

The following lines are from the new edition of Byron's works. They occupy the place of the exquisite lines addressed to Inez, and seem to have been written at a time when the author was yet in love with the world.

Oh never talk again to me
Of Northern climes and British ladies,
It has not been your lot to see
Like me, the lovely girl of Cadiz;
Altho' her eye be not of thine,
Nor fair her looks like English ladies,
How far its own expressive eye
The languid azure eye surpasses!

Prometheus like, from Heaven she stole
The fire that thro' those alien lashes
Flicker'd across her eye to roll,
And as she look'd, her eye-brows
Front eyes that cannot meet
And as she look'd, her eye-brows
In lengthen'd frowns her raven tresses,
You'd swear each clustering lock could feel,
And curl'd to give her neck carcases.

Our English maids are fond to woo,
And frigid even in possession,
And if their charms be fair to you,
These lips are slow to love confession;
But benevolent a brighter sun,
For love ordain'd the Spanish maid is,
And who when fondly fair you woo,
Enchants you like the girl of Cadiz!

The Spanish maid is no coquette,
Nor joys to see a lover tremble,
And if she love, or if she hate,
Alike she knows not to dissemble.
Her heart can ne'er be bought or sold—
However it beats, it beats sincerely,
And tho' it will not bend to you,
It will love you long and love you dearly.

The Spanish girl that meets your love,
No'er taints you with a noxious denial,
For every thought is bent to prove
Her passion in her hour of trial.
When thro' your eyes her innocence Spain,
She draws the lesson and shrinks from the anger,
And should her lover pass the plain,
She hurst the spear, her love's avenger.

And when, beneath the evening star,
She mingles in the gay bolero,
Or sings to her attuned guitar,
Or Christian knight or Moorish hero,
Or counts her beads, with fairy hand,
Beneath the twinkling rays of Hesper,
Or joins devotion's choral band,
To chaunt the sweet and hallow'd vesper—
In each her charms the heart must move
Of all who venture to behold her;
Then let no Maida less fair approve
Because her bosom is not colder;
There may a slight 'tis mine to roam
Where many a soft and melting maid is,
But none abroad, and few at home,
May match the dark-eyed girl of Cadiz.

The poem by JOHN QUINCY ADAMS, just issued from the press at Boston, is spoken of in the following manner by the editor of the Boston Advocate.

"DEARER MAC MONROE, or the Conquest of Ireland, a historical tale of the twelfth century, by JOHN QUINCY ADAMS, Esq. Carter, Hurdock & Co. N. Y. & N. H. N. Y.

Nothing has occurred for a long time, in the history of literature, more remarkable than this—this poem—playful, satirical, & serious, published from the pen of the profound and austere statesman, the learned civilian, the deep scholar, the acute politician, the unconquered and unconquerable controversialist! And yet we really have in this poem another of those specimens so rare and so precious in the history of genius and learning, of great versatility of talent; the union of the opposites of playful humor and profound research.

The Ex-President has occasionally been known to have wooed the muses, in a few stanzas, but this is his first attempt at any thing like a continuous poem. His friends might well have trembled for his fame, if they had known he was venturing on so hazardous an experiment, at an age when those who were practiced poets in their youth, lose all the fire and force of fancy, and when those who never wrote, cannot acquire the smoothness and refinement of the art.

Nevertheless, Mr. Adams has been eminently successful in this fanciful, but elegant trifling of his leisure hours. He has chosen for his theme the events which led to the possession of Ireland by England in the twelfth century, and as has always been the fact, since the days of Eve and Helen, in all conquests and downfalls of man and empires, a woman is the cause of all.

Dermot, King of Leinster, seizes and carries off Doregilda, wife of Orloric, who in return attacks Dermot and drives him out of the kingdom. He applies to Henry of England for succor, and ravages his kingdom, until he consents to hold in vassalage, under the crown of England, a great part of his territory, and through it achieved the entire conquest of Ireland.

This outline Mr. Adams has wrought up to a beautiful moral, illustrating the true, but as he conceives, false maxim, that history is philosophy, teaching by example, in a poem, which he says is but a greater fortune in the world than it deserves. "History, as it should be written and read, is the school of morals, teaching sometimes by example, but much more frequently by admonition." To test this truth, says Mr. A., "I would ask the young men and women of my native country, who may charge an idle evening with the perusal of the history which I now dedicate to them, what part of philosophy would be taught by the example of Henry the 2d of England, or of Dermot Mac Morogh, which resulted in the conquest of Ireland?" He adds, with a well-deserved sneer, "David Hume passes for a philosophical historian."

This correction of a false notion of the nature of history, which he has heretofore been writing, is worthy the attention of a man even as distinguished and as grave as Mr. Adams, and he has, perhaps, chosen the best possible vehicle for illustrating it. This is no other than the studiously negligent measure, celebrated in the Italian schools of poetry, but first successfully engraven in the English language, by Lord Byron, in his inimitable Beppo, and Don Juan; the last a poem of more genius, in our own conception, than Milton's epic, and of unsurpassed richness in delicacy of satire, fancy and truth to nature. We say nothing of its immortality, but of its powers. Mr. Adams has successfully followed his model, and in the present instance from every thing offensive, which gives so much point to Byron's satire; for it is much easier to sneer, when you disregard decency, than it is to be he married Jane, daughter and sole heiress of the late Sir Walter Scott, Bart., by which marriage she received a fortune of £60,000.

On Monday a preliminary meeting of some of the friends and admirers of Sir Walter Scott was held in the Royal Society Rooms, for the purpose of arranging a public meeting to consider that national tribute of respect which would be most appropriate to the memory of our illustrious countryman. A committee was appointed to draw up resolutions for the consideration of the public meeting, and to fix the day so as to enable persons from different parts of Scotland to attend.

This preliminary meeting, though hurriedly called, and necessarily limited to a few minutes, was of the genius and respect for the memory of Sir Walter Scott—being composed of persons of very various walks in life, and of the most opposite political views. Among those present, we observed, besides the Lord Provost, who was called to the chair, Baron Hume, Sir James Gibson-Craig, Mr. Thomas Lauder Dick, Mr. Macneil, Deputy Keeper of the Signet, Mr. Thomas Thompson, Clerk of Session, Mr. Skene of Rubislaw, Mr. Robinson, Secretary of the Royal Society, Professors Bell, Wallace, Phillips, &c. &c.

Foreign.

FUNERAL OF SIR WALTER SCOTT.

Yesterday, Sept. 25, the honored remains of Sir Walter Scott were consigned to the tomb, amid the unfeigned regret of thousands. Never perhaps was the esteem in which this truly great man was held more conspicuously displayed than on this melancholy occasion. We understand that cards had been issued to nearly 300 persons, who almost all attended, and being deemed an honor to be present at the funeral obsequies of so distinguished a character. One o'clock was the hour fixed on for the time of meeting, and about an hour afterwards carriages of different sorts, and gentlemen on horseback, continued to arrive from Edinburgh, Peebles, Selkirk, Glasgow, Melrose, Jedburgh, and other parts of the surrounding country. The company having partaken of refreshments, adjourned to the library, where they heard an eloquent and affecting prayer from Principal Baird; and a little after two o'clock the melancholy procession, consisting of carriages, numerous other vehicles, and horsemen, began to move from Abbotsford, and proceeded through the towns of Dryburgh, Melrose, and by the Fly Bridge to Dryburgh Abbey. As the long funeral train passed through the villages and hamlets, one universal feeling of deep sorrow pervaded all classes. Groups of people were assembled at different parts of the road, and on elevated points from which a view could be obtained. Most of them were in mourning, and many standing unclothed. The decency, propriety, and reverential silence of the boys, which were observed on every side, still more striking. The streets of the inhabitants lined on both sides with the inhabitants mourning and uncovered. The shops of this and other towns were shut; the sign boards were covered with black; the aged and the lame came forth to pay their last tribute to departed worth; and along the many miles of picturesque country which the procession had to traverse, the emblems of sorrow were every where displayed; these were the brought and voluntary testimonies to the private virtues of the deceased, from those among whom he had lived, and by whom he was best known. At Dryburgh Abbey, the body, on being taken from the hearse, was borne by his own domestics to the grave, they having specially requested that no foreign hand should be allowed to touch the remains of a master so honored and beloved. The pall-bearers were—

- Major Sir Walter Scott.
Right: Charles Scott, Esq.
Second Son of deceased.
Charles Scott, Esq.
Nesbit, Cousin.
Wm. Scott, Esq.
of Beaufort, Cousin.
W. G. Cousin.
Col. Russell.
of Ashieston, Cousin.
Foot: Wm. Keith, Esq. of Edinburgh.
A grandson of Sir Walter Scott, a son of Mr. Lockhart, was also present.

Before the body was committed to the earth, the English Burial Service was read by the Rev. J. Williams, Rector of the Edinburgh Academy. A Latin service in the afternoon, the last of which was performed. The effect of the scene was at this time impressive, far beyond what any words can convey, and in consideration of the genius and intellectual powers of the deceased, his wit, his eloquence, his fancy, we could not help thinking of his own beautiful words:

"They sleep with him who sleeps below."
The spot to which Sir Walter Scott is laid is in the north wing of the splendid ruin of Dryburgh Abbey, now, alas! containing a more splendid ruin than itself. Here is laid the body of Lady Scott, and also that of his uncle. The situation is secluded and romantic, and quite congenial to all the ideas of the deceased.

Among those present around the grave at the time of the interment, were Lords Melville and Napier, Sir W. Haig, Sir Thos. Dick, Lauder, Sir John Pringle, Sir John Hay, Mr. P. Sir David Erskine, Colonel O'Rourke, General Scott, Major Hiddle, Pringle of Whitebank, Mr. Pringle of Clifton, Mr. Richardson, solicitor, London, Mr. Ogilvy of Chester, Mr. Monypenny, W. B. Mr. Thomas Thomson, advocate, Mr. W. Clerk, advocate, Mr. Urquhart, advocate, Mr. Smith, banker, Edinburgh, Mr. Bruce of Langside, Mr. Spruit of Bunnell, Mr. Douglas of Glasgow, Mr. Baillie, younger of Jarviswood, delinquent, Mr. Baillie of Chapel, Dr. Clarkson, Mr. H. Cadell, Edinburgh, Mr. Dr. Dickson, Edinburgh, Mr. Reid, his Majesty's architect, &c.

We understand that Sir Walter's head was opened on Sunday, and that the left side of the brain was found in a soft state, and that there were globules of water under the left cerebellum, appearances which fully accounted for the fatal symptoms by which he has been afflicted.

The present Sir Walter Scott, who succeeds to the baronetcy, is now in his thirty-second year, and major of the 5th or King's Hussars, commanded by Lieutenant Colonel Brudenell, quartered at Manchester. In 1823 regarding the executioner in France, to succeed the father. No such thing. No man who has not undergone the sentence of a court of justice can, at a period when the lowest citizen enjoys his civil and political rights, be forced to embrace any profession against his will. Another cause must be found to account for the son always reaping the bloody inheritance of his father.

"The executioner lives in a state of exclusion from society. He can associate, out of his own family, with none but executioners. In it his fault if you have made him a man apart from other men? Would you give him your daughter in marriage, or seek to become his son-in-law? Would not his arrival at any place where you might be, raise throughout your frame the same kind of shudder as if you were in the Jardin des Plantes, and the lion had broken loose? and yet he is a man, as well as you—and equal in want of friendship and love, which he can demand only from those circumstances as he is. He and his are like a family of Chamallas in the midst of a community of Bramins.

"Do not believe, however, that the office of executioner can ever want an occupant. When Monsieur de Versailles died some years ago, without issue, there were a hundred and eighty-seven applications for his office. Most of the candidates were old soldiers, several of them butchers. This fact leads to a horrible doubt. Can it be possible that all men are qualified for such an office, and that familiarity with blood is alone wanting?"

"I return to my visit. I was ushered into a small room, where I saw a man about sixty, with a countenance beaming with mildness and candour, amusing himself at the piano. This was the executioner?"

"In the same room was his son, a young man of three or four and thirty, with light hair, and a mild timid look. On his knee sat a girl ten or twelve years old, lovely as an angel, remarkable for the beauty and nobleness of her features, and their expression of artless vivacity. She was his daughter."

"This family picture struck me forcibly; and Sanson must have perceived it. The fact is, that without sharing the feelings of the young man, I was different from what was now before me. That little girl, above all—she strangely bewildered me. I could have wished that nothing so beautiful might have been found there; it was like sun-light in a thunder-cloud, or a rose rising in its beauty between the stones of sepulchre."

"For several years past, M. Sanson the younger has performed duties of his father's office. Destined, for reasons which I have already explained, to succeed to that office, he is serving his apprenticeship of blood under the eye of the latter, who is obliged to be present at every execution—for the law knows no other than him, and he is personally responsible for all that passes."

"M. Sanson received me like a man of the world, without embarrassment or affectation, and politely inquired the object of my visit. My story was readily prepared. I was writing a work on judicial punishments, and relying upon his obliging disposition, had taken the liberty of applying to him for information. The amiable manner in which he replied, that all the information he possessed was at my service, made me feel quite at home. I did not therefore confine my questions to the avowed object, but in a conversation of nearly two hours, I had an opportunity of observing the sound judgment and purity of mind of Monsieur de Paris."

"M. Sanson did not attempt to disguise how acutely he felt the stigma attached to the situation. But he supports it, not like a scorpion, but a philosopher. One thing struck me particularly. He had often resorted to his snuff-box, without once offering it to me. This departure from the established custom of snuff-takers surprised me. On a sudden, mechanically, indeed, and without thought, and while absorbed in conversation, I raised him a pinch from my box. He offered his hand in token of refusal, with an expression of countenance impossible to describe, but which sent a chill through me. Unhappy man! a recollection of the

"The circumstances of this young man's marriage is so very romantic. A young and very beautiful girl, the daughter of a rich hotelier of Paris, seeing him often pass her father's house, fell deeply in love with him, without knowing who he was. On discovering the dreadful secret, her parents endeavoured to combat this unhappy attachment, but so effectually, that she became dangerously ill, and would, no doubt, have died, had not her father been overcome, the young man sent for, and the match concluded. This couple are models of conjugal affection. The office of executioner at Paris is better paid than that of President of the Royal Court. M. Sanson the elder has two unmarried daughters, responsible for their beauty. He is able to add handsome dowry to their inheritance, and his young wife must give up their lives in single blessedness."

"Among other accredited errors

Miscellaneous.

From Le Livre des Centes Un. THE EXECUTIONER OF PARIS. An executioner can never be fairly appreciated, because he is covered with a veil of external prejudice. At his name people shudder and draw closer together, as if listening to a ghost story in the great hall of a Gothic Castle. The name is associated with blood and murder.

"I had long anxiously desired to be acquainted with this terrible functionary. I was anxious to see him in his own house, and surrounded by his family—to hear him speak of his dreadful duties, and utter sounds of human language. Knowing none who could introduce me to him, I determined to introduce myself, and one morning bent my steps, not indeed without emotion, towards the Rue des Marais du Temple."

"Arrived at No. 31 bis, I saw that it was a small house protected by iron railings, whose interstices closed by wood prevented the eye from penetrating into the interior. There is no opening to the railings; the entrance to the sanctuary is through a small door contiguous to them, on the right side of which there is a bell. In the middle of the door an iron ball, like those at the post offices, receives the testimony of the Procurator General to the executioner. The door is gently rung the bell; the door is opened, and a tall athletic young man, about thirty years of age, polite, inquired what I wanted. "Monsieur," said I, "I am a travelling writer, and I am in a trembling voice. This individual was one of the executioner's assistants."

"Among other accredited errors

most eager to enjoy the spectacle, accidentally struck the arm of the executioner, and the sword fell upon the neck of the victim, which it penetrated, and stopped at the jaw. The sword was notched by coming in contact with the tooth, and an assistant of the executioner was obliged to terminate the tragedy with a cut-throat razor. I held the fatal sword in my hand, and saw that a tooth might easily have severed the neck. Another anecdote may not here be out of place.

"About the year 1750, in the middle of the night, three young men belonging to that high class of the nobility which had then a monopoly for breaking windows, insulting street passers, and beating the guard, and which would fain have revived, after too long an interval, the gay, extravagant and insolently aristocratic manners of the regency—were strolling down the faubourg St. Martin, after supper, laughing and talking under the influence of sparkling champagne.

"On their arrival at the Rue St. Nicholas, they heard the sound of instruments, and the music was of so lively a character that it could not but indicate a hearty bourgeoisie dance. How fortunate! it would enable them to pass pleasantly the remainder of the night."

"One of them knocked at the door; it was opened by a polite, well-dressed man. The young lord hastened to explain the motive of this unseasonable visit.

"The gentleman, with frigid politeness, declined their company. 'This is a family party,' said he, 'and no stranger can be admitted.' 'You are wrong,' said the young nobleman, 'we belong to the court, and we are doing you great honor in condescending to join your party.' 'Once more, gentlemen, I must refuse your offer, neither of you know the person you are addressing, or you would be as anxious to withdraw as you are now importunate to be admitted.' 'Excellent, upon my honor!' said the most eager, and the wildest of the party, 'and who the devil are you?'

"The gentleman, with frigid politeness, declined their company. 'This is a family party,' said he, 'and no stranger can be admitted.' 'You are wrong,' said the young nobleman, 'we belong to the court, and we are doing you great honor in condescending to join your party.' 'Once more, gentlemen, I must refuse your offer, neither of you know the person you are addressing, or you would be as anxious to withdraw as you are now importunate to be admitted.' 'Excellent, upon my honor!' said the most eager, and the wildest of the party, 'and who the devil are you?'

"The gentleman, with frigid politeness, declined their company. 'This is a family party,' said he, 'and no stranger can be admitted.' 'You are wrong,' said the young nobleman, 'we belong to the court, and we are doing you great honor in condescending to join your party.' 'Once more, gentlemen, I must refuse your offer, neither of you know the person you are addressing, or you would be as anxious to withdraw as you are now importunate to be admitted.' 'Excellent, upon my honor!' said the most eager, and the wildest of the party, 'and who the devil are you?'

"The gentleman, with frigid politeness, declined their company. 'This is a family party,' said he, 'and no stranger can be admitted.' 'You are wrong,' said the young nobleman, 'we belong to the court, and we are doing you great honor in condescending to join your party.' 'Once more, gentlemen, I must refuse your offer, neither of you know the person you are addressing, or you would be as anxious to withdraw as you are now importunate to be admitted.' 'Excellent, upon my honor!' said the most eager, and the wildest of the party, 'and who the devil are you?'

"The gentleman, with frigid politeness, declined their company. 'This is a family party,' said he, 'and no stranger can be admitted.' 'You are wrong,' said the young nobleman, 'we belong to the court, and we are doing you great honor in condescending to join your party.' 'Once more, gentlemen, I must refuse your offer, neither of you know the person you are addressing, or you would be as anxious to withdraw as you are now importunate to be admitted.' 'Excellent, upon my honor!' said the most eager, and the wildest of the party, 'and who the devil are you?'

"The gentleman, with frigid politeness, declined their company. 'This is a family party,' said he, 'and no stranger can be admitted.' 'You are wrong,' said the young nobleman, 'we belong to the court, and we are doing you great honor in condescending to join your party.' 'Once more, gentlemen, I must refuse your offer, neither of you know the person you are addressing, or you would be as anxious to withdraw as you are now importunate to be admitted.' 'Excellent, upon my honor!' said the most eager, and the wildest of the party, 'and who the devil are you?'

"The gentleman, with frigid politeness, declined their company. 'This is a family party,' said he, 'and no stranger can be admitted.' 'You are wrong,' said the young nobleman, 'we belong to the court, and we are doing you great honor in condescending to join your party.' 'Once more, gentlemen, I must refuse your offer, neither of you know the person you are addressing, or you would be as anxious to withdraw as you are now importunate to be admitted.' 'Excellent, upon my honor!' said the most eager, and the wildest of the party, 'and who the devil are you?'

"The gentleman, with frigid politeness, declined their company. 'This is a family party,' said he, 'and no stranger can be admitted.' 'You are wrong,' said the young nobleman, 'we belong to the court, and we are doing you great honor in condescending to join your party.' 'Once more, gentlemen, I must refuse your offer, neither of you know the person you are addressing, or you would be as anxious to withdraw as you are now importunate to be admitted.' 'Excellent, upon my honor!' said the most eager, and the wildest of the party, 'and who the devil are you?'

"The gentleman, with frigid politeness, declined their company. 'This is a family party,' said he, 'and no stranger can be admitted.' 'You are wrong,' said the young nobleman, 'we belong to the court, and we are doing you great honor in condescending to join your party.' 'Once more, gentlemen, I must refuse your offer, neither of you know the person you are addressing, or you would be as anxious to withdraw as you are now importunate to be admitted.' 'Excellent, upon my honor!' said the most eager, and the wildest of the party, 'and who the devil are you?'

"The gentleman, with frigid politeness, declined their company. 'This is a family party,' said he, 'and no stranger can be admitted.' 'You are wrong,' said the young nobleman, 'we belong to the court, and we are doing you great honor in condescending to join your party.' 'Once more, gentlemen, I must refuse your offer, neither of you know the person you are addressing, or you would be as anxious to withdraw as you are now importunate to be admitted.' 'Excellent, upon my honor!' said the most eager, and the wildest of the party, 'and who the devil are you?'

"The gentleman, with frigid politeness, declined their company. 'This is a family party,' said he, 'and no stranger can be admitted.' 'You are wrong,' said the young nobleman, 'we belong to the court, and we are doing you great honor in condescending to join your party.' 'Once more, gentlemen, I must refuse your offer, neither of you know the person you are addressing, or you would be as anxious to withdraw as you are now importunate to be admitted.' 'Excellent, upon my honor!' said the most eager, and the wildest of the party, 'and who the devil are you?'

"The gentleman, with frigid politeness, declined their company. 'This is a family party,' said he, 'and no stranger can be admitted.' 'You are wrong,' said the young nobleman, 'we belong to the court, and we are doing you great honor in condescending to join your party.' 'Once more, gentlemen, I must refuse your offer, neither of you know the person you are addressing, or you would be as anxious to withdraw as you are now importunate to be admitted.' 'Excellent, upon my honor!' said the most eager, and the wildest of the party, 'and who the devil are you?'

"The gentleman, with frigid politeness, declined their company. 'This is a family party,' said he, 'and no stranger can be admitted.' 'You are wrong,' said the young nobleman, 'we belong to the court, and we are doing you great honor in condescending to join your party.' 'Once more, gentlemen, I must refuse your offer, neither of you know the person you are addressing, or you would be as anxious to withdraw as you are now importunate to be admitted.' 'Excellent, upon my honor!' said the most eager, and the wildest of the party, 'and who the devil are you?'

"The gentleman, with frigid politeness, declined their company. 'This is a family party,' said he, 'and no stranger can be admitted.' 'You are wrong,' said the young nobleman, 'we belong to the court, and we are doing you great honor in condescending to join your party.' 'Once more, gentlemen, I must refuse your offer, neither of you know the person you are addressing, or you would be as anxious to withdraw as you are now importunate to be admitted.' 'Excellent, upon my honor!' said the most eager, and the wildest of the party, 'and who the devil are you?'

"The gentleman, with frigid politeness, declined their company. 'This is a family party,' said he, 'and no stranger can be admitted.' 'You are wrong,' said the young nobleman, 'we belong to the court, and we are doing you great honor in condescending to join your party.' 'Once more, gentlemen, I must refuse your offer, neither of you know the person you are addressing, or you would be as anxious to withdraw as you are now importunate to be admitted.' 'Excellent, upon my honor!' said the most eager, and the wildest of the party, 'and who the devil are you?'

cut oil heated, break down upon the wheel, make nerves crack upon the wooden horse, and torture poor devils so agreeably?"

"Softly, gentlemen. Such, indeed, are the duties of my office; but I leave these matters to my deputies. It is only when a man of quality—a young lord, like either of you, gentlemen—is subjected to the penalties of the law, that I do execution with my own hand."

"The individual who addressed the executioner was the Marquis de Lally, who, twenty years afterwards, died in the hands of the same man upon whose office he was then exercising his powers of rallery."

"When I quitted Sanson, after a long visit, during which I had lost sight of his situation in his society—prompted by that natural warmth of feeling which urges us to make advances to those who please us—I instantly held out my hand to him. He drew back with a look of surprise and confusion."

"The snuff-box occurred to my recollection, and I fully understood his thoughts. The hand which comes in daily contact with crime, dares not press that of an honest man."

The German Prince Muskuin observes in his travels: "We are greatly indebted to the distinguished American, Washington Irving, for his life of Columbus. It is a beautiful tribute to the great navigator, brought from the land which he gave to the civilized world, and which appears to be the last station traversed by the cycle of human fecundity."

Bunoulin, the famous physician, being at the point of death, surrounded by a number of physicians, who were deploring the loss of him, said to them: "Gentlemen! I leave behind me three great physicians." Being pressed to name them by several, each of whom believed himself to be one of the three, he replied, "Water, exercise, and simple food."—La Certe.

The Viscount de Nugent (not of the Lord of Lilla), a young French author, who has distinguished himself by the royalism of his works, was adjudged the other day in Paris to a considerable fine and eight-month imprisonment. The Viscount, being on the point of departure, was triumphantly soliloquized the very day after sentence was passed; and this loyal young couple will consequently pass the honeymoon, and two-thirds of the first year of their marriage, in prison.

Lady D.—being asked what she thought of Miss Thompson's wedding, by the three reverend Clergy, Catholic, and Lutheran, replied, "She did not know, unless it was to show he had every right to be married."

Dany Crockett's last—Crockett, at one of the President's Levees at Washington, was offered an ice. After tasting it, he whispered to a gentleman near him, "The cream is very sweet, but how marvellous the General would be if he knew it was from."

"The gentleman, with frigid politeness, declined their company. 'This is a family party,' said he, 'and no stranger can be admitted.' 'You are wrong,' said the young nobleman, 'we belong to the court, and we are doing you great honor in condescending to join your party.' 'Once more, gentlemen, I must refuse your offer, neither of you know the person you are addressing, or you would be as anxious to withdraw as you are now importunate to be admitted.' 'Excellent, upon my honor!' said the most eager, and the wildest of the party, 'and who the devil are you?'

"The gentleman, with frigid politeness, declined their company. 'This is a family party,' said he, 'and no stranger can be admitted.' 'You are wrong,' said the young nobleman, 'we belong to the court, and we are doing you great honor in condescending to join your party.' 'Once more, gentlemen, I must refuse your offer, neither of you know the person you are addressing, or you would be as anxious to withdraw as you are now importunate to be admitted.' 'Excellent, upon my honor!' said the most eager, and the wildest of the party, 'and who the devil are you?'

"The gentleman, with frigid politeness, declined their company. 'This is a family party,' said he, 'and no stranger can be admitted.' 'You are wrong,' said the young nobleman, 'we belong to the court, and we are doing you great honor in condescending to join your party.' 'Once more, gentlemen, I must refuse your offer, neither of you know the person you are addressing, or you would be as anxious to withdraw as you are now importunate to be admitted.' 'Excellent, upon my honor!' said the most eager, and the wildest of the party, 'and who the devil are you?'

"The gentleman, with frigid politeness, declined their company. 'This is a family party,' said he, 'and no stranger can be admitted.' 'You are wrong,' said the young nobleman, 'we belong to the court, and we are doing you great honor in condescending to join your party.' 'Once more, gentlemen, I must refuse your offer, neither of you know the person you are addressing, or you would be as anxious to withdraw as you are now importunate to be admitted.' 'Excellent, upon my honor!' said the most eager, and the wildest of the party, 'and who the devil are you?'

"The gentleman, with frigid politeness, declined their company. 'This is a family party,' said he, 'and no stranger can be admitted.' 'You are wrong,' said the young nobleman, 'we belong to the court, and we are doing you great honor in condescending to join your party.' 'Once more, gentlemen, I must refuse your offer, neither of you know the person you are addressing, or you would be as anxious to withdraw as you are now importunate to be admitted.' 'Excellent, upon my honor!' said the most eager, and the wildest of the party, 'and who the devil are you?'

"The gentleman, with frigid politeness, declined their company. 'This is a family party,' said he, 'and no stranger can be admitted.' 'You are wrong,' said the young nobleman, 'we belong to the court, and we are doing you great honor in condescending to join your party.' 'Once more, gentlemen, I must refuse your offer, neither of you know the person you are addressing, or you would be as anxious to withdraw as you are now importunate to be admitted.' 'Excellent, upon my honor!' said the most eager, and the wildest of the party, 'and who the devil are you?'

"The gentleman, with frigid politeness, declined their company. 'This is a family party,' said he, 'and no stranger can be admitted.' 'You are wrong,' said the young nobleman, 'we belong to the court, and we are doing you great honor in condescending to join your party.' 'Once more, gentlemen, I must refuse your offer, neither of you know the person you are addressing, or you would be as anxious to withdraw as you are now importunate to be admitted.' 'Excellent, upon my honor!' said the most eager, and the wildest of the party, 'and who the devil are you?'

"The gentleman, with frigid politeness, declined their company. 'This is a family party,' said he, 'and no stranger can be admitted.' 'You are wrong,' said the young nobleman, 'we belong to the court, and we are doing you great honor in condescending to join your party.' 'Once more, gentlemen, I must refuse your offer, neither of you know the person you are addressing, or you would be as anxious to withdraw as you are now importunate to be admitted.' 'Excellent, upon my honor!' said the most eager, and the wildest of the party, 'and who the devil are you?'

"The gentleman, with frigid politeness, declined their company. 'This is a family party,' said he, 'and no stranger can be admitted.' 'You are wrong,' said the young nobleman, 'we belong to the court, and we are doing you great honor in condescending to join your party.' 'Once more, gentlemen, I must refuse your offer, neither of you know the person you are addressing, or you would be as anxious to withdraw as you are now importunate to be admitted.' 'Excellent, upon my honor!' said the most eager, and the wildest of the party, 'and who the devil are you?'

Miscellaneous.

FALL OF THE HOUSE OF BOURBON.

A Mysterious Prediction of the year 1783.

Before we take up the narrative, we must remind ourselves, that Louis, as Count de Provence, was the heir presumptive to the crown of France...

"Take comfort! I have just risen from casting the babe's horoscope. He will not rob you of the crown; but his days will be numbered at the precise moment when his father shall cease to reign."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

cleared the field of sovereignty for the pupil of Madame de Genlis.

REVOLUTIONARY REMINISCENCE.

The following is an extract of a letter from the late Hon. Judge Peters to Col. John Trumbull, respecting the late Gen. Thomas Robinson...

But he met with a severe retaliation; for a strong corps was detached to intercept him, and through superior numbers he had to cut his way...

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

Foreign.

GREAT BRITAIN.

Lord Durham, the British ambassador to Russia, had passed through Berlin on his way home. Preparations are making in London...

BELGIUM AND HOLLAND.

The Prussian minister at the French Court had protested against the entry of the French troops into Belgium. He was waiting for instructions from his court...

SPAIN.

All accounts from Bayonne represent the state of Ferdinand's health as desperate. A pretended proclamation by Don Carlos...

CAPT. ROSS.

The friends of the unfortunate, though intrepid Captain Ross, have held a meeting in London, and determined to send an expedition to the shores of the Polar sea...

It is finally determined that the expedition shall proceed without delay, under the command of Capt. Back, by way of Canada...

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

Death of Charles Carroll.

From the Baltimore American, Nov. 15.

CHARLES CARROLL, of CARROLLTON, is no more. The last of the signers of the Declaration of Independence...

These tidings, though in the course of nature not unexpected in some degree, will be received with solemn feelings by the American Nation...

Deep, sincere, and universal, will be these sensations, and mingled with them, the consolatory reflection that the long career of the illustrious dead was eminently fortunate...

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

Domestic.

That they view with apprehension the influx of negroes and mulattoes into this State.

That they view with apprehension the influx of negroes and mulattoes into this State. In many of our legislatures, a great and increasing number of laws have been enacted...

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

General Intelligence.

LETTERS FROM COLONISTS.

The following extract shows how the settlers in Liberia estimate their advantages. To incite the Colonists to exert themselves more...

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

Shipping.

Ship Walter Scott.

The ship Walter Scott, on the 29th of September, was launched at Amesbury, Mass. by the late Mr. Walter Scott...

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

Public Notices.

Notice of the Court of Appeals.

Notice of the Court of Appeals, in the case of the People vs. the Trustees of the University of the State of New York...

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

Public Notices.

Notice of the Court of Appeals.

Notice of the Court of Appeals, in the case of the People vs. the Trustees of the University of the State of New York...

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

And Louis thus pursued the narrative: "I was more than surprised; the contents of this letter shook me to the inmost soul; the very idea of sleep fled my thoughts, and I could do nothing but turn over in my mind what course I should pursue."

Baltimore and Ohio Rail Road. THE subscriber will reduce his commission at the POINT OF ROCKS on and after the 1st September, so that the charge will be 31 cents per barrel instead of 35 cents as heretofore.

Flour, Whiskey, &c. BY THE RAIL ROAD. THE subscribers, at the Rail-Road Depot in FREDERICKTOWN, Md. continue to receive, as usual, by order of the Proprietor, as may best suit the wishes of their friends, FLOUR, WHISKEY, or any other FLOUR that may offer upon pleasing terms.

All Kinds of Goods. THE subscribers, at the public sale of the public is respectfully solicited. CHARLES WILSON & CO. Rail-Road Depot, Fredericktown.

G. B. Wilson & Co. BALTIMORE, No. 55, SMITH'S WHARF, on the line of the Rail-Road.

FORWARDING AGENT AND COMMISSION MERCHANT. At the Point of Rocks, RESPECTFULLY offers his services to Farmers and Millers, to forward all kinds of produce to market, and to Merchants, to receive and forward to the Point of Rocks, and to the Point of Rocks, and to the Point of Rocks.

INSTALLMENTS. HEAVY contracts having been entered into by the Directors of the Smithfield, Chesapeake and Harpers Ferry Road Company, it has become necessary to call again upon the Stockholders.

Jefferson & Frederick Land FOR SALE. TWO small FARMS, belonging to the heirs of F. Hunsicker, dec'd, are for sale: one, containing 150 acres, lying in Jefferson county, and the other, lying in Frederick county, one mile south of the above, and a little north of Wood's tavern, containing 167 acres, and occupied by David Smith.

Valuable Farm for Sale. THE undersigned offers for sale, a highly valuable TRACT OF LAND, lying principally in Jefferson county. It contains about 250 ACRES, sixty-five of which are covered with fine timber.

FOR SALE. A GOOD and comfortable dwelling house, kitchen, smoke-house, and garden, in a pleasant and healthy situation in Charlottesville. For further particulars, apply to GEO. HUMPHREYS.

House and Lot for Sale. THE undersigned will sell the HOUSE & LOT in Charlottesville, now occupied by him, in a pleasant and healthy part of the town. The house has four rooms and a good cellar; and the lot contains half an acre of ground. It is on Washington street, south of Dr. Snyder's property. The terms will be reasonable, and made known on application.

COOKING STOVES, &c. I HAVE just received a supply of Cooking Stoves, superior to any ever offered to the public. Also, Franklin and close Stoves of beautiful patterns, and all sizes. Those who desire comfort and convenience, will do well to call and look at them.

THE LYDIA QUEEN HOTEL. Formerly BAKER'S, and now M. W. W. No. 15, South Fourth Street between Market and Chesnut-Sts., PHILADELPHIA. It is now kept by E. DUKE, who has, at considerable expense, made such improvements to the House, as will insure comfort and convenience to his guests.

Prospect Hill School. THE subscriber, about to engage in a course of study, and desiring it necessary for this purpose, to decline teaching, has made an arrangement to transfer Prospect Hill School, to the hands of the Rev. Joseph Smith, whom he believes amply qualified to sustain it.

Valuable Tannery, &c. FOR SALE. THE undersigned will offer, at public auction, on Saturday the 1st day of December next, that VALUABLE TANNERY in Shepherdstown, well known as the property of the late John Keasley, Esq. This property consists of a four-story building, and five lots situated in an agreeable and healthy location.

AGAIN! OFFER to my customers and the public generally, a very large stock of NEW AND FASHIONABLE GOODS, which have been bought within the last three weeks, principally.

New Fall and Winter GOODS. THE subscribers have just received a large supply of Fall and Winter GOODS, which they are disposed to sell cheap, and therefore take pleasure in inviting their friends and customers to call and supply themselves with cheap goods.

Valuable Tannery, &c. FOR SALE. THE undersigned will offer, at public auction, on Saturday the 1st day of December next, that VALUABLE TANNERY in Shepherdstown, well known as the property of the late John Keasley, Esq.

AGAIN! OFFER to my customers and the public generally, a very large stock of NEW AND FASHIONABLE GOODS, which have been bought within the last three weeks, principally.

New Fall and Winter GOODS. THE subscribers have just received a large supply of Fall and Winter GOODS, which they are disposed to sell cheap, and therefore take pleasure in inviting their friends and customers to call and supply themselves with cheap goods.

THE LAST WARNING! SOME time ago, notice was given to purchasers at the sale of Dr. S. W. Washington's personal estate, that their notes were due. Many have disregarded that notice, and it is now necessary to state, that unless payment be very shortly made, the notes will be placed in the hands of an officer for collection.

A REQUEST. THE undersigned would feel greatly obliged to those who are owing him, if they would call and pay off their respective accounts, as his business is very expensive, and such a one as requires money.

Stray Mare. I will pay a liberal price in cash for 20,000 GOOD CEMENT BAILS, delivered on said farm, or upon the Western Bank of the Shenandoah, at Shannondale, or Hammond's Ferry.

Wanted. Boys over 13 years of age, and of moral and steady habits, only will be received. Apply to H. HUNTSICKER, or P. M. BROWN.

Notice. A PETITION will be presented to the next Legislature of Virginia, praying the passage of a law authorizing a Savings Bank at Harpers-Ferry.

Closing Notice. THE undersigned, finding it impossible to get along pleasantly with the usual method of doing business in this place, has determined to close. It is therefore indispensable that every account which he has, either for or against him, should be promptly settled.

Boots and SHOES. OF all descriptions, which he will sell lower than the usual prices, for the purpose of closing his concern. During the time thus employed, he will manufacture work to the order of his customers.

Runaway. WAS committed to the jail of Washington county, Maryland, on the 13th of October, a negro man who calls himself LOYD HARTNETT, about thirty years of age, five feet six or seven inches high, very black, slender and slim face, has a scar on the left side of his breast, no other marks that I could see about him.

Good Family Carriage. WILL be sold cheap, for approved paper, or will be exchanged for a good brood mare. Inquire of the PRINTER.

Paper, Paints, &c. THE undersigned has just received a beautiful supply of velvet, satin, lace, and plain.

WALL PAPER. OF the first quality, superior to any ever offered to the public. Also, a supply of German Lead and Oil, which make a paint to stand the weather better than any other in use.

Wanted Immediately. TWO JOURNEMEN SHOEMAKERS, one a first-rate Boot-maker, and one to make coarse shoes, who are of steady and industrious habits. Constant employment and liberal wages will be given on immediate application to DANIEL SPYDER, Harpers Ferry, Nov. 8, 1832.

Overseer Wanted. I wish to employ a capable, industrious and steady man as an Overseer and Manager of a Farm. WILLIAM T. WASHINGTON, Nov. 8, 1832.

Valuable Tannery, &c. FOR SALE. THE undersigned will offer, at public auction, on Saturday the 1st day of December next, that VALUABLE TANNERY in Shepherdstown, well known as the property of the late John Keasley, Esq.

AGAIN! OFFER to my customers and the public generally, a very large stock of NEW AND FASHIONABLE GOODS, which have been bought within the last three weeks, principally.

New Fall and Winter GOODS. THE subscribers have just received a large supply of Fall and Winter GOODS, which they are disposed to sell cheap, and therefore take pleasure in inviting their friends and customers to call and supply themselves with cheap goods.

THE LAST WARNING! SOME time ago, notice was given to purchasers at the sale of Dr. S. W. Washington's personal estate, that their notes were due. Many have disregarded that notice, and it is now necessary to state, that unless payment be very shortly made, the notes will be placed in the hands of an officer for collection.

A REQUEST. THE undersigned would feel greatly obliged to those who are owing him, if they would call and pay off their respective accounts, as his business is very expensive, and such a one as requires money.

Stray Mare. I will pay a liberal price in cash for 20,000 GOOD CEMENT BAILS, delivered on said farm, or upon the Western Bank of the Shenandoah, at Shannondale, or Hammond's Ferry.

Wanted. Boys over 13 years of age, and of moral and steady habits, only will be received. Apply to H. HUNTSICKER, or P. M. BROWN.

Notice. A PETITION will be presented to the next Legislature of Virginia, praying the passage of a law authorizing a Savings Bank at Harpers-Ferry.

Closing Notice. THE undersigned, finding it impossible to get along pleasantly with the usual method of doing business in this place, has determined to close. It is therefore indispensable that every account which he has, either for or against him, should be promptly settled.

Boots and SHOES. OF all descriptions, which he will sell lower than the usual prices, for the purpose of closing his concern. During the time thus employed, he will manufacture work to the order of his customers.

Runaway. WAS committed to the jail of Washington county, Maryland, on the 13th of October, a negro man who calls himself LOYD HARTNETT, about thirty years of age, five feet six or seven inches high, very black, slender and slim face, has a scar on the left side of his breast, no other marks that I could see about him.

Good Family Carriage. WILL be sold cheap, for approved paper, or will be exchanged for a good brood mare. Inquire of the PRINTER.

Paper, Paints, &c. THE undersigned has just received a beautiful supply of velvet, satin, lace, and plain.

WALL PAPER. OF the first quality, superior to any ever offered to the public. Also, a supply of German Lead and Oil, which make a paint to stand the weather better than any other in use.

Wanted Immediately. TWO JOURNEMEN SHOEMAKERS, one a first-rate Boot-maker, and one to make coarse shoes, who are of steady and industrious habits. Constant employment and liberal wages will be given on immediate application to DANIEL SPYDER, Harpers Ferry, Nov. 8, 1832.

Overseer Wanted. I wish to employ a capable, industrious and steady man as an Overseer and Manager of a Farm. WILLIAM T. WASHINGTON, Nov. 8, 1832.

Valuable Tannery, &c. FOR SALE. THE undersigned will offer, at public auction, on Saturday the 1st day of December next, that VALUABLE TANNERY in Shepherdstown, well known as the property of the late John Keasley, Esq.

AGAIN! OFFER to my customers and the public generally, a very large stock of NEW AND FASHIONABLE GOODS, which have been bought within the last three weeks, principally.

New Fall and Winter GOODS. THE subscribers have just received a large supply of Fall and Winter GOODS, which they are disposed to sell cheap, and therefore take pleasure in inviting their friends and customers to call and supply themselves with cheap goods.

THE LAST WARNING! SOME time ago, notice was given to purchasers at the sale of Dr. S. W. Washington's personal estate, that their notes were due. Many have disregarded that notice, and it is now necessary to state, that unless payment be very shortly made, the notes will be placed in the hands of an officer for collection.

A REQUEST. THE undersigned would feel greatly obliged to those who are owing him, if they would call and pay off their respective accounts, as his business is very expensive, and such a one as requires money.

Stray Mare. I will pay a liberal price in cash for 20,000 GOOD CEMENT BAILS, delivered on said farm, or upon the Western Bank of the Shenandoah, at Shannondale, or Hammond's Ferry.

Wanted. Boys over 13 years of age, and of moral and steady habits, only will be received. Apply to H. HUNTSICKER, or P. M. BROWN.

Notice. A PETITION will be presented to the next Legislature of Virginia, praying the passage of a law authorizing a Savings Bank at Harpers-Ferry.

Closing Notice. THE undersigned, finding it impossible to get along pleasantly with the usual method of doing business in this place, has determined to close. It is therefore indispensable that every account which he has, either for or against him, should be promptly settled.

Boots and SHOES. OF all descriptions, which he will sell lower than the usual prices, for the purpose of closing his concern. During the time thus employed, he will manufacture work to the order of his customers.

Runaway. WAS committed to the jail of Washington county, Maryland, on the 13th of October, a negro man who calls himself LOYD HARTNETT, about thirty years of age, five feet six or seven inches high, very black, slender and slim face, has a scar on the left side of his breast, no other marks that I could see about him.

Good Family Carriage. WILL be sold cheap, for approved paper, or will be exchanged for a good brood mare. Inquire of the PRINTER.

Paper, Paints, &c. THE undersigned has just received a beautiful supply of velvet, satin, lace, and plain.

WALL PAPER. OF the first quality, superior to any ever offered to the public. Also, a supply of German Lead and Oil, which make a paint to stand the weather better than any other in use.

Wanted Immediately. TWO JOURNEMEN SHOEMAKERS, one a first-rate Boot-maker, and one to make coarse shoes, who are of steady and industrious habits. Constant employment and liberal wages will be given on immediate application to DANIEL SPYDER, Harpers Ferry, Nov. 8, 1832.

Overseer Wanted. I wish to employ a capable, industrious and steady man as an Overseer and Manager of a Farm. WILLIAM T. WASHINGTON, Nov. 8, 1832.

Valuable Tannery, &c. FOR SALE. THE undersigned will offer, at public auction, on Saturday the 1st day of December next, that VALUABLE TANNERY in Shepherdstown, well known as the property of the late John Keasley, Esq.

AGAIN! OFFER to my customers and the public generally, a very large stock of NEW AND FASHIONABLE GOODS, which have been bought within the last three weeks, principally.

New Fall and Winter GOODS. THE subscribers have just received a large supply of Fall and Winter GOODS, which they are disposed to sell cheap, and therefore take pleasure in inviting their friends and customers to call and supply themselves with cheap goods.

THE LAST WARNING! SOME time ago, notice was given to purchasers at the sale of Dr. S. W. Washington's personal estate, that their notes were due. Many have disregarded that notice, and it is now necessary to state, that unless payment be very shortly made, the notes will be placed in the hands of an officer for collection.

A REQUEST. THE undersigned would feel greatly obliged to those who are owing him, if they would call and pay off their respective accounts, as his business is very expensive, and such a one as requires money.

Stray Mare. I will pay a liberal price in cash for 20,000 GOOD CEMENT BAILS, delivered on said farm, or upon the Western Bank of the Shenandoah, at Shannondale, or Hammond's Ferry.

Wanted. Boys over 13 years of age, and of moral and steady habits, only will be received. Apply to H. HUNTSICKER, or P. M. BROWN.

Notice. A PETITION will be presented to the next Legislature of Virginia, praying the passage of a law authorizing a Savings Bank at Harpers-Ferry.

Closing Notice. THE undersigned, finding it impossible to get along pleasantly with the usual method of doing business in this place, has determined to close. It is therefore indispensable that every account which he has, either for or against him, should be promptly settled.

Boots and SHOES. OF all descriptions, which he will sell lower than the usual prices, for the purpose of closing his concern. During the time thus employed, he will manufacture work to the order of his customers.

Runaway. WAS committed to the jail of Washington county, Maryland, on the 13th of October, a negro man who calls himself LOYD HARTNETT, about thirty years of age, five feet six or seven inches high, very black, slender and slim face, has a scar on the left side of his breast, no other marks that I could see about him.

Good Family Carriage. WILL be sold cheap, for approved paper, or will be exchanged for a good brood mare. Inquire of the PRINTER.

Paper, Paints, &c. THE undersigned has just received a beautiful supply of velvet, satin, lace, and plain.

WALL PAPER. OF the first quality, superior to any ever offered to the public. Also, a supply of German Lead and Oil, which make a paint to stand the weather better than any other in use.

Wanted Immediately. TWO JOURNEMEN SHOEMAKERS, one a first-rate Boot-maker, and one to make coarse shoes, who are of steady and industrious habits. Constant employment and liberal wages will be given on immediate application to DANIEL SPYDER, Harpers Ferry, Nov. 8, 1832.

Overseer Wanted. I wish to employ a capable, industrious and steady man as an Overseer and Manager of a Farm. WILLIAM T. WASHINGTON, Nov. 8, 1832.

Valuable Tannery, &c. FOR SALE. THE undersigned will offer, at public auction, on Saturday the 1st day of December next, that VALUABLE TANNERY in Shepherdstown, well known as the property of the late John Keasley, Esq.

AGAIN! OFFER to my customers and the public generally, a very large stock of NEW AND FASHIONABLE GOODS, which have been bought within the last three weeks, principally.

New Fall and Winter GOODS. THE subscribers have just received a large supply of Fall and Winter GOODS, which they are disposed to sell cheap, and therefore take pleasure in inviting their friends and customers to call and supply themselves with cheap goods.

THE LAST WARNING! SOME time ago, notice was given to purchasers at the sale of Dr. S. W. Washington's personal estate, that their notes were due. Many have disregarded that notice, and it is now necessary to state, that unless payment be very shortly made, the notes will be placed in the hands of an officer for collection.

A REQUEST. THE undersigned would feel greatly obliged to those who are owing him, if they would call and pay off their respective accounts, as his business is very expensive, and such a one as requires money.

Stray Mare. I will pay a liberal price in cash for 20,000 GOOD CEMENT BAILS, delivered on said farm, or upon the Western Bank of the Shenandoah, at Shannondale, or Hammond's Ferry.

Wanted. Boys over 13 years of age, and of moral and steady habits, only will be received. Apply to H. HUNTSICKER, or P. M. BROWN.

Notice. A PETITION will be presented to the next Legislature of Virginia, praying the passage of a law authorizing a Savings Bank at Harpers-Ferry.

Closing Notice. THE undersigned, finding it impossible to get along pleasantly with the usual method of doing business in this place, has determined to close. It is therefore indispensable that every account which he has, either for or against him, should be promptly settled.

Boots and SHOES. OF all descriptions, which he will sell lower than the usual prices, for the purpose of closing his concern. During the time thus employed, he will manufacture work to the order of his customers.

Runaway. WAS committed to the jail of Washington county, Maryland, on the 13th of October, a negro man who calls himself LOYD HARTNETT, about thirty years of age, five feet six or seven inches high, very black, slender and slim face, has a scar on the left side of his breast, no other marks that I could see about him.

Good Family Carriage. WILL be sold cheap, for approved paper, or will be exchanged for a good brood mare. Inquire of the PRINTER.

Paper, Paints, &c. THE undersigned has just received a beautiful supply of velvet, satin, lace, and plain.

WALL PAPER. OF the first quality, superior to any ever offered to the public. Also, a supply of German Lead and Oil, which make a paint to stand the weather better than any other in use.

Wanted Immediately. TWO JOURNEMEN SHOEMAKERS, one a first-rate Boot-maker, and one to make coarse shoes, who are of steady and industrious habits. Constant employment and liberal wages will be given on immediate application to DANIEL SPYDER, Harpers Ferry, Nov. 8, 1832.

Overseer Wanted. I wish to employ a capable, industrious and steady man as an Overseer and Manager of a Farm. WILLIAM T. WASHINGTON, Nov. 8, 1832.

NEWS! NEWS!! GOODS AT COST! HAVING determined to wind up my mercantile concerns, and for the purpose of doing so as speedily as possible, I offer to sell my stock of goods at first cost, with very few exceptions, been purchased within the present year, at exceedingly low prices, and consist, in part, as follows:

Super blue, black, green, & olive CLOTHS, Medium blue, brown, mixed, and drab do. Super Coats, Hair, Green, &c.

Bombazines, black and cold Bombazines, White, red, and yellow Flannels, Homestead Cloths and full Linseys, Plaid and striped do.

Point, Rose, and Whitney Blankets, Drab Flushing, do. Peterham, Calicoes, Ginghams, and painted Muslins of every variety.

Fig'd and plain Swiss, Jaconet, Mull, and Book Muslins, Cambricks of every description, Black and white Bobinet, Fongeees, do. Peterham, Black Italian Emstring and Gros de Nap, Gold and changeable Silks for dresses, Fancy Handkerchiefs and Shawls of all descriptions, Long and square black, red, and white-Merino Shawls, Silk, shawl-down and Marcellus Vestings, Irish Linens, Keatings, Cambricks & Handkerchiefs, Bobinet and Gauze Veils, Linen & cotton table Diaper, 4-4, 3-4, & 10-4 Marcellus Quilts and knotted Counterpanes, all sizes.

Domestic Goods. Such as 7-8, 4-4, & 6-4 unbleached Muslins, 4-4, 5-4, & 6-4 bleached do. Ticking, Checks and Plaids, Furniture cotton and cotton Onaburgs, all sizes.

Shoes. Ladies' black and colored French, do. seal skin, do. calf skin, Gentlemen's calf skin Shoes, do. Boots, Coarse Brogans, French and Russian Boots, a great variety of Queensware, Glassware, Stoneware, Hardware and Cutlery, Nails of all sizes, and GROGGERIES: Together with a great variety of fancy and other goods by far too tedious to mention.

As this is not intended to be a puff, but my real desire, I hereby invite and advise all those who consider it advantageous to buy goods cheap, to call—I promise that they shall not be deceived.

W. HAMMOND, Charlottesville, Oct. 11, 1832.

"GOOD BARGAIN!" "BARGAINS! BARGAINS!! GOODS AT COST, AND BELOW COST!!" It is desirable to both parties that the amount on that day should be very small; I have determined to offer the whole of my present very valuable stock of goods on hand at cost, and many articles of heavy Dry Goods greatly below what they cost in hard money.

AN AMERICAN STOCK WILL BE FOUND, Superior and fine broad cloths, Cassimeres and cassinets, Flannels and blankets, Carpeting and linseys, Merino cloths and circassians, below cost. A large stock of prints, below cost. Long and square Merino shawls, below cost, 4-4, 6-4, and 8-4 table diapers, below cost, Marcellus quilts and counterpanes, do. Italian silks and flosses, Irish linens and keatings, Thebes shawls and fancy handkerchiefs, greatly below cost.

A large stock of cambric and jaconet muslins, Figured, Swiss, and plain mul, Craple de Lyons, assorted colors, Linen, cambric, and silk handkerchiefs, Bishop's lawn and bobinet, Flannel, silk and bobinet lace and edgings, Kid mitts and gloves, greatly below cost, Cotton and worsted hose, Silk and mohair do. A large stock of bleached and brown shirtings and sheetings, Shoes and hats, French and English China tea sets, Passage lamps and looking glasses, With a large stock of queens', glass, and potters' ware. And indeed almost every article that is to be found in a well-assorted retail store. I invite my customers, friends, and every body to call and profit by the opportunity that is now offered to get goods at or below cost.

WM. CLEVELAND, P. S. Before this arrangement was entered into, my orders were in market for a large stock of NEW GOODS, all of which will be added and sold with the present stock, at cost. Charlottesville, Oct. 15, 1832. W. C.

GOODS! GOODS! Selling off Cheap! I HAVE just returned from Baltimore, and I am receiving a large and handsome assortment of substantial and fashionable NEW GOODS; and owing to the great fall in goods, I am enabled to sell many of them considerably lower than the first cost of goods purchased heretofore. I will sell some of my previous purchases of goods, which remain yet unsold, at cost, and from 10 to 25 per cent. less than cost. Opposite his former Store, Charlottesville, Oct. 18, 1832.

Chewing Tobacco. I HAVE received from Petersburg, a lot of very superior malden Lead Tobacco. WM. CLEVELAND, Charlottesville, Sept. 20, 1832.

PUBLISHED WEEKLY, BY JOHN S. GALLAHER. CONDITIONS. TWO DOLLARS AND FIFTY CTS. PER ANNUM. PAYABLE HALF-YEARLY, BUT TWO DOLLARS WILL BE RECEIVED IN ADVANCE. WHENEVER PAYMENT IS DEFERRED BEYOND THE EXPIRATION OF THE YEAR, INTEREST WILL BE CHARGED.