VIRGINIA FREE PRESS.
THURSDAY MORNING, JUNE 29.

THE WHIG BANQUET.
HENRY CLAY AND AMERICAN INDUSTRY.

THE FOURTH OF JULY.
It will be seen, by reference to another column, that the several Committees have made ample and very satisfactory arrangements for the celebration of the Fourth.

The American of Tuesday says:—By the report of the market it will be seen that Broad Street has again advanced. Sales of Pennsylvania wheat were made yesterday at 119 to 120 cents per bushel.

Contracts for new wheat, deliverable in all August, have been made at Fredericksburg, Va., at one dollar per bushel.

The growth of Timothy this year has been very luxuriant. We have now before us some stalks from the farm of E. W. Turner, which measure 13 inches. The Clover is also well grown the present season.

The Calhounites have triumphed in their descent at the time of holding the National Convention, are now pushing the fortunes of their favorite with indomitable energy.

Col. R. M. Johnson is continuing his pilgrimage in the West, and is recounting his military exploits with great precision. He has become very liberal in his praises of Gen. Harrison, though somewhat oblivious in 1840. He has not yet directly asserted that he killed Tecumseh with his own hand, but he makes it out very plainly that he picked a dashing looking Indian, with flaming plume, &c., and his admirers readily fill up the outline.

THE GUILLOTINE IN MOTION.
Where are the towers of the Enguerrand now? A letter from Boston, published in one of the New York papers, says:—"Nathaniel Greene (former Postmaster) yesterday received his commission as Postmaster of this city, vice George W. Gordon, resigned, and who goes soon to Havre."

The Boston papers state that Mr. Stephen Daniels, a good Whig, and an excellent officer, has been removed from the office of Surveyor of the Customs in Salem, and that Edw. M. Talfer, a Locofoco, and the editor of the Salem Advertiser, has been appointed in his stead.

"The Time is Coming."—We have never known at any period, a more general feeling among the people, of disgust at the more party politicians of the day, than exists at present, and this disgust will soon excite the same general desire to elevate to the first office in the gift of the people, and to place at the head of affairs, an elevated practical Statesman, who will look down with scorn upon the miserable jugglers and wire workers who have for some time past been shifting the scene upon the public stage for their own benefit.

"Mr. Porter, who has disappointed the President in his qualifications for his office, and who, it is believed, will, in any event, be rejected unanimously by the Senate, will likely be removed from his present office before long. His incompetency and vulgarly as a high officer, are too well known, and his late appointment of his nephew—a mere forward boy—to be acting Secretary of War, has given universal displeasure. He has billeted already a swarm of his relations upon the executive. More of this matter hereafter."

The President of the United States returned yesterday unexpectedly to this city from his Northern tour. He left Boston on Wednesday evening, and the officiating death of Mr. Legare having induced him to relinquish his proposed extensive tour through the interior to Albany, &c., &c.

With the President returned the Secretary of the Treasury and the Secretary of the Navy.

MASONIC CELEBRATION, at Berryville.
The Members of George Washington Lodge, joined by their brethren of Winchester, Martinsburg, Shepherdstown, Clarksburg, Harpers-Ferry, Snicker'sville, and other places, celebrated St. John's Day, on Saturday last, by a procession and other ceremonies, at Berryville.

CHARLES JAMES FAYLETT, Esq., then delivered an Oration, illustrative of the origin and objects of the Order, which was listened to with great pleasure. It was in truth an eloquent production, which could not fail to make an impression on the auditory, who expressed their feelings in decided rounds of applause.

Mr. FayleTT, after having delivered the Oration, and having read a number of addresses, and after having presided as a precious relic by the Grand Lodge of Maryland. This incident had a brilliant effect, and Mr. F. made a very happy use of it. His allusion to the brethren, as to the example they should give, was well conceived and beautifully expressed; and Mr. F. greatly enhanced his reputation as a speaker and scholar by this effort.

THE LAST HOURS OF MR. LEGARE.
The Boston Daily Advertiser of Wednesday gives the following interesting particulars of the illness and closing scenes of the life of the late Attorney General:

Mr. Legare died this morning at half past five o'clock, at the mansion of George Ticknor, in Park street. He had complained of indisposition soon after his arrival in the city, and was in consequence unable to participate in the celebration of the Seventeenth of June. The immediate cause of his death is said to have been inflammation of the bowels. He was attended by the physician of the name of Legare, and died peacefully and bravely in the arms of his friends.

Mr. Legare held the high office of Attorney General of the United States, and also of Secretary of State. He was a man of distinguished talents, and a man of high moral character. He was a member of the bar, and a man of high reputation. He was a man of high character, and a man of high reputation.

Mr. Legare's illness was not serious until the night of the 20th inst., when he was seized with a severe attack of colic. He was attended by Dr. Thomas, and he died peacefully and bravely in the arms of his friends.

Mr. Legare was a man of high character, and a man of high reputation. He was a man of high character, and a man of high reputation. He was a man of high character, and a man of high reputation.

DEATH OF HUGH L. LEVINE.
In the midst of festivity, while the bells were ringing, the guns were fired, the flags were waving, and the people were expressing their joy and gratitude in the celebration of an act to commemorate one of the noblest deeds recorded in the history of our country—while the President of the United States and distinguished men from all parts of the country were our guests—and every countenance seemed radiant with smiles, joyful anticipations of calm, and independence, joyful anticipations—the scene was marred by a premature illustration of the sublime truth that "in the midst of life we are in death." Hon. S. L. Legare, of South Carolina, the eminent orator, the poet, the orator, the accomplished statesman, is no more!

YUCATAN.—The New Orleans Bulletin of the 13th inst. says:—We understand that since the conclusion of the contest between the Yucatecos and Mexican forces, all the mail vessels, including an American merchant vessel recently purchased, have left, and only the Godaloupe and Montezuma steamers are off Lermas. It is reported, also, that General Moore, who has not considered himself bound by the truce, and holds his soldiers ready, according to his original determination, to give the Mexicans battle the first opportunity.

Commander Mackenzie.—Some weeks since, it will be recalled, that the New York Journal of Commerce published a statement to the effect that Commander Mackenzie had been acquitted of the charges on which he was tried before the Naval Court Martial by a minority of the members of the Court, and that the members of the Court who acquitted the commander were the same who acquitted the commander of the charges. Commander Mackenzie, deeming himself aggrieved by this publication, brought a suit for libel against the editors, with a view to elicit the truth of the matter—and we are truly gratified to say that the truth has been at length elicited—to the honor of that excellent and fearless officer. The New York Journal of Commerce of Wednesday contains the proceedings of the Supreme Court in the case, including the testimony given by Captain Isaac Mackenzie, one of the members of the Naval Court Martial, in support of the charges which Commander Mackenzie was tried. The result of the matter is, that on the charge of murder, nine out of the twelve members of the Court voted that it was not proven, and the remaining three voted that it was proven, with an important qualification.

In the case of Mr. Mordacai Cooke, tried before the Superior Court at Norfolk on a charge of killing Mr. M. E. Gardner, (whose death resulted from an affray between the parties on the 20th March last,) the jury have rendered a verdict of not guilty. The trial lasted five or six days.

IMPORTANT MOVEMENT.
From the London Spectator, May 27.
THE CHURCH OF SCOTLAND.—The most remarkable event of the day is the new session of the Scotch Church—a session so large as to leave only something like a skeleton church behind it. At the meeting of the General Assembly, on the 18th, the moderate, or clerical president, (who sits concurrently with the high commissioner, or civil president,) read a manifesto, and himself led the band of disaffected ministers, and lay elders, in their march from the hall. They went and set up an assembly of their own. The effect of this separating the discordant parts of the General Assembly might have been anticipated; for years it had been overridden by a majority still holding to their state privileges, but in open war with the state, and the state Church, in a instant restored the language of the Assembly more than its former loyalty, and began to puff down all that the body had been doing in its contumacious. Freely from the ungenerous framers of the state connection, the seceders speedily began measures for organizing a church of their own throughout the land.

The ferment in Edinburgh, in the crisis of this ecclesiastical revolution, has been extreme; especially on the Sunday when the leaders of either party first addressed their congregations distinctly and apart, and when the first of the new session meeting houses was opened. In point of numbers, the seceders appear to do better than in Edinburgh; though there is a very much of temporary curiosity and love of excitement merely in the crowds that follow them. But there is also the solid pledge of money—almost a quarter of a million already subscribed—that their graver adherents are in earnest; and in remote districts we hear of such things as ministers abandoning their comfortable homes to wander about the coasts in sailing vessels—seeking on the sea a fame denied on the land.

For the seceders to complain that the great landed proprietors are against them, and in their earlier meetings a single Marchioness represents the Peerage of the new session. Time has been when bloodshed and the freemas would have marked the progress of such a revolt; now, "excitement" and long newspaper reports are its worst signals.

A CURE FOR HYDROPHOBIA.—We learn from the Schenley, N. Y. Patriot, that a mad dog recently bit several individuals in that vicinity, and some of them, soon after, evinced symptoms of the disease. Filled Oppel was speedily administered about one-third of a dose, given at intervals of eight hours. This has been repeated from time to time. The effect is that the patients are evidently recovering. The dog bit several brutes and a cow, and three dogs have died of the disease. The remedy—Opel's—has proved so successful, and it is in other cases of this terrible disease.

FLOUR IN NEW YORK.—The number of bushels of flour received at Albany up to the 14th inst. were 309,967, and the number of bushels of wheat were 66,885, being a total of 376,852 bushels. Flour and wheat received up to the same time last year.

The Dublin Freeman's Journal, this speaks in reference to the warlike measures of the Tory Ministry of England. The Ministry, it says, will fail in their efforts; Irishmen seek now to obtain their rights by force. They are such as no tyrants can deprive us of—Their object is plainly, first to disarm and then to goad to insurrection. They will fail. We will obey the law—we will adhere to the constitution—we will commit no outrage—may, if they dare us to the field, we will decline while the constitution remains intact—yet, despite the power of England and her Irish Garrison, we will have Ireland for the Irish and the Irish for Ireland.

England may deprive the nationalists of their arms, at least such as she can discover, yet will the Irish have Ireland. England may fill our towns and villages with soldiery; with them the Irish people will have no contest, no strife, save in acts of good will and hospitality. She may blockade our ports with her fleets, and crowd our rivers with armed steamers; yet there will be peace—universal peace must reign throughout the land. There will be no civil war—Fidel will seal their graves. There shall be no strife, no bloodshed, no commotion—yet Ireland shall be for the Irish and the Irish shall have Ireland.

Texas.—Advices have been received from New Orleans from Galveston to the 10th inst. Despatches were sent by mail from Houston on the 31st ult., to the Texas Government for the Navy at Camp G. The nature of the despatches had not been recalled; but it was inferred from an editorial article in the Brazos Farmer, (the official paper) that the President had recalled the commission of Col. Morgan and recalled him. It is noted that he exceeded or violated his orders and is in consequence removed. The navy is also supposed to be recalled.

Capt. Charles Elliott, H. B. M. S. Minister to Texas, and family, had arrived at Galveston. General Murphy, who recently appointed Charge d'Affaires from the U. States to Texas, arrived at Galveston on the 7th inst., and proceeded immediately for Washington. The Hon. J. M. Eve, the late incumbent, was hopelessly ill of consumption, and was expected to survive more than a day or two at farthest.

YUCATAN.—The New Orleans Bulletin of the 13th inst. says:—We understand that since the conclusion of the contest between the Yucatecos and Mexican forces, all the mail vessels, including an American merchant vessel recently purchased, have left, and only the Godaloupe and Montezuma steamers are off Lermas. Altered Notes.—We were shown yesterday morning a ten dollar note of the issue of the exploded "Commercial Bank of Millington" altered so as to read "Mechanics' Bank of Baltimore." There is not the slightest similarity between the altered & genuine notes, and the former may be readily detected by an examination of the names of the signers. The spurious notes are signed W. Adams, Cashier, H. H. Ellis, President; whereas the genuine notes are signed James W. Allnut, Cashier, John B. Morris, President.

RULE OR RUIN.—When Mr. Calhoun deserted his "late allies" in 1837, and took his seat on the Treasury bench, Senator King of Georgia, declared that, if he ever thoroughly identified himself with the Locofoco party, he would "rule or ruin it." The prophecy is in a fair way of verification.

The four hundred bales of American domestic goods, lately imported into London, from Boston, and seized by the Custom-House officers in that city, for a supposed violation of the revenue law, have been restored to the owners, Messrs. Birnie, Brothers & Co., satisfactory proof having been adduced that there are no willful cheats—"Sark Mills" at Manchester, England, being they are well known in the United States.

The Alexandria Gazette says that the United States steamer Missouri, Captain Newton, is shortly to sail for the Mediterranean, and it may be that Mr. Constable, who has provided a magnificent outfit in other cases of this terrible disease.
