THE REGISTRATION LAW.

As It Finally Passed the Legislature, AN ACT TO REGULATE THE REGISTRATION OF VOTERS.

Passed February 29, 1866.

De it enacted by the Legislature of West Virginia:

1. There shall be appointed by the Governor, from among the citizens most known for loyalty, firmness and uprightiness, three persons for each county residing therein, who shall be styled the County Board of Registration, which board shall proceed to appoint one loyal and upright person, to be styled the Registrar, for each ward of the cities and incorporate towns, and each township or district of such county. The Registrar shall register the white male citizens in his ward, township or district, entitled to vote therein according to the provisions of this act, in the manner hereinafter provided; and the members of the said board, and the registrars, shall each, before entering upon the discharge of his duties, take the oath of office, passed November sixteenth, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three, which oath sworn to as aforesaid, shall be subscribed by the party and returned to and filed by the recorder of the county. Each member of the said board, and each registrar, shall receive two dollars for each day occupied and required in discharging the duties of his office. Any vacancy in the county board or in the office of registrar, shall be filled as hereinafter provided, any two of said board having power to act and perform all the duties and functions of their office.

2. The Governor shall cause to be prepared suitable books for the registration of the names of voters and facts required by this act, to be furnished to the county board of registration and by them distributed to the registrars of their respective wards, townships or districts. The books aforesaid shall be so arranged as to admit of the alphabetical classification of the names of voters, and ruled in parallel columns, on which shall be entered: First, the name of the person registered; second, birth; third, age; fourth, the place of his birth; fifth, the time of his residence in the ward, township or district; sixth, time of residence in the State; seventh, if naturalized, the date of the papers, and the court by which issued.

3. Before any registrar shall register the name of any person as a qualified voter, except as hereinafter provided, he shall be satisfied of his qualifications as heretofore provided by law, and if he has any doubt as to such person's loyalty, he shall administer the following affidavit:

"I, A. B., do solemnly swear that I have not since the first day of June, eighteen hundred and sixty-one, voluntarily borne arms against the United States, the reorganizing government of Virginia or the State of West Virginia; that I have not voluntarily given aid, comfort or assistance to persons engaged in actual hostility against the United States, the reorganized Government of Virginia or the State of West Virginia; that I have not sought, accepted, exercised or attempted to exercise any office or appointment whatever, under any authority or pretense, either hostile or inimical to the United States, the reorganized Government of Virginia or the State of West Virginia; that I will support the Constitution of the United States and the constitution of this State; and that I take this oath freely without any mental reservation or purpose of evasion." Such affidavit shall be subscribed by the party and sworn to before the registrar, and returned with his books to the county board of registration, to be filed by such board. Provided that no person who has heretofore volunteered in the military service of the United States or of this State, and who has been, or may hereafter be, honorably discharged therefrom, shall be required to take the affidavit of voters provided by this act, or be rejected from registration on account of any disloyalty prior thereto; but any person who has been honorably discharged from the United States military service, if qualified as heretofore provided by law, shall be registered as a qualified voter.

And provided, further, that every person shall be registered who will be entitled to vote at the first election occurring after the registration by reason of his arriving at twenty-one years of age before that time; or by reason of his having then resided in the county a sufficient length of time in his election district, provided that he is otherwise qualified according to the provisions of this section.

4. The registrar shall not allow the name of any foreign born resident or citizen, qualified as aforesaid, to be registered unless his naturalization papers be produced and exhibited to him, and by him endorsed with the date of their exhibition, and with a sufficient proof that such person is naturalized, entering in the sixth column the facts and their sufficiency to constitute such person a voter, provided that this section shall not apply to persons who came to this country under eighteen years of age, or to persons who have served in the armies of the United States or of this State, and been or shall be honorably discharged therefrom.

5. The registrar shall immediately upon receipt of notice of his appointment, proceed to register the names of all the qualified voters within his ward, township or district in accordance with the provisions of this act, and shall have such registration completed on or before the fourteenth day of April, eighteen hundred and sixty-six, and it shall be the duty of the registrar to sit at some convenient place in his ward, township or district, on Friday and Saturday of every week, from the first Thursday in August to the third Saturday of September, inclusive, for the purpose of amending and correcting the said registration, and he shall give notice of the time and place of sitting, at least ten days previous thereto, by posting printed notices in ten of the most public places in his ward, township or district, and the county board of registration may, if they deem proper, in a newspaper, if there be one in such county, publish the same.

6. The name of any person who is qualified according to the provisions of this act, may be registered at any time after the said twentieth (fourteenth) day of April, or after any other regular days appointed for registering voters shall have passed, but not less than ten days before any election at which such person may desire to vote, by his application to the proper registrar.

THE PLAIN OF A FREEDMAN.

The following unvarnished story was brought to this office by an aged and polite colored man, who had evidently seen better days, and who had enjoyed the comforts and kindly treatment of life among very good Virginia people. No man who knows anything of the character of that kind of human existence will for a moment doubt that old man's story. He speaks but the experience of thousands.—Richmond Dispatch.

WHAT IS FREEDOM?—I have been free nearly nine months, and was off of now den I ever was free the vacation. During the freedom, I used to hear the niggers always talking about freedom, saying Lincoln would free us if the freedom went up. I prayed for that day to come, cause I was told that we would have everything we wanted; that the yankees would bring us money a plenty, and give us land where belongs to the white folks, and told me we would not have to work less we choose; and said we niggers would be better off. When I heard the yankees had come, I said well it is possible that de yankees got to Richmond and Petersburg; so I went into de great house, and axed miss if de yankees had whipped, and you all got such smart ginrles. Miss said, yes, Tom, they has em, but we southern people ain't whipped yet—only overpowered; but said, well, Tom, I suppose you are going to leave us? I said I reckon so, as so many fine tales has been told us. But oh! could I had seen my situation as I now see it, I would said, no missus—not as long as I have breath in my body. So de next morning we all was fixing to go, and missy come to me and told us all if you choose to stay, I will treat you all well as I have always done; will feed and clothe you well, or will feed—feed you all, and give you five dollars a month. But we all thought we could do better; so we left—about thirty of us. But how mistaken—Times got was every day; but I tried to keep a good heart, thinking times would get better, but, sorry to say, de was aw.

I had a wife and two children, but find it impossible to get along. When I was with Miss and Massy, every Monday morning we all went to the smoke-house to get our lowance, and get a plenty. And we use to take Massy's team and haul as much wood as we wanted. A big log fire all night. Oh, what happy times! And deen Jane, de house servant, would bring out something from the table besides; for dey had a plenty. But now we would be glad to eat what Jane would give de dogs arter dinner. Well, out of all dat I eat Missy, only leaven of us now. We set over a few coils of fire, not enuff to keep us warm, and have to go to bed to keep from freezing. When we are sick, no Miss bring a nice cup of tea and toast, and ax me what does I feel like eating, and what is my pain. Now we can't find to eat but one meal a day, and not enuff at dat. If we stole any thing all Miss would say is, I don't believe our servants done it. If I was back at Massy's I would give my mistake—let the balance do as they may.

AN INCIDENT OF THE WAR—NOBLE CONDUCT OF A FEDERAL CAPTAIN.

The Memphis Avalanche relates the following: On Wednesday after the fall of Selma, some young ladies of the Female College in Sumnerfield, informed the President that one of the female teachers was running rapidly before a Federal soldier. He immediately went to the "front" and met Miss G. in great terror. The soldier had demanded her watch, which was secreted in the college, and under a threat of violence to her person, she had promised to give it to him.

The Doctor said to her "you must not let him have the watch, he is a scoundrel and shall not have it." She said, "Oh! Doctor, if you know how he has threatened me you would not blame me. I promised it to him and he must have it." So saying, and cluding the attempt of the Doctor to take it from her, she ran and delivered it to the soldier robber. Then such a volley of indignant darts as hardly ever fell from the lips of a minister was poured on the ruffian. He called him scoundrel, thief, robber, brute, villain, and ordered him to begone. The villain pointed his gun and threatened to shoot.

This did not intimidate the preacher who was a cripple, and unarmed and in ungovernable rage, he continued to use the only weapon he had—his tongue—until the robber beat a retreat, his ears ringing with the words of impotent wrath which indicated that the blood of the indignant Southerner had been raised to fever heat. All this occurred in the presence of the school; the ministers wife fainted and was removed, insensible to her room.

The robbery, the threat of violating the person of a noble Southern woman, and the threat to kill the gentleman at the head of the school, were all reported to headquarters. Captain McBarney, of General Wilson's staff, took interest in the matter, had the same column pass before the school, and the man identified and arrested, and the watch returned. But this was not all. The Captain obtained from General Wilson protection papers for the College, and kept it guarded whenever possible.

He went still further, and called for Miss G., and said to her, "I have a present for you." He then handed her an elegant six shooter, and said, "Take this and if any officer of our army steps his foot across the threshold of this College, with evil intent, shoot him." No one can conceive the effect of this noble conduct on the part of the gallant Captain. The feeling of insecurity which had taken hold of the inmates of the College was dissipated, and many an earnest prayer went up from warm southern hearts for the safety of Captain McBarney.

A few days since a negro boy, through curiosity, went to the Catoctin Furnace establishment, in Frederick county, Md., to witness the operation of melting iron ore, and while looking down into one of the receivers, from which a large quantity of gas escapes, he was almost instantly suffocated, and he once lost all of his senses, tumbling headlong into the lake of fire, and burning to death. All efforts to recover the body from the liquid flames were rendered unpracticable, and he was left to his fate.

A colony of ex-Confederates are about to settle at Mazatlan, Mexico.

Such a Ratter.

A cotemporary gives the following amusing account of a dog which he bought from a dealer, on his assurance that he was "such a ratter." He had some trouble at first in getting a rat on which to try his "pup." He succeeded at last, and says: "However, the next day I was so fortunate as to secure from a boy in the market a fine old-line, bob-tail rat, whose furrah efforts to chase everything within reach gave promise of glorious sport for Nip. Took the rat home, called my dog and told my wife that if she wanted to see the way that terriers did rats, to come down to the basement. She came down and shut the door—just in time, too; for as soon as Nip saw the rat, he Nip, my rat terrier, for which I paid the best five dollars, made a most remarkable and speedy movement towards the hall. With one bound on a chair, said the dog did not appear to see the rat. Told my wife to keep her breath—Thought I would not give Nip any reason for not seeing the rat again, so I tied the string that held the rat to the dog's hind leg. He saw the rat that time and jumped on the chair by my wife. Wife laughed and showed him off. Tried the rat next. Got off the stove without being showed. The rat, however, being an old stager, and not being used to such treatment, made a demonstration on Nip's rear, and I don't believe little Flora Temple ever made a better time in the same limits than the dog and rat made around the room.

First heat, dog had the lead, closely followed by rat, who, on striking the half-mile pole, (foot-stool in the corner) broke badly, in fact, nearly broke his back; and before he could be brought down (he was sliding on his back) dog led him by whole length of string. Didn't stop for wind, but started on second heat. Got off well together (tied) and went finely around, neck and tail, till they reached the judge's stand (write standing on a chair) against which dog brought up solid, bringing the judge down in his back as on his legs, shield the track, and got rather queerly around a table leg. Dog kept on as fast as the string and length of his hind leg would let him. On raising the rat he was found to be non composita, totally defenceless in fact dead. Nip was not much better off.

Wife said that dog could not kill mice.—Told her he had certainly killed that rat; but on viewing the rat, which dog had killed, I must confess I did not feel quite satisfied with the performance of my pet, and the next morning gave him away to a milkman, who wanted a ratter to free his stable from the depredations of the vermin. I have not been able to ascertain which left him first, the rats or the dog.

A Happy Home.

The first year of married life is a most important era in the history of the husband and wife. Generally, as it is spent, so is almost all subsequent existence. The wife and husband then assimilate their views and their desires, or else conjure up their dislike, and so add fuel to the prejudices and animosities forever afterwards.

"I have sometimes read," says Rev. Dr. Wise, in his Bridal Offering, of a bridegroom who gloried in his eccentricities. He requested his bride to accompany him into the garden a day or two after their wedding. He then threw a line over the roof of their cottage. Giving his wife one end of it, he retreated to the other side and exclaimed: "Pull the line!" "I can't," she replied.

"Pull with all your might," shouted the whimsical husband.

But in vain were all the efforts of the bride to pull over the line, so long as the husband held on the opposite side. But when he came around and both pulled at one end, it came over with great ease.

"There," said he, as the line fell from the roof, "you see how low and ineffectual was our labor when we pulled in opposition to each other, but how easy and pleasant it is when we both pull together. It will be so, my dear, through life—if we act together it will be pleasant to live. Let us, therefore, always pull together."

In this illustration, homely as it may be, there is sound philosophy. Husband and wife should mutually bend and concede, if they wish to make home a retreat of joy and bliss. One alone cannot make home happy. There must be union of action, sweetness of spirit, and great forbearance and love in both husband and wife, to secure the great end of happiness in the domestic circle.

SEDUCTION AND KILLING OF THE SEDUCER.—The Chicago Republican contains the following dispatch, dated Indianapolis, Ind., March 6th:

A horrible tragedy occurred in Bedford last night. It seems that Prof. J. Madison Evans, is regarded to whom there was some scandal a short time ago, had seduced a daughter of Dr. Benjamin Newland. The doctor's daughter had been off at a boarding school, when her condition became so apparent that she was sent home, where she confessed all to her father. The doctor took his pistol and one of his dissembling knives, and went to Evans' house. The latter was not at home. Newland went to hunt him, and found him on the street, where he shot him down, and then cut him to pieces with the knife. Evans was a minister of the Christian church, and a man who at one time occupied a high position, and is well known as the author of a work entitled, "The Pioneer Preachers of Indiana." He at one time occupied a chair in the Northwestern Christian University of this city.

The Paris correspondent of the Boston Advertiser tells of a baby that is coming from British India for the Great Exhibition. Ten years of careful labor have been devoted to it. Lady readers may like to know the proportions of this dainty gem; its length is about five yards and a half, its width a yard and three-quarters, the ground is red, and its arabesque designs are said to reach the extreme point of delicacy. It was ordered by the Queen of Oude before the revolt of the Sepoys and the siege of Lucknow.

Tuesday Morning, March 20, 1866.

BEARING FALSE WITNESS

Senator Willey, in his place in the United States Senate, has borne false witness in the matter of the transfer of this county to West Virginia.

Why is it that Mr. Willey has not a doubt to-day that there is not a loyal man, as we used to understand that term, in Jefferson county that is not in favor of remaining where Jefferson county is now supposed to be, a part of West Virginia?

Upon what authority, too, does the Senator say that "the disability of which he complained so grievously has been removed by legislative action in West Virginia?"

Upon what authority, too, does the Senator say that "the disability of which he complained so grievously has been removed by legislative action in West Virginia?"

Again, in speaking of the election held in this county under the act of Virginia, in May, 1863, the Senator says: "The election was held in pursuance of the act allowing it to be held."

The men who are petitioning to-day that a vote be taken again, were not in the counties at the time that election was held. They were in the armies of the alleged Confederacy.

The story which we published last week, of the appearance of his satanic majesty in Bracken county, Ky., created quite a sensation, and we have been several times called upon for explanations.

The bill to transfer Jefferson and Berkeley counties to West Virginia, which passed Congress, finally, last Wednesday week, has not yet received the signature of President Johnson.

The operatives in the cotton mills around Petersburg, who have been getting seventy-five per cent. advance upon ante bellum wages, were informed that a reduction of twenty-five per cent. was to be made.

THE REGISTRY LAW.

The legislature of West Virginia, in one of its insane fits of radicalism, has passed a law requiring the registration of the voters of the State. A board of three men is constituted for each county, the appointments to which are made by the Governor.

At eleven o'clock Friday night the House of Representatives at Washington delegated the views of the Secretary of the Treasury, by the close vote of 68 yeas to 63 nays.

The absurd speech of Mr. Thad. Stevens in Congress last Saturday reads like a chapter from the famous novel of Cervantes. Mr. Stevens is the Sancho Panza of the radical faction, as Senator Sumner is the Don Quixote.

Mr. McCurdy, one of the Delegates from this county to the West Virginia Legislature, has proved himself to be so utterly unlike his colleague, Koonce, and "the Senator from the Board of Supervisors," Chapline, that he deserves commendation from those he represents.

SOMEbody HITS.

We clip the following from a communication in the last Shepherdstown Register. Who is the one lawyer living in Jefferson county who is the proponent of the writer?

It seems also that your West Va. Legislature has a special spite for those learned in the Law. Well, it is not to be wondered at. Else why require attorneys to do such hard swearing in addition to their other professional duties?

The Three Great Acts of the Drama—the Registration Act, the Transfer of the County, and the Oath—View of it—who will be registered and why—Local News.

Shepherdstown, March 17, 1866. That the late Legislature of West Virginia has made itself infamous for history, it does not require the ken of a prophet to perceive. All its legislation shows the spirit that animated that body, was that of revenge; and the principle that governed its action was to perpetuate the existence of the radical party, or rather, obstructionist and disunionist party, at every hazard, even if it made the country a second revolutionary France.

The notorious that the Legislature and the radical party here, are heart and soul against President Johnson and his policy of restoration, and would to-day play a Brutus to the Caesar, if they had the courage. Not satisfied with the infamous "test oath," the late Legislature has capped the climax of infamy and disgrace to the State by the passage of the proposed "Constitutional Amendment" and "Registration Act"; but this last was necessary in order to keep their party from falling into decay, and to give them absolute control over the ballot box.

Virginia Items.

MANSLAUGHTER.—Our town was thrown into considerable excitement on Monday night last, by the killing of BENNETT MCGARR, a colored waiter at the Hotel of Mrs. L. A. GIBBES. It seems that the deceased was standing quietly upon the street when he was accosted by a Mr. DOOLEY, from Charlestown Va. who for sometime has been engaged at work in the shop of Mr. PHILIP AFFEICK, and charged with stealing a horse the night previous.

LOCAL MISCELLANY.

READ THIS.—Some five months ago we resumed the publication of the Spirit of Jefferson, with the intention and hope of doing a cash business, and yet there are to-day on our subscription list more than one hundred names who have never paid a cent since we started; although they assured us when they subscribed that they would do so in a "few days."

Not satisfied with the infamous "test oath," the late Legislature has capped the climax of infamy and disgrace to the State by the passage of the proposed "Constitutional Amendment" and "Registration Act"; but this last was necessary in order to keep their party from falling into decay, and to give them absolute control over the ballot box.

At eleven o'clock Friday night the House of Representatives at Washington delegated the views of the Secretary of the Treasury, by the close vote of 68 yeas to 63 nays.

The absurd speech of Mr. Thad. Stevens in Congress last Saturday reads like a chapter from the famous novel of Cervantes. Mr. Stevens is the Sancho Panza of the radical faction, as Senator Sumner is the Don Quixote.

Mr. McCurdy, one of the Delegates from this county to the West Virginia Legislature, has proved himself to be so utterly unlike his colleague, Koonce, and "the Senator from the Board of Supervisors," Chapline, that he deserves commendation from those he represents.

The story which we published last week, of the appearance of his satanic majesty in Bracken county, Ky., created quite a sensation, and we have been several times called upon for explanations.

The bill to transfer Jefferson and Berkeley counties to West Virginia, which passed Congress, finally, last Wednesday week, has not yet received the signature of President Johnson.

THE FENIANS.

Work to Commence at Once. Distinguished Officers, Appointed to Command. New York, March 18th, 1866.—Last evening, Major-General Rufus Starnes, Sir Percy Wyndham, and General Spaul, all cavalry officers, were appointed to important commands in the Fenian army by General Sweeney, the Secretary of War.

That the late Legislature of West Virginia has made itself infamous for history, it does not require the ken of a prophet to perceive. All its legislation shows the spirit that animated that body, was that of revenge; and the principle that governed its action was to perpetuate the existence of the radical party, or rather, obstructionist and disunionist party, at every hazard, even if it made the country a second revolutionary France.

The notorious that the Legislature and the radical party here, are heart and soul against President Johnson and his policy of restoration, and would to-day play a Brutus to the Caesar, if they had the courage. Not satisfied with the infamous "test oath," the late Legislature has capped the climax of infamy and disgrace to the State by the passage of the proposed "Constitutional Amendment" and "Registration Act"; but this last was necessary in order to keep their party from falling into decay, and to give them absolute control over the ballot box.
