Democratic Address to the Negroes of South Carolina.

The leaders of the Democratic party in South Carolina have issued an address to the negro voters of that State, in which, after stating the reasons why the blacks should naturally ally themselves with the Southern whites, denouncing the Democratic party in favor of the re-establishment of slavery, which has been persistently asserted by the Radical party in that State, and stating briefly the reasons for the rejection of the Fourteenth amendment by the State Legislature, they conclude as follows:

We have very grave complaint against you. You have been placed in possession of supreme political power in South Carolina; you are responsible for the manner in which that power is administered. The population of the State has two distinct general classes—your race, the colored race, and our race, the white race. There is also another and third class, or more properly a fungus of the white race, insignificant in numbers and degraded in character.

But small as it is, this is again subdivided into two very distinct parts. They are very comprehensively described in the dialect of the Hutings as "carpet-bag itinerants and resident scoundrels." This sub-division, with its two parts, governs you, and by your consent and fully, governs the State. Your race greatly exceeds ours in numbers in this State; you have a large majority of the votes.

With this power in your hands, you have scandalously misused it. Although you are for the most part uneducated and inexperienced in public affairs, yet there are among you men of ability and education. These men you have set aside, and have committed the State administration and its representation in Congress—its patronage and power—its character and credit—to the carpet-baggers and scoundrels. Not of course because your men are, in any merit, inferior to them. You are their superiors, and you have shown it in every department, in ability, energy, in property, and immeasurably so in respect to ability and character.

You were placed in supreme power by usurpation, aided by military violence and force. We might have looked on with some complacency, certainly with curiosity, and seen you try the brief experiment of governing. You would not do that, but you elevated over us and over ourselves false and wicked men. Did you do this because they avowed themselves our enemies? Or were you cheated yourselves? If the former, then it is the highest proof of your enmity to us and our race, and that we shall be enemies to one another. If the latter, then you now may show it by the choice you make.

We will show to you what sort of a government it is that you have set up over yourselves and ourselves. It is now on exhibition at Columbia, playing its part to the full, and at the shame and ridicule of our whole country. It claims to exercise the power of taxation, but it does not represent property. It would borrow money on the credit of the State. It destroys that credit by its lawlessness and corruption. Whoever trusts his money to your government will lose it, and you will deserve his loss. You have a Governor, a Lieutenant-Governor, a Secretary of State, a Treasurer, a Comptroller General, an Attorney-General, a Superintendent of Education, and an Adjutant-General.

These are the Executive or administrative corps. You have a Senate and a House of Representatives. These are one hundred and fifty-five in number, and constitute your Legislature, which levies taxes, borrows (if it can) and spends money for us. Now this whole Legislature, all its members, and the Executive corps put together, are taxed six hundred and fifty cents (two dollars and fifty cents) for every hundred and fifty-five legislators (House and Senate) are taxed six hundred and thirty-five dollars and twenty-two cents ($635.22), equal to four dollars and nine cents ($4.90) each. But ninety-one of these legislators pay no tax at all. They are not on the tax rolls. The two members of the Executive Department of the old commercial city of Charleston are taxed eighty-four dollars and thirty-five cents ($84.35) each. For this sum, save one dollar is paid by one member—a respectable colored man. He pays the largest tax of any one in the Legislature or Executive Department of your government. That after one dollar is assessed, he be pays it—upon your Adjutant-General, Moses, who is a member for, but never a resident of Charleston, also the Speaker of the House, and the son of the chosen elect, but nevertheless apocryphal, Chief Justice of your Supreme Court—a bench promising to be as wonderful as your Legislature.

The executive corps aggregated is taxed sixteen dollars and ninety-nine cents (16.99) each. This large sum, except the Adjutant-General's one dollar already named, is paid by the Lieutenant-Governor. The Governor and all the remaining departments pay nothing. We refer to the taxes of 1867. They cannot be ascertained for 1868. It is hoped that a sense of shame will induce your representatives to contribute some portion of their salaries, or of their lobby contingents, this year to the public necessities. Now, we ask you squarely and plainly, do you suppose any state of things can be endured, in which a Government is carried on by such persons? Will they find fools who will trust them or lend them money? If they do find such, does one single man in South Carolina believe that the property holders will be such fools as ever to pay one dollar of the debts they may contract? You know they will not. Do you suppose the taxes they levy will be paid? A few weeks will determine that—because it will determine whether we shall again be put under military rule. One thing is sure and inevitable—if you persist in maintaining such a government we cannot and will not maintain it. It will not be possible for you to pay it. It will not be possible for you to pay it. It will not be possible for you to pay it. It will not be possible for you to pay it.

He will succeed to your labor for your labor. He will succeed to your peaceful homes and you will follow the path and the fortune of the Indian, who thought as you now think, and he rushed as you now blindly rush upon your inevitable fate. You have your choice now. You may never have it again. If you are true to yourselves, true to our mutual interests and welfare; if you stand by us, we will stand by you, and there will be peace and prosperity and all their blessings shared between us. If you choose otherwise, and stand by your present associates; if you adhere to them and insist that you will put them to govern us, and you submit yourselves to be governed by them, then you must go your ways, and we will go our ways. We will not molest or trouble you. You may in peace run your course of wretchedness and ruin. We shall not follow you. We must and we will take care of ourselves. Think of these things, sedately and calmly. They are vital to you. We know it, and for your sake, we entreat you to be guided by truth and not by passion, and to your own interest which will adhere to you for good or evil, and to your children, and the generations that will follow them.

Negro Suffrage. The following extract is from a speech delivered by the Hon. Daniel W. Voorhees, at Terre Haute, Ind., on the 8th ult.

If, then, Radicalism is defeated in its attempt to make the negro suffrage on the people of the North, at their own homes, yet it compels the Northern man to swear that he will support it forever, and never attempt to abolish it, before he can live as a citizen in any one of the reconstructed States. Last year, the Radical leaders made a mistake in Ohio, and they were not content to be a citizen of Alabama unless he takes an oath to change his principles.

Again, the attempt was made to establish negro suffrage last fall in Kansas. It was defeated by eight thousand. Yet a citizen of Kansas cannot move into the neighboring State of Arkansas, and carry with him the right to vote or hold office, unless, in the most solemn manner, he first repudiates the public will of his present home. But a few months ago Michigan drove negro suffrage from her borders by forty thousand majority; yet, in order to be clothed with citizenship, she was obliged to reverse this powerful record. Thus a barrier is raised against emigration from the North to the fertile fields of the South. The doors are open only to such as are willing to affiliate with the negro, and to swear that they will never attempt to disturb his absolute equality with the white race. No man who is living in the descending waters of the Mississippi Valley—those channels which nature made for your communication, trade, and social intercourse with the South—are you willing to be halted on the borders of Tennessee, Arkansas, Mississippi, Alabama, or Louisiana, and be obliged to swear to reverse this powerful record. Thus a barrier is raised against emigration from the North to the fertile fields of the South. The doors are open only to such as are willing to affiliate with the negro, and to swear that they will never attempt to disturb his absolute equality with the white race.

PORTICAL. WITHOUT HASTE, WITHOUT REST. BY D. C. C. COY.

The following poem, published years since, is from the present Commissioner of Pensions.

Without haste—without rest— Bind the motto to thy breast! For it is with thee as a spell; Storm or squall, guard it well! Heed not flowers that round thee bloom— Bear it onward to the tomb.

Haste not—let no thoughtless deed Mar the force of the spirit's deed; Ponder well and know the right; For it is with thee as a spell; Storm or squall, guard it well! Heed not flowers that round thee bloom— Bear it onward to the tomb.

MISCELLANEOUS. [From the New Orleans Picayune, Aug. 31.] A Fearful Tragedy—Love and Crime in Mississippi.

It is not often that a single community is startled by a succession of events so marked and intensely interesting as those which have marked the following incidents recently occurring at Bay's Ferry, on Pearl river, in the State of Mississippi.

About two months since a young man named Lee, a citizen of that place, was engaged to be married to a young lady, the daughter of an opulent planter. Although of respectable connections his habits were wild and dissipated. Notwithstanding this, his manners were those of a gentleman, and he possessed an education which fitted him for the best society in the country. Being young and good-looking, and with a reputation acquired by great gallantry in the army, it is not surprising that he attracted the attention of a young and beautiful woman and inspired her with a love which not even an acknowledged crime could lessen and subdue.

Some few weeks before his marriage was to have been celebrated, he forged a draft in his father's name for $1000, and obtained the money on it. He was supposed to have been in the act of his flight, and he fled from his father and threw himself into the arms of the girl. The daughter tried by every means in her power to soften the heart of her parent and procure the release of her lover; but all her exertions were unavailing, and her pleadings unheeded. As a last resource, she begged and obtained permission to visit her betrothed in prison. Knowing that his only chance of escaping the penalty the law had affixed to his crime was now dependent on himself alone, she concealed a revolver about her person, and took him and other instruments necessary for his use in breaking his prison door. At this interview means of his escape were planned, and the flight fixed for its attempt.

About midnight he began his operations. In the lower room of the jail a guard was stationed. It was necessary for him to pass these before he could get in the open air. He succeeded in breaking out of his cell and reaching the room where the three guards were stationed. But here commenced a struggle for life. The guards heard him coming, and prepared to receive him. But they little reckoned on the desperate struggle before them. They had to contend with a man determined to escape or die. The first glance showed him the desperate character of his situation. Within a moment's hesitation he fired on the guard, killing one of them instantly. He continued firing until the other two were mortally wounded. In the struggle he was himself slightly wounded, but not so dangerously as to prevent his escape or to prevent the active use of his limbs. He gained the open country and reached the river. It is supposed he came to New Orleans, and is now concealed with his friends in the city.

Teach the Women to Save. There's the secret. A saving woman at the head of a family is the very best savings bank ever yet established—one that receives deposits daily and hourly, with no costly management to manage it. The idea of saving is a pleasant one, and the "women" would but imitate the men, they would estimate and adhere to it; and thus many, when they are not aware of it, would be laying the foundation for a competence, security in a stormy time, and a shelter in a rainy day. The woman who sees to her own house, has a large hold to save in; and the best way to make her comprehend it, is for her to keep an account current of expenses. Probably not one wife in ten has an idea of how much are the expenditures of herself or family. Where from one to two thousand dollars are expended annually, there is a chance to save some thing, if the attempt is only made. Let the housewife take the idea, act upon it, and strive over it, and she will save many dollars, perhaps hundreds, where before she thought it impossible. This is a duty, not a prompting of avarice—a moral obligation that rests upon all—upon the "women" as well as the men; but it is a duty, we are sorry to say, that is fulfilled by very little, even among those who preach the most, and regard themselves as examples in most matters. Teach the women to save, is a good enough maxim to be inserted in the next edition of Poor Richard's Almanac.

Georgia newspapers say that the crops in the northeastern section of that State are very fine. The corn crop is excellent. The cotton is reported to be splendid, but the quantity is small. The Chicago Times, which hitherto has reckoned Illinois for Grant, begins to believe it is going for Seymour and Blair.

Quite a smart village has sprung up at Manassas Junction, Virginia, since the war. Sumac is its staple of trade. — You have sold your crops—pay up!

LETTER FROM THE WEST. CHICAGO, August 27, 1868.

Dear Sir:—Thinking that your many readers would like to hear something of the doings of the Garden City of the Union, I have concluded to gratify them with a few items—political and otherwise. This is the great commercial centre of the west, and everybody comes to Chicago to learn the news and to obtain prices. There is the great commercial centre of the west, and everybody comes to Chicago to learn the news and to obtain prices. There is the great commercial centre of the west, and everybody comes to Chicago to learn the news and to obtain prices.

Business has been exceedingly dull here this summer, but the knowing ones predict that the fall trade will open in a few days and Chicago will then be in its normal condition. The filling orders for merchandises. Some idea of the business of this city may be had, when it is known that the house of Field, Palmer & Co., wholesale dry goods dealers, sold $9,220,967 worth of goods last year.

Politically, business is "gay and festive." The two great parties are struggling for the ascendency here, with the advance on the side of Seymour and Blair. Both parties have already held gigantic mass meetings, and at the first one, held by the Democrats in July, after the nominations had been made, the greatest enthusiasm prevailed, and it was conceded by everybody to have been the largest political gathering ever held here. A few weeks later the Republicans held one, and it was quite a large gathering, occasioned by the first parade of the "Tanners." On the succeeding night, Senator Doolittle and W. W. O'Brien, candidate for Congressman at large of this State, addressed the Democrats, who turned out to the number of 30,000. The Democrats are wide awake and actively engaged in the campaign, while the Reds are dispirited, and evince no enthusiasm whatever. Well informed politicians here, assert that Chicago will vote the Seymour & Blair ticket by about 5,000 majority, and many are sanguine that by the aid of this majority they can elect Seymour and Blair, and give the State over to Democratic rule. So mote it be.

You have doubtless heard of the Tanners; they take the form of a military organization, are officered like a regiment in the field, and the whole city forms a division, which is commanded by the Hon. Charles T. Tamm. The uniform consists of a sheepskin apron, an oilcloth cape, and a small fatiguo cap, somewhat like an artillery cap in trimmings and shape. The whole division in the city numbers about 4,000, as I learn from their morning reports, published in the Radical papers.

The Democrats have organized a Seymour & Blair Escort in every ward in the city, but I am unable to give you anything like a correct report of their number. Pendleton—the Eagle of the West—will address the Democracy here some time in September, when you may expect to hear a bribe-giving man to day I shake hands with the Lord. I live henceforth in future joys. An unknown deity is opened, and I enter an abode of bliss. I am confident of the future. The shadow of the present shall fall upon it even when my bride and I have grown old, and instead of with sunset glories, I may not deserve the good I have won. Love is not vain. It gives itself, and if not given, no wealth, no genius, beauty, or wit, no gold of earth or gem of heaven, is rich enough to purchase it. — Loving me my bride, my heart shall keep its old memories like the sea-shell on its waked melody. Love's music shall be its liked drawing light which through the darkness of the future was dark and dreary; but celestial splendor now lights up the gloom; and the bride her spirit self, a Peri at the gates of Paradise, invites me onward and upward to life of purport pleasures and duties of beneficence.

OLD AGE.—A French convict was condemned to the age of eighteen years, in the year 1724, to suffer imprisonment for the term of 100 years. The convict served his time, was discharged, and travelled on foot to Lyons, and laid claim to an estate that belonged to him, and in settlement thereof he received the sum of £45,000. Among other interesting cases was that of Donald McDonald, who, at the age of 107 years, was sent to the House of Correction for disorderly conduct, and afterwards, at the age of 137, came to a premature death, by falling down stairs. Another case was mentioned, of a Russian, who lived to the great age of 166 years; he married for the third time at the age of 93, and lived in all the enjoyments of matrimonial bliss with his third wife for a period of fifty years! Another case was mentioned of a man who at the age of 169, testified in court to an event that took place 140 years before.

TOMATOES.—A correspondence of the Southern Cultivator says:—I noticed, in the last issue, you wished a cheap and sure method of putting up tomatoes for winter use. I tried a plan last season, with success. I take a jar and put a layer of salt, and then another of tomatoes, and so on, until the jar is full. — Any one liking the flavor of onions, can have it by cutting up the onions and mixing with the salt. After the jar is full it is a piece of cloth around the mouth and lay aside until wanted. The tomatoes will be soft, but if you are very careful, the skin will be unbroken. We have some now that were put up last summer, and all they require before cooking, is to place them in water until some of the saltiness is taken out.

I never write for the public eye, but some friends requested me to send you this, as I was one of two persons who tried this method and found it to succeed. — We like to hear people tell good stories while they are at it. Read the following from a late Western paper: "In the late days were seen hopping about with their feathers blown off." We have heard of gales at sea where it required four men to hold the captain's hair on.

Butler says "there's room enough for him and other men in this world." That's the reason decent people give him a wide berth. But he'll be cramped in the other world.

One of the finest plantations on the Arkansas river recently sold for five cents per acre.

LOCAL MISCELLANY

In our last issue, and in the present number, we have enclosed accounts to a large number of our subscribers...

DEATH OF DR. L. S. EICHELBERGER.—A groom was cast over our community on Wednesday last, when the information was conveyed to us of the sudden and unexpected death of Dr. Lewis S. Eichelberger.

Among the first class houses of the city, in its line, is that of CANNON & CO., importers and jobbers of dress, pants, glassware, &c.

On German street, near Chapel, is the hardware house of FRIEBER, BUEHLER & CO., one of the most extensive and complete in the South.

TERIBLE ACCIDENT.—We find in the Lynchburg Republican of Sept. 2d, the following account of the shocking death of a son of the Rev. Dr. J. C. STYLES, who has on different occasions filled the pulpit of the Presbyterian Church of this town with such marked ability.

LAYING OF CORNER-STONE.—The ceremonies incident to the laying of the Corner-Stone of the M. E. Church, in Shepherdstown, on Thursday, 17th inst., by Calcedonia Lodge, No. 4, I. O. O. F., promise to be of a very attractive character.

REAL ESTATE AGENCY.—We have heretofore omitted to notice the association of Mr. Wm. N. CRAIGHILL, with the firm of Smith & Walton, real estate agents of this town.

ENTER'S SURE CURE.—It is said to be the best preparation for Cholera, Dysentery, Cholera Morbus, Cholera, Cramp Cholera, Flux, and Summer complaint in children, that has ever been used.

LIFE INSURANCE AGENTS WANTED.—A long established and first class Life Insurance Company in New York are in want of an Agent at Charleston, to take several counties as a district.

Baltimore and its Trade

The city of Baltimore, because of its general sympathy with us, is endeared to the people of our Valley, by the most indissoluble associations.

As a mart for business, she offers the most superior advantages, and for the ensuing fall trade, her merchants have made such arrangements in the matter of supplies, that satisfaction is assured to all who offer them their trade.
