailed him with the change of sorcery, and the voice of impious Judge condemned him to death. Slowly and thickly guarded, he ascended the hill of Calvary. A heavy cross bent him to the earth. But Faith leaned upon his arm, and Hope, dipping her pinions in his blood, mounted to the skies.

VIRGINIA CROPS.

The Charleston, Kanawha, Republican says: "The weather for the last week has been remarkably favorable to the rapiu advancement of vegetation. We are informed that the Wheat crop in this Valley continues to promise an abundant harvest. The fruit of all kinds bids fair to be plenty."

The Norfolk Beacon says:

"The vegetation is still suffering from the continued drought, and everything wears the aspect of dullness."

The Fredericksburg Herald says: "The rains at the close of last week have given the corn a good start, and came in the very nick of time for setting out tobacco plants. . The wheat crop will now mature without any farther rains, and promises to yield well, barring some few sec-tions where the chinch-bug and joint-worm have appeared."

The Lewisburg (Greenbrier) Chronicle says: We find, on examination, and from all we can learn, that there is a good prospect for an abundance of fruit of almost every kind. The late frosts do not seem to have done much damage, as the fruit trees are burdened with healthy and fresh looking young fruit."

TUESDAY MORNING, JUNE 19, 1855.

The Democratic Party.

The effects of the recent election in this state which resulted so disastrously to the Know Nothing party, are not confined to the election of Mr. Wise and a democratic majority in the Legislature, but will be felt throughout the entire country. The moral influence of the Old Dominion cannot be circumscribed by State boundaries; but the people of other States, admiring the enviable position which Virginia has acquired by her action on the 24th of May last, will be influenced by her example, to resist unto the entire overthrow of "Sam" in this country.

He has indeed been a formidable monster, and as victorious as his ambition was aspiring. No opposition however well organized was powerful enough to stay his onward march; he went through the North like the pestilence, destroying by his poisonous breath all that was fair and beautiful, and crashing every honest and well directed effort to stay his resistless progress. No class or condition escaped his unmerciful onslaught; chartered rights were violated halls of justice desecrated; the judge for the faithful administration of the law, and his respect for the sanctity of his oath to support the Constitution of his Country was hunted with desperate fury by the legislature of his State, which would have robbed him of his unpolluted ermine, and have placed it upon the form of some weak and truckling object who would have been a suitable tool for their nefarious purposes. The house of God was entered by a set of miserable hypocrites steeped in sin so deep that another atonement could scarcely remove their guilt, and as they threaded the silent aisle the devout worshiper at the holy altar trembled in her devotions at the impudence and unpardonable familiarity o the base intruders. But the people of Virginia were not indifferent spectators of the triumphs of this invincible crusader, but were organizing their patriotic hosts who never knew defeat, against the day when he would open his capacious maw to receive this State as a sweet morsel to his insatiable appetite. He had a strong army here, who, though not fully committed to all his plans, were willing to accept him as their leader. The day of battle arrived, the fight commenced and the times that "tried men's souls" were re-enacted; the spirit of Washington and Jefferson, and the host of worthies who have long since gone to their final home, hovered over the scene, encouraging the Democracy and reviving their flagging zeal, until the day was won and the torch of this bold incendiary was ertinguished.

This victory was received by the Democracy throughout the land, with every demonstration of joy and rejoicing-their patriotic hearts beat high and strong with hope, that the tide of fanaticism which had been rolling over the land had at last been staved-and encouraged by our success-and animated by our "God-speed," began to organize for the battles in which they were soon to engage.

At the North the cannon boomed, and the exultant ery went forth in honor of our glorions achievement, and who were those whose hearts were there gladdened unto rejoicing. Were they Wilson and Gardner. and their minions? Was it Burlinghame and his enthusiastic auditors? Oh! no; for the lips that utter treason cannot join in the loud acclaim over the arrest of treason, but it was the Democracy of collection of politicians been gathered together. For some time previous to its meeting, the members of the Know-Nothing party were waiting with painful anxiety and concern for the coming of the day appointed. But this terrible suspense was to be broken by a more terrible reality. The convention met, and it was soon discovered that there was a wonderful, | and expressed of him in 1630: conglomeration of parties, which would require a magicians wand to insure harmonious action. There was the al olitionist with his inveterate hatred for the South and the institution of Slavery proclaiming treason against the Constitution, and with lips poisoned with the venom of unholy zeal teaching the monstrous doctrine of a "higher-law." The hotspur from the sunny clime stood up with defiant tone and threatening gesture, to defend the rights of the States, and rebuke the wild schemes of his northern colleague. The advocate of Temperance was not unmindful of his duty to his fellow-man, and sought by the action of a National Convention, to do away with the evil of intemperance, and relieve the world of this awful curse, while the friend of popular education treged the claim of a general diffusion of knowledge through the land, so that coming generations might be learned as well as patriotic. After effecting an organization, a committee of one from each State was appointed to prepare a platform for the consideration of the Convention; two reports were made-a majority, and a minority report-the one popular with Southern members, and odious to the north, while the other embraced the views of the delegates from the free States, and was equally obnoxious to the South. The discussion on these reports gave an opportunity for the indulgence of much bitter feeling, and fears were entertained that the Convention would break up in a row, but that was prevented by the withdrawal of fifty-three delegates after the adoption of the majority report, leaving the Southern delegates with the few from the North who remained, to arrange such a plan of future action as they might agree upon; and will this meagre assemblage left, pretend to publish a platform for the Know-Nothing party of the United States ?-They will hardly do so, we think, and expect the people to be gulled into the belief that it will be endorsed throughout the land. Was not the North fairly represented in the Convention ? Did not Wilson and his colleagues truthfully reflect the sentiment of the party in Massachusetts? Were they not appointed by the Grand Council of that State, which consisted of delegates from the various subordinate councils-and were not their views well known upon the subject of slavery and all the questions incidental to it? Doubtless their boldness in proclaiming their hatred to slavery, and hearty wishes for the enactment of laws prohibiting its extension were their rongest claim upon the confidence of these who appointed them. Then the delegates from the free States did represent the sentiments of their constituents, and in protesting against the adoption of the majority report, and seceding from the Convention in consequence of it, the North through its representatives repudiated the idea of justice to the South, and implied its determination to continue its resistance to the laws, and violations of the plain meaning of the Constitution-Already do we find an enthusiastic body of miserable fanatics from the free States, con-

The Know-Nothing Convention. Henry A. Wise. We copy from the Southern Literary Messenger Nover since the day when the first deliberative for May, 1839, the following sketch of the character body assembled in this country, has such a curious of Henry A. Wise. We do not know who the writer was, but the editor of the Messenger at the time was an uncompromising Whig. Since that Mr. W. has been Minister to Brazil, and a member of the Convention to revise the Constitution of the State, and has done nothing to forfeit the good opinion entertained "Mr. Wise's mind is quick and comprehensive ; he seizes upon the weak points of his opponent's argument, with great facility, and turns them against him with much skill and ability. He depends mainly upon the native powers of his intellect, which has not been very highly cultivated or disciplined. He has not devoted much of his time, probably from the necest his mind is perhaps more vigorous and acute than it would have been, if it had been more polish ed and enriched with other men's thoughts. He thinks for himself, and thinks deeply. His thoughts, though not often magnificent or beautiful, are never-theless original and striking. As a satyrist, he has not the delicacy, point and polish ol the orator of Roan-oke, but he has more vigor and intensity of indignation. He feels deeply, and pours out the overflowanguage which bears the strong coloring of his feelings: Those feelings are lofty; honorable and deli-cate, but excitable. His soul seems to loathe and spurn all that is mean or dishonorable in human ac tion. His hatred for vice and political dishonesty and profligacy is innate, and he deals out his denunciations against those he believes to be guilty, wheth-er elevated or humble, with indignant and bitter eloquence. His victim shivers and writhes beneath is lash. He is bold, fearless and independent, and throws out his shafts without regard to the elevated rank which those he aims at may hold in the world. His love of country is intense and ardent, and he looks upon all whose conduct endangers its liberties or tends to cover its character with dishonor, as his enemies, whom it is his duty to expose and denounce. There is, however, the greatest possibly difference between Mr. Wise on the floor of the House, and Mn Wise in the private circle. A stranger would While scarcely believe them to be same individual. addressing the body of which he is a member, he often seems to be animated by a species of fury, or by some strong and uncontrollable passion-his eye brows lower, his eyes sparkle with indignation, and his whole conntenance and action indicate the most violent mental agitation. While surrounded by his friends, and even among strangers, he is mild, affable and humorous, producing laughter by his bon mots and jokes, and laughing himself at the jokes, wit or anecdotes of others. He has a good deal of the irritability of genius, but it is seldom displayed, except in the hall of legislation. In the domestic circle, he is kind, tender and affectionate ; and in private, affable, and even playful amang those with whom he is intimately acquainted. Since his first appearance among the representatives of the nation, he has undergone a considerable change. He is, I think, less intemperate and violent in his manner and feelings, and has more staidness and dignity, but not less energy and vehemence .-Every one listens to him with interest, when he addresses the House, because every one is pleased with excitement. Mr. Wise's talents, ardent feelings and boldness of character, have given him a high rank in the House of Representatives; but he is forlune majoris honos, erectus et acer. Though young, he is an expert and able d bater-always prepared to attack or defend; as the case may require, and never sparing his opponent, either in the offensive or defensive. He wields the battle-axe and mace, and leaves the small sword and spear to those whose ardor is less intense or whose indignation is more controllable. When Mr. Wise first appeared in the House, some ten years ago, it was thought from his voice and manner, that he was an imitator of John Ralidolph; but it was soon perceived that he was an original, and afterwards ascertained that he had never seen his supposed model, the great eccentric of Roanoke. "None but himself can be his parallel." He stands alone; often unsupported, and boldly and manifully breasts the fury of party rage, and treats with scorn the depunciations of the minions of power. He has great nerve as well as sensibility, and

[From the Mobile Register.] The Virginia Election.

VIRGINIA ! we never wrote the name of this pro old mother of State and statesmen, and sure abiding place of sound republican principles, with a more heartfelt reverence for the character she has nobly won and sustained, of benefactor to her co-State and benefactor to the people of the United States and benefactor to the friends of political freedom hroughout the world. On her soil the standard of States Rights Democracy was never lowered. In the battle and in the breeze, in storm and in sunshine, through good and through evil report, waver and cower who might, the flag of principles-the principles on which the foundation stone of the Union were laid by her Republican fathers-the principle of States Rights, Democratic equality, and civil and religious liberty—has flown out over her valleys and her mountains, and been sustained with a devotion sity of early action, to the acquisition of knowledge; and constancy that covers her people with hono and stamps the Old Dominion as the Gibralter of American republicanism. It was much to have re sisted the hurra and delusion of Hard Cider and Log Cabins; but it is a greater glory to have been the first to check the new-born fury of a sentiment of American nationality, run mad, and perverted from its original and noble pupose of promoting the rights of man, to the ignoble and selfish end of curtailing its benefits to the use of men of American birth. We rejoiceat the result in Virginia, not for ourselve alone, but for the sake of the honor of the American name .-We rejoice for the sake of so-called "Americans" themselves, who have been saved by the noble firmness of Virginia from the dire consequences of their own strange infatuation. Virginia has pronounced in the emphatic tones of an old fashioned ten thousand majority, that "America shall be ruled" by American principles, and not by the spirit of political proscription, and religious intolerance and big

It was not for this that the high English blood painting for freedom, and chafing under the restraints of the then British regime, was imported by the Virginia Cavaliers. Not for this was Jamestown setled, forests cleared and land tilled, by their hands, and Yorktown watered with their blood. They came from the old to the new world to plant liberty -their descendants, true to their lineage and re-nown have just determined by their manly vivo voce to water and cherish and not but down that not ble tree in whose shadow they have grown and pros pered. Never was determination so timely made and so grand and important in moral significance .-With one blow, it has broken the sceptre of invincibility which imagination had placed in Sam's It has set an example before her sister Southhand tern States to warn them of their danger, and teach them their duties. The lesson will not be thrown away. We commend it heartily to our former Dem ocratic friends who have been thoughtlessly beguiled into bartering their birth-right principles for a poor mess of Know Nothing pottage. To go in was an error of the head—to stay in with the noble exam-ple of Virginia before them will be an error of the heart. Come out from amongst them, back to the principles of your first love-to the arms and hearts of trne Republicans!

Know Nothing Democrats.

We are frequently solicited, says the Richmond Examiner, to hang and quarter the unfortunate ex-Democrats who were found lurking in the culverts when they were broken open at the late election and their contents exposed to the gaze of the public They appear to be regarded as unhappy prisoners of war, to whom all of the privileges and rights of captives should be denied. We intend, however, to leave these unlucky gentlemen to the tender mercies of their allies, with the following anecdote as illustrative of their probable fate: There exists among the savage inhabitants of one of the islands of the Pacific, a custom as commendable for its uildness and humanity as for its beautiful illustration of fil al devotion. When a werrior waxes too old to hunt or fight, and totters about with weak legs, imperfect vision, and toothless gums-a tax upon his children and an eye sore to the tribe-the eldest son takes the old gentleman on his shoulders, carries him to the top of a high rock, and pitches him into the ocean, where the venerable gentleman finds a resting place in the stomach of a shark. The son having thus disposed of his illustrious progenitor. returns to the village of his tribe, and accepts a complimentary dinner of human flesh from a large circle of his admiring friends. On a certain occasion whilst in obedience to the customs of his tribe, an affectionate son was bearing his dilapidated and venerable father to the fatal cliff, the old gentleman was heard to sob and groan most piteously. "Father !" said the son, " why do you weep, are you unless your prompt interposition should become (an old warror) afraid?" "No. ho. my dear and necessary for the preservation of the lives and propdutiful boy," blubbered the old satage, "I am not erty of the citizens of the United States. afraid to meet my fate like a Feegee chief, but I was copy of the recent letter of Mr. Marcy Secretary of weeping at the idea, that after a few short years, you State; to Mr. Cueto, the Spanish minister at Washwill be also cast from yonder cliff into the ocean, by ington, to which your attention is specially invited vour son. according to the custom of our people-it is as setting forth with distinctness and force the views for you I weep, not for myself." entertained by the President on this subject.

The Intructions to Commodore McCauly. In consequence of the many idle speculations which have appeared in certain journals as to the instructions given by the Navy Department to Commodore McCauly upon sending our gulf squad-ron to cruise in the waters before Cuba, we have applied to Secretary Dobbin, and obtained for publication a copy of those instructions, which appears below. It has already been announced that the Spanish Minister of foreign affairs has recently announced in the Spanish Cortes that the officer who arested the course of the ElDorado on the seas and subected her to visitation, was justified by his instruc-tions in so doing, and that Captain-General Concha has issued his proclamation, announcing that the decree subjecting the Island to a state of seige has been repealed. It will be seen that the instructions to Commodore McCauly are explicit firm and decided, whilst they manifest a proper regard for the maintainance of pacific relations with Spain. They remove all room for doubt as to the wisdom and decision which have marked the policy of the administration in regard to the late aggressions perpetra-ted by Spanish officials, showing, as they clearly do that the rights of our citizens and the honor of our nation cannot be infringed with impunity. That the presence of Commodore McCauly in the gulf, with instructions so distinct and emphatic, has exerted a happy influence in preserving peaceful relations with Spa in admits of no further doubt. But the instructions are so full and direct to the point at issue that further comment is unnecessary. They are as follows:

[Faom the Wasnington Union.]

UNITED STATES NAVY DEPARTMENT.

Washington, April 10, 1855. § Sir .- The department has determined to assign you to a special duty, and place you temporarily in . a command of the home squadron.

Reposing confidence in your prudence, experience and prtriotism, I have selected you for the discharge of certain duties always delicate and responsible, the the proper execution of which may involve questions of national honor and peace Recent events in Cuba, and on the high seas in he vicinity of that island, are of a character calculated not merely to attract attention and excite the solicitude of this government, but to call for conctant vigilance on your part, in order that the rights of our commerce may be neither wantonly assailed for carelessly disregarded. It is hardly necessary that I should undertake to recite with particularily all the circhinstances which are worthy of your contion but deem it proper to call your attention to the conduct of the commander of the Spap-ish frigan Februana, in firing at the United Stries mail steamer "El Dorado," and subjecting that vessel to delay, visitation, and search about eight miles from Cape San Antonia—an occurrence which, if approved by the Spanish authorities, is likely to disurb the friendly relations between the two governments, and a course of preceedings which, if persisted in, cannot but provoke collisi

I need not remind you, Commodore, that the right of visitation and search of our vessels on the high seas is one the existence of which the United States have steadily rofused to recognize, and the exercise of which they will with equal firmness ever refuse to olerate

The President instructs me to say to you that if any-officer in command of a ship of war be present when an outrage of the character heretofore mentioned is perpetrated on a vessel rightfully bearing our flag, he will promptly interpose, relieve the ar-rested American ship, prevent the exercise of the assumed right of visitation or search, and repeal the interference by force. The President is not unmindful of the present disturbed condition of Cuba .--But whatever weight may be attached to these considerations; the excited apprehensions of the author-ities of that island, arising; it is believed out of the condition of its internal affairs, and not from any movement in this country in violation of our neutrality laws, can work ho suspension of national law, nor reconcile a submission to the violation of any right resulting from the law of nations or treaty stipulations. The United States seek no collision with Spain. The officers of our navy are desired and expected scrupulously to observe the law of nations and uniformly to extend all courtesy and respect to the flags of other powers. But those rules do not require consent for a moment to the deliberate violation of principles held sacred by the United States, and without the observance of which expedition, nearly three weeks ago, the result shows that they had not means to place the straits of Yesi-kale in an efficient state of defence. They evacuated and destroyed forts which guarded the Sea of Azof on the arrival of the combined fleet, and the birthday of the Queep of England was wor-thily celebrated by planting the standards of Eng-land and France upon the hill which tradition has described as the tomb of Mithridates. This result is more delorious and extraordinant as the Parsian described as the tomb of Mithridates. This result is more glorious and extraordinary, as the Russians must long have foreseen that such an operation would, sooner or later, he attempted, and there is no point in the vast dimensions of Russia the loss of which is more formidable to that empire. Indeed if the allies proceed no further than to oc-cupy ard hold the Straits of Penikale and the adja-cent peninsula of Kertsch, which is easily defensible by a sy power having command of the sea, they would remain in possession of the key to one of the principal approaches to the Russian territories. In 851, no less than 1,000 trading vessels passed these

All the commercial towns which it has been the policy of the Russian government to protect and fos-ter with the utmost care for the last seventy years, exist only by the freedom of trade between the Sea of Azof and the Enzine. The whole exports of the valley of Don and its tributaries, and the communication between the Don and Volga which places the trade of that mighty stream in connection with the marksts of Europe, all. depend on this neck of the Sea of Azof.

On the Asiatic shore of the straits the Russians have also destroyed their fortifications, so that both sides may be occupied, and the allied forces threaten to blockade Anapa, which is the key to the whole Circassian coast. Kertsch itself is a flourishing town of 12,000 inhabitants; built entirely of substantial stone houses. A more favorable position either for military or commercial operations, canno's

The last dispath from Gen: Pelissier anyonness that the allied forces have now occupied the whole line of Tchernaya, and that this operation met no serious resistance, the Russiants having speedily rotired behind the hills. The greater probability now appears to be that on the advance of the allies in that direction they may assume the offensive, and the Russians find themselves compelled to retreat from inferiority of numbers and want of supplies; and more so cat the sea of Azof being navigable for our steam gunt, boats, their base of operation a may be threatened in the rear.

A terrible crisis is approaching in the history of this country. . The next Congress will disclose a scheme of legislation by which our rights will be trampled upon and our liberties endangered. The cry of Foreign emigration and Catholic influence which were the great rallving sounds in the recent contests will not be heard amid the incessant demands for the repeal of the Fugitive Slave Bill.

Under this state of things to whom will the people look on this the day of their visitation, will it be to the Know Nothing party of the North ? No! for their bloody hands will have ignited the faggots to destroy the glorious temple of our liberties, which was founded in resistance to oppression, and cemened by the best blood of heroes, and statesmen .-But the great Democratic Party will be a tower of of strength and a wall of defence; that party which had its existence in the first dawning of republicanism, started every scheme for the advancement of our country and the progression of our people, nursed her tender infancy and youth, until America stands a giant among nations, is the power which will resist the aggressions of wild fanaticism and guide the Ship of State amid the still waters of the rock of Democracy will afford the true elixer for the healing of the sores on the body politic.

Know-Nothing Fruits.

The Legislature of New Hampshire, on Thursday last, elected JOHN P. HALE and JAMES BLLL, to the Senate of the United States. They are both Abolitionists. HALE while Senator before, made himself odious to the South and to the conservative of all parties, by his violent denunciations of slavery, and strong speeches in favor of its abolition. They will occupy the seats, so worthily filled by WELLS and NORRIS, who were both loyal to the Constitutionin favor of the Nebreska bill, and throughout their whole political course, manifested a constant regard for the rights of the South. The election of these men is another evidence of the nationality of the Know Nothing Party at the North, and furnish two other names to the long list of anti-slavery Governors, Senators, and members of Congress, who have been elected by that party. Strange, passing strange it is, that in the face of all the accumulated evidence to the contrary, in opposition to all the rules by which the character of parties is usually determined, men will claim for it liberal views-lofty patriotism, and hostility to "higher law" doctrines, when by its course at the North, it has marked out a line of policy, which, if executed, will not only be a blow at the rights of the States, but will end in the dissolution of our glorious Union.

The other day the Whig papers were rejoicing over the success of "Sam" in the Whig city of Cleveland, Ohio. That the people of the South may know who "Sam's" friends were in Cleaveland, on what principles he was successful, and by whom elected we copy the following statement from the Cleaveland Express, the Know-Nothing organ in that city .--Speaking of the election, it says :

"The colored population generally voted for the American Ticket day before yesterday. In this they showed good judgment, and they will have no occasion to regret their action. They rejoice with us in SAM'S triumph over a weak, corrupt Nebraska Administration. Mr. Wise always speaks what his feelings, rather than his judgment dictate, and seems to take a pride in "calling things by their right names"—which, as a speaker, gives to what he says the effect of sincerity, though it sometimes indicates a want of taste. His style is vigorous, but not polished-his elocution impressive and easy-his action appropriate and not ungraceful-and his voice clear and distinct, and would always be audible, if he did not sometimes let it fall sometimes below the proper pitch, at the close of a sentence. As a patriot, a parliamentary speaker, and a legislator, I know of no man of his age in this country who can be ranked as his equal Though apparently feeble in health, he is neverthe less indefatigable in the discharge of his duties, and untiring and ceaseless in his efforts to accomplish what he believes to be conducive to the glory and prosperity of his country. "The Lone Star." It is ascertained beyond a doubt, (says the Richmond Enquirer,) that Mr. John S. Carlile, the Know-Nothing candidate for Congress in the Eleventh District, is elected over his Democratic competitor,-Some persons may be disposed to regret this result, and to complain that the Democracy have not made a "clean sweep" of the State. Such is not our feeling. The election of Carlile pleases us. It is altogether proper that the Know-Nothing party of Virginia should have one representative in Congress that the country might appreciate the character of Know-Nothingism in this State. In all things due regard should be had to artistic effect. As the musician enhances the power of his piece by the skillful interposition of a discordant note, and the painter accumulates masses of shadow to give relief to his lighter touches, so is the effect of an intelligent and respectable Democratic del.gation heightened by the contrasted character of a Know-Nothing represen tative. To this end no more proper person than Mr. John S. Carlile could be found in the Commonwealth. Of all creeping things which Know-Nothingism has shaken to the surface in this canvass. J.

S. Carlile is the least worthy of public respect. If the public were familiar with certain passages of his personal history, great would be the wonder that such a man was sent to Congress from the State of Virginia.

Steady progress has been made. On the 25th of May, Peliesier reports the occupa-tion of the valley of the Tchernaya. During the whole of the winter, the allies have been astrenched on the southern side of this stream, and defended from attack by steep cliffs which enclose the valley. The Russians held fortified in like monner the northern bank, on which lie the ruins of ohly Inkerman. Their guns in position commanded this valley; and sometimes reached our encartpricat on the other side.

As long as they occupied those heights in force it was impossible for the allies to descend to the river; and as we are informed, that river is now within our lines, it must be inferred that the forces which commanded it from the opposite side have been withdrawn. Indeed, Pelissier expressly states that the enemy not being in force, made very little resistance, and speedily retired to the mound

Although Sevastopol is not vet taken, Russian ships are sunk, dismantled or destroyed. The crews have fought batteries with enormous loss during the whole siege, and at the present moment that naval power of Russia in the Black Sea which she still boasts of is, de fuelo, annihilated.

A day or two afterwards, when out cruising, the steamer fell in with the Appleton, and an officer was sent on board who examined her papers, and found them perfectly in order, whereupon the officer demanded to see the bill of lading. The American captain objected and began to make difficulties, but the officer insisted, when it turned out that the Appleton had just landed at a Baltic port 50,000 rifles and 10,000 revolvers, besides about 800 bales of cotton, as the ostensible part of her cargo. The ship was then carefully overhauled, but nothing contraband of war was found.

WE WOULD NOT GIVE A DOLLAR FOR ALL THE TINCTURE HAMPTON EVER MADE.

THUS spoke a wise and good man, but mark the decide whether to suffer on or be made whole. Ye professional men, with ruined health, hear ! Rev. JAMES W. HUNNICUTT, the talented and in-dependent editor of that highly popular and exten-sively read paper, the Christian Banner, published at Fredericksburg, Va., in his aditorial of the 18th of May, 1855, thus speaks of HAMPTON'S VEGETA-olic TINCTURE:

BLE TINCTURE :

May, 1855, thus speaks of HAMPTON'S VEGETA-bLE TINCTURE:... ' "Some time ago we mercly illuded to Hampton's Yegetable Tincture, with a promise of noticing more particularly the great ralief we have ourself derived from its use., During our collegiate course, owing to sedentary habits, we became quite dyspeptic, and were very much troubled with vertigo. For more than twelve years after leaving college, we were la-boring under these two afflictions. In the spring of 1853, our general health became so delicate that it was with great difficulty we could attend to the ordi-nary duties of our profession. Everything we ste immediately turned acid, our digestive organs be-came wholly deranged; losing as it seemed to us, all their activity and vitality ; we were constantly de-pressed in sprif, our energy almost forsook us, and nothing but necessity urged us on to action. "We had taken strong medicines, observed great particularity in our diet, and all to no purpose. We had despaired of ever recovering our health, when a female friend of ours importuned us to get a bottle of Hampton's Vegetable Tincture, assuring us that we would find great relief from its use. We briefly replied, "we would not give a dollar for all the Tinc-ture Hampton ever made, so far as our own individual health was concerned "We had no faith in it, nor any other medicine in effecting a cure on us. In the bind cases of has beart housens' with a consultion E. R. Purcell, AGAINST AGAINST Abram H. Haines and Thos. W. Keyes, Defendants. IN CHANCERY. THE object of this suit is to obtain a decree for the amount due from the Defendant to the Plaintiff, and to attach the Estate and effects of the Defendant, Abram H. Haines and effects of the Defendant, health was concerned we had no take in it, not any other medicine in effecting a cure on us. In the kindness of her heart, however, without consulting us to accept of it, she sent and got one bottle and urged us to accept of it, and for her sake, as it could not possibly injure us, to use it according to direction. For the high regard we had for her and her act of kindness, we promised to do so. And without exag-geration we can truly say that before we had used the contents of one bottle we felt like a new man.

the contents of one botile we felt like a new man. We used, consecutively, from ten to fifteen bottles. We were afraid to give it up, fearing our old disease might return. Since then, our digestive organs have been uniformly correct, our head clear, and so far as out labors, toils, liabilities, responsibilities, and worldly cares will allow, our spirits have been buoy-ant, and we eat what we please, and as much ts we please, and when we please and all is well. For the sake of the afflicted we make this statement, hop-ing that others may find the same relief from its use that we have. Usbould be feat in every family. No that we have. Messrs. Mortimer & Mowbray-Gents:-I feel it my duty to you and the public to certify to the ef-fects of HAMPTON'S VEGETABLE TINCTURE. I was for more than five years laboring under a disease of Chronic Rheumatism, and the great part of that time I was so helpless that I had to be helped from my bed and dressed in my clothes, I became reduced to a mere skeleton. All the medicines I took done me no good, and I continued to grow worse. I heard of HAMP-ros's Tixcruaz and thought I would give it a trial. At this time I did not expect to live one day a ter another. I did not take it (the Tincture) for the Rheumatism, but in a short time I was well of that lisease. From the effects of your Tincture and the BOOK FOR EVERY FRMALE the author having devoted fis exclusive a tention to the treatment of complaints peculiar to females, in respect to which he is yearly consulted by thousands, both in person and by letter. Here every woman can discover, by comparing her own symptoms with those described, the nature, character, causes of, and the proper remedies for her complaints discover.

The wife acout becoming a mother has oft nineed of instruction and advice of the utmost importance to her future health, in respect to which her sensi-tiveness forbids consulting a medical gentleman, will find such instruction and advice, and also ex-plain many symptoms which otherwise would occa-sion anxiety or alarm, as all the peculiarities inci-dent to her situation are described.

How many are suffering from obstructions or ir-regularities peculiar to the female system, which un-dermine the health, the effects of which they are ir-norant, and for which their delicacy forbids seeking medical advice! Many suffer from prolapsus utris (falling of the womb.) or from fluor alons (weak-ness, debility, &c.) Many are in constant agony for many months preceding confinement. Miany have difficult if not dangerous deliveries, and slow and uncertain recoveries. Some whose lives are hazarded during such time, will each find in its pa-res the means of prevention amelioration and refer ges the means of prevention, amelioration and reficf. LIVER COMPLAINT, JAUNDICE, and all Bilious Affections arise from some derangement — either torpidity, congestion, or obstructions of the Liver. Torpidity and congestion vitiate the bile and render it unfit for digestion. This is disastrous to tne health, and the constitution is frequently under-mined by no other cause. Indigestion is the symp-tom. Obstruction of the duct which empties the bile into the stomach causes the bile to overflow into the blood. This produces Jaundice, with a long and dangerous train of evils. Costiveness, or alternately costiveness and diarthea, prevails. Feverish symptoms, languor, low spirits, weariness, restlessness, and melancholy, with sometimes in-ability to sleep, and sometimes great drowsiness is sometimes there is severe pain in the side; the skin and the white of the eyes become a greenish yellow; the stomach acid; the bowlis sore to the touch; the whole system irritable, with a tendency to fever, which may tarn to bilious fever, bilious colic, bilious diarrhea, dysentery, &c. A medium dose of three LIVER COMPLAINT, JAUNDICE, and all Bilious

UNITED STATES HOTEL. AT THE RAILROAD DEPOT,

Harpers-Ferry, Virginia. The subscriber respectfully begs leave to inform the travelling public that this Hotel is now renovated and improved for a better and enlarged accommoda-tion for travellers during summer. With the late improvements and a determined perseverance, no effort or outlay shall be wanting to render this Hotel, in ing from the fold, are treasures indeed. How cheerfully each one goes to their monotonous round of duties, with pleasant thoughts, after such a letter has been discussed.

There are times, too, those words fall upon the ear as doth the death knell-they almost palsy the heart. You have been anxiously, fearfully expecting it; for rumours of illness of some dear one far, far away, may have reached you. Every step, every sound, you hope, you fear, may bring you tidings. How subdued the voice sounds to you, as they say -"Here's a letter for you"

You take it! With sickening, dizzy sensation you break the seal, which you see is black, and read the tale of pain, sickness and death, written, perhaps, by a stranger's hand, who has gently clothed the crushing news in words of sympathy and comfort.-Ah! that letter has indeed been a messenger of woe. Who cannot go back to their old school days when you had such a dear sweet correspondent? Nothing sounded so cheerily as these words "Here's a letter for you." How you would steal away with the precious missive, and read its long, closely written, crossedpages, chronicling the imaginary woes and heart trials of poor, dear, suffering Annie .-How she would pour into your willing ear her many sorrows, until you believed her a poor persecuted angel, and longed to fly to her relief, to shield her from the rude touch of sorrow. Then with equal feeling she must describe her last new dress, bonnet, beau, or novel, just as the case might be.

In after years, when the heart may have truly felt the iron hand of adversity and suffering, perhaps letters may be filled with regrets, with wanderings back to the happy past-our old school-days, ere the heart knew a sorrow, forgetting that those happy days might once have been thought almost unendur-

Insk no greater pleasure than, when I am away to have these little messengers come to me; to see my dear friends come flocking around me from distant cities and countries, brought by memory's wand. Of those who cannot be with me, when I read their kind words I seem to see their well known faces. to hear the words fresh from their lips. There are no words more pleasing to me than " Her'es a letter for . TOU."

A Beautiful Thought.

"As in the light of cultivated reason you look abroad and see a wealth of beauty, a profusion of goodness in the work of Him who has sown flowers in the wilderness, and painted the bird, and enameled the insect, in the simplicity and universality of His laws, you can read this lesson. An uneducated man ims not of the sunlight, which now in its splendor floods the firmament and the landscape; he canrehend how much of the loveliness of the of world results from the composite character of light and from the reflecting propensities of most physical bodies. 'If instead of red, yellow and blue, which the analysis of the prism and experiments of of absorption have shown to be its constituents, it had he mogeneous, simple white, how changed would all have been. The growing corn, the ripe harvest, the blossom and the fruit, the fresh greenness of the spring and autumn robe of many colors, the hues of the violet, form of the rivulet, the emerald of the river, and the purple of the ocean, would have been alike un-known. The rainbow would have been but a pale streak in the grey sky, and dull vapors would have canopied the sun instead of the clouds, which in the dyes of flaming brilliancy curtain his rising up and going down. There would have been no diation between the blood of the children, and the flush of health, the paleness of decay, and the lividness of death. There would have been an unvaried, unmeaning leaden hue where we now see the chauging and expressive countenance, the tinted earth and gorgeous firmament."

The Old Oaken Bucket.

This most popular song was written by Samuel P. Woodworth, while yet he was a journeyman printer, working in an office at the corner of Cham-bers and Chatham streets. Near by, in Frankfort street, was a drinking shop, kept by a man named Mallory, where Woodworth and several particular friends used to resort. One afternoon the liquor was super-excellent. Woodworth seemed inspired. after taking a draught, he set his glass upon the table, aud, smacking his lips, declared that Mallory's cau de vic was superior to anything that he had ever tasted. "No," said Mallory, "you are mistaken; there was one which in both our estimations far surpassed in the way of drinking." 'What is that?' asked Woodworth, dubiously. "That draught of pure fresh spring water that we used to drink from the old oaken bucket that hung in the well, after our-return from the labors of the field on a sultry day in summer." TO THE PUBLIC. HE andersigned, having engaged in the Mercan-tile Business, are now opening, at Doran's old stand, near the Armory Gate, a very extensive stock of DRY GOODS, HARDWARE, GROCERIES, BOOTS, SHOES, HATS, CAPS, BONNETS, &c., to an examination of which they respect-fully invite the attention of the public. Their motto is not large profits, but large sales. They are deter-mined to conduct their business on the most liberal principles, and to use every effort to merit the public confidence and patronage. Whatever they sell shall be of the character represented, and invariably re-confidence and patronage. Whatever they sell shall be of the character represented, and invariably re-duced to such prices that none may hope to undersell. They have established such extensive arrangements as will enable them to supply the market with every article they deal in at the very lowest prices. They feel confident an examination of the variety, quality, and prices of their goods will convince the public that money may be saved by purchasing at their house. They will give particular attention to the GRO-CERY AND PROVISION BUSINESS, for which they have made ample room, by an enlargement of they have made ample room, by an enlargement of the premises, and tamilies may rely with confidence upon being supplied by them with articles in this line, of fresh and superior quality. As for what has been stated in the different papers concerning Mr. Zimmerman's Ma-chine receiving the first premium at the Crystal Palace, New York, is false, and not true. It is also stated RETURNS his thanks to the citizens of Jefferson and adjoining counties for the liberal patronage exthat Mr. Zimmerman received a number of premiums at ..... and other fairs. That I know nothing about tended to him in his line of business, respectfully gives -perhaps he did; but it is very easy to win the race, as the boy said when he ran by himself. But my notice that he is now prepared to execute all kinds of work in his line-such as MONUMENTS, TOMBhonorable friends, this was not the case at the World's SLAES, HEAD AND FOOT STONES, &c., at the Fair, New York. Mr. Zimmerman had a number of shortest notice, and upon the most reasonable terms; and his work shall compare with any other in the country. All Stones delivered at my own risk and other boys to run with, besides himself, which roade the race more difficult for him-so much so, that he, Mr. Zimmerman, was neither the first nor second-so expense you may judge where he was.

THE FAMOUS ENGLISH STALLION, YOUNG DREAD. THIS celebrated STALLION is said to be the noblest specimen of Horse kind ever known. His sire was impor-ted from England by Gen. Saltsman, of New York. Young dread is eight years old weighs 1600 pounds, stands upwardsof 17 hands high, with fine limbs, possessing eminent muscular power and grand action. His color is a beautiful blood bay, with flowing main and tail, and is besides exceed-ingly gentle and submissive in temper. He can be seen at Charlestown on Thursdays, Fridays and Sa-turdays, and on Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednes-days at Abraham Isler's Mill. PEDIGREE. to said Rose and enablemin, under his instactudes to provide for his family. All those inclined to aid the latter are requested to patronize the establishment. PEDIGREE.

PEDIGREE: YOUNG DREAD was sired by Saltman's Import-ed Horse, Sir Walter, and Sir Walter by English Eclipse Young Dread's Dame was sired by Black Prince, and Black Prince by the old imported Horse B'ack Prince. Young Dread's grand dam was sired by Wellington, Wellington by Blucher, and Bluch-er by Durock. The English blood possesses great power of speed, strength of muscle and vigor of con-stitution, which, when combined with the American blood and others, produce the best carriage and draugh Horse in the world. Farmers and others, who feel desirous of improving their breed of Horses, are respectially invited to call and examine for them-selves, Young Dread the model horse of America. TERMS.- $10 the Season, the money to be paid to me, or to G. W. Sappington at Charlestown.-March 27, 1854. FIELDING CALMES. FRUIT TREES. I HAVE on hand, at my nursery, on the farm of Wm. Lucas, near Hall Town, a large number of Apple, Pear, Peach, Appricot, Plum, and Almond Trees, of the very finest variety. As the public are aware, Mr. Lucas has been at great pains to procure the very choicest kinds from the best nurseries in the United States, and I have been allowed the privilege to bud and popagate from his trees, which, added to my own stations, gives me all the best varieties.----My Peach Trees, especially, are very fine. My terms are accommodating. JAMES STRONICK.
