Admittee the parties, and the a meet of the coal, you will ask what is the senergy? Thin, my good sir, is precently the question I am about to ask you, and I ask you at the fair of a specific inquiry, whether punite opinion, shrough the Union, may not receive such as organization by the action of Congress, popular account, and the press, as to increase, popular account, and the press, as to increase. Compresseding States to hold Consentions this winder. Compresseding those who have negotiated foreign loans, who savertheless have met punctually their stricted, that by united action they may induce the legislatures of the deversi indepted. Hates to impose, and the people to hear, such taxes as shall provide the means of paying the interest, and establishing a auditing fund for the gradual extinguishment of the principal of their public debt? I cannot believe that these appeals to State pride and National honor would be unavailing. You see that I is yout of account the assumption of the State debts by the Federal Government, because I often fear, if this expectation were held out, the defaulting States would do nothing of themselves, and the exigency has sot yet arises. elves, and the exigency has not yet arises when such as one con responsibility ought to be assumed by the National Government, so unjust to those fixtes who are faithfully paying their debts, and to others who have perhaps been far wiser to forbear contracting any, although I can conceive a state of things in which such assumption as a measure of finance and national own South Carolina "wears her beaver up. She is never in arrear one day, and very often, surprising. You know it has been one of our iliar and household less ins at home, to submit cheerfully to the imposition of direct taxes, to support the security and honor of our country, and hence by a habit which we derived from the buried "warlike and wise," who have made us what we are, we pay our State Taxes Occapying the position you do, I sincerely hope, my dear sir, that your influence throughout the Union will be brought to hear on this great pational question. We all know that our are essentially sagacious, as well as, in the main, right-principled, and require merely a proper direction to be given to their exertions to make even an heroic effort to recover and sustain the character of the country.

But, auxiliary to these efforts, something more remains to be done by yourself. It is to lend vigorously the powers of your own genius, and the impulses of your own patriotism, in your appropriate sphere, the Senate of the United States, to create and establish a sound circulating medium throughout the Union, convertible into specie, but in sufficient abundance to eledepression to which it has fallen, and in fact, to and value in our country Whether this be a for cash when in operation. Bank of the United States, or an issue of a redeemable currency by the Federal Treasury, is not of so much comparative importance, as that we should have an abundant and uniform circuon from some source or other, which, making allowance for the variations in the balance of trade, shall be of equal value in New Orleans

This circulation, in the recesses of that financlal wisdom which is past finding out, was de-stroyed by our friend General Jackson, when he slew the Bank of the United States, with the one disposed to engage in the business. arm of Sampson, and almost "with the self-same weapon, ton," when we recollect all the twaddle of the old gentleman on this subject. He, as Burke said, was certainly a "con-ummate architect of Rain," in his time and tide, and had the happy faculty of impersonating a corporation happy faculty of impersonating a corporation "in his mind's eye," for the purpose of hating it as cordially as he once did you and Mr. Poine dexter. When, therefore, Mr. Biddle entered into a contest with this here of two wars, he forgot the wisdom of the Spanish proverb, "That he who acts down to dine with the devil should he who acts down to dine with the devil should have been contested to said the purpose of hating it as a should been committed to said this for horse steeling. He is about 25 or 30 years of age—five feet 4 or 5 inches high—light hair, grey cytes, high has a round full face, and wars stoutly eat with a long spoon " What has been the repalsied indeed-hungry in fesh and poor in spi-

I doubt, since the creation of the world. whether such an example cale be exhibited as we have presented for the last sixteen years of folly and mis government No Southern planter would permit his plantation for one hour to be governed with such a lack of all sense and providence The Caffras and Hottentols, in reference to their condition, I coubt not, have been governed with a policy far more rigilant and

A country of immense resources, in a period | Western Road, 19 miles west of Winefester, and of profound peace, on the verge of bankruptcy! is so well known to the public as to make a par-Any man who will read Hume's essays on "Public Credit" and on "Money," can be at no loss to trace our present condition to its true cause. We have been suffering ever since Gen. Jackson destroyed the Bank of the United States sary Out-huildings, with a (with the exception of a short period of distempered inflation created by his own measures) under a steadily diminishing circulation, which the eminent philosopher to whom I have referred has declared to be one of the worst calamities that can befal a civilized country—far more dis-astrous "than the continued blight of unfavorafirst, in the constant action of the Federal Government, or their supposed meditated action on the Banks of the States, which created a universal panio, that has compelled the Banks to with-draw their circulation; and, next the General Government permitting to remain in criminal abeyance their sovereign function to supply a cur-rency equal to the wants of the country, and "to

The consequence is, that the States bave nothing in the shape of credit, or money at home to pay with abroad. Every species of property has fallen from fifty to one hundred per cent., and the standard of value so seriously disturbed, that a man in 1839 might have had property to three times the value of his debts, yet he is now isses facto rained by the silent transit of our country from a redundant circulation to what some are pleased felicitously to call a hard money curren-cy—when the fact is that we can procure nei-ther that which is hard nor soft.

By this alteration in the standard of value, a By this alteration in the standard of value, a revolution is in portections progress in our country, as wide apread and desolating, as far as property is concerned, as that which distinguished and illustrated the masterpieres of human policy of the Robespieres, Dantons and Marats of another ill-fated country, which in its time was governed by its demagogues too, who made paper money so thick that it snowed assignate in the streets of Paris, and then turned round and huma in their phenoment that burnt in their phrenzy their own handiwork. Look, my dear sir, at the thousands, and tens that have had unutterable were carried into the that have had unutterable were carried into the very bisoms of their houses, by the nostrampol our political quacks, who, in their senseless war on the very banks they created, gave no time "hy the preparatory revolution of the intervening discords" for the country to pass from a period of expansion to one of sweets and arid restrictions.

To those who have been raised in these unhappy times: whose estates have passed under the tender gripe of the sheriff, the moral justice of General Jackson's memorable apotherwill be but a dry crust, "that those who horrow maney ought as beauty," a doctrine out of which their treditors are likely to derive as little comfort as themselves, although it must be admitted that the General tried all he could be received the bet the General tried all he could to secure to decing to the quastry. Lambaugh's Composition. HERE can be but little, if any doubt what of Lambaugh's Rheumatic Composition, has proved more uniformly successful in the cure of Rhenmatism, than any preparation ever be fore offered to the public. It is composed of Medicines which stand deservedly high, for he relief Gouty and Ra-umatic Affections, and rom the invariable success attendant upon the administration of the Composition Many phyicians of high standing, and distinguished quaifications, have been induced to recommend it o their patients Testimonials of many who have used it, have been offered without solicitation, and can at any time be procured But these are not deemed requisite-we would prefer to see it stand or fall according to its own merit. From all that we know in regard to this Medicine, we are warranted in applying the language used in regard to it, of the Senior Editor of the Free Press, that "there is no mistake: it will cure the Rheumatism."

WM. ANDERSON. J PEASE & SON'S Clarified Essence of Hoarhound Candy.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12, 1841. GENTLEMEN :- I have recently used your Esin the cure of those diseases so fatal to children, Croup and Whooping Cough.

Children are had patients, because the nauses of most medicines prevent their taking them with the same mental effect as adults. Your Candy, however, is eagerly taken by children, and I think I may safely any that I never knew so valuable a Medical Compound, under so pleasant a guise. It combines the pound, under so pleasant a guise. It combines the pealing, laxative and tonic, in just proportions, and it is to be recollected that the beauty of medicine consists in proper combination. I should think that in all complaints of the lungs, weakness of limbs, oppressions or other complaints arising originally from a cold and chilled state of the system, jour Candy would be found as useful a specific as exists.

I am, gentlemen, your most obedient servant, J. C. DAVIS, M. D.
