From the October Knickerbocker. LIFE'S MEMORIES. I remember, I remember When my life was in its prime, Yet untouched and uncorrupted By the blighting hand of Time; When the flow'ret and the soushine Were companions of each scene, And Hope was in its vigor then, And Pleasure in its green.

I remember, I remember

When the storm of sorrow came, And extinguished, and for ever, All the glory of life's flame: When one by one the blossoms Of Affection dropped away, And Despair came with the darkness, And Affliction with the day. I remember, I remember! But ah! 'tis vain to mourn For the bright hours and the loved ones That will never more return!

Let the Present have its tortuze,

I know well that you, and those who think with you, controvert the legitimacy of slavery, and deny the right of property in slaves. But the law of my State and other States has other-the law of my State and other States has other-the law of my State and other States has other-dening them to their fate? Then, there is also and according to the fitter fine at the cruef menate passed with the boon of liberty, to end a wretched existence in starvation? Another class is composed and angry voices announced the proximity of helpless infants, with or without improvident menate passed to have been lost at ssa, with and angry voices announced the proximity of danger; and the faithful nurse, hurrying into the room, half-dragged her sorting into the room in t opinion, and ought to be repealed, but, then, ther class who would not accept their freedom if you and your associates are not the law makers I would give it to them. A friend is it a story of a Technor Carbon tain and his mate, something after this fashion. We enver there was a plant pudding made by the captain's easter, all the plans were put into one end of it, and that placed as at to the asptain, who, after belief himself, passed it to the mate, who never found any plums in his part of it. Well, after this game had been played for some time, he prevailed on the steward to place the end which had no plums in it next to the captain. The captain no it next to the captain. The captain no sooner saw the pudding than he discovered that he had the wrong end of it. ered that he hid the wrong end of it.—
Picking up the dish, and turning it in his hands, as if merely examining the China, he said, "this dish cost me two shillings in Liverpool," and put it down again, as though without design, and with the plum end next to himself. "Is it possible?" said the mate, taking up the dish, "I shouldn't suppose it was worth more than one shilling," and, as if in perfect innocance, he put the dish down with the plum and next to himself.
