General Jackson—His Dual with Dickerson.

(From the Land We Love.)

Seeing some recollections of Calhoun and other illustrious dead in your magazine, I deemed it right to forward to you a leaf of my "Sharp-shoot" before some accident might render impossible its appearance in print.

It is the duel of General Jackson and Dickerson, the details of which I received from the lips of Dr. James Overton, a man of fine erudition and brilliant parts, who, in spite of the fact that the life-long torments of dyspepsia incapacitated him for any active participation in public affairs, may justly be considered the father of the Nashville and Chattanooga railroads.

He came to Tennessee in 1818, and settled in Neely's Bend of Cumberland river, opposite to the Hermitage. Being a Democrat and a gentleman, he was a frequent and welcome visitor at the house of the hero of New Orleans.

He died two years ago, an octogenarian, in full possession of all his strong and mental faculties. Gen. Jackson was never communicative upon the subject of his duel, and the Doctor related to me as he heard it of his own uncle, General Thomas Overton, a neighbor and bosom friend as well as second in this affair of Old Hickory.

General Jackson and Dickerson's father-in-law had some misunderstanding, probably about horses and horse-raising. The son-in-law undertook to resent the affront. He, already a good shot, repaired to Natchez, and spent there six months, his chief employment being practice with a pistol.

Returning to Nashville, Dickerson dispatched one of his friends to Jackson with a letter extremely abusive of the General, and reflecting on the virtue of his beloved wife. The messenger stated that if the General would not reply with a challenge, the letter would be published in the newspapers.

The challenge was sent. Colonel Archibald Overton who was a brother to the doctor, and who at that time studied law in General Jackson's office, saw the instruction given to the second, Gen. T. Overton. It concluded in these words, "accept no apology; nothing but his blood will satisfy me."

Time and place were appointed, and the affair, it seems, was well known in Nashville; for, among other facts to give it publicity, Dickerson offered $500 a bet that he would kill his antagonist. Jackson and T. Overton's families had no knowledge whatever of the affair. On the appointed day, Generals Jackson and Overton, without saying a word or creating any suspicion about the aim of their journey, started for the rendezvous.

Dickerson was not on the ground, and they waited a considerable time before he and his second arrived. General Overton who was as imperious as Caesar, and as stormy as a tempest, walked up to receive them: "Gentlemen, why did you let me wait so long; or did you intend to let me wait for your own?"

His policy was to confuse Dickerson, but he could not succeed. "Dickerson was one of the bravest of men, and his handling of the pistol the most skillful I have ever seen," were the words of General Overton, which were the words of the revolution.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Great Dog Fight.

There is an excellent moral to the following story, which is told with great skill. It shows us how a whole village is sometimes torn to pieces by a fight between two puppies.

The most remarkable fight on record came off at Frogtown, on the frontier of Maine, some years ago. It engaged the entire community in one indiscriminate melee—intermingled lawless or suits at law, distraction of the town and its downfall.

A fanciful genius, named Joe Tucker, a man about town, a lounge without visible means of support, a do-nothing, loafing, cigar-smoking, good-natured fellow, and known as a pretty beast, always at Joe's heels, and known as well by his master, and liked far better by the Frogtowners.

One day, Joe and his dog were passing by a grocery store, when a pig-bald, ugly-looking dog, standing alongside of a wood wagon, bounded onto Joe Tucker's dog, knocked him heels over head, and so frightened Bob Carter's wife, who was going towards her husband's blacksmith shop with his dinner, that she stumbled, and her old sun bonnet flopped off, and scared the horse attached to the wagon.

Joe's Latherum's barber popped the lead of wood, all of which falling down Gumbo's refreshment cellar, struck one of Gumbo's children on the head, killing it for a short time, stoned dead, and so alarmed Mrs. Gumbo, that she let fall a stew-pan of boiling hot oysters into her customer's lap, who sat waiting for the savory concoction by a table in a corner, instead of the dish. Mrs. Gumbo rushed for the child, and the customer for the door.

Mrs. Gumbo screamed, the customer yelled out: "Oh! oh! oh-oh-oh, my poor child," cried Mrs. Gumbo.

"Oh, murder—!" Oh, my everlasting air, I'm exalted to all eternity!" "Murder! murder!" roared the poor customer.

The horse, a part of the wagon, and some wood, were on their mad career. The owner of the strange dog came out of the store just in time to see Joe Tucker seize a rock to demolish the savage dog, and not waiting to see Joe let drive, gave him such a pop on the back, that poor Joe fell forty feet up the street, and striking a long ladder upon which Jim Dederby was perched, paint pot in hand, forty feet above terra firma, brought ladder, Jim and paint pot sprawling to the earth, crippling poor Jim for life, and sprinkling blue paint over the broadcloth, waistcoat and calicoes of Abraham Miller, a formal and even-tempered Quaker, who ran out of the door, just as the two dogs had got fairly at it, hip and thigh, Loudoun County. From the Leesburg Washingtonian we copy the following items: The order of the Sons of Temperance at Lovettsville, were presented, last Friday by the ladies of that village, with a beautiful Bible.

On Thursday last week, Messrs. Harrison and Orr, owners of a tract of land belonging to the estate of the late Daniel Shoemaker, lying near Morrisville, in this county, containing 131 acres, for $55 05 per acre. John M. Shafer, purchaser.

On Saturday last, Mr. Harrison, trustee, sold the tract of 100 acres of land, belonging to Maj. W. C. Sanders, for $41 per acre. C. W. Paxson, purchaser. At the same time a lot of land containing 10 acres, belonging to Mr. S., was sold to J. M. Walker, at $44.10 per acre.

We regret to announce the burning of the Lutheran Church, at Lovettsville, on the morning of the 27th inst. The fire was discovered about 4 o'clock in the morning, but before assistance could be had, the flames had spread so rapidly as to render it impossible to save the building. It was the act of an incendiary, as one of the windows was found open, by the doors all being fastened. The Church had not been open before since Sunday day last. We hope the party guilty of this outrage may be discovered and punished.

This was one of the finest Churches in the county, having been thoroughly repaired last summer. The Rev. X. J. Richardson is the pastor in charge, who, with his large membership, will deeply regret their loss.

MARRIED. On the 9th inst., near Kearneysville, by Rev. W. G. Coe, Andrew J. Munnings to Miss Sallie Ann Sea, both of this county. A. J. Munnings, the 7th inst., by Rev. S. Billings, Mr. Jacob Wintermyer to Miss Sue McEhee, both of Shepherdstown.

On the 10th inst., by Rev. W. G. Coe, Mr. James M. Leonard to Miss Emeline Smeltzer, both of Berkeley county.

DIED. At his residence near Spout Spring School-house, in this county, on the 23d inst., ABRAHAM GROVE, in the 82d year of his age.

In Philadelphia, on the 23d ult., HOWARD, only son of Jacob P. and Virginia H. Swarts, formerly of Berkeley, aged 1 year, 4 months and 24 days.
