

THE FREE PRESS. THURSDAY, AUGUST 16.

We have presented to our readers, this week, the very satisfactory report of the Directors of the Winchester and Potomac Rail Road Company. As we had anticipated, a preference is given to the route by Charlestown, not only on account of saving in distance, but of expense.

The unfortunate turn given to Rail Road affairs, by the recent decision of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company, will retard, if it does not effectually defeat, the Winchester scheme. For, if the Baltimore and Potomac is not extended to Harpers-Ferry, the advantages of the Winchester road will be much curtailed, by the necessity which will arise, of changing the burdens from cars to boats, &c.

In the event of a failure to extend the Rail Road to Harpers-Ferry, it is suggested that the people of Frederick unite with the good MacAdams Road, with the roads already opened to Smithfield. They will then be enabled to reach the Potomac, with facility, either at Shepherdstown or Harpers-Ferry, and realize the advantages of an intercourse with Baltimore as well as with the District of Columbia.

We understand that a pretty large force is now employed upon the line of the Canal near Shepherdstown; and contracts will be given out, during the present month, for other portions of the work, seven miles above Williamsport.

Some interesting accounts, of the trial of a Rail Road Steam Locomotive, will be found on the preceding page.

The Board of Health of Washington have recommended the abolition of all Hog Sties. Our olfactories long since urged us to suggest a similar measure to the Charlestown authorities. High medical authority sustains us in the opinion, that no other effluvia is more likely to generate or aggravate an epidemic.

The Board advises the prohibition of all melons, cucumbers, green corn, snipe fruit, crabs, cysters, &c.

The City Councils are also urged to shut up all drain steps for ninety days. They would do well to seal them eternally.

Deaths in Washington during the month of July, 50.

The total number of interments in the City of New York, from the 1st of July to the 8th of August, amounted to 3312 of these, 2350 were deaths by malignant cholera.

We sometimes endeavor, (thinking we may possibly be in error), to reconcile certain conflicting opinions of the President; but really we find great difficulty. Will any of his statute ever be so varied as to shake the foundations of our Union?

In the last paragraph but one, our fearless President says: "Many of our rich men have not been content with equal protection and equal benefits, but have sought to monopolize the business of the country."

The Globe designated the Veto, as a "second Declaration of Independence." We suppose he means the President's "independence" of Congress and of the People. If so, he might with more propriety designate it the twentieth. At all events, the third, is faintly entitled to be called the third, even according to the Globe's conception of the term.

Some of our readers have accused us of turning to Jackson. How would they expect us to meet our opponents, except by turning to them?

KENTUCKY ELECTIONS. Twenty-seven counties have heard from. The majority for Judge BROWN, the Clay candidate for Governor, over Mr. BARNETT, the Jackson candidate, is 3986. Accounts from the "Backwoods" counties may somewhat change the aspect of affairs. We shall therefore not "Halloo, until we get out of the woods." But we cannot conceal the fact, that our hopes are somewhat heightened.

THE CHOLERA. The following extract on this all-sorbing topic, is from a distinguished young medical gentleman of Baltimore, (Dr. W.) to a physician of this town. His theory is at least plausible and scientific.

BALTIMORE, AUG. 4. My dear Doctor—By my last advice from Philadelphia, the modern pestilence seems permanently located, and is but the precursor to its southern march. From all I can learn, it has a very singular character, resembling a disease " sui generis." That is, a form of cholera having for its exciting cause an agent not generally operating. Its virulence seems to be the same under an Indian, European, or American sky; and its total recklessness of temperature, latitude, rank, and age, seems to refer it to some malarial condition.

As no satisfactory cause has been assigned, it may seem arrogant in me to venture an opinion; but yet, if pathological conditions can refer us to the cause, I would be disposed to say, that it was a cholera morbus of the fulva, from the following characteristics: Burning life, the blood, which is thick and viscid, the arterial system is semi-vascular, and the condition accounts for the blanched appearance of the mucous surfaces; for the minute terminations of the arterial series would not be perceptible to the observer. Besides, it is found that the interjection of alkaline solutions into the veins, alters the condition of the blood, to the decided improvement of the patient. Alkalies abound in oxygen. Abstraction of blood, so to lessen the quantity, and consequently enabling the remaining portion to receive more oxygen in the process of aeration, tends to establish our view. At present we do not say that the genuine Asiatic Cholera anaphis in a manner, without doubt, several very suspicious cases have occurred."

Extract of a letter from a gentleman in Missouri, (late of Shepherdstown,) to the Editor of the Free Press: ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI, AUG. 9, 1832.

My Dear Sir—Advices were yesterday received here, from Gen. Atkinson, that an engagement had taken place between the picked men detached from the main army under the command of Gen's Dodge and Henry, and the main body of the Indians—which resulted in the discomfiture of the latter. The returns state that one man of the whites was killed and eight wounded; whereas the loss of the Indians was forty-two killed and forty or fifty wounded; and but for the intervention of night, the victory would have been a signal one, terminating in the destruction of the whole body of the Indians. Gen. Atkinson bears the reputation of an accomplished and brave officer. "Tis true the war has been a protracted one; that consequence has emanated from circumstances beyond his control—With the difficulties so complicated, pressing him on every side, it was impossible for human exertion to accomplish more than he has already achieved. Along the frontier, as also in the interior of Illinois, the most deplorable scarcity of provisions prevails; the poor crops were universally injured by the premature frost last fall.

The city of St. Louis is decidedly one of the prettiest in the west; the view of it from the Illinois shore, or in ascending the Mississippi, is truly beautiful; the main street is unexpressed in its appearance, from being extremely narrow, but you lose sight of that defect when viewing the upper part of the city; there the streets are beautifully laid out—the private residences and the public buildings are characterized in their construction by exquisite taste. The society is principally French, accompanied however by many pleasant American families. Like the French the female character is distinguished by a light-hearted gaiety and buoyancy of spirit, which wherever you may, under any circumstances, their cheerful sprightliness never flags. To see them, to mingle in their society, you would believe that the dark side of the picture of human life was never presented to their view or their imagination; that, in the exuberance of their fancy, they realized the diversified vicissitudes of this transitory career, as a path strewn with flowers which were never destined to droop or to die.

An explanation.—The partnership of Chas. Williams, and Pender, in the publication of the Baltimore Saturday Morning Visitor, is dissolved by mutual dissent. Mr. Wilmer is out of the concern. Who could contemplate such an association of combustible names, without the idea of a blow-up? It involves those concerned, to emit their electrical flashes warily.

The paper lately published by Messrs. Glendinning and Hewitt, Esq. is an interesting publication, and cheap too.

Mr. Wilmer protests against his violent ejection from the establishment. He says he was ejected without any notice, and that he is a member of the establishment.

We observe in the Richmond Whig a letter from Mr. W. W. Wood, the Representative of that place, who was lately appointed to that office as a reward for his devotion to Gen. Jackson, has not only been making great personal exertions to reconcile the people of Mason county to the late conduct of the Executive, but has actually made an excursion into the State of Ohio, and harangued the people in defence of the Veto, &c. &c. This, we presume, is done in compliance with that part of Gen. Jackson's inaugural address, in which he rebuked Adams and Clay for bringing the patronage of the Government "in conflict with the freedom of elections," and in which he promised that the "task of reform," in this respect, was too lightly inscribed among his duties, "to be overlooked."—[U. S. Tel.

From the Pittsburg (Pa.) Gazette. It gives us sincere pleasure to assure our readers abroad that the Jackson party here is completely and utterly prostrate. The Veto has done up Jackson in this country. Hundreds have abandoned the support of the Hero, on account of his hercule determination to give a mortal stab to the manufacturing interest of the country, by destroying the "Bank of America." On the other hand, we have heard of but two persons who have turned back to Jackson, on account of the veto, and those two, one assigns the following truly benevolent and christian-like reason for the change: "He says he has money in hand, and he wants to lay it out in real estate, but the country is now so prosperous that he cannot make an advantageous bargain. But, if the Bank be destroyed, distress, embarrassment, and wretchedness will follow, and he will have a glorious chance to speculate upon the ruins of a glorious Bank." Such in substance, if not in words, is the reason assigned by one of the two applicants to the Jackson party in this country. The motive is worthy the cause.

From a comparative statement of the revenue derived under the old Tariff and the new, it is now in prison awaiting his doom. An effort is made to induce him to have his sentence commuted.—[Nat. Gaz.

Dinner to Judge Clayton.—By the Greenville Southern Sentinel, of the 9th ult. we perceive that the citizens of Laurens District, South Carolina, gave a public dinner to Judge A. S. CLAYTON, of Georgia, on Wednesday, the 25th ult. Judge Clayton addressed the assembly (which is variously estimated at from twelve to fifteen hundred persons) on the all-absorbing subject of the Tariff, and strongly advocated the doctrine of non-resistance. In concluding, he said: "You will naturally inquire, what is to be done? Submit? Certainly not. No freeman will submit to it. I advise, then, the most peaceful remedy, and, strange as to some it may seem, I advise non-resistance."

He then gave the following toast: "The late Tariff Act—It is now a plain case—Latter on Submission! He that tallies is a Laster—he that doubts is damned!"

FOR THOMAS H. BENTON'S BENEFIT. From the St. Louis Times, July 28. WE NOW PROVE, if the opportunity shall be afforded to coerce the production of testimony, that Thomas H. Benton, then and now a Senator of Missouri, had, some time in the year 1832 and 1834, at different places and in the presence of sundry members of the State of Missouri, say, in substance, that (V. General Jackson should be elected President of the United States that members of Congress would have to legislate armed. We know the names and the persons of the witnesses, by whom the charge is made, and in the month of August, we will, if necessary, at this time, confined to the production of evidence in the mode pointed out. The general reluctance of private citizens to appear in the public prints as witnesses, is the only cause that makes us thus guarded, but it may, and we hope will be, in our power to dispense with the condition that we are now obliged to make. Our intention is to fulfill our pledges at all times, and therefore we give them warily.

Reception of the Veto in Missouri.—The Message of Gen. Jackson, relating the United States Bank Bill, was received at St. Louis, Missouri, on the 23d ult., and excited the highest disapprobation of both parties. The St. Louis Beacon, a strong Jackson paper, says: "Having expressed our opinion in favor of rechartering that we are unwilling, we regret to find that the Veto Message gives us no reason to change that opinion." A portion of the Jackson and Benton men held a meeting, and adopted resolutions approving of the Veto.

Another very large meeting was also held, without party distinction, at which resolutions were adopted, disapproving of the Veto, and calling upon the People to withhold their suffrages from those candidates for the Legislature who are known to sustain the principles thus avowed by the President.

We learn from good authority that Mr. Russell, the Representative in Congress from Adams county has renounced his Jacksonianism. He frankly acknowledges his error in heretofore supporting Jackson.

(Hamilton Ohio) Int. We have the pleasure to state, that our townsman, Dr. Robert W. Haxall, has been awarded by the Boylston Medical Committee a Gold Medal of that value, for a Dissertation on Flatula Lachrymalis. [Richmond Whig.

The Charlotte.—On Monday, the 23d July, the Charlotte Whig met at the residence of Mr. W. W. Wood, at which a resolution was adopted, that the Whig should be re-chartered for the year, and that the President should be elected for an exchange of their lands.

The Philadelphia Inquirer of the 10th says: "We learn with regret that John C. Brown, Esq. President of the Kensington Bank, and one of the most respectable and temperate citizens of the North River, died on Wednesday afternoon last of the prevailing epidemic. He had been suffering for some days under a severe diarrhoea, and imprudently neglected to take the proper measures to prevent its increase."

Health of Baltimore.—Whatever disagreement in opinion may exist among our Doctors on other points, in one thing we believe they unanimously agree, that there never was less of disease in Baltimore in proportion to its population, at this season of the year, than at present.—[Gazette, 11th inst.

We were last evening informed, says the New York Gazette, "that Mr. L. Bates, an opulent merchant of this city, had made a donation of 5000 dollars for the benefit of the Poor. This act of liberality speaks for itself, and we hope that this noble example may be followed by many who are equally able to extend their charity."

The following article is from the Boston Transcript: "The feat performed, was a most hazardous one, and the person who executed it, must have been a madman or a fool—" "A man by the name of Joseph Shephard, died yesterday in a provision store in Pineknoll street, three dozen customers, weighing before they were peeled, more than twelve pounds. The man was neither drunk nor crazy. He is alive and well, saying wood this morning. "The above is an unexaggerated fact, and can be proved on the testimony of five or six respectable witnesses. Shephard returned home after eating the cucumbers, took a cup of strong tea, smoked a pipe and went to bed. He says he could have eaten a dozen more for his supper."

Sentence of Death.—In the Supreme Court, at Boston, Mr. Chief Justice Shaw, in a very feeling address to the jury, pronounced the sentence of death on William Leiby, for the murder of Maria Leonard. Roby is only about 21 years of age. In November, 1831, a dispute arose between him and the deceased, a very young and beautiful girl, as to her money; and he was afterwards stabbed her with a dagger. She lingered several weeks and then died. Between the time of committing the act and the decease of Maria Leonard, Roby was tried and found guilty of committing an assault with intent to murder. Before a verdict was pronounced, Maria Leonard died; Roby was then arraigned for murder, and on the trial the jury did not agree upon a verdict. On the second trial he was found guilty. The counsel for the prisoner moved for a new trial which was overruled by the Court, and the condemnation is now in prison awaiting his doom. An effort is made to induce him to have his sentence commuted.—[Nat. Gaz.

From the Philadelphia Register of August 7. GREAT PUBLIC MEETING. The great meeting of unparliamentary Irish citizens, held pursuant to public notice in the State House Yard yesterday afternoon, was a bumper—one of the most gratifying and brilliant evidences of public opinion that has yet been given in any section of the country. It was impossible, from the position we occupied, to make a correct numerical estimate of the immense concourse present. Thousands upon thousands were there—more, we have the testimony of a dozen witnesses, by twenty per cent, than congregated together at the recent veto meeting of the office holders, the "getting up" of which called forth such disreputable and extraordinary exertions. Our Irish fellow citizens deserve well of the community—deserve well of the whole country. They came forth in their strength yesterday, and in the most emphatic language declared that they had been deceived in President Jackson, and that they pledged themselves, as they held sacred their oath to support the Constitution, and by every fair and honorable means to oppose the re-election of Andrew Jackson.

James Gowen, Esq. (a Jackson voter at the last election), an unwavering democrat and an influential citizen, was called to the Chair (Samuel Black, Esq. (a Jackson voter at the last election), Dennis Sweeney (a Jackson voter at the last election), William Fair, (a Jackson voter at the last election), and Thomas Laird, Esq. (a Jackson voter at the last election), were chosen Vice Presidents; Dr. James McHenry and William M. Haly, Esq. both Jackson voters at the last election, were appointed Secretaries.

The concourse were addressed in speeches of great force and eloquence by Messrs. Gowen and Haly, whose sentiments were warmly responded to by the meeting. Indeed we never saw more enthusiasm by any body of our citizens than on this occasion. We were surrounded by the sons of the Emerald Isle, and the involuntary bursts of approbation that burst from them as the sentiments of the speakers reached their ears, gave the surest indications of the temper in which they are prepared to oppose Gen. Jackson at the polls.

We consider this meeting as a death-blow to the Administration in this quarter, if it were not before in a collapsed state, and as such it may with confidence be regarded throughout the country. It is evident that the mass of the people—the bone and sinew of the city and county—the patriotism and purity of the community, are opposed to the re-election of Andrew Jackson. Where, then, can he look for support or success?

However, there was no marriage, and it is our duty to remedy the error as far as we can. A note from a friend of the younger lady desires us to correct it. He says she "thought proper to withdraw for particular reasons. She is much hurt to think it appeared in the paper; and is a lady of respectability and honor." We cheerfully (as it is her wish) restore her to "single blessedness."
