TO THE PEOPLE OF THE SOUTH.

THE OLD "EXAMINER" REVIVED.

The undersigned, having purchased its good will and subscription books, proposes to revive, at an early day, the old "RICHMOND EXAMINER."

of which the late John M. Daniel was editor-in-chief, and the undersigned his constant associate for the entire period of the war.

It is believed that the public will recognize an appropriate and practical illustration of the efforts to revive other papers in the South.

The fame of the old "Examiner" reached to the most distant parts of the world.

The undersigned views some pledges of affection in this enterprise.

In the present uncertainty of political questions—the displacement of old issues and the imperfect development of the new—there can be no doubt as to the wisdom of reviving the "Examiner."

No pains or expense will be spared to make the "Examiner" a newspaper of the highest quality.

The undersigned was recently the editor of the "Richmond Times," but in consequence of a disagreement with the proprietor of that paper, he has been forced to leave it and appeal to the courts for his rights.

Terms of Subscription: Daily—One year in advance, $3.00; Six months, 1.75; Three months, 1.00.

Advertisements will be inserted on the same terms as published by the other Richmond papers.

VOL. 18. CHARLESTOWN, VIRGINIA, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 28, 1865. NO. 14.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

Gen. WADE HAMPTON has recently issued an address to the people of his native State.

For years past it has been the boast of our State that there was but one party within her limits.

The bark which was launched a few years ago, amid such joyous acclamations, which was freighted with such precious hopes, and which was walled on by such earnest prayers.

It may be that when the forms of government are restored and freedom of speech allowed to us, your late Convention will be subjected to harsh criticism and its action impugned.

South Carolina, accepted this Convention as part of the peace of the nation.

Several gentlemen have been named, whose character and talent fit them for the position.

And, as a child, when scolding words molest, Clings close and clings to the mother's breast.

Governor Humphreys, of Mississippi, in his inaugural address says:

"I have always believed that no one or more States could constitutionally sever themselves from the Union of the United States."

DEATH OF GEN. DUFF GREEN.—General Duff Green, of Alabama, well known throughout the country as a prominent political writer, died at Mobile on the 10th instant.

THE MORMON PRAGUE SPOT.—A Salt Lake letter states that the Mormon leaders proclaim that they will sustain polygamy by force of arms.

NON. ALEXANDER H. H. STUART.

The Buffalo Courier publishes an extract from a private letter written to a gentleman in that city by Hon. A. H. H. Stuart.

It is hardly that the Republicans will adhere to the test oath, in the face of its flagrant unconstitutionality.

So far as Virginia is concerned, every vestige of opposition to the Federal authority is vanished.

Very sincerely, your friend, ALEX. H. H. STUART.

LETTER FROM MAJ. GEN. GORDON, OF GEORGIA.—Major-General J. B. Gordon is declining to accept to run for Governor of Georgia.

Several gentlemen have been named, whose character and talent fit them for the position.

Let us select from these one whose long civil service, mature experience and unblemished record pre-eminently qualify him.

Let us demonstrate to these enemies of truth, to principle, and sound policy, that the men of the South, who have been ready to vindicate their lives by the honor of their section.

Bishop Whittingham, of the Diocese of Maryland, has issued an address to the Episcopal clergy, in reference to the observance of the National Thanksgiving Day.

John W. McCune, a son of John Howard McCune, of Augusta county, Va., who was killed some six months ago in Baltimore by killing Jeremiah Coffey, a Government detective.

RILL ARP.

He Announces Himself a Candidate for Congress in the 7th Georgia District.

From the Atlanta New Era. Since my recent article on the State of the country I have concluded to become a candidate for Congress.

Some habillement.—Sensu eromine, I left my bed and board—bidding them a long and final adieu.

I mean to present myself, and demand my seat, as one legally elected and returned, and professing all the constitutional requirements of eligibility.

But I've forgotten my Candidacy (as Stewart says in his circular) but its odds of I do.

Let us demonstrate to these enemies of truth, to principle, and sound policy, that the men of the South, who have been ready to vindicate their lives by the honor of their section.

ARTHEMUS WARREN'S AUTOBIOGRAPHY, BY HIMSELF. NY YORK, NEAR FIFTH AVENUE HOTEL, ORG. 31c.

Dr. Sir.—Yes, indeed, you ask me to send you some leaden imprints of my life so you can write my biography for the papers.

I was born in the State of Maine, of parents. As an infant, I attracted a great deal of attention.

Altho in early life I did not invariably confine myself to the descent, without stopping to contemplate the difficulties involved in the adventure.

SHARP REPORT.—A few days ago a friend of ours attended a wedding party in the country, a short distance from the city.

RICH ENOUGH.

The following letter is interesting and profitable, as exhibiting a state of contentment which is as rare as it is worthy of imitation.

My Dear Friend.—But I am rich! I have got a boy whose eyes sparkle like "jewels of the mines," and whose smiles are purely angelic.

I am rich for I live in an age big with events of the World's progress.

There was a time when the poet sang thus: How fates in the glance of the mind compare with the speed of the flight.

Not so could he sing now; for we follow in the lightning's wake, and are up with the "glance of thought."

I am rich for I witness the struggle for the gold of California; and I have seen the desperate reaching forth of tottering old men for that gold which it worships in the days of the setting sun.

I am rich for I have a virtuous mind, and have no relish for the society of the dissolute and vicious; and their pleasures, to me, seem all blackness.

I am rich for I have a peaceful mind; and I have no desire for the excitement of the South of sturbers old men.

I am rich for I have a virtuous mind, and have no relish for the society of the dissolute and vicious; and their pleasures, to me, seem all blackness.

I am rich for I have a peaceful mind; and I have no desire for the excitement of the South of sturbers old men.

I am rich for I have a virtuous mind, and have no relish for the society of the dissolute and vicious; and their pleasures, to me, seem all blackness.

A NOBLE BOY.

Mrs. Symms was a widow, and poor. But poverty could not crush her; for she felt that the Owner of all things was her father, and he would withhold no real good.

It took more than her own wisdom, and was to degrade her in her own estimation; for she knew that she was fulfilling, so far as in her lay, her calling, as under the eye of her Master, and that a queen could do no more.

One day as Ned was walking to school three of the boys approached, when one called out—

"Halloo! Ned Symms, run up to our stable and tell Patrick to saddle Flash, and bring him to the school-house at 4 o'clock."

"You miserable, dissembling fellow!" cried Sam Lent, "what if you are late? This master don't whip."

"Faithful!" shouted Sam, in an angry tone. "Come, go; I want to race round the pond with Bill Hunt here."

Ward felt his ears and cheeks grow very warm at these words; but he set his teeth closely together to keep the unruly member still, lest he might sin against God; and he went to the school-house with his hands.

"My lord is brave indeed!" cried Sam. "Yes," cried Ned, turning and facing them.

"I am rich for I have a peaceful mind; and I have no desire for the excitement of the South of sturbers old men."

"I am rich for I have a virtuous mind, and have no relish for the society of the dissolute and vicious; and their pleasures, to me, seem all blackness."

Farmer's Column

COMPOST HEAPS, &c.—A few lime just now, may be of use to some persons, who, like myself believe that manure is not only worth having, but that it is worth making, and worth a little trouble in working. Now is the time; winter is coming on, and most farmers are pretty well through with their field work.

Have you got five or ten acres of woodland on your farm? Then gather up now, before winter sets in, twenty large loads of leaves; if you have not time for so many, get all you can—the more the better—and spread them in your barn-yard; they make first-rate bedding for your cattle; they prevent any loss of liquid or solid manure, and they are of themselves one of the best manures you can get.

There may be some old rotten logs or stumps lying about in your woods; don't let them stay there any longer; they will do more good if scattered on your cultivated ground, than if left where Nature left them.

If you think it won't pay, sit down and count the cost. The leaves cost you nothing, your team is standing idle in the stable, your man is like yourself, not much to do; this morning, to be sure, there is a little cost to husk, but it is so damp from the heavy rain last night that it won't do to get it yet.

HOW GOOD PRIORS ARE OBTAINED FOR STOCK.—It is not always profitable to raise stock for the market only—not always that an animal has cost so much time and expense to rear, will find a purchaser who will pay a price sufficient to leave the producer a fair profit.

THE TIME TO CUT TIMBER.—A writer in the Boston Recorder says that October and November are the best months for cutting timber; that if timber be cut from the middle of September to the month of December, you cannot get a worse into it.

NEGRO SUFFRAGE.—The rejection of negro suffrage by Congress, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Colorado, &c., annoys those Radicals who insist that it shall be required of Southern States as an absolute condition of their restoration to their rights under the Constitution.

TO KEEP SAUSAGE MEAT.—Prepare 16 in small round cakes, fry them in the case of fire, and if put in a wooden building, they could be cut through and an attempt made to secure them.

THE JACKSON MISSISSIPPIAN SAYS.—"We learn that unbleached domestics in this city have fallen from seventy-five to forty-five cents per yard."

IF you wish success in life, make perseverance your bosom friend, experience your ally, caution your elder brother, and hope your guardian genius.

"I stand upon the soil of freedom," cried a stump orator. "No," exclaimed his opponent, "you stand in a pair of boots that have never been paid for."

TO BE CONTESTED.

We understand that Judge Kennedy intends contesting the election of Attorney General Hall to the Judgeship of the 10th Judicial Circuit of West Va.;

AS EXPECTED.

The gentleman who executes (after the manner of hangman) the laws of the accidental concern at Wheeling has at last issued his proclamation of the election of Hall as Judge of this 10th judicial circuit of West Virginia;

This action of Gov. Boreman is just what we expected. He holds his own present place against the wish of a large majority of the people of the so-called State of West Virginia;

We are informed that counsel present stated that they would like to be heard and met with a like refusal.

The Board of Supervisors to throw out any Township, but, on the contrary, clearly prohibit it.

When I entered the room the vote was about being taken, and not knowing the motion before the Board I asked to be excused.

The memorial has been revived, and is again under the editorial control of Richard M. Smith, Esq., formerly the able editor of the Alexandria Sentinel.

MOURDY, JOHNSON AND LOGIE, VS. POTTERFIELD, CAMERON, & CO.

WE publish to-day the protest of Supervisors Mourdy, Johnson and Logie against the action of their colleagues, Potterfield, Cameron, Rossett and Turner, which was forwarded the day of its date to Governor Boreman.

This protest speaks plainly against the illegal action of the other members of the Board, and charges them with assumption of powers to which they had no rightful, legal claim;

But some of the statements made in this protest are contradicted by that distinguished legal luminary, Joe Chapline, in a card published in the last Shepherdstown Register;

Chapline says, too, that Logie was present, but refused to vote, and was excused; that Mourdy and Johnson were both in town, but "were absent from the board, knowing that the other Supervisors were counting the votes of the county";

THE PROTEST. CHARLESTOWN, WEST VA., NOV. 11, 1865.

To his Excellency, Gov. Boreman: We, the undersigned, Supervisors in the County of Jefferson, beg leave to apprise you of the action of the Board of Supervisors at its session of Tuesday last—in reference to the throwing out of the entire vote of the Charlestown Township.

This Township cast 267 votes—265 were cast for Judge Kennedy, and 1 for Mr. Hall. On the day fixed by law for the Supervisors to meet and certify the returns, the Supervisors of Charlestown and Osborne Townships left their respective offices, and proceeded to Shepherdstown, to be present at the said meeting.

We are informed that counsel present stated that they would like to be heard and met with a like refusal.

We consider that the law does not authorize the Board of Supervisors to throw out any Township, but, on the contrary, clearly prohibit it.

When I entered the room the vote was about being taken, and not knowing the motion before the Board I asked to be excused.

This paper, suspended by the fall of Richmond, has been revived, and is again under the editorial control of Richard M. Smith, Esq., formerly the able editor of the Alexandria Sentinel.

WASHINGTON COLLEGE—DR. ROBERT B. DEE.

A most touching and beautiful appeal has been made by the ladies of Lexington, Va., to the citizens of the city of Baltimore, in behalf of this venerable institution, which received the fostering care, and wears the immortal name of "the Father of his country."

This protest speaks plainly against the illegal action of the other members of the Board, and charges them with assumption of powers to which they had no rightful, legal claim;

There is so much grandeur in the character of Lee as a christian, citizen, warrior and friend, that history will find it a difficult task in counting all the elements of his greatness to fix its finger on those which shine the brightest.

THE PROTEST. CHARLESTOWN, WEST VA., NOV. 11, 1865.

THE MEXICAN QUESTION.

The New Orleans Times, of the 6th of November, makes the following remarks:—

"The South now waits time for recuperation—time to accommodate herself to the changes which have been made—time for re-organizing and permanent improvement."

There is so much grandeur in the character of Lee as a christian, citizen, warrior and friend, that history will find it a difficult task in counting all the elements of his greatness to fix its finger on those which shine the brightest.

SHEPHERDSTOWN CORRESPONDENCE.

How the Result of the Late Election is Regarded by the Radicals—An Item from the Unwritten History of Jefferson County—The Radical Petition to Congress, to have the County Remain in West Virginia—The Argument Used to Obtain Signers—A New Query.

The radicals are greatly excited at their success in declaring their candidates elected, and view their outrageous wrongs with erudite satisfaction, and regard their illegal acts, perpetrated in the name of loyalty, as a sharp thorn, and openly boast that they can do anything they wish and be supported in it by Gov. Boreman and the Legislature of West Virginia.

There is so much grandeur in the character of Lee as a christian, citizen, warrior and friend, that history will find it a difficult task in counting all the elements of his greatness to fix its finger on those which shine the brightest.

ABOUT ADVERTISING.—Somebody gets off very correct, sensible remarks about the merits of advertising, in the following article. We commend them to the business men of the county:

NEWS SUMMARY.

AFFAIRS IN SOUTH CAROLINA.—The Charleston Courier of the 14th instant mentions a report that the freedmen on one of the Sea Islands had formed an armed combination to prevent the former owners of the property from regaining possession or revisiting the soil, even though their legal and military right to do so may have been established.

WASHINGTON COLLEGE.
The Stanton Historical sketch of this venerable institution, now presided over by Virginia's most honored son, General Robert E. Lee.

THE term of Washington College was a Classical School, first located near Greenville, in this county, and subsequently removed to Rockbridge, where in 1774 it received its first public support by a subscription for the purpose, mostly in the Valley of Virginia, of 1796 Gen. Washington donated to it the stock in the old James River Company given him by the State of Virginia; a fund equivalent to about $50,000. About 1800 the Cincinnati Society, composed of the surviving Revolutionary officers, turned over to it their fund of near $25,000. And later, John Robinson, a soldier under Washington, devised to the College a sum of near $25,000. Lands for its purposes were donated from time to time by private citizens.

These funds, being mostly in State securities and James River bonds, are now unavailable, and a proportion, over $15,000 in bank stocks, are utterly lost. General Hunter's (Federal) army, while in Lexington in 1864, destroyed the property of the College to the extent of $17,500, as estimated by the commission appointed by the Federal officer commanding that post. It is now desired to raise by public contributions the means to sustain the College in its usefulness until its endowments can again be available to restore its sacked libraries, its despoiled cabinets, its ruined anatomical apparatus, and its war blasted walls.

It is proposed also to raise a special endowment, the income from which shall support the chairs to which General Robert E. Lee has been appointed, and in which useful labors he is now so nobly devoting all the energies of his great soul.
