RIOT AT CHARLESTOWN, MASS.

It appears by the Postscript below, from the Boston Daily Advertiser of Thursday morning the 12th, that a gross outrage has been committed at Charlestown, Mass. in the burning of the Ursuline Nunnery established there.

Mr. Editor—Some excitement has been created in this vicinity, by misrepresentations that have come before the public, in relation to the disappearance of a young lady from the Nunnery in this place.

On the afternoon of Monday the 25th ult. the lady in question came to my house, appeared to be considerably agitated, and expressed her wish to be conveyed to the residence of an acquaintance in West Cambridge.

As it has been currently reported that the lady was not to be found, I have thought the above statement due to the public.

Edward Cutter, Charlestown, Aug. 11, 1834.

The Post being a morning paper, this letter of course was not inserted until Tuesday morning, and in the meantime the fury of the mob had burst forth, and the convent was laid in ashes.

Riot at Charlestown.—The alarm of fire at Charlestown, last night about 11 o'clock, was from the burning of several tar barrels in Charlestown, doubtless with a view of attracting persons from this city and vicinity to join in an attack upon the Ursuline Convent.

The attack was commenced with disgraceful shouts, and by breaking the windows with stones; but up to 12 o'clock, the work did not appear to proceed with much vigor, and it is probable the rioters desisted, although there did not appear to be any peace officers present.

Quarter past 1 o'clock.—Our anticipations were incorrect. The convent was completely wrapped in flames! The occupants probably escaped from the fury of the flames, if they did from that of the mob.

The New York American, after publishing the foregoing postscript, says— Since the above was in type, the following letter from Bishop Fenwick, to the father of the young lady, whose rumored disappearance led to the outrage, has been put into our hands for publication.

By this it will be seen, that she left the convent in a moment of delirium, had been brought back safely, and was gradually recovering her reason and health.

Her parents are residents in this city, and her brother is in Boston; and the statement that the friends of the young lady had called for her at the convent and could not find her, is, we are authorized to say, wholly unfounded.

Boston, July 31, 1834.

Dear Sir:—Your son, Thomas, will have undoubtedly already informed you of the debilitated state of mind in which your daughter, Elizabeth, has been since last Sunday, and the temporary derangement which ensued, occasioned, as the physician reports, by a violent fit of hysterics.

While this lasted she left the convent in her dress of a religious, and went to a neighbour's house, from which she was conveyed by said neighbour, to the house of one of the parents of the children, whom she had formerly instructed in the convent, where she remained until your son and myself went thither and brought her back to the convent on Tuesday evening.

I need not describe to you the uneasiness of mind and dreadful anxiety under which we labored whilst she continued absent from the convent. This you can more easily conceive than I can express.

But, thank God! she appears now quite well again. I saw her yesterday after the physician had left her, and found her again rational, and considerably better in health.

She appears quite amazed at the step she had taken, and does not know how to account for it. I trust in a few days more she will be herself again, and perfectly recovered.

I remain, with respect, your obedient servant, B. FERWICK, Br. SOR.

From the Boston Daily Advertiser, August 13. BURNING OF THE URSULINE CONVENT AT CHARLESTOWN.

Disgraceful Outrage.—We are called on to record one of the most scandalous acts of popular violence which was ever perpetrated in this community.

The Ursuline convent at Charlestown, was then in flames, having been set on fire by a mob assembled for the purpose. The convent is situated on Mount Benedict, at the distance of about a mile from the central hills from the city.

At a little after eleven o'clock on Monday night, an alarm of fire was given in this city and the neighbouring towns, produced by the burning of several tar barrels in the neighbourhood of the convent.

A great number of persons were assembled at the spot, and were witnesses of these transactions. We are unable to account for it, that no measures were taken to repress them.

Besides the nunnery several other buildings belonging to the establishment were also burnt. The fire was deliberately communicated to the Chapel, to the Bishop's Lodge, the stables, and the Old Nunnery, a large wooden building situated at a short distance from the others.

The work of destruction was continued until daylight, when the mob dispersed. Of the pecuniary value of the property thus destroyed, we cannot give any accurate estimate.

It is stated that there was insurance against the fire at the Ursuline convent for $20,000, and on the furniture for $2,000; on a policy however not protecting the property against outrages of this kind.

The number of persons assembled as actors in this scene of destruction, or as spectators, has been computed at some thousands. But has been computed to restrain the mob in their acts of violence.

This act of violence appears to have been without excuse. It is said by Bishop Fenwick, that there was no excuse for the rioters in Charlestown, which has prevailed for some time past, and which has been increasing, until this shocking result is produced.

At Charlestown, the meeting was addressed by Hon. E. Everett and Dr. Walker. Fears were entertained yesterday that there would be fresh disturbances last evening.

From the Atlas.—We understand that on Monday the convent was opened to visitors, and was thoroughly examined from the bell to the cellar; that the lady superior has always been willing to make every explanation to those who came to her in a suitable manner, and treated her with the civility due to her sex and station.

We understand that all the Independent Light Infantry companies with ball cartridges to act in any emergency, which might require their services.

So great was the excitement among the Catholics yesterday, that Bishop Fenwick deemed it necessary to call them together in the afternoon, at the Church in Franklin street.

At 6 o'clock, several hundred were assembled, when the Bishop came in and addressed them for about thirty minutes in a most eloquent and judicious manner.

From the Pennsylvania, August 14. RIOTS IN PHILADELPHIA.

On Tuesday evening, in the Southern part of the town, we regret to learn that very serious disturbances took place, in which a number of persons were seriously injured, and some damage done to property.

Early in the evening, a detachment of boys, and very young men, amounting perhaps to several hundred, armed with clubs, marched down Seventh street, to the open lot adjoining the Hospital, where they were joined by others.

The building was attacked and speedily demolished; and from the stablement of our information, it appears that a mob immediately took place between the rioters and the blacks who live in the vicinity.

In a similar style they paraded through the various streets, Bedford, Mary, and others, in which the blacks are chiefly congregated, committing violence of every kind.

A number of special constables were sworn in by Squire Loughhead, who displayed great courage and activity, rushing into the centre of the rioters, and capturing about eighteen of the most conspicuous.

An eye witness to the whole affair assures us that its aspect was terrific for some time, and threatened results fully as extensive as those which took place lately in New York.

At Charlestown, the meeting was addressed by Hon. E. Everett and Dr. Walker. Fears were entertained yesterday that there would be fresh disturbances last evening.

From the Philadelphia Gazette, Aug. 15. RIOTS—SECOND NIGHT.

The riots recommenced on Wednesday night with redoubled activity and fury. In consequence of the disturbances of the preceding evening, the City Police, under the Mayor, were marched just after dark to the southern boundaries of the city, and the Police of the districts were also assembled.

The rioters, however, did not show themselves in any force until about 11 o'clock, when the peace officers, worn out by the toil of the affray on Tuesday, and not anticipating a second riot, had generally retired.

The onset was made in Seventh street between Shippen and Fitzwater streets. Two three storied brick houses on the west side, occupied by blacks, were first assailed. The windows and doors were dashed to pieces, the furniture demolished, and the inhabitants dragged from their beds and dreadfully beaten.

In the morning one of them was carried to the hospital. The mob then moved on to Baker street, where three frame houses were almost torn to pieces, and completely riddled with stones.

From the Philadelphia Intelligence, Aug. 15. Further Particulars.—Seventeen men have been apprehended and committed. We never saw a worse looking set of brutes—they appeared to be of the most brutish and lowest cast of society.

strewed about the street in fragments. It is not known whether the occupants were much hurt. In Baker below Seventh street, several frame buildings shared the same fate, and in Seventh below Baker street, two other houses were as much injured.

In Shippen street below Seventh, two large three-story brick houses are reduced to mere wrecks. The doors and window shutters are hanging in fragments, and the houses are thoroughly gutted.

The damage above described was seen by us, in a hasty walk over the ground yesterday; but we are informed that it is only part of the whole mischief perpetrated. The scene was a melancholy example of mob violence.

The furniture of the houses was broken into the smallest fragments; nothing escaped, the bedding was carried into the streets, stowed up with knives, and the contents scattered far and wide.

The inhabitants who were not fortunate enough to fly at the first approach of the rioters, were treated with brutal cruelty; and we learned that an old infirm negro was lying dead from the effects of the treatment he received, in the wreck of his house.

Between one and two o'clock the combined police made an efficient push upon the mob, headed, we believe, by the Mayor of the city, and quarters were restored. Ten or fifteen prisoners were made, who were carried direct to prison.

The following particulars are from the afternoon papers of the 15th: The rioters were seen on the corner of Small and Sixth street. At this time the crowd must have consisted of nearly 500 persons, generally lads from 17 to 20 years old, with a number of men.

They appeared to act in accordance with a concerted plan generally understood. The white residents in the district extended a light from their windows, and the houses thus designated were respected.

Not a house, the dwelling of colored people was spared. The mob which frightened at the approaching storm, had left their houses, and even the city, and took refuge by thousands in the fields and woods in the neighborhood of the city.

The mob entered one house where a man, who had not been awakened by his frightened companions, was found in his bed asleep. The rioters, in despite of his piteous entreaties for mercy, seized the poor fellow and hurled him out of the window.

Soon after the mob collected at the corner of South and Seventh streets, word was given to march down Seventh street, the police of the city being too strong to permit any breaches of the peace within their boundaries.

On the way down several blacks were inhumanly beaten and dreadfully lacerated. In one house there was a corpse, which was thrown out of the door, and another, a dead infant, was taken out of the bed and cast on the floor, the mother being at the same time barbarously treated.

The sign of the mob was "Gumbo, Gumby, and Big Gun." Rioters were heard during the disturbance, in pillaging the houses that were attacked.

The Philadelphia Gazette says: "In the course of an hour from the commencement of the riot, the police of the city, headed by the Mayor, and the watchmen and constables of the district of Moyamensing and Southwark assembled near the spot, and made arrangements for attacking the mob."

They formed in two divisions, one led by the Mayor in person, and the Lieutenant of the City Watch, and the other by High Constable Blaney and Captain Bell, and advanced from several points, so as to surround the mob, which by this time numbered from one to two hundred persons.

From the Philadelphia Intelligence, Aug. 15. Further Particulars.—Seventeen men have been apprehended and committed. We never saw a worse looking set of brutes—they appeared to be of the most brutish and lowest cast of society.

the Mayor, a colored man, named William Robinson, took upon himself to manage a mob in front of the State House, on last night's dining.

He was committed by the police to a cell, and was at length taken prisoner. The Mayor declared that at this period of excitement he would address the mob to collect, and any one detected in an attempt to collect a crowd, would be severely dealt with.

P. S. During the course of last evening an immense concourse of persons from all parts of the city, assembled in the neighborhood of the former riots—several companies of the volunteers are under arms—but up to the hour of closing the paper we had heard of no further excitement.
