FAIRFIELD, June 26, 1839. Gentlemen—I received your letter of the 20th instant, inviting me to attend the national anti-slavery convention to be held at Albany, and requesting my views on the subject, if I should be unable to attend.

It is much to be regretted that an object so dear to humanity, and so important to our national honor, as the abolition of slavery in the United States, is not pursued in a manner more conducive to its accomplishment than has hitherto been adopted by the Anti-Slavery Society.

THE same declaration in regard to the power of the several States, had this language: "We fully and unanimously recognize the exclusive right of each State to legislate exclusively on the subject of the slavery which it tolerated within its limits."

THE philanthropist began to rejoice in those who have restored liberty to the colored population of the North. But recently, even among the people of the free states, a spirit has existed, from some cause, against the course adopted by the Anti-Slavery Society...

THE FALLER OAK.—We noticed a day or two ago that a large oak tree had fallen among the tents, at the Camp Meeting, near Greenvale, Maryland, on Monday last, and what was very remarkable, no one was thereby injured.

THE RICHMOND ENQUIRER is out "full-mouthed" against Mr. CLAY, and the editor's correspondents have abundant liberty in its columns to traduce and vilify him. To our mind, this proves one fact incontrovertibly. They fear his popularity. It is increasing daily, and augurs their ill-repeated assertions that he cannot and will not receive the vote of the candid community...

MELANCHOLY EVENT. On the morning of the 23d inst., a very interesting girl, aged 7 years, named Nancy Genevieve Lovren, daughter of Mr. John and Mrs. Clarissa Davoren, of Desport for school, having about 3 miles to go. The school house stands in a retired situation, and the scholars have a practice of climbing in at the window, by the aid of a stick of wood pitched against the house under the window, and of unbolting the door before the teacher appeared with the key...

CHURCH ORGAN.—The Frederick Herald of Saturday says: "The Congregation of the German Reformed Church of this place, have just received their new and splendid Organ, and are now about to install it in their church. This organ is principally effected through the efforts and industry of the ladies of that society. It was built in New York, and cost, as we learn, $1,100."

MORE LYNCH LAW. VAN DUREN, ARKANSAS, July 31, 1839. IN ANSWER TO EDITORS.—We have just received information of the execution of three of the murderers of the Wright family, in Washington County, in this State. They were hung at Cann Hill, which is about 35 miles from this place, and 8 from the Cherokee nation. They had been formerly tried and acquitted for want of evidence, but since then taken up, and before a jury of thirty men found guilty of the murder of Wright and his family, and burning the house, and the mutilated and mangled remains of a family in the house. The same officers concerned, two of the principal agents Bailey, who is gone to Texas, and Nicholson, who is in the nation. Several others, whose names I forget, have been told to quit the place in ten days, and not to be seen within 200 miles afterwards, under penalty of being served as those who were hung. (viz. Richmond, Turner and Barnes.) The reason for not confining them is said to be, that each of the three had pulled down the jail, and there was no place to confine them without a certainty of their being released by their comrades.—N. O. Bulletin.

RIOT ON THE CANAL.—The Hagerstown Herald of Freedom states that a riot on the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal, occurred in Washington county, about 50 miles above Hancock. The fight took place between the German and Irish laborers, and although seven or eight of the former were dangerously wounded, yet it does not mention any deaths.

Gen. Francis Gelton has published a card in the Times, stating that if he could be generally known about the Territory, he would be glad to receive the vote of the candid community. He will receive it his duty to go to Washington and ask his duty. The General must be an original.

CHEAP MANURING.—Many farmers in this State of late years have adopted the plan of manuring their crops by the use of the guano, instead of the manure of the cow, or the manure of the horse. For instance, take a field when the grass upon it is about fully grown, say the 1st of July, and turn it over once with the plough. Then harrow and sow with wheat, or with corn, or with any other crop, and you will find that the crop will have attained its growth. Turn this under with the plough, as you did the first time. Then harrow and sow with the same crop, and you will find that the crop will have attained its growth. This is the plan of manuring, and it is a very cheap and profitable one.
