The history of JESSE BLEDSOE, who recently died at Nacogdoches in Texas, presents a striking example of fallen greatness. He began his career as a lawyer and statesman in Lexington; Ky., where he was the chief and formidable rival of Clay. He was at different periods a member of the State Legislature, and a Senatorin Congress; Law Professor of Transylvania University, and Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Keptucky. No man stood higher in the State as a politician and Jurist than he did; and none except Clay ever yielded with such entire mastery and control, the judgments and feelings of his auditors when speaking—Yet, with all the greatness, the spirit of intextication seized upon him and dragged him from the height whereon his genius placed him, dried up his understanding, and made him a miserable outcast and wanderer.

TO THE PEOPLE OF JEFFERSON. Ere another number of this paper shall reach its readers, the great contest which has long agitated the com-munity will have been decided. In ta correct decision every citizen is deepy interested, and every man entitled to suffrage has a duty to perform of the lighest magnitude. It is not, like orlinary contests between men for rule

It seems to us that Martin Van Bu-ren should be rejected by an indepen-dent and spirited people, even if his qualifications were superior to those of any other candidate, for the simple reason that he is presented to you as the Government favorite. If you take him, you will be in the humiliating condition of transferred vassals from one ruler to another. He was put forward as the candidate known to enjoy the pre-ference and peculiar favor of the Preand quietly surrendered the exercise of his judgment, and given up his own To the Polls, them! He openly declared in advance that Mr. Van Buren ought to be the nominee of the Baltimore Convention for President, and Judge White as Vice President; and not content with this assumption, he looks further into futurity, and suggests what ought to be done eight years hence-that "Judge White would yet be young enough for the Presidency, and could then be brought forward."

Of the gross indelicacy and impro priety of this dictation, we need say nothing to intelligent and high-spirited people. The throb of indignant resist ince is at once up in every bosom no insensible to the dictates of independence and self-respect. If this had been the mere private opinion of the Presi-dent, after his retirement from office, some restraint ought to have been imposed upon its expression; but promulgated to favorites and expectants whilst in the pride and power of place, it was deeply offensive and tyrannical, and ought to be resisted.

yielded him their confidence, have shared the outpourings of calumnious and revengeful partizans. Gen. Harrison, too, a gallant defender of his country in the gloomiest period of her fortunes, and towards whom the whole nation, in moments of calm reflection, had poured out its praise and its gratitude, has been similarly, assailed, and slandered, for no other reason than yielding to become the candidate of a people heretofore believed to be free, and entitled to a voice in the selection of their rulers. Will you submit, freemen of Jefferson, that your repub lican institutions shall be thus subverted and overthrown, and your elective privilege be made a mockery and pubble. Are the Jackson men of the county willing to give up all judgment of their own, and be unblushingly transferred to the service of another Do they see nothing in all this, humili ating to a just pride? Do they see nothing in it which resembles an odious eature of royalty? Do they see noth ing in it which forebodes evil to the great cause of freedom itself? To the Whige of the county, wha need we say, to awaken them to a sense of their duty in the great trial before them? Do they not ALL feel the momentous importance of the question at issue? Do they not feel that rights dear to them are endangered—that Liberty itself is in peril—and that the happiness and prosperity of their pos-terity depend upon their vigilance in the present crisis?

The gallant and soldier-like appearance of these men is such as to inspire the greatest confidence in their peculiar fitness for their country's defence.

It is officially announced that Mr. Butler, the Attorney General, is to act as Secretary of War "until the vacancy, shall be otherwise filled." For aught that we know, this selection may be a good one—though really we are inacquainted with the Attorney General's military knowledge.—Alex. Gaz.

The difference between the agitators in these States seem to be, that in Maryland they wont Revolution first and Reform afterwards—and in Pennsylvania they seem to strive after Reform first, and then threaten Revolution, or, at least, a subversion of law. Two counties only remain to be heard from, namely, Armstrong and Venango. These will give an agregate volume of about 5000 voles, and increase the Van Buren majority about 1500. So that we may assume the Van Buren majority at the recent election at about 12,000, and the aggregate vole throughout the State at 172,000. The State contains about 230,000 voters—upwards of 200,000 of whom were at the polls in 1835. If as many votes are polled on the 4th November next, as were polled in October 1835, the Keystone State may be set down as for Harrison.—Ball, Pat.

[Sitz Ges. The result of this election is considered in Georgia, by most candid men, as settling the question as to the Presidential vote, and insuring the State for Judge White. It was considered in this city, as we understood, by the Jackson men themselves, during the last session of Congress, that unless the Union ticket for Congress should be carried by at least 5,000 majority, the State might be considered lost to Mr. Van Buren.—[Nat. One of the most satisfactory signs of the doubtiulness of Mr. Van Buren's election we have seen, is a calculation in a late number of the Richmond Enquirer, which elects him by but a single electoral vote. If so zealous and partial a friend as Mr. Ritchie can elect his favorite but by one vote on paper, his chances of succeeding must be gloomy indeed.

Soveral passengers, as we regret to learn, were more or less injured by the accident, though it is believed none dangerously so.—The lady of James L. Hawkins, Esq. of this city, and the conductor of the train of cars, were the two most severely injured. Mrs. H. we learn, received a wound in the train of cars was taken out from under one of them, and was supposed to be considerably injured, though not so as a saffect life. The accident, it will be seen, was one of those against which no degree of care and loresight is at all times a sufficient safeguard.

The following notice of the crops of the West and South is from the New Orleans Bee of the 12th ultimo:

The Harvest.—The intelligence from the Western, country represents the crops in the most flourishing condition; and we may anticipate a large most in the Greatiss is correct. The same paper adds—

Much land has been brought under cultivation during the present year by emigration, by which our exports will be greatly inafternoof the flooring that the request of the crops at the East and the North will keep up a brisk demand in our market, and sustain auch prices as will prove highly remunerative to the farmer.

as will prove highly remunerative to the farmer.

At home the prospect is not less encouraging: the sugar and cotton crops, it is believed, will be greater than for several years past.

We have reason to be grateful that Providence has been so kind in her dispensation to us, and while we regret that our eastern brethren have not been as ourselves, we are happy that we have such an abundance us will permit rouble in France.—A letter from is, under date of Sept. 8, says—"On aday night Paris was in a fearful to—all the National Guards were der arms, and the posts doubled. An urrection of a very serious nature is apprehende, but the night passed of quietly. There is a dark and lowering spot in the lestinies of France, which every eye can perceive, the bursting of which till probably fall on the head of the crity monarch who wields with such caning the sceptre of that country." From these facts, it is assumed as evident to all that at least is every section of the country where commerce and agriculture are prosperous, manual labor, and all articles that enterinto consumption, together with real estate, must always be high, and always meet with ready sale.

The New York papers speak of a great pres-sure in the money market: Various causes are assigned for it. The following paragraph on the subject is taken from the New York Express of October 25th:

Express of October 25th:

THE MONEY MARKET AGAIN.

There is yet no relief in the money market, and we are sorry to add that we see no immediate prospect of relief.

Our friends abroad can hardly realize the almost unprecedented state of affairs among us. Men who have millions of dollars in property are all but beggars in their money affairs. The South and the West, the West in particular, are calling upon us for our specie, not being able to procure it from the Western banks, and we have not specie enough to do even our business. The distress and evils among us are not confined to the gamblers, speculators and stockjobers alone. The whole business community, without exception, are sufjobbers alone. The whole business community, without exception, are suffering. The commercial embarrassment is universal, the pecuniary distress great, the failures many, and unless something is done, and done quickly, there are a multitude whose families will suffer and whose business will be less something is done, and done quickly, there are a multitude whose families will suffer and whose business will be crushed.

The New York Commercial Advertuser of the same day, says—"The pressure in the money market continues very severe, and we regret to add that there were several failures on Saturday. Possibly a few more may follow; but there are indications that we have reached the crisis."

"The following favorable article is from the Journal of Commerce of Monday 25th October:
"We have reason to believe that at least some of the causes of pressure are about to be removed. The Secretary of the Treasury has expressed himself ready to arrange, the distribution of the surplus revenue in any manner consistent with the law, which shall best subserve the interersts of trade, and pronounce stability in the money market. This disposition he has manifested from the beginning. No more durits will be issued at present, and some tilready issued and transmitted to distant places, will be countermanded—If devolves on the deposite Banks bers, to point out to the Secretary the manner by which, in their opinion, the object of the law can be most conveniently accomplished."

port, bound to Carthagena, with 600 barrels of flour and half a ton of gun-powder on board, took fire at midnight on the 31st of August. The captain, on the 31st of August. The captain, crew, and nine passengers, were aroused from their sleep by the dreadful cry of "ship on fire!" They escaped, mostly in their night clothes, by means of the long boat. In about twenty minutes, and when they were not more than half a mile from the brig, she blew up with a terrific explosion; which seemed to shake and rend the very elements. They landed on the Island of St. Domingo, on the 4th of Sept., and arrived at New York on Thursday. The Ariel and her cargo were insured in the sum of thirty thousand dollars.

Continuation of the Rail Road.—The rail road between Richmond and Fredericksburg is now in use to Downer's bridges, about 48 miles from Richmond, leaving less than 16 miles of stage travelling to Fredericksburg. The trip from Richmond to Washington City is now performed in 13 hours. And two lines run regularly each way every day. The hours from Washington are in the morning at half past five and in evening upon the arrival of the afternoon, at half past five; and in the siternoon, at half past one—being upon the arrival of the Stages from the South.

[Richmond Courter.]

The tide of emigration continues to roll from the east to the west with undiminished force. The Detroit Advertiser of the 12th inst. says:

The drift of emigration to the West was never so great as at the present time. Our city for a few weeks past has presented a scene of life and activity never before witnessed. Every boat from the east, comes loaded down with passengers, who are to be seen running in every direction, trying to procure teams to convey them into the interior. Their places are bardly vacated before a fresh load arrives, and our city is thus continually kept in a state of commotion.

We understand that Gen. Gaines has een recalled from immediate and per-onal command of the troops on our continuation or Texas frontier, and Southwestern or Texian frontier, and that those delicate and important dutier have been entrusted to Brevet Brigadier General Arbuckle. THE MARKETS.

BALTIMORE MARKET,

For the week ending Friday reening, Oct. 28.

CATTLE.—There is a fair supply of Beef on the hoof, and prices have further declined; we quote to-day at $6.50 a 7.50, according to quality. Hogs have also declined, and prices have ranged this week from $2.25 to $50.

FLOUR.—Howard street.—The market is without change. The store price remains at $9.50, and the wagon price 9.25. Receipts are very small, and no stock of moment to operate upon, if any disposition existed to do not which however, is not the case.

City Milits Flour.—Bales of upwards of 1000 bbls. at $9.50.

Howard street, 674 50.

City Mills, 5419 150.

Susquehanns, 1259 00

PROVISIONS.—We continue our quotations for Beef and Pork. There is so little Western Bacon in market that a wholesale price can scarcely be named for the article.—The last sales of consequence were at 14 cents for good lots of assorted, and it is thought that price could now be obtained. We quote Baltimore Middlings at 15.

SALT.—We note a sale of 6,000 bushels of Liverpool Ground Alum at 50 cents. Bales of Fine in sacks at $2.20 per sack.

WHISKEY.—The market is dull. We continue to quote hogsheads at 40 cents, with very limited sales. We quote barrels at 43 a 44 cents. The wagon price of bbls is 29 a 40 cents., exclusive of the barrel.

ALEXANDRIA, Oct 29.

FLOUR.—The price of Flour continues to improve—yesterday it was $9.27 a 9.40 from wagons. Last sales from stores 9.50 to shippers, 9.625 by the dray load.

CORN.—We quote the wagon price of corn at 85 to 90 cents.

WEDDED LIFE.

I love to get unobserved into a corner, and watch the bride in her white attire, and with her smiling face and her soft eyes moving before me in their pride of life, weave a waking dream of her future happiness; and persuade myself that it will be true. I think how there will sit upon the luxuriant soft asher future happiness, and persuade myself that it will be true. I think how they will sit upon the luxuriant sofa as the twilight falls, and build gay hopes, and murmur in low tone? the now unforbidden tenderness, and how thrillingly the allowed kiss and the beautiful endearments of wedded life will make even the parting joyous, and how gludly they will come back from the crowd and empty mirth of the gay, to each other's quiet company. I picture to myself that young creature who blushes even now, at his heaitating caress, listening engerly for his tootsteps as the night steals on, and wishing that he yould come; and when he enters at last, and, with an affection as undying as his pulse, folds her to his bosom, I can feel the very tide that goes flowing through his heart, and gaze with him on her graceful form as she moves about him for the kind offices of affection, soothing all his unquiet cares, and making him forget even himself,
in her young and unshadowed beauty.
I go forward for years, and see her luxuriant hair put soberly away from her brow, and her girlish graces ripened into dignity, and her bright loveliness chastened with the gentle meekness of maternal affection. Her husband looks on her with a proud eye, and shows the fame fervent love and delicate at on her with a proud eye, and shows the same fervent love and delicate at-tention which first won her; and fair children are growing up about them, and they go on, full of honor and un-troubled years, and are remembered when they die!

Old Maids.—A sprightly writer ex-vessis his opinion of old maids in the ollowing manner: "I am inclined to selieve that many of the satirical aspersions cast upon old maids, tell more to their credit than is generally imagined. Is a woman remarkably neat in her person? "she will certainly die an old maid." Is she particularly reserved towards the other sex ""she has all the squeamishness of an old maid." Is she equeamishness of an old maid." Is she frugal in her expenses, and exact in her domestic concerns? "she is cut out for an old maid." And if she is kindly humane to the animals about her, nothing can save her from the appellation of "old maid." In short, I have always found that neatness, modesty, econofound that neatness; modesty, economy, and humanity, are the never-failing characteristics of that terrible creature "an old maid."

Willis's Inklings of Adventure.

The late British Earl of —, of pempous notoriety and parsimonions collebrity, superintended personally the produce of his dairy, and not unfrequently sold the milk to the village children, with his own hands. One morning a pretty little girl presented her panny and her pitcher to his lordinable, for milk. Pleased with the appearance of the child, he patted her on the head, and gave her a kiss. "Now my pretty lass," said he, "you may tell as long as you live, that you have been kissed by an Earl." "Ah! but," replied the child, "you look the penny though,"

Military.—A gentleman in Massachusette says that he belongs to an infantry company, which, after choosing officers, had but one private. "He was a good soldier. At May training, after muster was over, he was asked by a facetious fellow how the company 'got along" during the day. "O, grandly
when in line, but when I had to form into sections, it strained me terribly."

The adjutant of a volunteer corps doubtful whether he had distributed muskets to all the men, cried out, "all you that are without arms will please to hold up your hands."

I have seen a brainless fop marry a fine girl, and break her heart before the end of the first year, though her hand had been solicited in value, by the wise, and the honorable.
