

THE FREE PRESS.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1850.

The rains have set in before our farmers were quite done seeding, and many of them will find themselves sowing late. Already has the corn and yellow leaf, given to the forest an appearance of fast approaching winter; and the ground is now so cold and wet, that it will be difficult to get a timely sowing...

JEFFERSON ELECTION. In consequence of the rain on Monday last, the polls were kept open, and voting continued until this evening at sunset. A good deal of interest was excited throughout the whole canvass, and at one time some unpleasant warmth of feeling, in reference to the senatorial candidates, but we were pleased to find that every thing settled down and proceeded quietly.

Table with columns for names and vote counts under the heading 'JEFFERSON ELECTION'. Includes names like Edward Lewis, John S. Gallaher, Daniel Morgan, etc.

Table with columns for names and vote counts under the heading 'HOUSE OF DELEGATES'. Includes names like H. H. Mendenhall, J. H. Caldwell, etc.

The Home Market.—The consumption of cotton at Providence, (R. I.) for the month of September, was 43,000 bales worth 1,700,000 dollars. This cotton has been manufactured into a hundred and seventy millions five hundred and twenty five cents per yard, averaging different qualities and prices, thus producing a gross sale of 6,430,000 dollars.

The Washington National Journal says, "The West India Ports are not open." This is strictly true. The President of the U. S. says only in his proclamation that he has satisfactory evidence that they will be opened when the British Government receives his proclamation.

It is stated by Mr. Niles, in his report that the whole export of cotton from the United States to the British West India Islands, when those ports were open to our shipping, and taking into account the quantity of cotton exported into Providence, Rhode Island last year.

West-India Trade.—Some persons apprehend that under the new mercantile connected with the opening of West India ports, British vessels will have a great advantage over our own, in bringing freight from the British West Indies, and thence returning home.

The Wheeling Gazette of the 9th inst. says:—A meeting of the citizens of Ohio county, Va. will be held at the Court-house, at 4 o'clock, P. M. on Monday the first day of November next, (being the first day of November next) to consider the expediency of making application to the Legislature of Virginia, at their next session, for the cession to Maryland of so much of the State of Virginia as would fall North of an East and West line, extending from the South West point of the State of Maryland to the Ohio River.

In advertising to the Philadelphia election, the National Gazette observes:—The Democratic ticket has fully succeeded. It is remarkable that there was no Jackson ticket, so called. The tickets were curiously mixed; old Democrats being on the Federal, and old Federalists on the Democratic.

Our readers are already apprized that Mr. Milligan, the republican candidate, has been elected over the Jackson candidate, Mr. Ridgely. His majority was 434.

The elections for members of the State Legislature resulted as follows: In the Senate, Clay members 7, Jackson 2. In the House of Representatives, Clay 17, Jackson 4.

Pennsylvania Election.—In Bucks county the anti-masonic ticket has succeeded. And in the Congressional District composed of the counties of Bucks, Northampton, Wayne, and Pike, the opposition, or anti-Ingham candidates, Smith and Ihrig, are understood to have been elected.

Stockholm mentions, that official orders have been given for a general Jubilee to be held throughout the Swedish dominions, on the 28th of November next, in celebration of the first introduction of Christianity into that country.

A letter from New York states that the regularly nominated democratic ticket succeeded in that county, though by a smaller majority than usual. The same letter states, that the anti-masonic majority in Adams county is about 300.
