RADICAL CORRUPTION! Expose by a Loyal Man. INSIDE VIEW OF THE WORKINGS OF THE REGISTRATION LAWS.

How the Rights of the People are Trampled Under Foot. The Sacred Right of Franchise made the Sport of "Blacks and Drunken Yagoodas."

WHEELING, February 3, 1870. To the Legislature of West Virginia: As you are now considering the question of amending the registration law of our State, I desire to lay before you a few plain truths...

During my candidacy in October last there was a difficulty in our county about a Board of Registration. It was removed, and I understand stated by the Governor himself, that according to that difficulty the people of Jefferson would probably have no election.

When the election came on, the names of persons who were registered, when the Board completed its work, were missing from the books. Considerable excitement prevailed in consequence, the authority of Roderick and company to take possession of and alter the books which the Board had completed and sealed being generally questioned.

Mr. Charles Traynor, a member of the Board, said he was not obliged to give testimony to criminate himself, and refused to testify.

Mr. Underkuff, in answer to the question, "how came you by the books?" said that Eckison and Hawn were both drunk, and therefore he took charge of them.

Mr. Eckison Roderick, a member of the last Board, being interrogated, said that the books were so scratched and scribbled over, that they were not fit to be sent to the polls.

Mr. Underkuff, in answer to the question, "how came you by the books?" said that Eckison and Hawn were both drunk, and therefore he took charge of them.

The testimony of Mr. Underkuff was that they were not the proper parties to have the books. He was asked if they were not the proper Board of Registration, and he answered "Yes."

The testimony of Mr. Roderick was that he had his commission in his pocket with the Governor's name signed. He was asked, "Who gave you your commission?" He answered, "I hardly know, but I've got it."

What a Soldier thinks of the War. General Morgan, one of the bravest soldiers whom the State of Ohio sent to the war, and at present a member of Congress from that State—a man against whose loyalty there has been no whisper of reproach—is reported, in the Congressional Globe, of Dec. 20th, as using the following language:

"But, sir, with my hand upon my heart, in the presence of the great God, who rules all nations and now watches over us, I here declare that I am now convinced, that the simple object of these leaders of the Republican party was the subversion of our free institutions and the declaration of war to that end."

The "Babes in the Woods." Sad Tale of the Wyocekie Children—The Three Dead Bodies Found on the Mountain. On New Year's day three children, some of Mr. Joseph Whyte, a respectable laboring man, residing near Pompton, in Passaic county, N. J., at the base of Wyocekie mountain, left home for the purpose of "going uptown" in the woods on the mountain.

It was four o'clock when they left home, so that their failure to return before nightfall occasioned but little alarm. After that, however, their continued absence rendered the distressed parents almost frantic. The fearful rain storm which prevailed during the night and part of the next day fearfully intensified the feelings of the bereaved father and mother, inasmuch as their little darlings had not yet been seen or heard from.

The innocent trio were found lying dead, side by side, on the south side of the mountain, some ten or eleven miles from their home. It was quite thick covered with timber where the bodies were discovered. From the appearance of the latter it is thought that the children existed for several days on the nuts they had gathered previously to being benighted, and having lost their way, were overtaken by physical exhaustion and starvation, which resulted in death.

WHAT DID HE SAY, LUDIA?—Good old Mrs. Call was very fond of her little grandchild, Lydia, who was a year and a half old. Lydia was a blooming lass, who loved a good frolic and knew well how to get one up— Lydia had arranged a junket, and the young men and maids were all on hand. Among the rest was General —, one of 'em. In the midst of the fun in popped old Deacon — to see how the widow fared with a new hand at the martinet, and Lydia was out of all patience. She wished he would go, and by and by he gets up to depart.

"O, Deacon," said mother Call, "don't think of going before tea." The good deacon, so strongly urged, replied: "Well, I rather think I will, as the folks will not expect me till dark." "What did he say, Lydia?" asked the widow. "Lydia had a ready answer. "He says he will not do, mother, as the folks expect him home before dark. Why how deaf you are, mother."

"O well, some other day, deacon, won't you?" said mother Call, as she showed the deacon out. "Smart girl, that," said the old deacon, trudging along home. "She'll find her way through, I'll warrant."

PEADDOYSMS.—It is not generally known, I believe, that the late George Peabody was a government pensioner. George served in the war of 1812 as a private soldier, and received a pension from the government yearly down to his death, also a land bounty warrant. He was as particular in procuring the pension when it was due as he was in meeting obligations involving hundreds of thousands of dollars. As an instance of the closeness of the man in his business transactions, it is told that in the course of his dealings he offered a certain important account to remain unpaid a brief time simply because the figures fell short three dollars in a transaction of one hundred thousand dollars. His relatives in Peabody, Mass., think he should have made a provision in his will covering his funeral expenses. According to the plans laid out, the expenses will nearly absorb the sum willed by him to those who are required to bury him. His sister, Mrs. Dana, formerly a Boarder, has been endeavoring to make the funeral arrangements a strictly sectarian affair. This sister the committee have found a tough subject to deal with, on account of her peculiarities. —Boston Cor. Chicago Journal.

An editor of West became a capitalist, and on parade, instead of saying, "Two pence in front—advance," two dollars a year in advance. "Cash down," he unobscurely exclaimed. "Read your newspaper, and sentences to read his own newspaper for three months." An old fellow being visited by his pastor, he assured him he could not by a good christian unless he took up his duty cross. Whereupon he caught up his wife and began dragging her about the room.

TO THE PATRONS OF THE SPIRIT OF JEFFERSON.

Having purchased the press, type, fixtures, good will and all appurtenances to the office of the Spirit of Jefferson, and being desirous of retaining all the old patrons, as well as obtaining many new ones, we pledge our earnest endeavor to keep the paper up to its former standard.

The internal improvements, and material interests of the county will receive special attention and advocacy at our hands.

DISABILITIES REMOVED.

As we anticipated in our last issue, the Attorneys and Teachers' test-oaths have been repealed by the Legislature of West Virginia. This we regard as the entering wedge to the repeal of all the unjust and tyrannical legislation which has disgraced the statute-book of this State for the last five or six years.

FIFTEENTH AMENDMENT.

The Fifteenth amendment to the Constitution of the United States has been ratified by the requisite number of States—twenty-eight—the Legislature of Georgia having completed the work.

THE LEGAL-TENDER CASE.

The law of the land, says the Baltimore Gazette, is now clear and explicit. All money obligations contracted prior to February 25, 1862, are payable in coin.

VIRGINIA.

The Inaugural Address of Governor Walker, is a frank, independent and hopeful paper. It commends itself to general approval, and entitles its author to the continued confidence and support of the people of Virginia.

Richmond, Va., February 10.—In the Legislature the House Judiciary Committee reported adversely to a resolution referred to it at the brief session in October, proposing the re-inauguration of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments.

Before the war there was very little of official corruption in the Southern States, and such transactions as have disgraced the Legislature of Pennsylvania were unknown; but since the inauguration of Radical rule under the auspices of reconstruction, all the vices which are common in the governments of Northern States, have become familiar in Dixie Land.

Nepotism has reached its climax in the appointment of Master Dent Sharpe as a cadet to the Naval Academy at Annapolis. This youngster is the only appointee at large to the Naval Academy who is not the son of an army or naval officer; but he is the son of Dr. Sharpe, Marshal of the District of Columbia, and nephew of President Grant.

Mr. Dawes states that there are five hundred necessary officers in the army, whose annual pay is $1,250,000! This is one of the facts which Butler justly said tended to impair the confidence of the administration.

THE PARIS OUTBREAK.

PARIS, Monday, Feb. 14.—The Marsais (Henri Rochefort's paper) appears this morning with a characteristic article, over the signature of M. Rochefort himself.

PARIS, Feb. 8.—12 M.—M. Rochefort was arrested as he was on the point of entering a political meeting in the Rue de Valenciennes (along from Belleville to La Villette). Although there was a great crowd of people present, and mainly of his own partisans, he made no resistance and no appeals to the crowd.

At eleven o'clock, a body of police charged the barricade in the Rue du Faubourg du Temple, and attempted to carry it, but was repulsed. One of the commissaries was dangerously wounded and one policeman killed.

A great number of arrests have been made. At 3 o'clock the morning, over 300 persons had been taken into custody and imprisoned in the barracks Prince Eugene.

PARIS, February 8—6 P. M.—In the Corps Legislatif to-day M. Keratry, one of the Liberal Deputies, demanded to know why Rochefort was not arrested before going to the political meeting where five hundred persons were assembled.

A member of the Ministry explained that the authorities had refrained from arresting Rochefort at the Chamber to avoid the scandal to which his arrest at such a place would have given rise.

PARIS, February 8—3 A. M.—The disorders broke out again at Belleville and in the Rue du Faubourg du Temple at midnight.

PARIS, February 9—10 P. M.—At noon the law of tranquility had been restored in all the districts where disturbances arose last night, and up to this hour the city has remained quiet.

PARIS, February 9—3 A. M.—The disorders broke out again at Belleville and in the Rue du Faubourg du Temple at midnight.

PARIS, February 9—Noon.—The morning journals have the following details of the disturbances which occurred last night:

There had been much excitement among the people during the day, which culminated about midnight in new outbreaks. These were confined to the locality, nor were they on the scene of those suppressed yesterday at La Villette and Belleville, but bearing the centre of the city and only a few squares from the Palais Royal.

PARIS, February 10—4 P. M.—The city is tranquil. Armed police are patrolling the quarter lately occupied by the rioters. Gustave Flourens has not yet been arrested.

present trouble, the Emperor and his staff, in full uniform, were prepared if the riot became an insurrection to join the troops.

LIVELY TIMES IN CONGRESS.

Butler instigated in the House and in the Senate. We are pleased to observe that there is some little disposition in the present Congress to rid itself of Massachusetts rule.

It is meant enough that members have become tired of the impudent rule of Massachusetts. Hear has been rejected, Boutwell has been snubbed, and Sumner's ignorant pretensions rebuked in the Senate and House by all parties.

Mr. Cox said (among other things) he (Mr. Butler) had no sensibility to his position before the country, and did not know how people regarded him.
