"National Exchequer."
 A solid Dutch need to say, "Dere is no delusion whether the plan of an 'Exchequer Bank' as recommended by 'Capt. Tyler,' will be successful or not." It is a question of the world, viz: that CHARLES A. KERRAN has been established, but has merely removed to a new location, and has not abandoned the old one. THE VIRGINIA FREE PRESS.
 A correspondent of the "Free Press," in the paper of December 22d, under the signature of "Hard Times," uses very hard words in relation to the proceedings and proceedings of the Berryville meeting. He exhibits a feeling of irritation, indeed anger, at the proceedings of that meeting, which do not comport with his signature, "Hard Times." We must, in charity, suppose, that he is a man of good feelings, and that of course he would not be so angry and excited, if he were not a man of good feelings, and that of course he would not be so angry and excited, if he were not a man of good feelings.

Co. York

THE GAMBLER'S REQUEST GRANTED.
 IN 1834, a number of individuals were arrested for keeping a gambling house in Charlestown, near Independence. The Council for the prosecution, sitting in his office one day, when a young man of excellent exterior and good address entered, and the following dialogue ensued:
 "I have been summoned to appear tomorrow as a witness against ——— for keeping a gambling house. Unless it is absolutely necessary," said he, "I wish, sir, you would not urge my attendance."
 "I don't," said the counsel, "that the conviction will depend upon your testimony, but you are an important witness; it may be necessary to bring you upon the stand."
 "I am not," said he, "of an urgent nature, and the consequence of a refusal may be fatal to my property, and the happiness of others." He became more agitated and at the request of the gentleman, he continued: "In a few days, I am to be married to Mr. ——— a young lady, residing on Chesnut street. The preparations are made, and the day is fixed. If I am called upon to testify in this case, I shall criminate myself, and be exposed to the eyes of my friends, and the public gaze as a Gambler. My character will be lost, my prospects in life blighted, and of course, my domestic happiness destroyed."
 "You shall not be called, young man," said the counsel, "unless it is absolutely necessary," and with this assurance they separated, not without some painful misgivings on the part of the legal gentleman, that he was about to be necessary to a wrong, which might result in the ruin of a confiding and unassuming girl. The trial came on, but conviction was obtained without summoning the young man, and he went on in his course of duplicity and crime unexposed. In a few days he was married!
 Two years passed, and a young but heart-broken wife appears before the legal tribunal, seeking a divorce. Her counsel was startled when the husband came forward, at discovering, confronting the wife, the identical young man, who pleaded not to be exposed as a Gambler! The incident to the counsel's mind. The painful recollection of a deserted home, a neglected wife, and the cruelties which had followed his gambling habits, then came up in fearful array before the individual who saved him from his merited exposure.
 The trial proceeded, and a gradual succession of acts of injustice, neglect, coldness, alienation, domestic discord, and a confiding and affectionate young wife were disclosed, which melted the heart of the coldest spectator. His defence was feeble, and her cause triumphed. Happily she was liberated from the monster, who had wounded her heart, destroyed her peace, and deprived her of that happiness which beamed upon her so joyously during the morning of her bridal day.
 His fate hardly need even briefly be told. He soon lost the esteem of his friends, if the Gambler has friends, and his credit followed with his reputation. His fashionable and elegant establishment on Chesnut street was closed by the Sheriff a few weeks since, and more recently, he has been arrested for forgery. What a brief but melancholy career! The fruit reaped from the pursuits of the Gambler!

Recipes.

RHEUMATISM. The Saturday Evening Post says, the following remedy for rheumatism, either chronic or inflammatory, will be found very efficacious. It has been tested by several old rheumatic patients, and found to afford immediate relief — one quart spirits of wine, two ounces castile soap, one ounce spirits of hartshorn, one ounce gum camphor, and half a glass of spirits of turpentine. The soap and camphor to be cut in small pieces, and dissolved in the liquids. It can be kept in a bottle, or any close vessel, for use as directed. The parts affected with rheumatism to be rubbed with the mixture and kept warm.
How to Cure a Burn. — A Quaker preacher in this city at one time was so successful in curing burns, that many supposed he possessed the power of working miracles. The following is the receipt for the medicine: Take one ounce of beeswax with four ounces of Burgundy pitch simmered together in an earthen vessel, in as much sweet oil as will soften them into the consistency of save when cool. Stir the liquid when taken from the fire till quite cool. Keep it from the air in a tight box or jar. When used, spread it thinly on a cloth and apply it to the part injured. Open the burn with a needle to let out the water till it heals.
Recipe to Cure Hef. — Put into a cask twelve quarts of salt, twelve gallons of water, and one pound of saltpeter: stir it until it is dissolved; salt your meat well in a separate tub, let it stand ten days, then put it in the brine with a large stone on it to keep it under. The brine will keep three or four months.
To Destroy the Bee Miller. — To a pint of water sweetened with honey or sugar, add half a gill of vinegar, and set it in open vessels on the log, or by the side of the fire. When the Miller comes in the night, he will fly into the mixture and be drowned. — Boston Farmer's Journal.
To prevent the Bitch. — Mix a handful of strong vinegar with the food of a bitch twice a week at least. This the American Agriculturist says will prevent her from having the boy, and, therefore, a ounce of preventive will save a pound of cure.
