CHARLESTOWN, JEFFERSON COUNTY, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 29, 1832.

Poetical.

The Minstrel sleeps!—the charm is o'cs,
The bowl beside the fount is broken,
And we shall hear that harp no more
Whose tones to every land hath spoken!

His eye hath lost its kindling ray.

And darkness sits upon his brow!

The Minstrel sleeps!—the spell is past,
His spirit its last flight lish taken;
The magic wand is broke at last
Whose touch all things to life could wake

The Minstrel sleeps!—the glory's fled, And all that e'er pould die is dead

Of him whose name shall live forever! The Minstrel sleeps!—and Genius mourns In tears of wo, and sighs of sorrow; For though each day his song returns, The Minstrel's voice, it knows no morrow

The Minstrel sleeps!—and Death, oh! thou Hast laid the mighty with the slain— The mantle fallen, is folded now, And who may it unfold again?

FOR THE LADIES.

A woollen material for dressespealled Thibet, will be much used this winter for mantles and morning redingotes. The most elegant have large satin stripe or embroidery in worsted. Large tippets of embroidered watered silk or cachemire are greatly in vogue to throw over the shoulders upon leaving the theatre; white ones, with a border of flowers of all colours, are highly admired. They are made with a square falling collar, and are fustened at the throat with strings or a class. Some with a square falling collar, and are fastened at the threat with strings or a clasp. Some of them are gathered in plaits at top, and form points round the threat; large tassels are in many cases worn at the corners. The prevailing colours this autumn, are violet, green, and brown, which are modified by paler sliades of the same colours, to which are given the names of Dahlia, Silene, Opale, Hortense, &c. Chalys are so beautiful that they continue fashionable, and to give them the air of novelty, the patterns are varied. Mousscule de laine is more worn than ever, the scalle de laine is more worn than ever, the shades are extremely diversified, and the newest patterns are Gothic or rosates mingled with-feathers, from which white is almost en-tirely excluded.

A Cincinnati paper gives a melancholy account of the death of the daughter of Judge Henderson, of that place, by Cholera. It appears that she was married on the 2d of October, and on the 16th was a corpse. She left Cincinnati with her husband (H. B. Maxwill of Louisiana) immediately after the bridal—was attacked on the 16th, near the mouth of the Ohio, in the morning, with the Asiatic cholera, and died at five o'clock in the evening of the same day. She has left her family overwhelmed with grief, and a numerous and extensive acquaintance, to whom she was endeared by her many virtues and the excellence of her heart, to mourn her sad and early fate. The Cincinn a'i Republican says:

"We have beheld her a mild, innocent, youthful girl: yesterday the gay and beautiful bride: Alas!—sad, sad is the change—she now sleeps the bride of death!"

JOHN LODOR.

HAVING attended an examination of the pupils of the Montrue locations, under the direction of the Rev. John Lodor, we take great pleasure in stating that the plan of the preceptor, as developed in the examination, seems admirably adapted to elicit the talents of the pupils, to strengthen and direct their minds, and lay the foundation of a solid and substantial education. We have been grafified to observe the proficiency of the pupils, and eleverfully recommend the Institute to public notice and patronage. public notice and patronage.

Oct. 11, 1839 .- if. DISSOLUTION.

THE partnership heretofore existing between B. T. Towner and Thomas G. Harris, under the name of Towner & Harris, was dissolved on the 15th July last and the business left in the hands of B. T. Towner for settlement, who is authorized to re-ceive all debts due the late firm, and to whom all claims against said firm must be presented for settlement. B. T. TOWNER, THOS. G. HARRIS. Shepherdstown, Sept. 20, 1832.

To my Customers. OU need scarcely be told that, in m of Towner & HARRIS, a speedy close of that business is necessary. Retying upon your dispositions to accommodate, I will merely request those indebted to said firm to call and close their respective accounts either by money or note, as early as may suit their co venience, as it will be out of my power to wait on each individual at his or her residence.

Shepherdstown, Sept. 20, 1832.

Notice this! AVING recently purchased the Hermi-tage Farm, in this county, I hereby caution all persons against trespassing on the same, in any manner whatever. It has for some time past been considered almost public or common property; droves of the neighboring stock have been frequently seen passing over, and grazing on it at will; people have been in the habit of throwing down the fencing, riding through the fields, and committing depredations of divers kinds upon the premises; if the former owners have quietly premises; if the former owners have qu premises; if the former owners have quietly submitted to treatment of this sort, I shall not do so, but will most assuredly put the law in force against any and every person who may be detected in such practices here, after.
