[From the Richmond Enquirer & Sentinel.] VIRGINIA REDIVIVA! "Could life awaken the limb of bronze
And blaze in the burnished eye,
What would ye do with your moment of life,
Ye men of the days gone by?"

VIRGINIA REDIVIVA. MIDNIGHT MEETING OF REBELS SPEECHES DECLARATIONS, ETc.

[FROM OUR SPECIAL REPORTER. At a late hour night before last, as we were wending our way homeward, the intense cold induced us to make a short cut through the Square, instead of taking a more circuitous route. Darkness brooded over the city, and nought was heard save the policeman's rattle, as he walked his solitary beat. All honest folks were abed, and we were promising ourselves a speedy trip to dreamland, when, upon reaching the Capitol, our mind was changed by the sight of a brilliant light in the Hall of Delegates. Surely, thought we, the Convention, so-called, is not holding night sessions, for they have made no extra appropriation for that purpose. Curiosity prompted us to enter and ascertain what was going on. Passing through the rotunda, we were surprised to note the absence of the crowd of idle freedmen that usually infest it by day, but without pausing to speculate on the matter, we hastened on, and reached the door of the hall, which instantly yielded to our pressure.

A strange scene greeted us. Seated in the chair of the august president of the "so-called Convention," was a man of benignant expression and commanding presence, while gathered around the clerk's desk, some sitting, others standing, were a group of gentlemen, whose grave and dignified bearing contrasted strongly with the motley crew that daily assemble there. An indefinable something in the aspect of these men awed us as we had never been before, and shrinking behind a desk in order to escape observation. we resolved to watch their proceedings. Scarcely had we done so, when the occu pant of the chair arose, and in calm meas ured tones delivered the following address: [We quote from memory.] "Gentlemen-The evils into which the peoole with a blind fury have plunged our beloved country, and the daily 'encroachments made upon her laws, have constrained me to emerge from the blest retirement which I have enjoyed for so many years, and to summon you also as trusted friends and true natriots, to confer with me on the dangers that "The hope which I had indulged, notwithstanding my knowledge of the frailty of human nature, that my farewell counsels would make a strong and lasting impression upon the nation, has proved fruitless, and, instead of a happy and united people, enjoying the blessing of free government, I find dissension, usurpation and party faction distracting the country. That precious depository, the American Constitution, which I entrusted to their care, has been violated again and again. and innovations upon its principles are of daily occurrence. The rights of the several States have not been respected, and the prizileges and immunities granted to the citizens of one State are withheld from those of another, and ten sovereign States are deprived of their equal suffrage in the Senate. One department of the general government has usurped the functions of the others until, by lawless legislation, the strongest, that of Congress, has shorn the Executive of its legitimate powers. A military establishment against which I specially warned the nation as hostile to republican liberty, has been formed, and, at the instance of a faction, holds merciless sway, to the utter subversion of the civil law. The people have ceased to discriminate between the spirit of liberty and that of licentiousness; wickedness sits in high places unreproved, ignorance lifts its voice in trumpet-tones where wisdom scarce dare whisper, and personal aggrandizement has superseded exalted patriotism. Honest toil is no longer encouraged, and the plough is left standing in the field while the laborer delivers political harangues. As a consequence, the material resources of the country have diminished, the national credit is impaired, grim famine stalks through the land, and widows and orphans cry for bread, while the public treasury is robbed to foster idleness. Such, gentlemen, is a brief summary of the deplorable condition of this once prosperous people. I invite your attention to the evils which I have named, your assistance in devising means of redress; and it is my sincere hope that wisdom, moderation and propriety may mark your counsels.' The speaker resumed his seat and the silence which ensued was interrupted by tall and singularly graceful man, who said:

" Mr. President-I thank you that you have given me this opportunity of raising my voice once again in behalf of liberty. Sir, the dangers which I descried with prophetic eye have come to pass. The freedom which we fondly hoped was ours has proved a mocking delusion. It has fled before the demon of oppression, and our posterity are slaves. The sceptre of George the III. has passed to the Puritan. I left, Virginia an independent, sovereign Statehow do I find her? Dishonored, and in chains-a colony of New England. Aye, at this very moment, nine of her sister States wear the tyrant's fetters. When I ask the cause, the answer comes borne on the wings of the north wind-'Treason.' 'Treason.' Gentlemen, what is treason; and to whom has the State of Virginia been a traitor? Surely not to England; that voke she threw off more than four score years ago; not to the President of the United States-he is but the servant of Virginia; not to Congress -that body could have no lawful existence without the voice of the State of Virginia. Again, I ask, who brings this charge of disloyalty, and in what does it consist? Gentlemen, strange doctrines are preached these latter days, monstrous dogmas! have heard it proclaimed from the base of yonder monument, that Virginia has no rights to be respected - no authority to legislate for herself, no name or place in this. Republic, and that her tongue is silenced, and arms pinioned by the orders of a band of conspirators, calling themselves the Congress of the United States. And why? Because. finding it inimical to her interests to remain longer in the Union, she asserted and maintained the right to withdraw and establish a government of her own choosing. It is for this that her fair fields have been desolated, her people impoverished, and her negroes made the instruments of oppression— her Constitution abrogated and her Legisla-

In much trepidation and wonder, we hastened home and dashed off the foregoing account of this most extraordinary assembly. Who the speakers were, and the purport of their meeting, we leave for Gen. Schofield to ascertain. It is certainly a matter into which he should make the most diligent inquiry; and as a loyal citizen, we recommend that a guard of United States soldiers be posted around the Capitol to prevent a repetition of such rebellious proceedings.

The Monkey and the Child.

In the year 1818 a vessel set sail from Jamaica for England, and among the passengers was a lady, the mother of an infant only a few weeks old. The voyage was very pleasant, the weather remarkably fine, and the passengers did their best to make the time pass agreeably. One beautiful afternoon the captain perceived a distant sail—a sight that is always welcome at sea. The discovery attracted the attention of all on board, and after the captain had gratified his own curiosity, he politely offered his telescope to the lady, that she might have a clearer view of the distant vessel. At that moment she had the baby in her arms; so, wrapping a shawl about it, she placed it on a sofa, on which she had been sitting. The captain assisted her to steady the glass, but scarcely had she ap-plied her eye to it than the helmsman cried out, "See what that mischieveus monkey has done!" The mother's feelings may be imagined, when, on instantly turning round, she

which was on board the vessel, had grasper

from one mast to another. In the meantime the infant was heard to cry, and it was thought that it was suffering from the grip of the monkey; but the animal was observed to imitate the motions of a nurse by dandling, soothing, and caressing the child, and even endeavoring to hush it to sleep. The lady had been conveyed from the deck to the cabin.

and gradually restored to her sences; but her cries were most distressing, and it was only by force that she could be prevented from going on deck and trying to climb the mast.

Many a plan was tried to lure the monkey

length, the captain ordered that every man should conceal himself below. The order

the coast clear, cautiously descended from the ed by victory over a brave fue, after hard contested fight, but only seemed designed to shame an ignominious band for running before they were hurt. We had begun to entertain a high opinion of this body of cavalry. Upon one instance it flanked and charged upon a battery, which was left without support-a most during feat for them. (Here Gen. Ashby stood by the guns, fired every load from his three pistols, and brought everything away safely.) Soon we were moving along the road to Port Republic, the enemy pressing closely. Ashby's eagle cye was upon them, as if watching for an excuse to give them battle. An excuse, and even the necessity for a fight soon became evident. The road was very bad, the train moved slowly, and the main body of the enemy's cavalry was only a mile from its rear. They gave us no time to prepare to meet them. Ashby had but begun to form his men, before three regiments with colors and music rare, emerged from a-woods three fourths of a mile distant. Bearing to our right, they charged, presenting a beautiful sight. Ashby could contain himself no longer. Gently drawing his sabre, and waving it around his head, his clear, sounding voice rang out his only command —"Follow ME." The dash was simultaneons. Fences were cleared, which at any other time would have been thought impossible. The enemy came to a halt. It was but for a moment. As they fleard the strange whiz of the sabre around their heads they broke and ran. The work of slaughter had commenced. For every step Ashby, followed closely by his men, cut them down, or sent them to the rear. For two miles and a half the chase continued, and the scene became more bloody. Never before did our General or his men use their sabres to such an extent. None but those who have witnessed a simiar scene can imagine the spectacle. Enraged by deeds too horrible to mention-led by a General whose presence exerted a mystic influence over every heart—the bravery of the men knew no limit, and seldom was a summons to surrender heard. The scattered fragments of the three regiments hid them selves be-hind their column of infantry three miles beyond the point of attack, and the pursuit ended not until this infantry opened fire .-Here Ashby drew up his men and remained beneath their fire and waited for reinforcements from Jackson. In this fight, Major Green, of the sixth Virginia cavalry, was slightly wounded; also another, name unknown. We took forty-four prisoners, among them the colonel commanding the brigade of cavalry. The infantry having arrived, Generals Ashby, Ewell and Stewart, (of Maryland,) led them to the fight. Here Ashby's gallantry could not have been excelled. Haying led the first Maryland regiment in a charge which sent the enemy flying from that quarter, he sought the fifty-eight Virginia, and, still between the two fires, he ordered the charge. His horse fell dead. He rose, beckoned to the men, and whilst in the very act, a ball entered low in his left side, came out near the right breast, and shattered his right wrist: He fell-he died. Not even a place, where she procured he a shawl and groan or a sigh was uttered by the dying hero. He was brave whilst living, but braver in ture looked the benevolent lady full in the dying. The men were not discouraged, but face, and with artless simplicity, said, "Are pressed on, and soon the victory was ours .-Night closed the fighting. The noble Ashby fell between six and seven in the evening .-The news went like a flash through our lines. Every heart was wounded. The aged, the yeung, and the hard-hearted wept. Nature made deeper the gloom; and soon the darkness of the night made still darker the regions of the mind. He was buried in the University Cemetery, near Charlottesville, but his body was afterwards removed to Winches-

FIELD AND FIRESIDE.

[From the Southern Planter and Farmer.] Milch Cows.

Mr. Editor .- That far too little attention has been paid by our farmers and others to these useful animals, is a fact which your cor-respondent has had occasion to remark. Accustomed, from infancy, to Southern plantation life, but in latter years familiar with Northern and Western processes, he has been led to compare the general neglect of cows on our plantations, and consequent deficiency of milk and butter, with the greater care and better results in these respects, witnessed is some other regions. On a small scale, to he has put in practice a moderate amount of the state of the st energy to endeavor to realize what care directed by good sense, may accomplish in this latitude towards remedying the deficiency in question. By this course your correspondent is ena-bled to secure, in mid-winter, an average pro-duct of six or eight quarts of milk a day from each cow, supplying a large family with an abundance of milk, cream and butter, the gross value of which, at this season, may be fairly estimated at not less than twelve dollars a week, besides the comfort which no such

LAND OCCUPIED BY FENCES .- Mr. J. Harris, in the American Agriculturist, thus speaks of land lost by fences :- "How much land does an old-fashioned fence occupy ?-I have always thought it took up a great deal of land, but never had the curiosity to measure. But this summer we have been building a stone wall along the whole west side of the farm, and after it was completed, and the old fence removed, I was surprised at the quantity of land we had gained. The ground, of course, might have been ploughed closer shop window. She stopped, and taking the little one by the hand, led her into the store. to the fence, but taking the case as it actually was, the old rail fence, with stones, weeds, rubbish, &c., occupied a strip of land one rod wide. A field, 31 rods long and 31 rods wide, contains about six acres. A farm of 160 acres so fenced would have 20 acres of wanted. She then took her to another land taken up in this worse than useless manner. Not only is this the use of the land lost, but it is in the majority of cases, a nur-sery of weeds, and, in ploughing, much time is lost in turning, and the headlands and corners are seldom properly cultivated. speaker ever employ words to a better advan-

DUCKS BETTER THAN HENS .- It is stated that Mr. Comaile. of the Paris Academy of Science, tested for a year the laying capacity of three ducks and three hens, with this result: Hens, 257 eggs; ducks, 617 eggs. Ducks are more easily raised than chickens, being a hardier fowl, and not subject to the many diseases incident to the chicken tribe.

A neighbor with only half a dozen ducks in the spring has raised, after using eggs raneeded during summer, a flock of one hurdred ducklings, and is now selling them rapidly at fifty cents per head. At this ration if duck farming is not profitable, perhapsome one will figure up better on Shanghaid.

To keep from stuttering-dou't talk seem pear at hand,

After our paper had gone to press last week, we received the message of the President, assigning his reasons, in answer to a resolution of the Senate, for the removal of Stanton from the position of Secretary of War. In defending his course, the President says that under the law and Tenure-of-Office Act itself. Mr. Stanton's term of office expired on the 4th of April. 1865, one year after the expiration of Mr. Lincoln's term, for which term he was nominated and confirmed. He argues that Mr. Stanton has acted ever since as Secretary of War by sufferance, and that not having been nominated and confirmed since the expiration of his first term, the Senate bas no control over his tenure of office.

WOULD RESIST ATTEMPTED SUSPENSION. The N. Y. Herrald's correspondent gives an account of an interview, with the President: "Your correspondent here asked what the President would do in the event of the passage of Mr. Edmund's bill of suspension. to which the President answered, substantially: "Sir, I world not obey the law if they attempted to suspend me. The law is clearly unconstitutional. There is a point against it which you gentlemen of the press seem to have altogether overlooked. The bill of Senator Edmunds to suspend pending trial would undoubtedly be an ex post facto law so far as my case would be concerned. Such a law would be unconstitutional by the very language of the constitution itself. My offence we will suppose, is the removal of Mr. Stanton. That is an accomplished fact. Any law prescribing a penalty for that act would be ex post facto, and therefore unconstitution-

Elsewhere we present the rules of impeachment which are to be observed in the Senate, on the trial of the President, if it is eve reached. Referring to this subject the wellinformed correspondent of the Baltimore

By Tuesday afternoon, at the outside, it is expected that the House will have adopted articles, and the Senate will take them under consideration on the following day, if in the meantime the rules for conducting the trial shall by that time have been adopted.

These rules were printed this afternoon but how much time may be expended in debate upon them can only be conjectured. It is probable that several days may be consumed in discussion upon some of these rules, as there is no limit to debate until the rules themselves shall be adopted.

There is a decided determination on the part of those wholfavor impeachment to rush the whole matter, preliminaries and trial, at a sort of previous question speed. But the belief among those who rely upon a majority of the Senators for temperate, judicious and just action is, that reasonable time will be accorded for full debate and calm consideration, as well upon the preliminaries as upon

The impeaclment party say but two or three days shall be given to the President to answer and prepare his defense, though there does not appear to be any ground for this unfair proposition other than the assertions of outside managers of the impeachment

There are many stories told of what has been said privately by this or that radical Senator, and of what Chief Justice Chase has said on the subject of impeachment, but although, as has been asserted, there may have been loose and injudicious expressions of opinion or feeling by a few of the Senators who are actively managing the impeachment matter in the Senate, yet your correspondent is warranted in stating that a very large majority of the radical Senators have observed a becoming reticence since the adoption of the mpeachment resolution in the House, and that the report that Judge Chase has, during the same period, conversed upon the merits of the impeachment, either in its legal or political aspect, is wholly untounded.

Under date of March 1st-which is the latest we have—the same correspondent furnishes the following:

The condition and temper of the public mind here to-day has been in strong contrast with the extraordinary excitement and tone of feeling one week ago. All is quiet tonight, though there is much discussion of the impeachment articles the probable result in the Senate, the effect of a verdict of guilty in case the Senate should convict, &c. - Dispassionate critics express surprise at the weakness of the impeachment articles and the pancity of facts set forth therein to constitute. a crime or misdemeanor, and the absence of proof of criminal intent on the part of the President. In this view some republicans coincide, and to meet these objections Mr. Jenckes of Rhode Island, has given notice of his purpose of urging an additional article to-morrow. Generally, however, the republicans appear to consider the articles as reported by the committee sufficient to sustain the impeachment and secure a rerdict of guilty upon trial in the Senate, whilst the democrats and conservatives regard the articles as an utter failure to make a case for the solemn consideration of a high court of impeachment, and they believe, confidently, that Mr. Johnson will be acquitted.

Among the radicals there is some interest manifested in working out the effect of the removal of Mr. Johnson and the installation | the people to trust free discussion and the of Mr. Wade into the White House. Upon the question as to the impression such a result will produce among the voters for President next November there is a conflict of opinion; but the most difficult queries are involved in the probable status of Ohio in the United States Senate if Mr. Wade shall succeed Mr. Johnson in the executive chair. In this discussion among the radicals the following questions are put: First. Is Mr. Johnson the President, or is he the Vice President acting as President, or does not the constitution make him absolutely President? The committee on the articles of impeachment appear to have decided this query for themselves, and hold that Mr. Johnson is President, whether ex Andrew Johnson would hereafter be equally officio, or how, does not appear, but that he odious to the American people. Subsequent-is President—else Chief Justice Chase can-ly the meeting was addressed by James not preside in the trial.

Second. If he is President, does it follow that Mr. Wade is Vice-President, or only president of the Senate? Third. If he is only president of the Sen-ate, he is Senator from Ohio; and does his ate, he is Senator from Unio; and does his elevation to the Presidency of the United States, or acting as such, vacate his office of Senator? Is he still Senator from Ohio while acting as President of the United States? He is, while acting as president of the Senate, yet a Senator; does his accession to the White House take him out of the Senate? He is only Vice-President pro tempore because he is Senator; is the Senator the foundation of both elevations?

Fourth. If he be no longer Senator by reason of his promotion to the Presidency of the United States, how is Ohio to be informed of the vacancy in her Senatorship? By whom is that State to be notified, and when? If such vacancy and notification occur whilst the Ohio Legislature is in session-and i will likely be in session for three mouths-s democrat will succeed Mr. Wade in the U. S. Senate. If the Legislature shall not be session when the vacancy occurs, Governor Hays will, of course, appoint a republican. Such are some of the problems and possibilities that are to-night revolving in the minds of leading radicals, who say "They are of sufficient importance to give us pause."

The President has not yet selected his counsel for the trial, but among those named as likely to be retained are Benjamin Curtis, David Dudley Field, Charles O'Conor and Mr. Brady, of New. York; Judge Black, of Pennsylvania; Hon, Wm. S. Groesbeck and Senator elect Thurman, of Ohio. "It is presumed that the President will be allowed for counsel the same number of gentlemen as constitute the managers on the part of the House, viz : seven.

There is some anxiety manifested by the riends of the administration about the Maryand Senator to sucreed Mr. Thomas. The hope is expressed that the Legislature of Marvland will elect a Senator whose record is such as to insure immediate admission to his seat in the Senate. There are some named who, it is believed, could not obtain the seat without considerable delay, on account of objections that radical Senators would urge. Parties in New Orleans telegraph the President to day that General Hancock has resigned. Most likely they mean he has asked to be relieved, and they request the Executive to refuse to accept the resignation. It is understood that application will be made to the District Supreme Court to morrow for quo warranto to require Mr. Stanton to make a showing, &c. It is probable, also, that the Gen. Thomas War Office case will be considered by the grand jury which meets

WEST VIRGINIA SPEAKS.

Anxious to prove their devotion to Congress, and their continued approval of its treasonable course, the "loyal" people's representatives in the West Virginia Legislature are prompt to give expression to their sentiments, and to tender to their brethren at Washington the assistance of the State. On Tuesday last, Mr. Hoke, one of the Senators from this District, presented the following, which were at once adopted :

WHEREAS, The long threatened design of Andrew Johnson, President of the United States, to usurp the power and authority of Congress, and resist the laws of the United States, has at last culminated in their-open, defiant and insulting violation by the attempted removal of Secretary Stanton, and the appointment of Adjutant General Thomas, Secretary of War, ad interim, the Senate of the United States being in session:

Resolved, That Andrew Johnson, President of the United States, in the attempted removal of the Secretary of War, and the designation of the Adjutant General to perform the duties of the office ad interim, the Senate being in session, has been guilty of a wilful and flagrant violation of law, and in the opinion of the Legislature of West Virginia, ought to be impeached for high crimes and misdemeanors.

Resolved, That the Governor be authorized to tender to Congress the assistance of West Virginia in maintaining the authority and enoreing the laws of the United States. The above is a medley, which is as destitute of truth as it is wanting in common sense. Its want of truth consists in charging the President with attempting to usurp the authority of Congress, when every intelligent man knows that Congress has persistently transcended its power with a view of usurping the functions of the Executive Department. Its want of sense is found in tendering to Congress the assistance of a State that has a bankrupt treasury, and not a single organized company of militia within its confines. A State too, that has pursued a course from its very formation, calculated to alienate the affections of its inhabitants. Truly, the assistance of West Virginia, so opportunely tendered, must have had great effect in strongthening the loyal back-bone.

IMPEACHMENT OPPOSED.

On Friday evening last an immense mecting was held at the Cooper Institute, New York, to oppose the scheme of impeachment. Resolutions were read declaring the present political crisis as fraught with danger to republican institutions in the United States; that a government by and under a written constitution is the only safeguard of freedom; affirming the right of the President to remove members of his Cabinet; and declaring the attempt to deprive him of that right a monstrous perversion of the powers conferred upon the House of Representatives. The resolutions also deprecate impeachment except as a last resort for the protection of the republic from disgrace or grievous wrong; express confidence in the dignity and moderation of the Senate to save the country from the dangers by which it is threatened, and denounces imtitutional at the same time counselling ballot box for redress, in the event of the removal of the President. The resolves having been adopted by acclamation, James W. Gerard was introduced, and said that he regarded the meeting as a grand gathering of the people to protest against a revolutionary movement to deprive the nation of its lawful head. The real crime of Andrew Johnson in the eyes of the radicals, was that he had opposed pegro supremacy.

Mayor Hefman was the next speaker. In the course of his speech, which was much applauded, he said that the assassination of Abraham Lincoln and the impeachment of IMPEACHMENT RULES

A quorum of the Senate shall constitute a quorum of the court, and it shall continue in session (Sunday excepted, after the trial shall commence (unless otherwise ordered by the court) until final udgment be rendered.

The Chief Justice of the United States shall preside; notice shall be given him by the presiding officer of the Senate of the time and place fixed for the organization of the high court of impeachment, and he shall preside over said court until its final adournment.

The presiding officer may rule all ques-tions of evidence and incidental questions which ruling shall stand as the judgment of the court unless some member of the court shall ask that a formal vote be taken thereon, in which case it shall be submitted to the court for decision; or he may at his option in the first instance submit any such questions to a vote of the members of the court. At 12.30 P. M. of the day appointed for the trial, the legislative and executive business of the Senate shall be suspended, and the Sccretary shall give notice to the House of Representatives that the Senate is ready to prodeed upon the impeachment. The hour of the day at which the Senate shall sit as a high court of impeachment shall be (unless otherwise ordered) twelve o'clock M. The adjournment of the Senate sitting as a court of impeachment, shall not operate as an adjournment of the Senate; but on such adjournment of the court the Senate shall resume the consideration of its legislative and executive business.

be kept open, unless the court shall direct the doors to be closed when deliberating upon All preliminary or interlocutory questions and all motions shall be argued by one person only on each side, and for not exceeding on hour ou each side, unless the court shall by an order extend the time. The final argument on the merits may h made by two persons on each side. The argument shall be opened and closed on the part of the House of Representatives.

The following is the form of oath to be administered to the presiding officer and members of the Senate, sitting as a high court of impeachment: "I solemnly swear (or affirm, as the case may be) that in all things pertaining to the trial of impeachment of -, now pending, I will do impartial justice, according to the constitution and laws, so help me God." If the impeachment shall not be sustained by the vote of two thirds of the members present a judgement of acquittal shall be entered; but if the person accused in such articles of impeachment shall be convinced by the vote of two-thirds of the members present, the court shall proceed to pronounce udgement, and a certified copy of the judgment shall be deposited in the office of the Secretary of State. All the orders and decisions shall be made and had by yeas and nays, and without debate, except when the doors shall be closed for deliberation, and in that case no member shall speak more than once on one question, and for not more than ten minutes on interlocutory questions, and fifteen minutes on the final question, unless by unanimous consent. The New York Herald's Washington specia claims that Messrs. Trumbull, Fessenden, Anthony, Tipton, Sprague, Van Winkle, Willey and Sherman, republican members. will vote with the democrats on the impeach ment question, and that impeachment will be defeated in the Senate, as there is no charge on which to base conviction, and fears are entertained that the measure will be unpopular with the people.

As to our excoriations of Chapline, we have only to say, that our statements have all been founded upon facts which are susceptible of casy proof, and until there is some denial of them in an authentic form, we shall continue to drive them home. Sale of Harper's Ferry Property. The following proceedings took place the U. S. Senate on Wednesday last, in regard to the sale of the Armory property at Harner's Ferry. The bill passed the Senate with but little difficulty, and we hope may speedily meet the same approval of the House.

Mr. Wilson called up the bill providing for the sale of the lands, tenements and water privileges belonging to the United States at Harper's Ferry.

Mr. Wilson, from the committee on military affairs, reported an amendment to donate certain portions of the lands to a college chartered by the Legislature of West Virginia, and that other portions now occupied by religious and charitable societies shall be donated to them. Mr. Hendricks did not know for what read

Virginia, and also objected to the sale being made under the direction of the Secretary of War, with no restriction whatever, Mr. Ramsey said this place was the scene of the exploits of John Brown, deceased, and in order to meet the objections of the Senafor, he would move that the land be given to the heirs of John Brown, deceased. Mr. Hendricks .- The Senator from Minnesota has a perfect right to give away his own property to the heirs of John Brown or anybody else's heirs, but he (Mr. II.) objected to his right to give away the property of the people of Indiana and of the other people of the United States; property which had been bought and paid for by the people's Mr. Fessenden thought it was rather a new wrinkle for a member from one of the Western States to get up here and object to grants of land. Those States, both new and old, had received enormous grants of land from the general government for all sorts of purposes. He had years ago attempted to examine into the propriety of some of these grants, but he had to give it up. In fact, the Western members and the Western people looked upon any examination into this matter as a species of impertinence. He did not see anything unusual in this matter. It was only proposed to give to the State of West Virginia, a part of the State which had originally ceded the whole land, a small portion of land for educational purpose. This institution which it was proposed to give this land to had been regularly chartered, and had received large donations from private citizens. It was very proper to give this assistance to it, and he was somewhat surprised at this objection, considering the quarter from

Mr. Hendricks said the government had made a great deal of money by its Western lands, but it had never made any by the lands

Mr. Fessenden.-It never owned any in

Mr. Hendricks .- It never owned any because Massachusetts refused to cede any of her public lands, as the other States did, for the purpose of reducing the national debt -Mr. II. then argued that the government had been a great gainer by the policy pursued in regard to the public lands in the West, and had realized a hundred millions from Indiana alone, and also vast amounts from Ohio and Illinois. He had made his objection to this bill in good faith, and did not admit that Western men were to be censured. Maine had been a wilderness at the foundation of the government, and that State and that section had, without realizing any advantage to the government, been the recipient of its aid in the shape of fishing bounties, &.

Mr. Fessenden was not before aware that Maine was a wilderness when the government was founded; he had heard of people who lived there during the revolution. In regard to the fishing bounties, they had been abolished, and he had hoped that they had heard the last of them; but it seemed the Senator from Indiana kept them stored in his capacious intellect, and brought them forward

Mr. Hendricks said he would say no more about codfish if the Senator would say no more about public lands. Mr. Fessenden said, "very well," but went on to repeat that the Western members considered it an encroachment on their reserved rights if an Eastern man was put on any of the committees relating to the public lands, Mr. Hendricks interrupted him to ask if they had not made the bargain to drop codfish and public lands hereafter, [laughter,] although, of course, the advantage would be on the side of the Senator. Mr. Willey explained the provisions of the bill. It was not proposed to donate any of the improved property of the government, and before anything was given, the original eest was to be returned to the government. Mr. Conkling asked what was the value of Mr. Willey said about a million of dollars.

This was for the purpose of increasing the school fund of West Virginia; they were poor and ignorant there; they had been the outside barbarians of old Virginia. They were striving hard to educate their people, and hoped the government would give them this assistance.

The amendment of the committee was then adopted:

This is he new style of escorting colored ladies." -On Monday evening last, as the train on the Central road, four miles this side of Staunton, was crossing the bridge at Christy Creek, a man named Smith, who resides in the neighborhood, was knocked off the bridge. He was so badly mashed and bruised by the fall that he died on the same night at his

A serious accident occurred at the narrow passage Bridge, in Shenandoah county, on Tuesday last, whilst the hands were engaged in putting up some heavy timber, by means of a block and tackle, the rope broke and laping around the legs of two of the men, Mos y and Roberts, and threw them with vioence some distance. Both were considerably injured, and one other severely.

SUCCESSFUL PURSUIT OF HORSE THIEVES. Early in February two white men, giving the names of John Smith and John Russell called at the residence of Mr. Charles Lee, in Clarke county, represented themselves- as discharged Federal soldiers, and asked to obtain employment as laborers. A few days afterwards they each borrowed a horse from their employer, with the alleged design of riding a short distance. A couple of days having elapsed, and nothing having been heared of the men, Mr. Lee came to Winchester in search of his lost property, and much to his relief found one of the for which one of our citizens had traded valuable mule to a man he had met on the Valley Turnpike, near Mt. Jackson. Mr. Lee and Major Goldsborough at once started. in pursuit, and tracked the thieves to Monterey, Highland county, where they had been arrested on the 13th instant, on suspicion The pursuers arrived in the nick of time, as Smith and Russell had just been discharged from custody, and were then engaged in perfeeting plans for suing the civil authorities of Highland for illegal imprisonment! These penitentiary birds are now safely lodged in the jail of Clarke county .- Winchester Times.

Postponement of Spring Elections.

The following bill as passed by the Senate changes the bill as passed by the House, and it reads now as follows : Be it enacted by the Legislature of West Vir-

1. The annual election of township officer. shall hereafter be held with the State and county elections, on the fourth Thursday in October in each year, instead of the time now provided by law. 2. The term of office of all township officers shall hereafter commence on the first day of January instead of the time now prescribed by law, and such officers now in office whose terms would sooner expire, and such as may. during the present year, be appointed to fill vacancies shall continue in office until the 31st day of December, 1868, and until their successors shall be elected and qualified according to law.

3. So much of the act entitled "an ac providing for the registration of the qualified voters of this State, passed February 25th, 1867, as requires a registration of voters in April, and May of every year is hereby repealed, but in other respects the said act shall

A War Star in the Heavens.

A curious blazing star made its appearance in the northwestern portion of the sky on Sunday night, about eight o'clock, lasting until nine. It seemed about three times as large as the famous star of eight years ago, and had a train apparently varying from a yard to two yards in length. The star when first seen was of a dazzling red appearance, then changed to blue, and again to white. alternating the color a number of times during its course across the heavens. It traveled with considerable rapidity for a while, but as it neared the horizon, appeared to move

The brightness of its rays illuminated the atmosphere for a wide distance to such an extent as to completely dim the other stars in that polion of the sky. About two o'clock in the morning, a similar phenomenon was witnessed, though whether the same star or another of a similar nature, we are compelled to leave persons of more scientific knowledge to decide. It is a singular fact the extraordinary spectacles have always immediately preceded bloodshed in our country.-Eric (Pa.) Observer.

FORNEY SCARED .- The Baltimore Commercial says:

The terrible Maryland militia, which was sometime ago a huge spectre in the eyes of the veracious Forney, but which seems to have been exorcised since the first and last general parade, has again been raised to haunt him. He sees them in Baltimore on Saturday last fourteen thousand strong, ready to march at a moment's notice and lav in waste the capital of the nation; but like a good many other valiant heroes, while quaking with fear at the picture his disturbed nerves of his readers by the following little bit of bravado; "There is no occasion for any serious alarm, however, for the indications are that, should they come, they will find the defenders of Congress in sufficient force to take excellent care of them." It is scarcely necessary to add that the occasion for this revamping of the militia ghost was the parade of the 5th Regiment to receive a flag from some of its lady friends.

-Pr. Cumming writes to a London paper that he still believes his interpretation of prophecy to be correct, and " that it is time for every man, while doing his duty to his country, his family and society at large, to have his loins girt and his lamp burning, for the coming of the Lord draweth nigh." -Prentice says some kinds of ink are

B00KS, &c. Alexander II. Stevens' Book.

We have received from the National Publishing Company, the introduction to the forthcoming work of the Vice President of the late Confederacy, which he entitles "A Constitutional View of the War between the States; its causes, character, conduct and re-

The distinguished reputation of Mr. Stephens as a leading statesman in the old Union, the well known, moderate, and conservative tone of his mind and his great brilliancy and power as an orator, (which qualities constantly shine out in the part of his work now before us) are sure guaranties, that the production announced from his pen, will be one of intense interest. The work will doubtless have a very extensive circulation.

The New Eclectic .--We have received the third number of this most excellent work from the publishers Messrs. Turabull and Fridge Murdoch, No: 49, Lexington street, Baltimore.

The high promise of the preceding number of the Eclectic is fully sustained in this.

The World at Home. The March number of this new and highly interesting monthly is on our table. It contains articles of interest and instruction to all ages and sexes, in its Home, Juvenile, Fashion, Cooking, Editorial, News and Comic Department. Published by Evans & Co., $14 Chestnut street, Philadelphia.

Rev. J. W. Tongue.-This minister, who has acceptably served the people and his church on this circuit, for the past year, departs for Conference this morning, carrying with him the best wishes of our people, who will hail his return to this field of labor, which is confidently anticipated.

INJURED IN A. WELL .- About ten-days ago, Mr. THOMAS RUTHERFORD, a worthy laboring man, residing near Kearneysville, was very seriously hurt by the caving in of well which he was assisting in digging on the premises of Mr. Frank Brown. At first it was feared that his injuries would prove fatal, but hopes are now entertained that he will recover without serious maining, REMOVAL .- We regret to part with our friend and neighbor from the corner, Mr. EUGENE WEST, who has removed his Dry Goods and Grocery Store to the frame building on Main street, adjoining the Court-House yard, and nearly opposite the Carter House. In his new quarters he will be glad to see his old friends, and as many new ones as may find it to their advantage to call on him.

ANOTHER SALE OF LAND .- On Saturday week, Mr. JAMES L. RANSON, sold 100 of unenclosed land on Berryville turnpike, adjoining the lands of Jas. Roper dec'd and Mrs. Burnett, to Mr. C. J. Mauing. Price $ 90 per acre, terms cash.

FERTILIZERS .- We direct attention to the advertisement of John S. Reese & Co. of their justly celebrated Pacific Guano, and of l' Zell & Sons, of their unsurpassed fertilizer. Ranson & Duke are the agents of these gentlemen for Jefferson county, and will have an abundant supply of the articles named for the approaching spring season. It is only necessary to examine the certificates which these gentlemen have in possession to become satisfied of the value of these fertilizers. - Those of our farmers who contemplate using them for their corn crop ought to leave their orders early.

SOMETHING NEW .- We have been shown " Montgomery's Putent Adjusting Hay and manure fork," now on exhibition, and for sale at the hardware store of D. Humphreys & Co.. which surpasses anything of the kind ever before offered to the public. We are convinced that this is no humbug, and our farmers would do well to give it an examination.

LEATHER .- We invite attention to the advertisement of Mr. Hodges, Leather dealer of Harpers Ferry, as he assures us he will make it to the interest of all working this article, to give him a trial. His supply is general and from the very finest of the city.

INJURED .- On Saturday week FRANK. son of Mr. Joseph A. Young, of Harper's Ferry was seriously injured by a blow on the head from the hands of a negro, with whom he had a difficulty. Further particulars we Superior Coal Burning Stoves, Grates and Andirons of different sizes; Sash Weights, &c. &c.

DECEASED .- We learn that Mr. WILLIAM McCoy and his estimable wife, formerly of Harper's Ferry, both well known to our peeple, died at their residence in Putnam county, Ohio, within the last two months.

DROWNED .- A promising youth, the son of Mr. Fayette Conrad, formerly of Harper's Barrows, Harrows, &c., always on hand and for Ferry, (now of Richmond) was drowned a sale at our Machine Shop. ANSWER YOUR CHILDREN'S QUESTIONS. -Education is erroneously supposed only to be had at schools. The most ignorant children often have been constant in their attendence there and there have been very intelligent ones who never saw the inside of a school-room! The child who always asks an explanation of terms or phrases it cannot understand, who is never willing to repeat, parrot-like, that which is incomprehensible, will far outstring in "education" the ordinary routive scholar. Education goes on with children at the fire side -on the street-at churchat play- everywhere. Donot refuse to answer their questions then. Do not check this natural intelligence, for which books can never compensate, though you bestowed whole libraries.

WATCHES FOR THE MILLION! ARRANDALE & CO.'S GREAT WATCH CLUB. Everybody needs a good watch, and wishes to get Everybody needs a good watch, and wienes to get it at the lowest possible price; a hordeof swindlers knowing this have contrived various ingenious de-vices to get people's money, and then either fail to send a watch, or send one that is worthless as a time-keeper. ARRANDALE & CO., have now perfected arrangements by which, for the small sum of $10, a good and reliable watch may be CERTAINLY obtained. They have formed a GREAT WATCH CLUB on the following plan. Cortificates containing the numbers of all the watches named in our problems in the sum of the s wholesale list (which is sent to all applicants) are mixed up, enclosed in envelopes, and sold for 25 cents cach. Every certificate is WARRANTED to be for a watch, and as will be seen on reference to the list, none are of less value than Ten Dollars, whilst some are worth $300. We undertake to send any watch drawn whatever may be its value for $10, and in order that every one may absolutely depend upon getting a first class time keeper, we guarantee that every purchaser of One Dollar's worth of cerdificates shall receive at least one for watch No. 533 on our wholesale list, sent post free, which is a first class patent lever, a handsome and reliable watch, in sterling silver hunting case, and usually sold for $40. You will certainly get such a watch; and, $40. You will certainly get such a watch; and, besides, you may get a gold chronometer worth $500. We sell the certificates as follows: One for 25 cents, Three for 50 cents; Six for $1; and Twenty for $3. To those sending $1, we will send a handsome chain gratis. To those sending $3, we will send a gold chain warranted not to tarcish a 20 years. Parties getting larger clubs will receive liberal presents, particulars of which may be bearned on application. As it is our intenmay be rearned on application. As it is our inten-tion to do a strictly honorable business, and to in-sure our customers from liability to loss, we will send our watches, if desired, withour money, instructing the Express agent to collect on delivery. If we are desired to forward watches by mail, the money must be sent us by Bank Draft or Post Office Order, and it will then be at our risk. We will then REGISTER the package at our post office, and if lost replace it free of charge. It any watch sent is not approved, it may be returned and the mousy will be refunded. The reputation of our firm which has been established for five years, and is well known in every part of the country, we trust will be deen-ed a sufficient guarantee that we will faithfully perform all we contract to do.

THE MOST RELIABLE CUSHION used in Billiard Tables is the

CAT-GUT CUSHION.

Manufactured by KAVANAGH & DECKER, and Patented Dec. 18, 1856. (See Scientific American; Vol. 16, No. 11.)

It is the ONLY Cushion that possesses all the qualities essential to a PERFECT Cushion.
It is the most elastic and most durable Cushion ever offered to the billiard-playing public, as is abundantly proven by the great deupand for it since its introduction. The peculiarity which distinguishes the CAT-GUT Cushion and renders it superior to all others, is the tightened cord of cat-gut which overlies the tace and edge of the rubber and running the full length of the Cushion which prevents the ball from bedding into the rubber and jumping from the table.
The addition of the cat-gut cord also adds much to the Cat-GUT Cushion has already been applied to over 1,000 tables which are in con-stant use. It can be applied to tables of any
