Third Congressional District which is comprised within the Northern Liberties. The facts of the case, as we gather them from the papers before us, are briefly these: It appears that the inspectors (or officers) of the 6th and 7th wards (another account says the 7th ward only) of the Northern Liberties had lost their tally books, and some objection was made to some trivial act during the election...

After much debate, in which Mr. Ingersoll, Mr. Charles Brown, and Mr. Noyes participated, it was decided by a vote of a majority of the Judges, that the Northern Liberties returns should not be received. They then proceeded to count the remaining portion of the votes and the Van Buren ticket was elected by a large majority...

It is all over after an election is over, except through in fact, and would be with a fight, for the several parties to set to and alone with other in the cause. If the business was conducted as it should be, without the interference of any party, it would be a fair and honest election...
