eastern France, and now occupy Dole. An effective force is said to be in readiness to resist their further progress. The fortifications of Lyons and the neighboring heights have been greatly strengthened. Good order is now preserved at Marseilles, A number of despatches from different points confirm the statement published vesterday that Russia had demanded a revision and, to a great extent, the abandonment of the treaty of Paris of 1856. A Brussels paper says that Russia has always felt that the neutrality of the Euxine was insupportable to her. Much excitement had been caused in St. Petersburg by the rumor that the demand had been made, and it was said that in the event of its being true, that the British Minister would demand his passports.

The British Foreign Office has sent a special mission to Versailles to ascertain Bismarck's views as to the threatening note of Russia repudiating her obligations of the treaty of 1856. He is to be informed that England, Austria and Italy will, together, resist any violation of the treaty by Russia.

Miraculous Meteorological Phenome-

The Rain Fulls for Five Days, in Clear Weather, on a Group of Graves, and Nowhere Else.

For several days there have been mysterious and vague rumors of a most remarkable meteorological phenomenon out at the Catholic graveyard, on Stone street, above the Three-Mile Creek. It is asserted by those who say they have seen it, that for the last five days a gentle shower has fallen' continuously on the lot of the Lemoine family, in which are buried Mr. Victor Lemoine and many others of his family. With a view of getting at the facts of this most extraordinary affair, we had last night an interview with Mr. Louis B. Lemoine, employed at Asa Holt's, a son of the deceased Victor Lemoine, who died in 1851, who related the following startling particulars: "Having heard that it was reported that it had been raining for several days on the enclosed ground which forms my family buryingground on Stone street, above the Three mile creek. I drove out there last evening to satisfy myself, and to my intense astonishment I saw that a column of rain was coming down without ceasing, which although hardly powerful enough to lay the dust, was enough to wet the hands or any article, and at times it rained quite hard. The volume of rain fell inside of the enclosure, and nowhere else, as the weather was, and had been bright and clear all the time during the five days the rain has been falling on these graves. There are thirteen of my family buried in the lot of ground upon L vass. Col. Ames being near, approached and which it has been raining. My mother, brother, and sisters visited the spot vesterday and the day before to satisfy themselves about too, saw this wonderful phenomenon. It has with Russell. also been seen by over 200 persons. I took a friend with me when I visited the spot, who also saw the rain falling as described. Mr. John Rosset, the keeper of the cemetery, told me that the rain, had commenced falling in statement. So incredible did this extraordinary affair the canvas. seem, that those who saw it several days ago refrained from saying or asserting what they | Sd instant. His body was escorted to Macon but their sanity would be questioned, and it first respectability had seen and reported the result of their personal observations, any credence was attached to the truth of the matter. Take it altogether, it is certainly the most astounding and miraculous atmospheric wonder that has ever been witnessed in this part of the world, and will doubtless afford abundant food for thought, research, and observation, not only among scientific men, but among all classes. There are so many who youch for the truth of Mr. Lemoine's statement, and his character for veracity is such. that there can no longer be any doubt of the fact that it has been raining for the past five days on the graves of his kindred.

ALBANY, GA., Nov. 5 .- A man named H. R. Russell, who was in an intoxicated condition, asked the doorkeeper at the side-show of a circus the price of admission, then passed his family in and asked "how many?" He replied "nine." Russell said "four."

The doorkeeper said he would call the family back to prove Mr. Russell was mistaken. Russell got angry and struck the doorkeeper, nearly knocking him down. He then drew a pistol and threatened to blow the doorkeeper's brains out. The latter said he meant no offence, Russell still threatening with the cocked pistol, the keeper ran inside the canremarked to Russell that "that was not the place to get up a difficulty." MISCELLANEOUS.

A Monstrous Birth. The following account of a monstrosity is furnished by a Dealaware correspondence of the Cincinnati Commercial: Our community is much excited over a freak of nature in the production of a double baby. The Siamese twins are completely morning it consisted of Mr. Jos. Finley, his Finley was confined and gave birth to twins in part it is said, of four tracks, joined together in a manner unknown to the books. When the gossips brought the news of the event to our city, and gave descriptions of the child, or rather children, it was laughed at by the professionals and pronounced a good houx. A gentleman living in the vicinity of the Finley home called on one of our physicians and assured him that there was no exaggeration in the description, as he had seen the wonder. Convinced that there was something in the case, a party of gentlemen, consisting of Drs. J. A. Little and T. B. Williams, Mr. W. O. Seamens, Professor of Natural History and Chemistry in the Ohio Wesleyan University, and S. K. Donavan, on the 16th ult., visited the family. Before reaching the Finley farm the party called on Dr. A. E. Westbrook, of Ashley, who had been called to attend the mother, and learned from him that the half had not been told. Dr. Westbrook accompanied the party.

An hour's drive brought them to the place. On going to the gate leading to the yard, a written notice was discovered, announcing that visitors would not be admitted. This did not deter the party. They immediately entered the yard, and on reaching the front door of the dwelling, they were met be Mr. Finley, (the father,) and a gentleman who appeared to be acting as his aid-de camp, who informed the party that they would be admitted to see the show on the payment of twentyfive cents each. The professor promptly forked over, and the party stepped in. In a few minutes the nurse made her appearance with the wonder. A double child was exhibited. Two perfectly formed heads, one on either end of the spinal column. To give a clearer idea, suppose that you sever the bodies of two men at the lower part of the abdomen. and then put the two upper parts together, and you have the trunk of this child.

At the instance of Drs. Williams and Little, the clothing was taken from it, and a critical examination was made, so far as could be without doing injury. From the occiput of one child to the occiput of the other there is a continuous spine, in a direct line. Upon one side and directly in the centre of the trunk, were perfectly developed hips, thighs, legs and feet. They are in nice proportion to the body of either child. On the opposite side there is one large, imperfectly formed leg. presenting the appearance of the consolidation of two legs. There are eight toes on this limb, two of which have the appearance of great toes, being much larger than the others. Each has a well formed head, good features, good chest, good arms and hands, lung, heart, liver, and stomach. Between the perfectlyformed limbs, and properly situated, are the anus and sexual organ, in common. The lower portion of the bowels, the bladder, and, perhaps, the kidneys are in common. All the other organs are separated. There was but one umbilical cord and one placenta. The length of the body is twenty inches, and the umbilicus is central in the abdomen. and equidistance from each head. It nurses well at party, one child was asleep and the other was When either head would cry, the perfect leg which was nearest that head, kicked and drew had seen, for fear that not only their veracity, by the City Council of Dawson. The parties on the imperfect foot would move, but the well-earned fame and fortune. limb remained stationary. Both heads nurse well, and the child, or rather children, are in excellent health. The physicians could see no reason why it, or they, should not live .-The mother is doing well. There was no physician present at the birth, and the labor pains lasted only fifteen minutes. Mr. Finley is alive to the importance and value of this addition to his family. He is now charging gate money, and he informed the writer that he had already entered into an article of agreement with a gentleman for the sale of the body if it should die. Price fixed is $10. 000. Negotiations are in progress for its exhibition, if it lives. He is convinced that there is money in it dead or alive. He says he is conscious of the fact that he "is an unlarned man, but has sense enough not to be fooled out of it."

It was, we believe, as early as 1843, twentyseven years ago, and when only, recently arrived at his majority, that Mr. Thomas Winans first became directly interested in contracts with the Russian Government, In these he was a partner with Messrs. Harrison & Eastwick of Philadelphia; the work lasted about six years, and amounted to from five to ten millions of dollars. It included a magnificent cast iron bridge over the Neva, at St. Petersburg-then, if not now, the largest in the world. In 1849 Mr. Eastwick retired. and a new and enlarged contract was made in 1850 by the Russian Government with Mr. Thomas Winans, Mr. Joseph Harrison, Jr., and Mr. William L. Winans, the second son of Ross Winans, who, like Thomas, his brother, had been schooled in the machinery establishment in Baltimore from his seventeenth year. Fully organizing this great contract, Mr. Thomas Winans returned to Baltimore in 1851, after some eight years abode, bringing a beautiful and intelligent wife, whom he had married in St. Petersburg. He left his acute and indefatigable brother, William, in charge of his heavy interests in Russia, and settled in Baltimore to enjoy the well-earned fruits of his own energy-keeping up, however, a close supervisory relation by means of weekly reports of the various operations. Mr. Winaus bought the large square of ground on West Baltimore street, extending to Hollins street, where his friends, Niernsie & Nelson, the architects, rapidly erected his present city residence, which has been, with its attractively cultivated grounds, so much admired by citizens and sojourners in Baltimore. In this place, known as Alexandroffsky after the then Grand Duke, now Emperor, Alexander, -and at his elegant country place, near Franklin, four miles from town, and called the Crimea -Mr. Winans lived from 1851 till after the death of his wife in 1861, when he left his beautiful home palaces and his friends, and taking his three children, went off again to busy pursuits in St. Petersburg and London. In 1862 the great contract in Russia terminated, and it was then awarded for five years to a French and Russian company, under the belief that Mr. Winans and his two partners were getting too repidly enriched. In less than three years however, in 1865, the new contractors had to be superseded, being inadequate to manage the growing service, and Mr. Winans and his brother became sole contractors for eight years, under largely increased prospects and improved conditions. In 1867 negotiations were opened by the Czar for the sale of the public works to private parties, when the Winaps Brothers bid over $100,000.000 for the Imperial Railway -one-third or one-half cash, and the remainder on short credits. This will give some idea of the means then at their control. But jentousy of the American contractors, and all other foreigners, led to the sale of the work to a grand Russian Society, who now own and work it, the Government having paid the Messrs. their official engagements in Russia, though they are yet very heavy owners, it is believed, tection, but by means of which, acting in conof valuable properties there.

The health of Mr. Thos. Winans having become impaired (temporarily it is hoped,) by his labors in the heavy operations engaging his attention in 1867-'68-'69, he has come to Baltimore again, after his second long absence; and here it is, we know, the general wish of our citizens that he may remain with us in restored health, to enjoy his enlarged wealth among his relatives and older friends. In concluding this extended notice of our

Tribute to General Lee.

The following beautiful and touching tribute to the memory of General Lee, was delivered by Wm. Kilgour, Esq., of Loudoun county, in a speech at Alexandria, Va., recently :-When last I had the honor of addre a portion of my fellow cittizens of Alexandria, I took occasion to allude to the overwhelming and sad calamity that had avertaken our people at Richmond. To day the great heart of Virginia is paralyzed with grief. Her sons and her daughters are weeping over the newly mady grave of the noblest chieftain of the land. Like the continuous sob of the weary waves that come telling their story to the pebbles on the beach, will be the endless anthems of praise from our people to the memsoldier, christain and philantropist, in bosom of the soil thou hast so nobly and bravely defended, and in the midst of a people who loved thee whilst living and who will cherish thy memory in death. Sacred and hallowed spot that holds thy honored remains -sacred at morn when the flowers bending with the dew of heaven drop their silent tears at noon when the shades throw their sombre mantle-at eve when the dove sends forth its plaintive melody—at night when the silent stars ereep out in the blue arched vault of heaven to light the footsteps of the pilgrim who comes to invoke blessings at its shrine. I will not speak to you of the virtues of General Lee; you all know them. The traveller, when he stood at the pass of Thermora'se, and read the inscription, Stranger go and the Lacodamonians that we lie here in obedience to their law, turned and asked 'why their names were not also inscribed,' and the proud reply was that no Greek would ever forget them.'-The memory of Lee needs no monument to perpetuate it, but if one must be erected, let it be plain, simple and unpretending like himself, and then take his own sword, which was never sheathed in dishonor, and write upon its marble columns the proudest motto that could go forth to the world, and which fell from his

On Tuesday night, October 11th, 1870, Gen. TO OUR PATRONS.

It is now nearly a year since we took charge of the Spirit of Jefferson, and although laboring under all the disadvantages of conducting a paper already under pecuniary emberresement, and at times sorely pressed for means, we have weathered the storm thus far ; and, with the aid of our patrons, expect to continue to do so.

But in the newspaper business, as in all others, we must have money to earry it on,-We have paper and ink to bry, employees to 'pay, and last, though not least, our families to support-all of which demand the cush.

Up to this time but lew of our patrons have paid their subscriptions, although we need it badly. Three dollars may seem but an unimportant item to them, but yet when aggregated together, it amounts to hundreds for us .-Winter is now upon us, and if those who owe us subscription money for the Spirit will call and settle, or remit to us by mail or otherwise, though the chilly northern blasts may howl about the printer's domicil, and every hill be capped with snow, he will at least be cheered by the reflection that his subscribers have enabled him to make some provision for the long and dreary winter.

This change puts an end to the disgraceful practice of the Radicals in suspending the rules and forcing a measure through by a two thirds vote, and it has been suggested as a very reasonable probability that by a combination of Démocrats and Conservative Republicans, a Conservative speaker may be chosen over an extreme Rad-

FRANCE AND PRUSSIA.

From the condensed news column of the Baltimore Gazette, we make up the following summary :-

THURSDAY'S NEWS. A late despatch from London speaks of the feeling in the city upon the Russian question as being intense, and the excitement almost without precedent. So strong is the feeling that Government finds itself pressed forward to an altitude that it did not intend at first to assume, being convinced that it is unsafe to Orders have been given from the Admiralty to man and prepare the entire fleet of England at the principal scaports. The works is to go on day and night, and with all possible activity. It is reported from Warsaw that the reserves of the Russian army have been for some time secretly called in; that the army con-tracts for bread this year are double those of the last; that the manufacture of arms is proceeding in all the foundries with great energy and the fleets at Cronstadt are being constant-

Letters received in London from Versailles report the situation of the Prussians as extremely critical, and alarm prevails among all who understand the situation. Officers of high rank have said that the Germans find themselves besieged, and that a transformation of the scene has occurred. Confidence and bravery among the French people have taken the place of depression and fear, and to sum up, it is added, in brave words: "Everything promises a complete turning of the tables, to the utter annihilation of the invaders."

FRIDAY'S NEWS. Cable desnatches this morning are almost engrossed-with numerous details relative to the threatened complications growing out of the attempt of Russia to secure a revision of the Paris treaty. The general appearance of the news is that war between Russia and Great Britain and her allies, whoever they may prove to be, must be regarded as imminent.

The preparations throughout England, for war, are extensive. Gibralter is being repro visioned and powder in large quantities is being purchased by the Government. Lord Napier, of Magdala, is named as the Commander-in-Chief of the British army, Lord Lucan taking command of the cavalry. The demands of Gortschakoff are said to be generally approved by the Russians. The conditions of a humiliating treaty, they say, have been carried out with fidelity for fourteen years, and that now is their time, or never .-They believe that England will not fight. It is remarked that Russia must be prepared for any event, or she would not have ventured on so bold a step. The Russian papers contain strong articles, expressing hope of peace, but stating that the country is ready for war if it shall become necessary.

SATURDAY'S N Rumors are reported to be reaching London, thick and fast, creating a general impression that nothing can avert war. One is, that Austria has ordered a large force to the Turkish frontier, that the country may be ready to co-operate with other Powers should there be a breaking out of hostilities.

The King of Prussia yesterday telegraphed the Queen-from Versailles that the Duke of Mecklenburg had repulsed the French along the whole line near I reux, taking many prisoners, and pursuing them towards Lemans. The advance of the army of Prince Frederick Charles reached Auxerre yesterday, ten days march from Toury. Great consternation and excitement is said to have been caused in London yesterday, by the receipt of a despatch from Secrecary Fish. there, concerning the Alabama claims -Though its contents were unknown to the public, it was assumed that Russia and the United States have a secret understanding. MONDAY'S NEWS. The feeling said to prevail all over England as decidedly warlike, but the Cabinet is divided on the Russian question, which it is thought may lead to a dissolution of the Ministry. Granville insists that England must now take a firm stand or forever give up her influence in European affairs. The prince of Wales, speaking for the Queen, is understood to have conveyed to the Cabinet her Majesty's Tragedy in California.

From the San Francisco Bulletin we give the following particulars of the assassing Indee A. P. Crittenden, in California, one of the ablest lawyers in that State :-

Judge Crittenden had crossed over to Oak-and to meet his wife and daughters, who had peen East for several months, and was returning with them and his two sons to this city in the ferryboat El Capitan when the tragedy occurred. Mr. Crittenden was seated outside he saloon on the upper deck, with his back against the wheel-house, bis wife nestled closely by his side. Close to them was their ttle son, and a few feet further back was seated Miss Crittender, a young lady of about To the left, with her back to the saloon and facing Miss Crittenden, sat a woman alone by herself, dressed in a loose suit of black, with a long cape hung from her shoulders, under which she carefully concealed her hands. There was, besides, a thick veil over her face a large muffler which concealed her mouth and chin. She sat there almost unnoticed and unobserved by any one, although two or three remarked that she must be an invalid from the way she was bundled up, and thought it strange she should be sitting outside in the cold, raw air of a November evening. The boat had scarcely reached deep water when the sharp crack of a pistol was heard, which brought everybody to their feet. It was 'a frightful scene. There on the floor, uncouseious of all that surrounded him, lay George Crittenden. His wife had fainted away, and his daughter was on her knees, with clasped hands, crying out bitterly, "Papa, speak to me; oh, speak to me once more! You will not die, will you, papa?" But he did not answer; only a low, gurgling sound was heard, as if the wounded man was gasping for breath. He lingered in an unconscious state until morning, when he died. The murderess, Mrs. Fair, is a tall, slight woman, and there are traces in her face which indicate that she was once beautiful. She advanced upon Mr. Crittenden with a nerve and coolness worthy of a Wilkes Booth, placed the pistol within two feet of his breast, fired, dropped the pistol upon the deck, and rau, getting into the crowd of passengers.

The ball entered Mr. Crittenden's right breast under the nipple. He sat for a few seconds as if nothing had happened to him. and then rose and fell senseless to the floor. It was done so suddenly that neither his wife, nor son, nor daughter, who were near him. could realize what had occurred until they saw him prostrate and bleeding before them.

It was fully five minutes before the murderess was discovered, and then she was found standing in a cool and collected manner among the crowd usually on the evening boat. On being charged with the deed, she admitted it immediately, saying, "I did it, certainly. -Ves. I did it. I was looking for the clerk of the boat to give myself up."

Parker Crittenden, the son, who was on the lower deck at the time of the deadly attack; on being informed of it, he said immediately, "I know who did it; I knew it would come to this." He was terribly excited, and when he came face to face with Mrs. Fair it was with difficulty he could be prevented from wreaking his revengeful wrath upon her. Mrs. Fair was arrested and was conveyed to the city prison. Here she become so violent that it was necessary to send for a medical man to devise some means of quieting her. He administered stimulents, but they rather increased than lessened her ravings. At one time a glass of water was given her, when she took the glass between her teeth and crushed it to pieces. A large piece got into her mouth, and had the physician not been very quick she would have swallowed it; but he cought her by the throat and forced the glass from her ;

Mr. Crittenden is a nephew of the late Hon. J. J. Crittenden, of Kentucky, and was one the most prominent citizens of this city .-As a lawyer he had few equals and no superiors among those practicing in San Francisco. His opinions upon any question were generally

So infatuated was he with her that every-caprice and whim of hers was gratified, and in a few years she had squandered his splendid fortune. But when he became a bankrupt she cast him off and took up with another man. Fair was a man of tender sensibilities, and so deeply did his disgrace wear on him that one night in 1858 he entered the office of Dr. Murphy, an intimate friend, and after remaining a few minutes, took out a pistol and shot himself dead. When she married with Snyder he and his friends thought the trouble was ended, but after the divorce she seems to have determined to renew her relations with him. He remained fixed in his determination to get rid of her, and counseled with some of his friends as to the method he ought to pursue. He was advised to repel her at once and forever. He seems to have thought she would, in that event, kill-herself, and unpleasant disclosures would ensue: She threatened to commit suicide if he left her. He even went away from his place of residence to avoid her, and she was told not to come to his office. -All his efforts to escape from the toils were fruitless. Even the night before the tragedy they were in each other's company. He talked seriously to her, she threatening to kill herself if he forsook her, and he imporing her not to make such an attempt. In all his conversations lately with friends about Mrs. Fair he never intimated a suspicion that she would attempt to kill him, but spoke of her threats to put an end to her own existence.

ast, our people were shocked by the sudden death of our old and respected citizen, Mr. Joseph Hollingsworth, of this town. Being in his usual good health and spirits, at five o'clock he left his house and loved ones-little thinking for the last time, with no idea that death was so near at hand-to go out on the commons after his cow, and when on his way back the fatal summons came. He fell on the west side of Braddock St., and it is believed, died with scarcely a struggle. When found, the coroner was at once notified and a jury of inquest held, which, after being instructed by Drs. Miller and Holliday, who were called to examine the body, rendered a verdict that. death was caused by heart disease. [Winchester News

Smiley and Black were both bricklayers in very intimate friends, and were both boarding at the house of Mr. Bush, where Black was killed. Messrs Black and Smiley are both men of families—the former living in or near Keezletown, and the latter near Mt. Crawford. When Smiley told Black to get out of the house, Black said, "let me out then," and, at the same time commenced retreating backwards through an intervening room, into the front room, where Black picked up a chair and threw it at Smiley. Smiley retreated from the house by the front door, and Black ran out of the back door, fell a few steps from the house, and died in a few minutes. In the affray he had received a severe cut, extending from the corner of the left eye through the temple into the ear, severing the temple artery; another deep stab just above the left hip bone another a few inches above and to the left of the last, a siight cut just below the naval, and a severe cut on the right hand, probably received while warding off the cuts of Smiley. The Next Senator from West Virginia. The many friends in this vicinity, of the ION. WM. II. TRAVERS, of Charle heard with great pleasure that he is likely to be a prominent candidate for the seat in the U.S. Senate to become vacant in March next. Mr. Travers as Speaker of our House of Delegates exhibited those qualities calculated to give a member of a Legislative Body weight Mayor N. K. Trout had a jury of inquest summoned immediately, and after a thorough examination, made by Dr. Hanger, and a hearand the forms of business, he also made him-self felt as a ready and fluent debator; well read in constitutional history, and posted in the changing polities of the country, he would bring to the responsible duties of the contemmation, but an ability to make it efficient, by peaceful and vigorous oratory. Quiet and unassuming in manner, and never seeking to arrogate anything to himself, he would win golden opinions from his peers by gentlemanly courtesy, somewhat too rare among them; and his power of comprehending and expressing himself upon the great questions of the Senate Chamber. The fact that he has for many years been out of pub-lic life is in his favor, as he would bring to the discharge of his duties a freshness of feeling and an earnestness, wholly impossible to the old party back, with whom politics is simply a trade. Neither have we gone so utterly "to the bad" as to have lost all appreciation for pure private character and life in the Council Halls of the nation, and the possession of these great recommendations by Mr. Travers, none ho know him will question.

The chance offered to your Legislature to fill their vacant seat with a gentleman and a schol ar, upon whose ability to represent their State they can confidently rely, and of whose fidelity to all honorable obligations, they would al ways feel assured, is a good one, and if it is embraced it will gratify very many in this State to find that the choice of Mr. Travers has put "the right man in the righ place." SPECIAL NOTICES A Body and Mind Disease. Such is dyspepsia. The stomach and the brain are too intimately allied for the one to suffer without the other, so that dyspepsia and despondency are inseperable. It may be added, too, that irritation of the stomach is almost invariably accompanied by irritation of the temper.

'The invigorating and tranquilizing operation of Hostetter's Bitters is most powerfully developed in cases of indigestion. The first effect of this agreeable tonic is comforting and encouraging. A mild glow pervades the system, the chronic uneasiness in the region of the stomach is lessened, and the nervous restlessness which characterizes the disease is abated. This improvement is not transient. It is not suc cerded by the return of the old symptoms with super-added force, as is always the case when unmedi-cated stimulants are given for the complaint. Each dose seems to impart a permanent accession of healthful invigoration. But this is not all. The aperient and antibilious properties of the prepara-tion are scarcely secondary in importance to its onic virtues. If there is an overflow of bile the secre tion is soon brought within proper limits, and if the bileary organ is inert and forpid it is toned and The effect upon the discharging organs s equally salutary, and in cases of constipation the cathartic action is just sufficient to produce the desired result gradually and without pain. The Bitters also promote healthy evaporation from the sur-face which is particularly desirable at this season when sudden spells of raw, unpleasant weather are apt to check the natural perspiration and produce congestion of the liver, coughs, and colds. Lee Memorial Association. At the regular semi-annual meeting of the Lee Memorial Association, held at Lee Hall, Nov. 7, 1870; Col. R. W. Baylor in the Chair,

On motion a committee consisting of W. H. Travers, Jpo. A. Thomson, Jas. Law. Hosf: Col. R. P. Chew, and L. W. Washingson were appointed to draft resolutions in honor of the memory of Gen. R. E. Lee, which submitted the following:

M Whereas, A profound sense of the less to the country, and most especially to that porhis own great name is most closely associated prompts us to express our sorrow at the death of Gen. Robert E. Lee—the Christian patriot and warrior;

And Whereas, We are desirous, at the same time in some way, however humble, to testify our admiration of the lofty virtues which graced and adorned his fearless character. 1. Therefore Resolved, By the Lee Memorial Association of Jefferson county, that in the demise of the illustrious deceased, the nation at large has been bereft of one whose achievements in its service constitute some of the brightest pages in his history, and justly entitle him to its lasting gratitude and respect. 2. Resolved, That by the same sad event the people of the South have lost a chieftain on whom, in war and in peace they leaned with unfaltering confidence, and that in recognition of his devotion to the institutions of their fathers, they should and ever will cherish his memory and venerate his name. 2. Resolved, That the youth of the country to whose training and culture his closing years were dedicated, have been deprived of an unselfish benefactor, a faithful instructor, friend and protector, whose fidelity to duty and all the relations of life is worthy of their faithful remembrance and closest imitation.

4. Resolved, That we approve the design of erecting at Richmond, the scene of the greatest triumphs of his genius, a monument worthy to contribute to a perpetuation of his fame, and that we will heartily unite with kindred organizations to aid in accomplishing. at an early day, the patriotic purpose thus in contemplation.

5. Resolved, That these resolutions be entered on the minutes of the proceelings of the Association.

On motion the following were appointed on Monumental Committee to superintend the erection of the monument to the Confederate dead in Edge Hill Cemetery : Mesors. George W. T. Kearsley. C. (Porter, Col. R. P. Chew, George W. Eichelberger, B. C. Washington, W. H. Travers, Jas. Law. Hooff, and D. H. Cockrill

The Torchlight Procession in Shepherdstown.

We were prevented from being present at the grand torchlight procession, illumination and jollification in Sheeherdstown, on Saturday night last, but understand that it was a grand affair. The procession was large and imposing, forches, transparencies, &c., with appropriate mottoes, being in abundance. A considerable delegation from Charlestown, with wagons trimmed up in fine style, and a number of transparencies, were present, and were given the post of honor, infront of the procession. There were, we understand, about four bundred persons in the procession, the whole being enlivened by the music of the - Sharpsburg and Shepherdstown Brass Bands.

After marching through the principal streets, the concourse moved to the courthouse, where able and interesting addresses were delivered by Hon, A. R. Boteler, M.j. II. Kyd Douglass and Geo. M. Belizhoover, Esq. amid the repeated cheers of the deuse audience. Altogether, it is pronounced to have been a good time generally, such, indeed, as had not been witnessed in the old burg for many years.

- INCENDIARY ATTEMPT .- Some fiend in human shape made a daring attempt to start a fire in the heart of our town on Friday thorning last about 3 o'clock, by applying the sterels to the building occupied by Mr. Joseph H. Easterday, on Market House Square ; but Inckile, it was discovered and extinguished before making much headway. These buildings certainly present an unsightly appearance, but we do not approve of this mode of getting rid of them. This is the second iscendiary attempt in this quarter.

REFRESHING .- The Senior of the Spirit, on Monday evening last, whilst on his way to supper, was accosted by Mr. Joseph II. Easterday, and presented with a fine mess of oysters, which came at a very opportune moment, Mr. Easterday keeps them on hand at all times. He is an obliging and accommodating gentleman, and would be pleased to receive the calls of his old friends, as well as many new ones. Ye who are fond of ovsters, give him a call.

Ho FOR CHRISTMAS!-Merchants and others visiting Baltimore, will find it to their interests to call on E. F. Nicholson, 138 West Baltimore street, who has just received a large and varied assortment of Holiday Goods .-Mr. Nieholson is an honorable gentleman and clever dealer, and offers to our people a stock Virginia." Capt. S, J. C. Moore chairman, of goods equal to any in the city.

The Broadway House is now stocked with new goods of every description, which the agent is determined to sell at the lowest wholesale prices. Call and see for yourselves.

DEATH OF COL. DAVID GIBSON.-His friends will be pained to learn of the death. on the 10th inst. of Col. David Gibson, of Hampshire county. After a life of usefulficss, he goes down to the grave lamented by all who knew him. He died at the advanced age of 75 years.

As they warrant all their goods to give satisfaction or refund the money and expenses, no risk is run in sending them

A MASONIC PROJECT IN TENNESSEE .- In Tennessee the Masonic fraternity have projected a novel plan for taking care of the widows and orphans of deceased brothers of the "mystic tie." In each grand division of the State a thousand or more acres of land are to be acquired by gift or purchase, and this land will be cut up into small lots of one or two acres, with a small cottage on each lot. A portion of the land will be reserved for a school-house and church, thus making the locality a sort of community by itself. In most cases there will be children old enough to care for the land, practical test of the project.

BIOGRAPHY OF GENERAL LEE. - A special Dispatch from Lexington to the Richmond Disputch says:

The family of Gen. Lee have selected Col. Charles Marshall, of Baltimore, to write a full biography of the Great Chieftain, and will turn over to him ample material, including that collected by Gen. Lee himself, and his notes and letters of his campaigns. Col. Marshall will also prepare the biographical sketch for the forthcoming Lee Memorial, which the Faculty of Washington and Lee University are pushing forward to completion. To his high literary attainments Col. Marsall adds the rare qualification of having been Gen. Lee's private secretary during the war.

The component parts are BUCHU, LONG LEAD, CUBEBS, JUNIPER BERRIES.

MODE OF PREPARATION.

The seventy two Masonic lodges of the State have already raised nearly eighty thousand dollars toward the object to be accomplished, and by another year will have raised the amount desired, before making a practical test of the project.

In use.

Buchu, as prepared by Druggists, is of a dark color. It is a plant that emits its fragrance; the action of a flame destroys this (its active principle), leaving a dark and glutinous decoction. Mine is the color of ingredients. upon inspection it will meet with your approbation,
