Nervous Debility. Weakness of the system, nervous debility and premature decay, generally arising from the destructive habit of youth, that solitary practice so fatal to the healthful existence of man, and it is the young who are most apt to become its victims from an ignorance of the dangers to which they subject themselves. Parents and guardians are often misled with respect to the cause or source of disease in their sons and wards. Alas! how often do they ascribe to other causes the wasting of the frame, Palantation of the heart, dyspepsia, indigestion, derangement of the nervous system, cough, and symptoms of consumption, also those serious mental effects, such as less of memory, depression of spirits or peculiar toms of consumption, also those serious mental effects, such as less of memory, depression of spirits or peculiar tits of melancholy, when the truth is they have been indulging in pernicious but alluring practices, destructive to both body and mind. Thus are swept from existence, thousands who might have been of use to their country, a pleasure to their friends, and ornaments to tocicty.

Dr. Johnston's Invigorating Remedy for Organic Weakness.

This grand and important Remedy has restored trength and vigor to thousands of the most debilitated abandoned to die. By its complete invigoration of the nervous system, the whole faculties become restored to their proper power and functions, and the fallen fabric of life is raised up to beauty, consistency and duration, upon the ruins of an amaciated and premature decline, to sound and pristine health. BERRYVILLE MALE ACADEMY. Berryville, Clarke county, Virginia:

Berryville, Clarke county, Virginia:

THE next Session of this Academy will commence Ton Monday, the 5th day of September, 1853, under the charge of Mr. CARTER J. HARRIS, Principal.

The Trustees of this Institution have, after great pains and trouble, secured the services of a gentleman highly qualified in every respect for the responsible and important office of Instructor.

Mr. Harris graduated at the University of Virginia with high distinction, as will appear from testimonials now in the possession of the Board of Trustees. From these testimonials we have been permitted to take the following extracts. Dr. Harrison, one of the Professors in that Institution, in a letter bearing date July 23d, 1849, after stating that Mr. Harris attended his lectures, and took his degree, says: "I consider him very competent, both from his actual attainments and his capacity, to give an unusually high order of instruction in the Latin and Greek Languages, and have great confidence in recommending him, very decidedly, to parents who may wish to have their sons well taught in these objects of learning." Mr. Courteney, Professor of Mathematics, after expressing his "confident belief" in the capacity of Mr. Harris "to teach the several branches of Mathematics usually taught," &c., says that "I can therefore very cheerfully recommend him as competent to undertake the duties of a mathematical teacher in a school or academy."

In addition to these testimonials, the Trustees have

In addition to these testimonials, the Trustees hav In addition to these testimonials, the Trustees have other and highly satisfactory evidence (given as a teacher and conductor of a school for the last four years) not only of the high scholarship of Mr. Harris, but of his capacity to enforce and maintain proper and necessary discipline.

Parents and others interested in having their sons and those committed to their charge, prepared for admission into the advanced classes at one of the colleges of the United States, or for the useful and practical affairs of life, are invited to patronize the school. Board may be had in the village, or in the country at a convenient distance, not exceeding one mile and a half.

The course of study will comprise what are commonly known as the "Elementary English branches," a full course of pure Mathematics, the Latin and Greek Languages—also, it desired, the French, German and Italian Languages. Classics taught upon the plan pursued in the "University of Virginia," and in connection with the languages of the Greeks and Romans, so much as practicable of their History and Literature.

Mr. P. has no superior in the country.

His Assistant, Mr. FABNESTOCK, too, comes so strongly recommended as to give assurance of the highest efficiency in the departments to be committed to his change under the direction of the principal.

The Trustees therefore can say, with the fullest confidence to those having children to educate in this community, that there is no longer a necessity for sending them away, in order to a most thorough academical education; but that on the contrary the school now offers attractions to those abroad, rarely equalled and no where exceeded. MIDNIGHT MUSINGS.

FOR THE SPIRIT OF JEFFERSON. The thidnight moon looks coldly down; The stars float calmly on, The cares of day with day are gone, I sit and muse-alone. But shadowy forms are gathering fast; A dim and misty train, Before me, as in thockery, pass-To wring my litart again. Shades of departed joys ye are; Well, well your forms I ken But why so swiftly do ye pass, Scarce seen ere gode again? But their fingers soft have gently swept My spirit-harp along, And a beauteous echo left Of their low-murm'ring song. And the flowers I loved, in childhood They've pressed upon my brow, man in rags, and with a haggard air. And left their balmy fragrance there; It lingers round me now. There cometh yet a lovller band, The friends who shared those joys; Ah! stay, but one brief moment stay, And bid this heart rejoice! Stay-with your old familiar smile. The weary wanderer cheer, My sister, ah! and brother dear, Stay-rest one moment here. Gone!-all are gone-oh! human prayers Are ye of no avail? Did love-oh! chilling thought-depart When ye in death grew pale? And with the earth did earthly ties All fade and disappear, Do not the spirits of the blest Behold their loved ones here? Hark, methinks I hear soft music. Nearer still it floats along, Cease my heart, thy loud pulsations Listen to the lovely song.

"We have come, we have come, from the spiritland, From the land of the blest we have come, And we wait but to welcome you to the strand Where the weary find rest, and a home. "We bid you prepare for that radiant shore, Where no darkness succeedeth the day, Where the sorrowful heart shall sadden no more

'Tis gone-the gentle strain is gone! As coldly smiles the moon, The night steals silently along, And I-am still-alone! IMOGEN A****

Charlestown, Saturday night, August 20. THE FEVERED CITY.

BY REV. CHAS. W. DENISON. How little reck we, in our homes of ease, Fanned by the mountain air, the ocean breeze, Of the hot breathings that are falling now In blight and death on many a southern brow! What gentle winds around our dwellings come, Waving the boughs that shield our happy home! The whispering leaves lisp music to our panes, Where we sit listlessly and count our gains; The dimpling waves laugh as they pass us by, And birds, in troops, sweep gaily through the sky; The Viol, and the harp, and trumpet sound Where dancing circles sport their mazes round; Our bands of troops caparisoned anew, With clangor loud and long, pass in review; Our ships, with pennons high, and pinions spread, Bear forth the living, heedless of the dead; And the great car of trade, for woe no thought, Rolls on the ceaseless way—a Juggernaut! Oh! ve who breathe amid no fevered air, Think of the woes your southern kinsmen bear! Oh! ye who sport along Atlantic's shore, Think of that perished host ye meet no more! Call up those silent streets—that lone levee-And the unburied dead, swept to the sea! Go to that funeral pyre, whose fiames arise To light with horrid glare the midnight skies! Stand where the putrid heaps begrim the sod, Whose trembling souls, unshriven, have gone to God! Toil, with the Howard's, mid the crowd of rooms, Where dying shrieks and groams pierce through the But seek ye not the dead; seek those who live, And of your substance, quick oh! quickly, give!

CAPITAL FOR YOUNG MEN.

It is a consolation for all right-minded young men in this country, that though they may not be able to command as much pecuniary capital as they would wish to commence business with for themselves, yet there is a moral capital which they can have, that will weigh as much as money with people whose opinion is worth having. And it does not take a great while to accumulate a respectable amount of this capital. It consists of truth and integrity, to which may be added decision, firmness, courage, perseverance. With these qualities there are few obstacles which may not be overcome. Friends spring up and surround such a young man almost as if by magic. Confidence flows out to him and business accumulates on his hands faster than he can ask it. And in a few on his hands laster than he can ask it. And in a few short years such a man is far in advance of many who started with him having equal talents and large pecuniary means, and ere long our young friend stands foremost among the honored, trusted, loved. Would that we could induce every youthful reader to commence life on the principle that moral capital is the main thing after all. on his hands faster than he can ask it. And in a few

THE MYSTERIOUS TRAVELLERS.

In ancient times there lived at Manheim young man called Otto, who was brave and intelligent, but incapable of bridling his desires. When he wished for any thing he spared no effort to obtain it; and his passions were like the storm winds, which cross rivers, were like the storm winds, which cross rivers, valleys and mountains, crushing everything in their passage. Tired of the quiet life he led in Manheim, he one day formed a plan to set out on a long journey, at the end of which he hoped to find fortune and happiness. Consequently, he put his best clothes in a bundle, placed in his girdle all the money he possessed, and started without knowing whether he was going. After walking several days he found himself at the entrance of a forest, which extended as far as the eye could reach. Three travellers had stopped here, and seemed like travellers had stopped here, and seemed like imiself, to be preparing to cross it. One was a tall, haughty woman, with a threatening mein, holding in her hand a javelin; the second, a young girl, half asleep, reclining in a chariot drawn by four oxen; and the third, an old wo-

Otto saluted them; inquiring whether they were acquainted with the forest; they replied in the affirmative; he asked permission to accompany them, that he might not loose his way. All three consented, and they set out.-The young man soon perceived that his companions possessed supernatural powers; but he was not afraid, and continued his walk, conversing with the three strangers. They had already pursued for several hours the path marked out among the trees, when the sound of a horses footstep was liesed behind them. Otto turned and recognized a citizen of Manheim, who had always been his greatest enemy, and whom he had hated for many years. The citizen overtook the foot passengers, smiled insolently, and went on. Otto became very angry. "I would give all I possess, and almost all I ever expect to possess, to revenge my-self on the pride and haughtiness of that man." "I can satisfy thee," said the tall lady with the javelin. "Shall I make of him a blind and lame begger? You have only to pay to me the price of the transformation." "And what is the price?" asked Otto,

"I would willingly give it to be revenged." The young man had scarcely finished speaking, when the transformation promised by his panion took place, and herfound himsel blind of an eve. He was at first a little surprised, but consoled himself with the thought that the other was left, and that he could still see the misery of his enemy. Meanwhile, they continued to march several hours without reaching the end of the forest, the road constantly becoming steeper and more difficult. Otto, who began to be fatigued, looked with envy on the chariot in which the young girl was half reclining. It was so skillfully constructed, that the deepest roots scarcely jostled it.

"All roads must seem very smooth and short on this chariot," said he, approaching, " and I should like such an one myself." "Is that all?" replied the second traveller;

"I can this instant procure for you what you desire." She struck with her foot the chariot in which she rode, and Otto perceived a second equipage, drawn by a couple of black oxen. Recovering from his astonishment, he thanked the young girl, and was about to enter it, when she stopped him by a gesture. "I have fulfilled your desire," said slie; "but I cannot make a worse bargain than my sister has made. You have given her one of your eyes-I demand one of your arms."

Otto was at first a little disconcerted; but he was very tired—the chariot was before him, and as I have already said, he had never known how to conquer his desires; so, after a short hesitation, he accepted the proposal, and found himself seated in his new carriage, but deprived of his right arm. The journey continued thus for some time. Forest succeeded forest, and no outlet appeared. Meanwhile, Otto began to suffer from hunger and thirst. The old woman who was walking beside him, seemed to per-

"You are sad, my boy," said she; "when one is hungry, one is easily discouraged; but I possess a certain remedy against faintness." "What is it?" asked the young man.

"You see this flask which I have in my hand and often carry to my lips?" replied the travel-ler; "it contains joy, for fullness of trouble, and all the liopes of earth. Whoever drinks of it finds himself happy; and I will not sell it to you more dearly than my sister's, for I ask, in exchange, only half of your brain. The young man this time refused. He be gan to be frightened at these successive bargains. But the old woman made him taste of the liquor in the flask, which appeared to him so delicious, that after having resisted some time, he again consented.

The promised effect soon took place-he had scarcely drank when he felt his strength revive His heart became joyous and confident, and after having sung all the songs he knew, he slept soundly in the chariot, without caring what became of him. When he awoke the three travellers had disappeared, and he was alone at the entrance of a village. He tried to rise, but one side of his body was immovable; he tried to look, but the only eye he had left was dim; he attempted to speak, but his tongue stammered, and he could collect only half of his ideas. At last he comprehended the greatness of the sacrifices he had so lightly made the three travelling companions whom fate had sent him had left him no resources but to beg his bread until he died.

Would you know the name of these compar ions? The woman with the javelin was Hatred; the young girl reclining in the chariot, Indolence; and the woman with the flask Intem-

BURSTS-OF ELOQUENCE

The following burst of elequence was delivered before a court of Justice in Virginia: at your feet."

peech of a lawyer in New Jersey: "Your honors do not sit there like marble statues to be wafted about by every little breeze," Another orator commenced his harangue:

"The important crisis which were about to urrive have arriven." Another thus expatiated: "The court will please to observe that the centleman from the east has given them a very learned speech. He has roamed with old Ro-mulus, socked with old Socrates, ripped with Euripides, and canted with old Cantharides, but what, your honor does he know about the laws of Wisconsin?"

Extract from the argument of a young lawyer before a Mississippi justice:

"May it please the court—I would rather live for thirteen hundred centuries on the small nd of a thunderbolt—chaw the ragged end of lash of lightning—swallow the corners of a reginia worm fence, and have my howels torn out by a green briar, than to be thus bambooz-led by the gentleman."

We once knew an old Friend, who had but one piece of advice to young beginners: it was, "If thee'll only begin right, all will go well." We have often thought that there was more in the recommendation than even the good Quaker saw, for there is scarcely any good Quaker saw, for there is scarcely any thing to be done in life to which the adage, "begin right," will not apply. Success is but a synonyme for beginning right.

Who, for example, is the healthiest, the early riser or the sluggard? It is the man who begins the day right, by leaving his bed with the sun, and inhailing the fresh air of morning, not the one who remains till eight or nine o'clock, in a close chamber, sleeping a dull, stupifiying sleep. Who get's through his day's work the easiest? The early-riser.—
The man of business, who is at his store soon-The man of business, who is at his store soonest, is always best prepared for the customers of the day, and, indeed, has sold manya bill before his laggard neighbors are about. Sir Walter Scott used to have half his day's writing finished before breakfast. A shrewd observer has said that a late-riser consumes the day in trying to recover the hours he lost in the morning. Mind and body are both freshest early in the day. The lawyer should think, the minister study, the author writes, the vale-tudinarian walks or ride, and the mechanic or farmer be at work as early as possible. Nor is that all. The great bulk of enterprise that fails, owe their ruin to not having been begun right. A business is undertaken without sufficient capital, connection, or knowledge. It ends unfavorably. Why? Because it was not begun right. A young professional man, whose probationary period of study has been spent in pleasure rather than in hard reading, complains that he cannot succeed. Why, again? Because he has not begun right either! A stock company blows up. Still why? Ten to one, the means employed were not adequate to the end, or else it was started with insufficient officers, and in either case it was not begun right. Two young housekeepers break up their gay establishment, the lady goes home, perhaps, to her father's, taking her husband with her. Why? They did not begin right, for they commenced on too large a scale, for-getting that the expense of a family increase every year, and that, in no event, is it safe for a man to live up to his incoitte. An inventor starts a manufactory, in which his improvements in mahienery is brought into play; but after while he finds himseslf insolvent; his factory is sold; another reap where he has sown. undertaken more than he has means to carry through: he did not want to begin right; and his ruin was the consequence.

But, above all things, life should be begun right. Young men rarely know how much their conduct, during their first few years affects their subsequent success. It is not only that their older persons, in the same business, from their opinions of them at this time, but that every beginner acquires, during these years, habits for good or ill which color his whole future career. We have seen some of the ablest young men, with every advantage of fortune and friends, sow the seed of ruin and early death, by indulging too freely in the first years of manhood. We have seen others, with far less capacity, and without any backing but industry and energy, rise gradually to fortune and influence. Franklin is a familiar illustration of what a man can do who begins right. If he had been to proud to eat rolls in the street when he was a poor boy, he would never have been Minister Plenipotentiary to the Court of France.

Always begin right! Survey the whole ground before you commence any undertaking, and you will then be prepared to go forward successfully. Neglect this, however, and you are almost sure to fail. In other words, begin right. A good commencement is half the battle. A false first step is almost certain defeat. BEGIN RIGHT! [Public Ledger.

THE HUMAN MACHINE. In the course of an address to the Mechanics' Institute of Washington, delivered by Pro-fessor Henry, its President, in speaking on the subject of motive power, he said:

"The Human body is itself an admirably contrived complex machine, furnished with evers, pulleys, cords, valves, and other appliances for the application and modification of the power derived from the food. It is in fact, a locomotive engine, impelled by the same power which, under another form, gives activty and energy to the iron horse of the railway. In both the power is derived from the combustion of the carbon and hydrogen of the organic matter employed for food or fuel. In both the direction of power is under the direction of an immeterial. thinking, willing principles called the soul, But this must not be confounded, as it frequently is, with the motive power. The soul of the man no more moves the body. than the soul of the engineer moves the locomotive, and its attendant train of cars. In both cases the soul is the directing, controlling principles, not the impelling power. Let, for example, a locomotive engine be placed upon the track, with water in the boiler and fire in the grate; in short, with all the potentials of motion and it will still remain quiescent.-In this state let the engineer enter the tender and touch the valve; the machine instantly becomes instinct with life and violition; it has now a soul to govern its power and direct its operations; and, indeed, as a whole, it may be considered as an enormous animal, of which the wheels and other parts are additions to the body of the engineer."

before I left Congress, subsequent to which time my intercourse with the armorers has been limited. I have lived in a distant part of the town, and have not had the access to the armory which I previously enjoyed. The armorers, however, have called upon me frequently of late, knowing the interest I took in their welfare. As citizens I do not know what marked difference has occurred among them.

I have noticed that the armorers with whom I have latterly had intercourse, manifested to or any thing in relation to its origin. much trepidation and alarm, which may be have never had any idea of being the civil explained, perhaps, by the fact that I early took strong ground against the change from a civil to military superintendent. They were My action was not based in the slightest dehence afraid of having it known that they visited a person who entertained different opinions from the officers over them. The influence of the military system for the last ten or twelve years, has been, I think, to produce a marked change in their character as men.— They seem to be uneasy, disquieted, doubtful of their position. I have heard them frequently express distrust of each other—not knowing whether they could place confidence one in another, as they ought, and had been accustomed to. They were fearful of conversing freely, lest they might say something which should be turned to account against them:— These are feelings which they have often expressed. So far as I have had the means of judging, I have no doubt that the general preference is for the civil superintendence. I dapted to facilitate the intercourse necessary for suppose the desire of the government is to Why? as my observation extends, both here and elsewhere, who have the freest use of their faculties, and in the fullest possession of their rights as citizens. The civil superintendence, I believe, is best calculated to lead to this result. [Col. Andrews objected to the introduction of opinions, or supposition by witness, and moved to strike out Mr. Calhoun's answer to the last question which had been asked him. He wished to have the testimony confined to facts. The board decided, four to two, to rule out so much of Mr. Calhoun's deposition as consisted in giving his opinions and sustained by corroborating facts. Col. Andrews then moved to strike out the question itself, because it asked the witness for his opinions instead of for facts. Mr. Norton was opposed to taking opinions of witnesses. He thought the witnesses should state facts, and leave the board to form their opinions. He was not opposed to having opinions from witnesses, how-ever, if they were based upon facts. If the board decided to rule out the opinions of witnesses, he thought all the opinions advanced by them herctofore should be stricken out. Mr. Eaton was in favor of retain

A majority of the board decided in favor of sking the question: Testimony of Mr. Calhoun resumed .- The opinion I gave in favor of the superior efficiency of the civil superintendence, is founded substantially upon facts which I have already stated in answer to previous interrogatories, and from various other facts and observations that transpired in my intercourse with the armorers, and from examining the operations of the work under both systems, and generally in the various branches of industry with which I am acquainted. Another fact is that most of the workmen were permanently established under the old system, and had their residence here. Under the present system they have frequently changed. With regard to workmanship I do not profess to be a judge.

Cross-Examined.—The signs of alarm exnibited by the armorers consisted in beggin me not to say they had called upon me. I live a mile and a half from here, in comparative retirement. One evening some of the armorers called upon me; they were very anxious that no one should be about who could see, or hear them. I was surprised that they should be under apprehension at such a distance from the armory, and gave them the astance from the armory, and gave them the assurance. Very generally when the armorers have called upon me, they expressed similar apprehensions. They may have been half a dozen different armorers, at as many different times who expressed these signs of alarm, yet I cannot be definite in regard to numbers or times. I do not rememder how often I have visited the armory under the present system.

I have visited it more seldom recently, in consequence of my residence being farther off than formerly. I think I have positive knowledge that the armorers were more permanently emp the armorers were more permanently employed under the old than the new system. I have known a large number of them speak in favor of the civil, and but one in favor of the military superintendence. I know nothing derogatory to the character of armorers employ-ed during the present system. Under the civil system a considerable number of them were engaged in the public service, as town officers and members of the Legislature. I believe the armorers have always sustained a good character as men and citizens during the entire period of my residence here. I do not know whether armorers have been as much in the public service recently as formerly. I had more opportunity of knowing formerly than of late to what extent they were thus engaged.

REMENISCENCES AS TO THE CONSTI-TUTIONAL POWER OF INTERNAL IMPROVEMENTS.

[From National Intelligneer.) In the House of Representatives, February 8th, 1817, Mr. Thomas Wilson, of Pennsylvania, reported the following resolution from the Committee on Roads and Canals :

Resolved, That the President of the United States per requested to take measures for making, as far as practicable, and report to this House at the next and every subsequent session of Congress, such roads, canals, and improvements in water-courses as are required in a general system of inland navigation and intercourse throughout the extent of the United States and the Territories thereof best a personal, commercial, and military purposes.

It was on this subject that Mr. Calhoun made one of his most powerful speeches. The bill passed the Senate by a vote of 20 to 15, but was vetoed by Mr. Madison. Messrs. Jase Barbour and Armistead T. Mason, Senators from Virginia, supported the bill, as did also Mr. Lacock of Pennsylvania, and Mr. Morrow of Ohio, well known Republicans of that day. Upon an effort in the House to pass the bill against the veto, the vote stood 60 to 56, and con quently failed for want of two-thirds. In 1818 the subject of Internal Improvement was resumed, and on the 6th of March the Hon. In the House of Representatives, March 14th, 1818, the following resolution; reported from the Committee on Roads and Canals, (of which Mr.: Tucker was chairmen,) was under consideration:

Mr. Henry St. George Tücker, of Virginia, opposed the motion earnestly, and called upon gentlemen to unite against it, that the opporttunity might not be lost of expressing the opinion of the House. Mr. Lowndes, of South Carolina also opposed it, and the motion was lost. The resalso opposed it, and the motion was lost. The resolution was then adopted: Ayes 90, roes 75.

Among the old Republicans who voted for the resolution the following may be named: Messra. Forsyth, of Georgia; Johnson, of Kentucky; Lowndes, of South Cardina; Samuel Smith, of Maryland; and Tucker of Virginia. It was also supported by Mr. Louis MeLane, of Delaware:

NEWSPAPER BORROWERS.

Of the whole catalogue of borrowers, none are so pre-eminently censurable as the habitual borrowers of news-papers. As a general rule, so far as one observation has gone, the regular, habitual borrowers of newspapers are individuals who are better able to pay for the papers they borrow, than are the owners and just proprietors of the papers themselves. We have known a few cases of newspaper borrowers in our lives which have given us a contemptible oning of that whole class of persons. contemptible opinion of that whole class of person For instance: We once knew an individual worth prably $30,000 or $40,000, who is said never to have a newspaper in his life, (not even his own coupaper,) and who was in the regular and constant has of borrowing his neighbor's paper, sometimes calling it even before he had an opportunity of looking at it has before the had an opportunity of looking at it has been supportunity of looking at look

CHARLESTOWN TUESDAY MORNING, SEPTEMBER 6, 1853. A JOURNEYMAN PRINTER, BALLOON ASCENSION.

The Balloon Ascension at Shannondale Springs on Thursday last, was a beautiful affair, and elicited the approbation of all who were in attendance, and reflected the highest credit upon the youthful aronaut who with unusual courage, composure and self-posses-aion, so gracefully assisted his frail tenement in navigating the air, as though it were a thing of life. We publish in another column an interesting description as to the ascention; furnished by the young gentleman who made it, which precludes the necessity of our doing more than merely calling attention to the same.

On the part of Capt. Sappington every possible ef-fort was made to give satisfaction to all, and from Thursday until Saturday, Shannondale, as may be well imagined, was a scene of extraordinary exeitement. The Springs will be kept open, should the public so desire, until about the latter part of the month.

MARYLAND.

The Whig State Convention of Maryland met in Baltimore on Thursday last, and nominated ROBERT I. Bowis of Montgomery as its candidate for Governor, Dr. J. HANSON THOMAS, as Comptroller of the Treasury, and Col. J. B. RICAUD, as Lottery Commissioner. Thus Swann, Esq., recently President of the Baltimore and Ohio Rail-road was the competing candidate for nomination as Governor. T. WATKINS Licon, Esq., of Howard, is the Democratic candidate for Governor, of whose election the Democracy of Maryland are entirely certain.

For Congress, the democratic convention which assembled at Hagerstown on Saturday, nominated the Hon. Wm. T. HAMILTON for re-election from the 5th district. Ex-Gov. FRANK THOMAS, it is said, will run as an independent, and though we hope he may be most ingloriously defeated, as the people of Maryland never had a more honest, faithful and efficient Representative than Mr. Hamilton, yet we have fears as to the result, and hope no efforts will be spared to prerent so unfortunate an event.

RAILROAD ACCIDENT.

A free negro from the neighborhood of Winchester, some 20 or 25 years of age, by the name of Lawson GREY, was killed almost instantly by the Passenger train of Cars from Harpers-Ferry to Winchester passing directly over him, on Saturday night. Though the shock was sensibly felt by the Conductor and others in the Cars, at the time it occurred, yet it was supposed no injury had been done to any thing, and the body of the negro was not found until the next morning. The accident occurred at Cameron's, and the negro when found was lying immediately across the track, his body having been severed almost in twain. He was no doubt beastly drunk, and had lain down to await the arrival of the up-train, as he had in his possession several young turkeys, a basket of peaches, and a liquor flask partly filled .-A Coroner's inquest was held on Sunday by Squires Avis and Lock, and a verdict rendered in accordance with the above facts.

THE HEALTH OF CUMBERLAND.

The Telegraph of Friday states that the health of Cumberland is believed to be fully re-established, and that the town has resumed its usual appearance. The number of deaths from the 18th to the 30th ult. was 66, all attributed to cholera .-Previous to the 18th there were 10 sudden deaths, then attributed to cholera morbus, but probably also from cholera, making a total of 76 deaths.

SCARLET FEVER.

We regret to learn that this disease, almost as fatal to children, as the Cholera to adults, is now prevailing in some parts of our County. Mr. URTON, residing near town, lost three of his little household during the last week, under circumstances well calculated to add poignancy to his grief, and fill his cup of affliction to the brim. Two, one aged 9 and the other 11 years, were buried on Monday, the third on Saturday, and there are still two whose recovery is doubtful. Several black children, as we learn, have died in the town from the same disease.

EXECUTION OF WOODWARD.

The execution of Daniel T. Woodward, for the murder of his wife, took place at Washington at noon on Friday. According to the account in the Washington Star of yesterday evening he underwent the sentence of the law with great firmness and composure, giving himself the signal for the execution by dropping a white handkerchief. He exhibited a devout and penitent state of mind, mixed at times with an apparent indifference as to his fate.

CALIFORNIA JOURNALISM.

F. E. Geiger and B. F. Washington, Proprietors of the Calafornia State Journal, have purchased for $15,000; the interest of Messrs. Pickering and Fitch in the Times and Transcript newspaper.

The history of newspaper enterprise in California is a curious one. The "Times" was the first paper printed in Sacramento city, (in 1849,) and was held at one time at some $50,000. The "Transcript" was the second in the same city (1850) and held for about ame amount. In the course of time it was found exent to unite the two, (1851,) on account of the inpedient to unite the two, (1851,) on account of the increase of journals, and the division of profits. The union was an unholy one. Now we find that the offices combined, the Times and Transcript, have been sold for the paltry sum of $15,000,—scarcely the value of the materials in possession of the office. We congratulate our friends, Geiger and Washington, on ase, and hope that the recent junction may be more favorable to their interests than was that of the former proprietors of the Transcript with the Times.—Fredericksburg Herald.

THE EPIDEMIC SOUTH.

The New Orleans papers confirm the gratifying intelligence of the marked decrease of the fever .-

The Bulletin of the 27th ult says:-After repeated disappointment, in our hopes and alculations, in reference to the subsidence of the ireadful scourge, which has been, for the last fourteen weeks, depopulating our city, we can perform the grateful office of announcing to our friends abroad, that there is a very perceptible change for the better in our mortality reports, as well as in the condition

The total of deaths for the 24 hours ending yester-day at at 6 o'clock, A. M., was 193, against 219 for the 24 hours previous, and for the same time there ras a decrease of 36 yellow fever deaths. We learn from a number of our physicians, that there is a marked dimination of cases in private practice, and from rvation, we know that in the Charity Hospital there has been a gradual decrease for some

It is stated that the yellow fever has prevailed to a considerable extent at the Pensacola Navy Yard. The Washington Union of yesterday says: The Secretary of the Navy received a telegraphic despatch, dated Pensacola, August 31, stating that Purser D. Fauntleroy and Capt. D. D. Baker, of the marines, died on that day of yellow fever; that Capt. Tainall was ill with the same disease, and that the fever was assuming a more malignant type.

The Mobile Tribune of the 28th ult, says: The fever still prevails at the Pensacola Navy Yard. ugh whether on the increase we are not able to On the 25th there were four deaths at Warrenton and in the naval hospital. # ADVANCE IN BREADSTUPFS

The Bultimore American of Saturday, contains heering intelligence to our farmers. It says: cheering intelligence to our farmers. At says:

IMPORTANT MOVEMENT IN BREADSTIFFE.—By reference to our telegraphic report of the New York market it will be seen that there was yesterday an extraordinary speculative demand for flour and wheat, with a considerable advance. The sales of wheat amounted to 200,000 bushels, at an advance of 3 to 4 cents per bushel. Flour has also advanced 64 cents per barret, on the advance of Thursday, closing with an upward tendency. In the Baltimore market there is also much activity, with a decided involvement in vity, with a decided improvement in ments with Capt. G. W. S originally my intention; but my son Charles, aged 17 years last June, who has accompanied me three different times on arial excursions, being very solicitous to make a voyage by himself, and the day being very calm, I gave him the Balloon and started him off alone.

He made a beautiful ascent—satisfactory to every person assembled at Shannondale, and he gives you the history of his voyage in his own words.

I would embrace this favorable opportunity of saying that I have been pleased—nay, delighted, with every living soul that I came in contact with since sojourning at the Springs, and in all my dealings with Capt. G. W. Sappington, proprietor of Shannondale, I found him a gentleman of the true Virginia stamp. He provided for the occasion on a liberal and expensive scale—determined to make every one comfortable and happy within the circle of his sphere, to the fact of which a host of visiters will bear honorable testimony, and will, I am satisfied, with myself, always recur to Shannondale with pleasant emotions.

JOHN WISE.

SHANNONDALE SPRINGS, Sept. 3d, 1853.

Quarter past 2 o'clock. "Charlie, jump in the basket." "Yes sir," "what for," "To go up in the Balloon." "Jump out." "Get in again." This was Balloon." "Jump out." "Get in again." This was the conversation that passed between my father and myself. I then requested him to give me my knife, and money to pay my passage with the Balloon, back to Shannondale, and at 20 minutes past two o'clock, on the 1st day of September, 1853, I was cast loose from terra-firma, to make my first ærial voyage alone. The last words I heard my father say, were, that I should ascend until I passed through the clouds and then come down again. At 21 o'clock I was about then come down again. At 2½ o'clock I was about midway between Charlestown and Shannondale, at this time I heard what appeared to me to be a childs voice, saying there goes the Balloon. I then cried, Huzza, Huzza, Huzza, and waved my flag and in a moment or two I heard a faint noise coming from, as

I supposed, the large assembly of persons at Shannon-dale. A few moments after this, I threw out a box of Matches wrapped up in white paper, and I watched it until it fell in a clover field. I found now that I was rising rapidly above the clouds, I then tried the valve to see whether it would work. This I done by drawing the valve cord and letting it go again, to see whether it would snap and make a noise, which it did not do. While I was doing this, I thought I heard the cars coming up the railroad, and while I was looking for them I let the valve cord go, I then found that the noise ceased, I opened the valve again and heard the same noise, I therefore concluded the noise was occasioned by the gas escaping through the valve when opened. I now looked for Shannondale, and one of the most magnificent views met my eyes that I have ever beheld. There was the Shenandoah, winding its serpentine course down to the Potomac at Harpers-Ferry, with numerous small Islands at its mouth, also the Bridges at Harpers-Ferry and Point of Rocks, and the Potomac winding its crooked rse up and down until it seemed to enter the clouds each way as a mere thread of silver. I again thought of Shannondale, which I found by looking the horse-shoe bond in the river which I had noticed before. I soon found it and had a fair view of Shannondale and its vicinity; also, the Blue-ridge and the country beyond, until the earth seemed to merge into the clouds. I now looked for Charlestown, and found that I was nearly over it, I was at this time very high above the clouds and moving very slowly; I stood over Chærlestown for half an hour and saw a pool of water and what appeared to me to be a circus ring close together, the balloon then slowly moved off towards Harpers-Ferry, and kept in that direction until I got within about 3 miles of it. I then came down some distance at this point and struck another current of air, which took me towards Shepherdstown. Not knowing what place it was I came down to within about 3 of a nile of the earth and asked how far it was to Winchaster several times, to some persons ploughing in a field, and they commenced huzzaing. I told them to listen, and asked them again how far it was to Winchester, but they said you are on the wrong track. I asked them what town that was, meaning Shepherdstown, and I understood them to say Dover. All this time I was close to the ground, and could hear the ducks, chickens, geese and peafowls cackling, the dogs barking and men huzzaing. I now commence I ascending again and saw another large town to the left of Shepherdstown, and I thought I would come down there, but as I was going above the clouds I happened to look at large cloud beneath me, but broken in several places, and on this I discovered a rainbow in the shape of a quarter circle, but casting my eye a little more to the right I saw that the rainbow was continued, and looking still more to the right I found it formed a perfect circle about as large as a circus ring. I was now ascending very rapidly, and the rainbow was gradually diminishing until it vanished altogether. I was at this time at my highest elevation, which I supposed to be over two miles, at this time I crossed Kearneysville Depot, when I gave a loud huzza and waved my flag, I soon heard them answering me quite lively. I was next within about half a mile of Shepherdstown, which looked to be quite a large place, and I had a mind to come down there, but I thought I would look for the larger place I had seen once before, but the clouds having got very thick in that direction, I could not see it again. The mountains now appeared to be coming very close together, I thought had better be looking out for a good place to land. was now still extremely high, and the clouds appeared to be laying on the earth below. Here I ooked around my car for a long rope that I knew must be there, which I found after a hunt of a lew ments, and having fastened it to the edge of my car, I threw it overboard. I then commenced des cending slowly, seeking the best place of landing. Seeing a fine grass-field about ; of a mile ahead of me, I thought I would come down in it, and commenced coming down rapidly, and seeing a man on horseback I called to him to catch my rape, but he looked all around but never upwards, he then rode off down the road pretty fast. A flaw of wind striking the balloon when it was within 300 feet of the earth, blew it into the woods about 100 yards, but letting out a little more gas as I got ever a clear spot in the woods brought me down in it, and the net-work over the balloon caught in a tree, about 40 feet above the ground; and in a few moments three ladies came to my assistance and took held of the rope and got it off the tree, without injury to the balloon or myself. By this time some twenty persons had assembled, who kindly volunteered to give me every assistance in their power, and so with their help, I soon had the balloon and net-work packed in the baske, thus concluding my first zerial voyage alone at 10 minutes past 4 o'clock, having been in the air about one hour and fifty minutes. There was a quantity of tissue paper in the basket, as also my flag staff, which were seen divided among those present as tokens of re-membrance. About this time I remembered that I had a bottle of Wine, which had been placed in my basket, by my friends at Shannondale, for the purpose of treating my friends where I might land. So we all adjourned to the nearest spring, and all. oined in finishing the bottle. As one of the perons present was about taking a drink, he was reninged that he was a Son of Temperance, his reply was that the Order of Sons of Temperance did not prohibit the drinking of spirits that came from above. I landed on the farm of Mr. Ehud Turner. situated about } a mile from the Potomac River and the same from the Opequon Creek. And from Mr. Turner I learned that I was 5 miles from Williamsport, 10 miles from Hagerstown, 5 miles from Shenherdstown, and 21 miles from Shannondale vexed question, "Have we a Whig party among us? "We unhesitatingly answer this, for it is an established fact in science that nothing is lost. The man may die, be buried and rot—the tree may be cut down buried, and all that remains to the view and touch be compressed into a half measure—yet, notwithstanding this, not a particle of matter which formed the man or tree is lost. So with the Whig party.—Nobody can see it, it is not felt, and nobody can tell where it has been scattered to: yet, we are assured where it has been scattered to; yet we are assure by science that it still exists. It is justice to ad however, that if it were not for science we shou have our doubts about the matter."

We agree with the Raleigh Standard, that this we agree with the Kaleigh Standard, that this is one of the best things we have seen lately.—Science may be right in this matter. We may have a White party among us, but if so, it must be confessed that it exists and works mostly in the dark. It can prosper only by divisions among Democrats—by taking advantage of feuds and difficulties among true Republicans. It is a fact that Whitegery has never yet succeeded in attaining power except thro divisions in the Democratic ranks, or deceptive is and false professions. Having no well settled princ ples of its own, it relies necessarily upon its tact in taking advantage of lukewarmness or strife in the opposite party; and hence it is most important that all Democrats should look constantly to and guard this point. The engineers on the Alexandria, Hampshire and Loudoun Railroad, are getting along finely. Mr. Bowie, engineer of the party at Blue Ridge, gives quite an encouraging report. We shall look for an early report for the entire line.

EXPLOSION OF POWDER.

A terrible accident, resulting from the explosion of a quantity of powder, occurred on the wharf at Wheeling. The Gazette gives the following account of it :-"The powder was being removed from a boat to loaded on a wagon for Ohio, and, we understan there were fifteen or twenty kegs on a dray. supposed that one keg rolled from the dray, and by some means became ignited, when all apparently, but one, were exploded, sending the industrious and nighly respectable young man who was driving the dray, Mr. Wollaston Kimberly, instantly into eternity. His clothes were completely torn off, his brains blown out, and his body horribly disfigured. Another draymon, Mr. Shanley, was badly injured, and some thirty or forty persons were knocked down. The dray was smashed to pieces, and the hair burned from the horse. One carriage was also burnt up. The steamboat Salem was considerably injured in her pilot house and upper works. But the greatest damage to property was in windows. There was scarcely a window on Water street, that was not shattered. We should think the Sprigg House suffered the most damage of any. Most of the front windows being more or less broken. We should judge the entire loss by breaking windows and sash was at least two

RELEASE OF CONDUCTOR COMSTOCK.

When the jury in the case of Charles H. Com. stock, charged with manslaughter in the instance of the Norwalk Tragedy, rendered the verdict of "not guilty" on Monday, the greatest excitement prevailed in the court room. The spectators testified their approbation by clapping their hands and stamping upon the floor, which, after some difficulty, was repressed by the officers of the court, and order was restored. Comstock appeared but little agitated; and bas, during the trial. exhibited but little fear of the final result, although ne has evidently felt the unhappy and unpleasant position in which he was placed. He received the congratulations of those in the vicinity where he was standing, among whom we noticed the attorney for the State and his associate, Mr. Terry. Thus has closed a case which has attracted general attention, and all who have heard and been present at the trial, have unanimously acquitted Mr. Comstock of any and all charges of recklessness and negligence on his part at the time of the occurrence of the Norwalk disaster.

THE RELIGION OF PAYING DEBTS.

One of our religious exchanges has the following strong remarks on this subject. They drive the nail in to the head and clinch it:

"Men may sophisticate as they please. They can never make it right, and all the bankrupt laws in the universe cannot make it right for them not to pay their debts. There is a sin in this neglect as clea and as deserving, church discipline as in stealing or false swearing. He who violates his promise to pay, or withholds the payment of a debt when it is in his power to meet his engagement, ought to be made to feel that in the sight of all honest men he is a swindler. Religion may be a very comfortable cloak under which to hide; but if religion does not make a man 'deal justly,' it is not worth having."

SHAMEFUL.—A couple of young ladies, residing in this Borough, last week went to Baltimore to pay a visit to their friends. Soon after their arrival in that city, a letter reached them, stating that their mother was dangerously ill, and that they must return immediately if they wished to see her alive. They hurried home by the evening train, arriving in Philadelphia about 2 o'clock in the morning, hired a cab at that hour and came home and found it a hoax. The perpetrator of this af-fair should be found out and receive the contempt he so richly merits.-Philadelphia Ledger.

Too-long already had the sober and moral submitted to the burdens of taxation growing out of the traffic of rum-selling, and unless they resolved to unite in a common effort to shake off the same a change for the

Bev. W. F. Speake, of Harpers-Ferry, followed.—
He reviewed the statues on the subject of the liquor traffic, and argued that an attempt to regulate the trade was useless, and that anything short of prohibition would fail of exterminating the many evils flowing therefrom. It was important then that temperance men set about the work in carnest, and see that their wishes are carried into practical op-eration. He contrasted the temperance efforts of the present day with those made some years ago. The sneers that then met the friends of the cause are no ger encountered, but fear could now be depicted longer encountered, but fear could now be depicted in the countenance of their opponents who feel that the sceptre is departing from them. He urged bold, energetic, prompt action, as the duty of the friends of humanity in their movement to crush the rum traffic, which has proven the fruitful source of so much misery, wretchedness and death in the land.

Rev. D. A. Tyng, of Cincinnati, succeeded. He traced the workings of the liquor traffic, showed its ruinous results upon those whose misfortune it was to be the victims of a deprayed appetite, the injury to be the victims of a depraved appetite, the injury done thereby to individuals, families and society at large. He deemed the efforts for a prohibitory law large. He deemed the efforts for a prohibitory law based upon the principle of self-defence, and denied that the friends of the movement were waging a war of aggression. He argued that a law of this nature was peculiarly adapted to the well being and good of the south, where it would protect interests of the first moment. He was sorry to see the effort making to prejudice this great measure in southern minds by holding up in an unnecessary manner its northern origin. He invited all to look at the condition of things now existing, and pointed to a prohibitory of things now existing, and pointed to a prohibitory law as the remedy, and he hoped and believed Vir-ginia would avail herself of it by speedily placing i upon her statute book. He thought the peop needed to be awakened to the good which the law had in store for them, and the work would at once be accomplished. The liquor traffic had long enough wrought evil, and glutted itself upon ruined fortunes nd blasted characters. It became all the friends of jumanity to protest against it, and by concerted ac tion to stay its continued invasion. The addresses throughout were characterized with much energy and eloquence, carrying conviction to every mind open to the power and force of truth. On motion, the following resolution was adopted by the meeting:

"Resolved, That the members of the County Court of Jefferson County of District No. 5 and 6, be respectfully requested to move the County Court of Jeferson County, at the October term, to summen the Magistrates of the County to the May term of said Court to take into consideration the expediency of refusing all applications for license to sell intoxicating iguors in the County." On motion, the following pledge, recommended by the State Convention in the formation of Anti License

Leagues, was also adopted: "I pledge myself to use all proper means to secure a law prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating beverages, and will vote for it and aid in enforcing its due observance." Rev. C. W. Andrews observed that he acquiesced in the adoption of the pledge, and would cheerfully append his name thereto. He was deeply impressed with the greatness of the cause, and sooner or later it must triumph—no carthly power could resist its onward march. In closing his remarks he gave notice that on Sunday night next, 4th inst., he would deliver a discourse upon the subject of temperance in his pulpit

An invitation having been extended, a number of persons went forward and signed the pledge, after which, on motion the meeting adjourned.

THE HEALTH OF CUMBERLAND.

Since our last issue, says the Cumberland Telegraph the epidemic which appeared so suddenly in our city two weeks since, and struck consternation into ever heart, we are happy to state has considerably abated, and the cases that have occurred were generally of milder character, and readily yielded to medical treatment. Our efficient Mayor, F. B. Tower, Esq., has been unceasing in his efforts to recover the health of the city, and too much praise cannot be awarded him. The filth and dirt which had accumulated it the streets and cellars, has been measurably remove and the work of renovation is still going on. Lime has been plentifully used, which no doubt contributes greatly to purifying the atmosphere. Our streets present a more lively appearance—the gloom which had settled upon every countenance has disappeared -the stores are again being opened, and a number

The Baltimore Sun says that "Mr. Davis is said to have acted nobly, and occupies high ground." From our own knowledge of Mr. Davis' character, we feel assured that he could not have acted otherwise. HORRIBLE DEATH .- On Wednesday afternoon last, bout one o'clock, a colored man named Gilbert Branch, the property of Capt. Mark F. Flournoy, of Chesterfield county, met with a horrible death, at the circular saw mill of Messrs. Blunt & Fuqua, at the southern end of Mayo's Bridge, Manchester. The negro was an assistant at the mill, and while in the act of crossing a log, the teeth of a large circular saw caught his clothes and drew him against it. shocked, sickened and affrighted your morbid sens tiveness, and thus mar the inimitable refinement excited your paissant ire, associated with other cir cumstances. You entertain the idea that there is prestige in or about a name—apart from any expression of a creed of faith—the public have already o served the importance, the virtue and the power that on attach to a name, from the fact of Veritas or truth being appended to your production. Considerable importance is also attached to a white-washing process that has recently been conducted with a marvelous energy, hitherto unknown in the history of he armory—one eye to the external aspect of the establishment, the ornation of the grounds—the other to the effect on the Commission. Like unto to the whited sepulchres of the Scripture, or the coloquin tida of the Orient, I leave the imagination of the reader to depict the interior. Veritas, you and the officials have a battle yet to win before that Com-

"The men of Truth are reposing in their cave

Abiding their time." One characteristic you give unto my remarks, that is the remarkableness of its fallacies—this retort is any thing but logical, adduce the evidence. I must have the proof, a naked assertion unattended even by the least reason, as an integument to its deformity; will not do—but with the velocity of "a shot from a shovel" you are off in pursuit of my "literary character." Veritas, it's the first "inkling" I have had. When Wagstaff was informed of his death he "was at the first of it"—in "Good Egg's" case its credenda, et to be believed. Have you not observed, Mr. Truthteller, that in all engagements of the Civil vs. the Military, this historical fact, that the military are discomfitted in their discussions; that is they get more than they bargain for—"come off second best." The proof you ask—our representative in Congress, with the banded power and concentrated energies of the ordnance corps, arrayed against him, and the variegated influences thereof, moral, social, and champagne-the result was that Congress relieved itself pagne—the result was that Congress relieved itself of legislation thereupon. Again, it will be recollected that indirectly an abettor of the Military entered the arena for a season—"Potomac," the prophet, who one fine morning staked his prophetic reputation, and that rather "flowery," on a certain result, and ere "dewy eve" came on the myriad peans of the Civilians heralded the funeral requiem of the Island Seer. "Whom the gods intend to destroy they first make mad." The puissant editor of the organ has also descended from the tripod, and gathering his edito-rial robes around him, and with the grand and majestic tread of the spirit of Hannibal, he too disappears on the back of a "conjecture," to abide I sup pose in the shadows of a coming event. And thou Veritas, like the Roman of old, wilt thou immolate thyself with this distinction, the Roman for the people and Mr. Truthteller for the "officials," unwept, inhonored and unmourned. I understand Mr. Truthteller to be explicitly in favor of the present "gate" arrangement, and none but the military have a partiality thereto, but corporal's guard as they are, in point of numbers, I desire the whole brotherhood to answer the authority that I shall adduce against the "provision." Veritas will not make the essay, or Good Egg is mistaken, for when required to "face the music," or answer accor-ding to the requisitions of a discussion, he is as quiet as a defunct quaker; but to the testimony. See minutes of the proceedings of the Board of Visitors to the West Point Academy for 1852. Said reasons being to the point at issue and absolutely unanswerable in their application to this armory.

2d. "The second point is in respect to the regula tions of the gateways at West Point. We unqualifiedly condemn the system that keeps out of the grounds any person whatsoever, citizen or foreigner, the institution is a public one." Is not the armory at this place a public one? Again the report says: "But in a free, republican people's government, like ours, it is in our opinion absolutely ridiculous." After descanting in the above manner on this beautiful principle, it concludes thus: "We cannot say more, in this place, than to urge the propriety of such a change in this respect, as shall not only secure but shall absolutely better comport with the genius and spirit of our blessed institutions."

Truthteller remarks the "schoolmaster is abroad," if so have you ever observed him in the act of receiving or giving "lessons at the table," or "practising at

You have "been accustomed all your life to seeing otices of this kind posted in front of the workshops it does not seem out of place." "Notices of this kind" have been only introduced since the Military was established at this place, therefore Veritas has not been long a resident of the Ferry. Whatever spot may have been honored as the place of your nativity, your educational sentiments are different from those of Good Egg, he having septiments on the military question, now, as in days of yore. Blunted and exceedingly obtuse must be the intellectual acumen of those that have not observed the chameleon changes that have transpired with some officialsand if a change in the system should occur as soon as the fact is announced what a mighty change will "come o'er the spirit of their dream," new concepfrons, a manly confession of error will be made, an an unbroken harmony of thought and opinion, be-tween "patrician" and "plebeian," will prevail, con-cerning the "masterly" silence of certain gentlemen holding a very indefinite tenure; who had business away from the election polls, for fear of a committal; who are as precise in their words, as Old Cornaro with his diet; who in- fact are "neither fish, flesh, or good red herring." Well, Veritas is conversant or "accustomed to these things," and of course "it does not seem at all out of place." Caunot Mr. Truthteller discern a little servile appreheasion, and not that noble, open avowal of opinion upon a question of no mean magnitude. If, under the modu operandi of the military system, an ignominious spirit of espionage kas been generated, or tale-bearing fostered and compensated, or a lendency to favoritism indulged in to any extent, it is not "out of place" forsooth. Veritas has been "accustomed" to these things-if, sir, familiarity with those ignoble and disengeneous practices and degrading passions of men, have made the refinements of your moral aprehension a little callous-is that a logical counterlea to those who do urge objections to the requisiions of the notice at the gates, a requisition that hundreds deem dishonorable to fulfil. You charged me with dilating largely on the notice, "occapying near one-third of the masterly production"—if twelve lines of comment constitutes one-third of my remarks I will surrender, Veritas. You gaze through military spectacles; some naughty fellow might say you amplified, but if you did commit only a slight mistake, in taking on too much ballast, it "don't seem to be out of place"-because you are "accustomed" to hearing and seeing mistakes occur. A remark or two more relative to the gate, whereon the following la guage is used: "Ample provision is made for all persons except loafers." Authentic report says that distinguished Minister of the M. E. Church has been nsulted, and once, if not twice, the gates closed upor nis egress as well as ingress. What classification will Truthteller allot unto the reverend gentleman 'Good Egg" wants the Armory gates thrown open, he wants to do away wholly with the gates, as was the case formerly, and free admission granted to "hogs and loafers." "Hogs and loafers," a vulgar phrase. The chaste, refined, lady-nerved Veritas snew that if "Good Egg" was so "shockingly ugly as to render it expedient for legislative enactment to be had on the subject, what degree of comparison would the public assign to loafers and hogs. Truthteller gives the positive to "Good Egg," to wit: "Ugly"—loafers is ugiler and hogs ugliest, and as Veritas is a gentleman of exquisite taste, he can of course decide at pleasure which is in the comparitive or superlative degree.

One moiety of information is elicited relative the origin of the present reduced appropriation—by an excess of "tinkering" on one hand, and "dab-bling" on the other—Mr. Faulkner effectuated the evil. "Good Egg" doth know of a truth that our representative exerted his utmost power to have the opriation increased, and to some extent succeed ed, but not to the extent of his wishes. Congression al records will be received in any court as evidence-HEREDITARY SUICIDE.-Mr. Wolfolk, late Sheriff of why not by the brotherhood a la militarie? Said cussion-you are bound to meet fact with fact, adduce reason for reason. Where is the proposition that you have refuted, or the fact that has received its quietus from your hands—refute "or go to the wall." Veritas, your communication, whether "sole" or joint stock, wants the afflatus. If you military gentlemen will insist that the representative from this District is responsible for the reduced appropriation, it will but confirm my suspicious, long ago en-tertained, that the Ordnance Corps has wrought this state of affairs, through a vindictive feeling, a spirit of revenge. If this conjecture or surmise is correct the congressional representative should have been informed of the detriment that would ensue to the armorers from his "dabbling"-but it is idling of time to adduce testimony or facts against your deep-root ed prejudices. Pelion may be piled on Pelion, Ossa upon Ossa, by way of proof. It seems to me, Veritas, that the sum of evidence that may be adduced in proof of the above, if again denied, that that man would deny the paternity of his father.

An irrational inference is drawn from my remarks, to wit: that I would not have the commandant to to wit: that I would not have the commandant to exercise any authority in the slection of hands. I emphatically deny its legitimacy, and assert that such a sequence has no just basis. Furthermore, you admit, for the sake of argument, that he did crase several names selected by the inspectors.—
"What of that?" there is this much of it, Mr. Truthteller, that you infringe. The editor of the organ employs this language: "That it will be seen that the unpleasant task of keeping out of employment. 'Faulkner men' devolved on 'Faulkner men.'" The editor, to sustain his position, dealares in the premises that he will "give a few facts from the record," and there is no doubt in my mind these "facts" were communicated from high authority. Said instructions, or facts, were quoted to prove that the comcommunicated from high authority. Said instructions, or facts, were quoted to prove that the commanding officer was not responsible for the selection and the instructions tend to that result. "It is my destrout a should choose those best qualified, and who as persons of good character," is it not a rational supposition, or deduction, that they obeyed that instruction? You, Mr. Veritas, make those Inspectors (from armorers, is beyond cavil or question. The mode by which this power has been, or may be employed, constitutes, or embraces, the great question of "right," a question of such amplitude, in its moral complexion, that your unfledged wing, even nerved for its most vigorous flight, will never measure its extent; the cogitations of your mind never comprehend its philosophy, or the instincts of your nature ever be refined by its power. But it is not my design to extend, at present, my remarks on the character of right—more may be said hereafter—but I purpose giving a simple definition, according to Webster, who defines right to be rectitude, equity, justice, &c. by way of reply to Veritas—he has the power—how for it right? ht" is a concomitant, the inte can decide. When the Commandant told the I ors to "choose" those best qualified, did he transfer, depute, or vest them with the power? And thus he waived the exercise of "right"—but he undone that which he, the commanding officer, desired the officers subordinate to him to do. Was this "rec-titude," according to the definition? If he possesses the right to discharge a few, he most unquestionably possesses the right to discharge the whole. It is exercising the same prerogative in one case as well as the other. The sequence is indubitable, that to-day or to-morrow he can dismiss the armorers en masse, arrest the operations of the armory, and close the esta-blishment. Would that be doing justice to the Gov-ernment, or "right" to the men? He may possess the power. Justice, the grand almoner of right, should at all times control the exercise of said power. The former Commandant possessed power to regulate wages, so does the present polite Commandant, and all other Superintendents. Under the administration of the former officer the peace-workers, after their menth's work was done and accredited on the inspector's roll, at the respective prices assigned to each imb or component, without the least intime notice of the reduction of their month's work, were left in ignorance of the fact until called upon to receive their pay at the pay-office. Here was an obligation broken, a contract violated on the part of the agent of the Government. Apply this principle to he every-day transactions of men, where would confidence be between man and man? If practiced upon it would break up the social organism of civil society. A truth it is, beyond controversy, that such acts did transpire under the military system, under this great Government of ours-the power was pos sessed to regulate wages, a discretionary power. Did istice, equity, rectitude, right, accompany the march

The writer distinctly recollects of one man whose wages were withheld in amount near thirty dollars, after he had earned the same—the whole month's work amounting to near seventy-four dollars. Scores of nstances can be adduced where the wages thus made, at a stipulated price, were withheld, and to this day Povernment justly, righteously owes those armorers. If Veritas was an officer, salaried, and in the recep-tion of seventy-five or eighty dollars per month, and without notice, cause, or reason assigned, before-hand, the amount was reduced at the pay office, a dismal wail of complaint would be heard. these things ought not to be," but as you are "accustomed to these things" they are "right." The liberty of action and the freedom of speech cise of this military power; those fundamental principles, heirlooms of the mighty fathers, entailed to their children-" prerogatives of a free people"-thus desecrated. With what regret did the writer witness the doctrine or principle (now advocated by Veritas) proclaimed in theory on the floor in the halls of Congress, and subsequently its iron rule enforced in the rigor of its practice upon the citizen armorers of this proud, glorions old commonwealth. The fun tionary possessed the power-in the citation of the instance above-was its exercise in conformity to the Constitution? Those who are conversant with the administration of affairs, relative to the armory, know that I cite a historical fact. As the patience of the kind reader may become exhausted. I will conclude with one more reference to a fact already admitted by Veritas, to wit: the discharge, among the number, of several old men, veteran mechanics, who have given the vigor of a long life, the skill of their hands and the genius of their minds, to the Government. Venerable old age, with its "hoary locks," a damning disqualification, thus estimating the service and toil of forty and thirty (some less some more) of years, as nothing-the vindication of the nation's nonor, in the field of battle, as a mere cipher-for ome of those that were dismissed have "breasted the storm of battle," and in the evening of life they desire to obtain the poor privilege of employment (as heretofore) in their progress toward the grave— Their vigor is not totally expended, nor their capacity to labor destroyed, but can render more service, of a practical utilitarian character, than many a drone that is fattening off the nation in their sine cures. It is my humble opinion that the broad Ægis of this mighty Government should protect them, the virtuous instints of our patriotism gather around them, and the noblest impulses and sympathies of our common humanity attend them in the decline of life. But you, Veritas, endeavor to justify the power and assert the "right"—the discrimating intelligence of the public will arbitrate on this question-your word" is pledged for the rendition of "satisfactor reason;" let the writer have them; the public desir them. But "gatisfactory" to whom? No doubt the military have had them—but without the pale of that select circle" unto whom have those "satisfactory reasons" been communicated? You may breathe on the rose but you cannot augment the redolence of its perfume. "Satisfactory reasons" no doubt!-the lo-gic of Moguls and Kings is beyond cavil convincing to their loyal subjects. Veritas, you would "not flatter Neutune for his trident, or Jove for his power to thunder," and if in some tranquil hour your were to read the decision of the Secretary of War, relative to a "letter" transaction at this place of a high officer dabbling" or "tinkering" in politics, the language of the aforesaid arbitrament, in this wise "presents the worst phase of a political partisan"—would that he "satisfactory?" "We have come to a pretty pass," you have re-marked. Who are "we?"—is it an officer that I have encountered? "We" means more than one and gives the military complexion to the sentence. Can it be that Good Egg has awakened the official juntosanhedrim that like a social incubus rests on the Losom of this community—perhaps this kind of "pass," lernean snakes on one hand, sibonian bogs on the

As it regards the "Iessons" that I have been taught by our honorable representative, if such was the truth, they would have been honorable, and of that character to influence me to virtuous "aspirations, to a just repudiation of that principle or system that is so feebly advocated by yourself—a system that rides over the civilian, holding his rights in contempt. Nothing secure from the march of its violence or too sacred from its injustice, and as the intellectual antagonist of this monolithic power, can I not, as one humble "mechanical" of this community, whose anti-military sentiments are in similitude to the representatives, speak in admiration of his service on this great question, by an expression of the truth, without the inuendo that I am a parasite?-You surmise that I am a teacher, if so I have been taught, and one principle acquired from that instruc-tion, which has guided my life in the last twelve years, is not to pander to the military power over the civilian. If you know me, have you known me to act like a semi-starved, empty-bellied hound, sneaking my way along in the wake of the military powning it a boon to be the recipient of its offal; or like some parasite, with uncovered head, ready to bow at a smile or leap with the "bound of a layaders" to obey the behests of command?

NOUS VERRONS. Camp-Hill, Harpers-Ferry, Sept. 1, 1853. SO FLOURISHES AND FADES MAJESTIC MAN.

FOR THE SPIRIT OF JEFFERSON. -With no inconsiderable degree of regret, did I notice an intimation on the part of the gentlemanly Editor of the Organ, to retire from the field of discussion—his face to the commission, his back to the foe. Was it apprehended by the Editor, that obstacles would intervene, that incontrovertible facts could be proved on the field, by the multitudinous friends of the civil system, which of necessity he would have had to encounter more or less. Or, did he deem a discussion with "rude mechanics," a "foe unworthy of his steel." Whatever incentive actuated him to re of his steel." Whatever incentive actuated him to re-tire behind the shadow of the committee, it is hoped that he will not forget to repent of the evil that he has done to the Whig party, and ask the spirit of the great Clay, to pardon this delinquency of advo-cating a military principle, a principle which he so righteously abhorred, and for years, constituted a basis for plank in the platform of said party. The only notice the Organ Editor deigned to take of Good Egg," was a conjecture, that he was "tainted," it may be or may not be, as you like, but we are not "cracked" by rude handling. GOOD-BYE.

CREAM OF TARTAR.—An account of an analysis, made by a Massachusetts physician, of six different parcels of Cream of Tartar, which he purchased at as parcels of Cream of Tartar, which he purchased many different drug shops in Boston, shows that of the pure article in each sample, the proportion differs in a range from 40 to 60 per cent. That is, taking the average of the whole, only one-half of it was pure Cream of Tartar.

A Cold Bath.—On Saturday morning last, a Miss Weddle fell, head foremost into a well at Sir John's Run, Morgan county. The well is about 30 feet deep, having in it some 3 or 4 feet of water. She went to the bottom, receiving but a slight injury, and was immediately pulled up by a rope let down to her, which she caught in her hands.

A traveller, narrating the wonders of foreign arts declared he had seen a cane a mile long. Th company look incredulous, and it was quite evident they were not prepared to believe it even if it should have been a sugar-cane. der date of the 11th of August, farnishes the fol ing interesting and valuable informat he expresses the opinion that "the wheat crop will be materially below an average" the "smallest that has been harvested since 1816." From the account given, here can be no doubt, that the foreign crop will exceedingly short, and the facts which he states fall justify his conclusions. This information will be read with much interest, by the farmers of our own coun try, and will assure them of a demand for their olus grain, at fine prices. If subsequent news shall onfirm the information which this correspo has furnished in the extract below, we cannot doub that flour will advance greatly. We commend the article to the attention of our renders: The harvest is the most engreesing home subject the weather has been fine, warm, and genial during the last ten days, and the upward movement in process has received a check. Reaping has commence in the earliest districts; the general impressions of remains that the wheat crop will be materially below an average. "The opinion of commence in the carriers of the opinion of the commence in the commence in the carriers of the opinion of the carriers." rapidly. The Mark Lane Express adds:

"Present prices, though about 10s per qr. highan the average since the abolition of the corn are moderate, under existing circ may be thus enumerated. A deficient wheat in Great Britain and France, a failure of that cr in several of the southern countries of Europe; si stocks every where except in America; and last not least, imminent danger of the quarrel between Russia and Turkey leading to a war in which England and France may become involved. Such being the position of affairs, we can scarcely expect that languor by which the grain trade has been characterized to be the characterized to the least control of the l zed the last few days will be of long duration."

The Liverpool Murcury says : " From Ireland we have cheering accounts of the condition of all the crops, especially of the potato; but it is admitted, that in some parts of Cork, Kerry, and Clare the disease has attacked the stalks, although the tubers are as yet perfectly sound. land's main difficulty, is now a want of labor. The high wages of England have attracted the Irish peasantry hither in such large numbers that it is said to be difficult to procure aday laborer on any terms in some parts of the sister island, and the want, it is feared, will be much more severely felt when he vest time comes." Letters from abroad state that the wheat crop in the neighborhood of Dantzic is affected by blig ildew, and that the result of the harvest is not exected to be favorable. Konigsberg letters say that the growing grain crops are not progressing favor-ably, and that potatoes had been rather extensively attacked by disease. Stocks of wheat were very much reduced at Stettin, and at Rostock the qua on hand was very trifling. In the Dutch may tendency of prices continues upwards, and there are similar accounts from Belgium. The statements from the South of France are that the crop is below an average. In some districts the deficiency is estimated at one-fourth and in others still more. The acc from the south of Europe speak most deplorably of the harvest, and in the Italian States the value of wheat has risen to almost famine prices. The export of grain has been prohibited from Naples and Sicily and from the Papal States. From the distant ports on the Black Sea, we learn that a lively dehas been experienced for wheat on French and Ital ian account; and at Galazz, Odessa, &c. both wheat and Indian corn had considerably advanced in price. We shall offer no apology for this long account of the prospect of the harvest and the corn market: It is of equal sonsequence to the consumers in Europe and the yielders of supplies in America; for to you and to Canada must the rations on this side of the Atlantic look for such supplies as may be sarv. We gather our information from the best winted statements, and from experienced persons in one of the principal agricultural districts in England. We are much surprised to find, from a Canada paper, tixt the wheat exported from that country has increased from 296,020 bushels in 1838 to 5,496. 718 bushels in 1852; very nearly half as much as

was exported from the United States in 1851. MOST AWFUL SHIPWRECK

Loss of the British Ship Nassree and 300 Lives on the Coast of Hindostan! The following are the particulars of the terrible atastrophe, hitherto but just alluded to by telegraph : The Nassree was an English vessel, 500 tons burlen, partly manued by a European crew, and for he various ports on the coast of Arabia. Early in April she was chartered to convey a number of pilgrims (who were returning after a lengthened Pilrimage through Arabia, to various parts of India) on a voyage to Bombay. She was fitted up accordingly, and on taking her departure, had, besides her crew, no fewer than 400 people on board, also a valuable cargo. The catastrophe bappened on the night of the 17th of June. The evening previous the aptain sighted Bombav, but soon afterwards the veather set in thick, with rain and heavy squalls lowing on the land, amid which the ship got rudder inshipped, and in consequence became unmanageable. The passengers ascertaining the perilons position of the vessel, and that she was driving ashore, became frantic, and attempted to escape by the boats. The attempt, as may be imagined, proved fatal. A tremendous rush instantly capsized them, and at least 60 perished. The destruction of the ill-fated vessel soon followed. Shortly after midnight she struck, and the next minute her masts, with at least 100 of the anhappy creatures clinging to the nigging, gave way and fell overboard. The occupants were either crushed to death or perished by drowning. In the course of a few hours the vessel entirely broke up, and the whole of the remaining passengers and crew were plunged in among the breakers. Great sacrifice of life followed. Out of the 450 souls who were alive the night previous, all, with the except of 94, perished. The 94 survivors were was ashore on fragments of the wreck. The spot where #### the vessel was wrecked was near Hubshee Junjeer 35 miles south of Bombay.

For the Ladies, it is incomparably better than all the cosmetics ever used. A few doses of Carter's Spanish Mixture, will remove all sallowness of complexion; bring the roses mantling to the cheek, give elasticity to the step, and improve the general health in a remarkable degree, beyond all the medicines ever heard of.

A large number of certificates of remarkable cures performed on persons residing in the city of Richmond, Virginia, by the use of Carter's Spanish Mixture, is the best evidence that there is no humbug about it. The press, hotel keepers magistrates physicians, and public men, well known to the community, all add their testimony to the effects of this GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER.

EDITORS: I beg leave to advertise through your paper, an invention of my own, for which there has been a model for some time in the Patent Office at Washington. I claim as my invention a machine called a Guano Attachment, to be affected through the control of the cont NOTICE. ious in those complaints in many very Patent Office at Washington. I claim as my invention a machine called a Guano Attachment, to be affixed to any wheat drill whatsoever. The design of this attachment is to sow a diminished quantity of Guano through the drill teeth with the seed wheat, and thus cover the Guano and Seed Wheat up together, having been long well assured that it was highly important to put a moderate quantity of guano where it would be immediately appropriated by the roots of the wheat; and that it is exceedingly injudicious to spread large quantities of a fertilizer so costly, and so volatile, over the whole surface sown in wheat. In a few days there will be in the Counties of Fauquier, Clarke, Frederick, Jefferson, &c., a number of the Drills of S. & M. Pennock, with this attachment affixed to them. Farmers and Mechanics who take an interest in this matter are invited to examine them.

The attachment works with great regularity, having on a recent trial, sowed several times, without any perceptible variation, at the rate of 50 lbs. guand to the acre, then 25 lbs., 15 lbs., 10 lbs., 4½ lbs. In fact the machine will sow from 5 lbs. to 500 lbs. per acre; or the guano can be shut off altogether. Should famers who have previously purchased Drills, wish to use this attachment, I can have it affixed to any kind of Drill whatever.

The long all dreamful days that slid From the wings of summer time, Like a maiden beneath whose languid Stole the picture of a rhyme-A picture drawn by an olden rhyme;

As it rang within her ears,
Of the golden glossy summer time
And the armed chevaliers, Who, with the lance and bossy shield!
Like the silver dripping rain;
Went down to the crimson hattle-field!

Bor all that's beautiful is a spell To gather up disamful things.

And quaint old rhymes have a kindred swell

To the whirl of the summer's wings; And sorrow hath beauties like the sade
Of the deep sequestered wood.

The lilies bloom by the water's side;
And the leaves drop on the stream;
They float along on the sable tide,
Like the bright barques of a dream;

And thus joys drop from the lily stem-On the waves of life below,. And still we gather each former gem, From the wavelets as we go... So sweet are the joys that memory liathin. For those who wander alone; Or they fall like sunbeams over a pathi

Where the light lias rarely shone. All that is beautiful liath: a charm;
That is high akin to love,
Which into the heart comes soft and warm
As a blessing from above.

A pearl'white flower with streaks of red; A violet in the grove; However hidden hath often said That the world is full of love. For a love still'lingers in every grove;

Andla dream on every hill; Though sorrow hath shadows over love, Yet the spirit lingers still. Shadows are over a tranquil stream In the warm and silver noon,
When the laggard cloudlet stops to desame
In the merriest days of June.

And ever and ever through day or night The kindliest blessings rove,
The sun goes down and the moon comes up
And the world is full of love.

A VALUABLE INVENTION. Maryland, who have it, testily that it is very simple, durable, and requires but little power, while it takes—after the bolts can get no more flour—from one and a quarter to three barrels of good flour from the offal of each hundred barrels. We have numerous certificates in our possession, which certify and prove the great value of this Machine.

It saves in the cleanest Bolving Mills 14 barrels of good flour from the offal of 100 barrels; or, in a Mill of 60 barrels per day, running 300 days per year, 225 barrels, at $4 per barrel, $600—which in 14 years, the life-time of the patent, in such a mill, would save $12,600, while the Machine would cost only some $200. The saving in less perfect Mills would be proportionately greater.

The undersigned has purchased the right of this county, and is now ready to supply Millers at the shortest notice. Those who would promote their own interest would do well to procure a Machine immediately. Address,

LEARY & GETZ,
Subscription Book Publishers,
No. 133 North Second Street, Philadelphia. August 30, 1853. WASHINGTON SENTINEL.

PROPOSE to publish in the city of Washington, in September, a political newspaper, under the name of the Washington Sentinel.

In doing so it is proper I should make known the principles it will maintain and the policy it will advocate.

It will supporteordially and carnestly the principles of the Democratic Republican party of the United States. It does not propose to be the organ of any department of the Government, except inso far as an independent maintenance of the doctrines of that party may represent its opinions and express its views.

It will not be ambitious to commend itself to the people by a blind flattery of their rulers. It will seek public support by the bold avowabof the sentiments which are common to the genuine Democracy of the Union, and by the condemnation of all such as may conflict with them, from whatever quarter they may come. It will seek to be (and it will endeavor to deserve the title) the orgaze of the Democratic party of serve the title) the organiof the Democratic party of

The Sentinel will maintain, as a fundamental truth of that great party, that the States formed the Union between them by the ratification of the Constitution between them by the ratification of the Constitution as a compact; by which also they created the Federal Government, and delegated to it, as their common agent, the powers expressly specified in it, with an explicit reservation of all others to the States, or to their separate governments. The exercise of any powers beyond those thus delegated is therefore an usurpation of the reserved authority of the States by the agent of their own creation.

The Sentine will uphold and defend the Union upon the basis of the rights of the States—under the Constitution—and thus by sedulously guarding the latter it will the more effectually strengthen and perpetuate the former.

the former.

With Regard to the exercise of the powers of the Federal Government, the Sentinel will take as the principles of its action that Congress shall exercise no power which has not been delegated by the Constitution, according to a strict and fair interpretation of its language and spirit; and that it shall not seek to attain indirectly an object through the exercise of constitutional power, for the direct attainment of which it has no delegation of power. In other words, all powers exercised must be clearly granted, and all granted powers must be used for no purpose except such as is powers must be used for no purpose except such as is-clearly intended by the Constitution.

In respect to the internal administration of the Government the Sentinel will sustain the scitled policy of the Democratic party. It will labor to inculcate this cardinal doctrine of Democratic internal policy—that this Government will best promote the freedom and prosperity of the people of the States by being less ambitious to exercise power and more anxious to preserve liberty; and by leaving to the individual States the management of all their domestic concerns—while it contents itself with guarding the Confederacy from external violence, and directing the foreign policy of the country to the promotion of the common rights and honor of the States composing it.

The Sentinel will advocate such a progressive foreign policy as will suit itself to the exigencies and correspond with the expanding interests of the country.—That policy should be energetic and decided; but should temper firmness with liberality, and make its highest ends consist with the strictest principles of justice. The real interests of the country upon each occasion demanding attention will be its guide in the occasion demanding attention will be its guide in the course the Sentinel will pursue.

The national policy of the world in this age is essentially aggressive. In the growing sense of weakness of some of the nations of the Old World and the ambitious restlessness of others, a common motive to colonial extension has developed itself. Our settled determination to repel interference from abroad with our own domestic concerns will prompt us to avoid it in the affairs of other countries, unless by their foreign or colonial policy our peace should be threatened, our security endangered, or our interests invaded. For when the selfish interests of other nations prompt a foreign or colonial policy which infringes upon our rights and places in the pathway of our commerce a dangerous and unfriendly rival, such a policy must be resisted by remonstrance, and if need be by war.

Our foreign policy should indeed be defensive; but to be properly defensive it must sometimes be apparently aggressive. Our Administration should be vigilant, watchful, and energetic. The world is full of important movements, commercial and political, deeply concerning Anierican trade and American power.—
It is time we had an American foreign policy. We must have it. We cannot avoid it if we would. We have large interests and a greater stake in the world and its destiny than every other people. We occupy the best portion of a continent, with no neighbors but a colony and a worn out an archical despotism. We are the only people whose own land, without colonial are the only people whose own land, without colonial dependencies, is washed by the two great oceans of the world. Our agricultural productions are more varied and more essential to civilized life and to human progress—our mineral and manufacturing resources more vast—our facilities and capacity for internal and more essential to civilized life and to human progress—our mineral and manufacturing resources more vast—our facilities and capacity for internal and foreign commerce more extended than those of any other people living under one government. A continent to a great extent unexplored and exhaustless in its yet hidden wealth is at our feet. European trade seeks the great East through avenues which are at our doors, or must be made through our own limits. Europe, Asia, Africa, and the isles of the sea, lying all around us, look to us as the rising power, through the agency of whose example, and everwidening and extending, though peaceful influences, the blessings of liberty, civilization, and religion, are destined to triumph over the barbarism and superstition of the millions of the world. And shall such a people refuse to lay hold upon their destiny and act upon the high mission to which it is called? A mission so full of hope, though so lader with responsibility, which, if properly directed, must make our Confederacy the harbinger of peace to the world as well as the peaceful arbiter of its destiny.

The Sentinel will, therefore, advocate a bold and earnest foreign policy, such as the condition of the country—mowhere else. Its foreign policy must be consistent with the spotless honor and unimpeachable good faith of the country. To be respectable at home and abroad, and to be great in the eyes of the world, it must ask for nothing but what is right and submit to nothing that is wrong. It must be liberal and magnanimous to the rights of others, and firm and immoveable in insisting on its own. It must, in fine, be true to its own interests, rights, and honor—it cannot then be false to those of other nations.

nonor—it cannot then be talse to those of other nations.

Such, then, is the chart by which we shall be guided. Independent and free, we shall endeavor to be honest and truthful. The true friends of Democratic principles, we shall cordially support and defend. Its enemies in the field or in ambush we shall oppose, and on all proper occasions denounce.

To our future brethren of the press we extend the hand of friendly greeting. The Sentinel is the rival of no press of its own party—the personal enemy of none of the other.

The present Democratic Administration has our best wishes for its success in the establishment of the great principles upon which it came into power; and in its honest labors to attain such an end it will find the Sentinel its friend and coadjutor.

JEFFERSON MACHINE SHOP & IRON AND BRASS FOUNDRY. OLD THINGS DONE AWAY AND ALL THINGS BECOME NEW.

THE subscribers respectfully call the attention of the farming community to their very large assortment of FARMING IMPLEMENTS, comprising every kind of implement used by the farmer to facilitate and cheapen his operations, including our celebrated Patent Premium Thresher and Cleaner, which received the first premium over the New York Pitt Machine and several others at the Maryland State Agricultural Fair last fall; also, at the Washington County Fair, Hagerstown, Maryland, and at our Valley Fair, Charlestown—which for simplicity, durability, and capacity has no equal in the world. By a recent improvement we can make the machine clean all kinds of grain perfectly clean for market, taking out all cheat, smut, and light wheat if wished, saving altogether the use of a Wheat Fan; thus saving the farmer two-thirds his expense over the common thresher, requiring but eight hands and from six to eight horses to thresh from 200 to 400 bushels per day, perfectly clean for the mill. This has never been accomplished by any other machinist but ourselves, and all sceptic minds can have their doubts removed by trying one and if they cannot do what we have represented we will take the machine back without charge.

Charlestown, January 11, 1853. HAMPTON'S VEGETABLE TINCTURE The Great Restorative & Invigorator, AND CURE FOR RHEUMATISM, DYSPEPSIA, SCROFULA, &c.

CHIS Medicine is altogether from the Vegetable Kingdom, and may be used by any one without

This Medicine is altogether from the Vegetable Kingdom, and may be used by any one without injurious consequences.

By a wise choice and combination of some of the best of each class of co-operative simple remedies, it fully reaches all the essential organs of the human system, and thus it has proved itself so effectually curative of the whole round of CHRONIC AFFECTIONS.

This article was discovered by Dr. Issee Hampton, now in fine health in the 79th year of his age. He was born in Virginia in 1775, emigrated to Kentucky—then a wilderness—with his father, in 1779. In early manhood he was so reduced by disease as to be almost wrecked in constitution. He spent much of his living for medical advice and attention, and grew nothing better, but worse. Finding no relief from his physicians, he resolved to try the restorative powers of the roots, barks, leaves, plants, ect., of the forest. He then dwelt in the midst of the Red Men of the Western wilds. Having heard much of their skill in the use of vegetable remedies of the forest, and knowing their mode of medicinal practice must be one of practical experience and not of theoretical speculation, he made himself acquainted with their remedies, and also with the practical medicinal knowledge of the early settlers of Kentucky, had obtained from the 'medicines used by them, combined them according to the light he had received, used them as he had been taught, and had the cheering satisfaction of finding disease driven from his emaciated body, and vigorous health given in its stead. His case was of no ordinary kind, but astonishing to his friends and neighbors. The fame of it spread; the people far and near sent to the doctor for his successful and wonderful combination of Indian remedies; which was freely given them, until the cases became so numerous and the demand so great that the doctor was advised by his friends, and induced through justice to himself, to put up his Vegetable Tincture in bottles, and charge a price for it which was freely given. Finding its way int mony in its favor from the leading and some of the most talented men of the country.

UNPARALLELED SUCCESS!

The many cures made by it, and the great demand, have induced the proprietors to offer it to the afflicted in this city, with the honest conviction that the same happy results will follow its use here, as in numerous other places. HON. HENRY CLAY AND HON. R. M. JOHNSON have certified to its merits. CAPT. GANOT, brother of the celebrated physician to the EMPEROR OF FRANCE, was cured by it of Chronic Inflammatory Rhesmatism

have cured themselves, and the members of their fami lies, by its use, after their own remedies had failed and some of them are so generous as to recommend it to their patients. It has shown itself most powerfully curative of NERVOUS DISEASES

in their various forms, giving new life and vigor, restoring the shattered constitution, and thus infusing hope in place of despondency. By its mild, pleasant, and safe action on the stomach, liver, kidneys, lungs, and the nervous system, it cures DYSPEPSIA, LIVER COMPLAINT, DISEASES OF THE URINARY OR-GANS, COUGHS, ASTHMA, BRONCHIAL AFFEC-TIONS, CONSUMPTION, SCROFULA, KING'S EVIL, WORMS, RHEUMATISM, GOUT, NEU-RALGIA, ST. VITUS' DANCE, FITS, FISTULA, PILES, with all diseases arising from impure blood.

THE FEMALE SYSTEM,
has, in DR. HAMPTON'S VEGETABLE TINCTURE, A CURE for its numerous and complicated derangements. Hundreds who have been debilitated and dispirited, and on the verge of a premature grave, have been restored by its use to blooming health, which we are abundantly able to prove by such a host OF LIVING WITNESSES

To publish ALL THE TESTIMONY in its favor would nake a large volume. Numerous Letters and Certificates, showing its RESTORATIVE AND HEALING QUALITIES, are published in a pamphlet, which with their origi-nals, and a host of other commendatory letters not yet published, the proprietors will be pleased to exhibit to testimony, but also, to its HIGH CHARACTER. Thousands will testify to cures on themselves, wiv children and friends, after all other remedies had failed. We give below a few extracts. to call and get pamphlets (gratis,) and see history of the discovery of this medicine, and read the certificates of its cures, showing a mass of testimony, such, as we believe was never given to any other medicine.

It has in a few weeks done her more good than all the remediesshe has here-tofore used under able medical counsel.

Sixteen of the best Apothecaries and Pharmac cutists in the city of Baltimore, write—"We are satisfied the preparation known as Stabler's Anodyne Cherry Expectorant and Stabler's Diarrhoa Cordial are medicines of great value and very efficient for the relief and cure of the diseases for which they are recommended, they bear the evidence of skill and care in their preparation and style of putting up, and we take pleasure in recommending them."

Twenty-seven of the most respectable Merchants of Maryland, Virginia and North Carolina, who have sold and also used these medicines themselves, say—"From our own experience, and that of our customers, we do confidently recommend them Pro Bono Publico. We have never known any remedies used for the diseases for which they are prescribed, to be so efficient and to give such entire satisfaction to all."

The above notices of recommendation from members The above notices of recommendation from members of the Medical Faculty, Pharmaceutists of high standing, and Merchants of the first respectability, should be sufficient to satisfy all, that these medicines are worthy of trial by the afflicted, and that they are of a different stamp and class from the "Quackery" and "Core Alls" so much imposed upon the public.

MARRIAGE, HAPPINESS AND COM-PETENCE. WHY IS IT? That we behold many females, scarce in the meridian of life, broken in health and spirits with a complication of diseases and ailments, depriving them of the power for the enjoyment of life at an age when physical health, buoyancy of spirits, and happy screnity of mind, arising from a condition of health, should be predominant.

Many of the causes of her sufferings at first—perhaps years before, perhaps during girlhood, or the first years of marriage—were in their origin so light as to pass unnoticed, and of course neglected.

IN AFTER YEARS,

When too late to be benefitted by our knowledge, we look back and mourn, and regret the full consequences of our ignorance. Attention is not called alone to the quantity of the

of our ignorance.

What would we not often give to possess, in early life, the knowledge we obtain in after years! And what days and nights of anguish we might not have been spared, if the knowledge was timely possessed.

IT IS MELANCHOLY AND STARTLING To behold the sickness and suffering endured by many a wife for many years, from causes simple and con-trollable, easily remedied—or better still—not incurred trollable, easily remedied—or better still—not incurred IF EVERY WIFE AND MOTHER Possessed the information contained irra little volume. (within the reach of all) which would spare to herself YEARS OF MISERY. And to her husband the constant toil and anxiety of mind, necessarily devolving upon him from sickness of the wife, without giving him the opportunity of acquiring that competence which his exertions are entitled, and the possession of which would secure the happiness of himself, wife, and children.

SECURE THE MEANS OF HAPPINESS By becoming in time possessed of the knowledge, the want of which has caused the sickness and poverty of thousands.

In view of such consequences, no wife or mother is thousands.

In view of such consequences, no wife or mother is excusable if she neglect to avail herself of that knowledge in respect to herself, which would spare her much suffering, be the means of happiness and prosperity to her husband, and confer upon her children that blessing above all price—healthy bodies, with healthy minds. That knowledge is contained in a little work entitled

The Married Woman's PRIVATE MEDICAL COMPANION.

BY DR. A. M. MAURICEAU, Professor of Diseases of Woman.
One Hundredth Edition. 18mo., pp. 250. Price 50 cts.
[ON FINE PAPER, EXTRA BINDING, $1.00.]
First published in 1847, and it is not surprising or wonderful, considering that every Female, whether married or not, can here acquire a full knowledge of the nature, character and causes of her complaints, with the various symptoms, and that nearly half a million copies should have been sold.

It is impracticable to convey fully the various subjects treated of, as they are of a nature strictly intendded for the married, or those contemplating marriages, but no female desirous of enjoying health, and that beauty, consequent apon health, which is so conducive to her own happiness, and that of her husband, but either has or will obtain it, as has or will every husband who has the love and affection of his wife at heart, or that of his own recupiary improvement. heart, or that of his own pecuniary improvement.

Upwards of one hundred thousand copies have been sent by mail within the last few months.
