

THE INAUGURATION.

From the National Intelligencer of March 8th. The city had been filling up for days, and even for weeks, in anticipation of the approaching inauguration...

one of the sons of the West, now visiting cities for the first time, of the brilliant, many-colored, dazzling spectacles of official national costumes now presented to the gaze?

"Who is that gentleman in the bright red coat?" "Which is the British Minister?" "Which is the French?" "Who is that with the large epaulettes?" "Where is the Spanish Minister?" "Who are those in the back row?" "That one, with gold snuff box in his hand?" "That young man, with the black moustaches?" "A hundred questions like these might be heard among the crowd in the gallery, and men who could answer seemed to be looked to as a sort of oracle.

At length the two Presidents, actual and elect, entered, not like Richard and Bellinghroke, but side by side, and took their seats before the Clerk's table, and with their faces towards the audience, and their feet towards the audience, and their feet towards the audience, and their feet towards the audience...

Here a temporary stage had been erected at the inauguration of President Harrison, over the great flight of steps; and, from the front of this, the President Elect read to as many of the vast mass which filled the space in front as could hear him, the Address which will be found in the following columns. He read it in a firm tone of voice, with the air of a man profoundly impressed by it himself...

The hopes of the morrow, which had kept many an eye waking through the preceding night, were all safely dashed by the unobtrusive, unobtrusively, which, after a transient mist, began to lower, and from, and threaten, and finally to pour down rain outright. Could any peering eye, any lurking open ear, have witnessed the corresponding frowns in many a boudoir, where ladies were ready to be done, and all the artillery of Beauty lay, like the arms of Achilles, all ready for fields of victory, how sad, yet how instructive, might carefully regarded have proved! However, the appointed cannons roared; and the national flag, displayed, as it remembered, from every Whig as well as Democratic staff, though somewhat damped by the unpropitious heavens, did their best to wave in triumph; and the bands played martial airs.

The procession, being formed, proceeded to the Capitol; considerably lessened in the brilliancy of its display, however, by the rain which fell during its march.

Within the Capitol a more interesting scene presented itself than on the approach to it. The avenues to the building had been closed, and carefully guarded till the hour appointed in the plan of proceedings. But, when that hour did arrive, the rush was fearful. No limits, happily, were broken, though injuries both to clothes and persons certainly were sustained. The gentlemen's gallery in the main chamber was crowded as in a moment the stairs leading to it and a by a struggle the door long continued to work their way, many a happy to oppose to the throng. The circular gallery given up to the ladies, on condition, be left behind; and brothers should these doors also were opening, when a din of sweet sounds big open, such as a waving of plumes, fairs, and a breath, astonished the by air, as would call for a poet duly to describe it.

In the area below, the officials might be seen arranging seats and making preparation for the august assemblage that was soon to enter. Senators and Representatives in Congress began to drop in with now and then one of our naval or military heroes in his imposing military dress; and then the craning of necks, and peering of eager curious eyes, and the pressing of incessant queries, showed that to a large portion of those who beheld it, the scene was entirely new. At length the Marshal of the District of Columbia and the Clerk of the Supreme Court made their appearance, at the head of the Judges of the Supreme Court in their robes, who, entering the space in front of the Secretary's table, occupied the seats in a semicircle on the right of the Chair of the President of the Senate. A solemn, beautiful, and very appropriate Prayer was delivered by the Chaplain of the Senate.

The Senate being called to order, the new Senators were qualified; among whom we recognized, with cordial satisfaction, the noble intellectual countenances of several good Whigs and true, the eloquent advocates and guardians of the Union and the Constitution, whose voice has been as a battle-cry in some of the darkest days of our changeable history. When all the new Senators had taken their seats, the appearance of the Vice President-elect attracted, as well by the dignity as the snow like whiteness of the hair which distinguishes Mr. Dallas, the immediate notice of all spectators. The oath of office was administered to him by the Hon. Mr. MANCUE, the President of the Senate, who immediately vacated his own seat, surrendering it to the new occupant.

A brief pause ensued; after which Mr. Dallas rose and delivered, with great self-possession and composure, the brief Address of which a copy will be found in another part of this day's paper.

The Diplomatic Corps entered the hall while the Vice President was speaking, and took their seats on the left of the chair, opposite the Judge. It is appearance of Major General SCOTT, with his towering form and lofty plumes, and other General and Staff Officers, in full uniform, called forth comments and inquiries in all quarters, who can tell the impression on

VIRGINIA FREE PRESS.

CHARLESTOWN: THURSDAY MORNING. March 13, 1845.

The Whigs of the Charlottesville Precinct will meet in the Jury Room on the 17th, (Court day), at 12 o'clock to select six delegates to the Whig County Convention.

The Whig County Convention will assemble in the Jury Room of the Court House, on the 17th inst., (Court day) at 9 o'clock, P. M., to select two Whig candidates for the Legislature.

The Free Press shall not trouble itself to put the McDonalds dead, as well as some others on a hundred miles from Winchester; upon as good a footing, as the Heretic deers. The law does that, and the Enquirer and Virginian may fret and fume about the matter as much as they please. The people of Hardy, who have been gerrymandered so shamelessly in their congressional and Senatorial districts, have a right to representation, and the bravadoes of the old party backs will have no other effect than to stimulate them to the exercise of their rights. They can only feel contempt for those who interfere with them in this case.

CHESSAPEAKE & OHIO CANAL BILL.

The Bill providing for the completion of the Chesapeake & Ohio Canal to Cumberland, in the Maryland House of Delegates on Friday night by yeas 33, nays 37—a majority of one vote. The Bill is now before the Senate, but the Baltimore American says it cannot pass this body.

The Bill, as it passed the House of Delegates, waives the liens of the State in favor of the new debt to be created for finishing the Canal.

UNITED STATES AND MEXICO.

The National Intelligencer contains an article confirming a report that Gen. Almonite the Mexican Minister, had asked for his passports, to embark for Mexico, and the termination of his mission, in consequence of the passage of the act for the annexation to the United States of the Province of Texas.

THE NEW CABINET.

The following appointments have been made by the President of the United States, with the advice and consent of the Senate:

Secretary of State, James BUCHANAN. Secretary of the Treasury, ROBERT J. WALKER. Secretary of War, WILLIAM L. MARCY. Secretary of the Navy, GEORGE BANCROFT. Attorney General, JOHN Y. MASON. Postmaster General, CAVY JOHNSON.

All these nominations were confirmed with but one exception, that of Secretary of War, which, for reasons not known to the public, appears not to have been acceptable as the nomination of other members of the Cabinet.

The presumed reason, however, is the unfitness of Mr. B. for so important a post at such a time as this.

P. S. The nomination of Mr. Bancroft was confirmed on Monday.

Frederick County.

The Locos have nominated Gen. James H. CARROLL and JONATHAN LOVETT, for re-election to the House of Delegates.

The Whigs, it is expected, will again bring out those sterling and energetic Whigs, Messrs. Cather and Wall, who last year gave the Locos close a run.

THE SENATE.—The Senate of the United States met on Monday in extra session, being convened, as usual, by the late President, to hold counsel with his successor after his induction to office, and will continue in session for a week or two, to act on the Cabinet and other appointments which may be made by President Polk. All the new Senators elect were present, being also sworn into office, took the chair of the Senate, relinquished to him by Mr. Man- gium. The following complexion of the new Senate is 25 Democrats and 24 Whigs, there being 3 vacancies.

The last veto of John Tyler was vetoed by Congress before a adjournment. The bill which passed both Houses of Congress, prohibiting the purchase or construction of Revenue Cutters without a previous appropriation by Congress for that purpose, was vetoed by the late acting President, and on being taken up in the Senate in which it originated, it was passed, notwithstanding the veto by a vote of 41 to 1. (Mr. Colquitt, "solitary and alone" voting in the negative), and on being sent to the House of Representatives, it was passed in that body by a vote of 126 to 31. The first instance of a reversal of the veto, since the beginning of the Government.

Following in the wake of Gen. Jackson, who when retiring from the Presidency, pro- ceeded to the Land Bill, Mr. Tyler has kept, without being approved or returned with a veto, the bill making appropriations for the improvement of the Potomac and Rappahannock rivers, and for the continuation of the Cumberland Road, including, says the National Intelligencer, more beneficial legislation than all the other acts of the session put together, and thus it is lost.

It is much to be regretted that the bill for establishing the Smithsonian Institution, and bill of indemnity for French Spoliations, or to 1800, both failed to pass the late Congress.

As Florida and Iowa are now admitted into the Union, the number of our States will be thirty-eight, and with Texas twenty-nine. The rest is reserved for the Supreme Court, and the Consul to Liverpool, which is considered one of the fattest offices in the gift of the President, being worth from $10,000 to $15,000.

Mr. DAVIS, the Senator from Massachusetts, continues dangerously ill. His family have been sent for. Mr. BARTON is also detained from the Capitol by sickness, but his illness is slight.

Mr. TILGH left Washington on Thursday for his plantation on James River in Virginia. He was followed by a few friends, and it is said being a little while behind his time, the boat would not wait for him.

The Jail at Uniontown, Pa., was almost entirely consumed by fire on Tuesday week.

OREGON.—The correspondent of the Baltimore American states that there is a rumor about in Washington, that the President will send an Oregon Treaty to the Senate before the adjournment. It is not certain, however, that Calhoun has been enabled to procure any treaty with the subject with Sir Richard Packenham, and it is certain that the action of the House of Representatives will be calculated to delay any such negotiation.

It is stated that many of the Whigs of Alabama desire that Senator Rives shall be one of the candidates to represent that county in the next Legislature.

The New York State Temperance Society has resolved to raise $50,000, to be appropriated among the counties for the purpose of promoting the cause of temperance.

THE GLOBE AND MR. TYLER.

The Washington Globe, is very much displeased at Mr. Tyler, for sending off Mr. Waggoner to Mr. Donaldson, with despatches for the Texas Government, in which he offers the Joint Resolution, to re-appoint, and administer a richly merited rebuke to him, for his in- formal haste. It will be collected that two forms of annexation were prescribed in the Bill as amended by the Senate, and passed both Houses. Mr. Tyler, however, adopted at once the Joint Resolutions, and post haste, despatched an agent, notifying the Texas Government, that he, President of the United States, having the privilege of making choice, presented the Joint Resolutions. Thus has Mr. Polk been foisted, and, if glory redound from the act at all, it will fall on Mr. Tyler. The Globe says:

Mr. Tyler's Haste.—We understand that Mr. Tyler mounted one of his relations as an express, to hasten to communicate to Texas, that he, as President of the United States, had made his election as to the annexation contained in the last act of Congress, looking to the admission of Texas into the Union; and that he had chosen to give the Texas difficulties, as an able command a majority in the Senate, and had rejected that which carried the majority in the House up from twenty-two to fifty-six. Mr. Tyler intrusts the discretion of his hands, and he knows well that if he had appointed the commission necessary under one of the alternative measures far more than their progress, he would have secured the passage of the legislative enactment, which, if accepted by Texas, would have secured to our own Congress, the honor of the measure, which can alone insure its happy consummation. He has taken the alternative of a treaty with Texas, under the American President, which is to be conferred on the American President, and given to it the Texas executive.

All these considerations of public policy, what will the country think of the propriety and decorum of this attempt to forestall the action of the chief magistrate, chosen by the people with an especial eye to this question, to whom alone is committed the discretion conferred in the act of Congress was intended to apply? It is clear that, as Mr. Tyler began his Presidential career in virtue of an accident, he means to take the benefit of the whole chapter of accidents, to blend himself with results having their origin in the counsels of Generals Jackson and Houston, and which his insipid management has far marred their progress.

The reason for Mr. Tyler's forestalling Mr. Polk in the matter, was because the latter intended, so says report, to act under the amendment of the Senate. The editor of the New York Courier and Enquirer, writing from Washington, says:

The President has avowed his determination to act with Texas, under the alternative offered by Mr. Walker's amendment, which will at an early day be submitted to the Senate and be by them constitutionally approved.

Mr. Barrow will use the course he has pursued—along with other Southern Senators: Herries of North Carolina, and Mr. Calhoun of South Carolina. If Mr. Barrow does not discover the meaning of these Resolutions on paper, he will yet be able to decipher the handwriting upon the wall.

Richardson Equivocates.—Wouldn't it be quite as well for the Equivocator to take care of his own political friends in this matter of Texas, and let the Whigs answer for themselves? Has it no concern for the fate of Messrs. Allen and Tappan of Ohio, and Mr. Haywood of North Carolina, who went in direct opposition to the will of their respective States?

Has it not a word of condemnation for Mr. Merrick, who so glaringly violated, at an important crisis, the wishes of Maryland on the subject of Texas? Oh no! Treason is well enough at all times; if only to ensure to the benefit of the Democracy. The Constitution, the public will, are nothing in its eyes, compared with Texas.

THE MEXICAN MINISTER, Col. Almonite, has taken passage in the barque Engenia, which is to leave New York on the 15th inst. The diplomatic intercourse of the two countries is thus terminated for the present.

SPLENDID PRESENT TO MR. CLAY.—A rich and beautiful set of plate, says the Louisville Journal of the 4th inst., passed through this city last week as a present to Mr. Clay. We understand it came from New York.

The annual meeting of the Baltimore Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church, commenced its session on Wednesday, the 12th inst.

The annual session of the Baltimore Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church met on Wednesday, the 12th inst. The question referred from the General Conference as to the division of the Church into Northern and Southern sections, will, it is thought, a considerable portion of the session.

We have received a copy of a pamphlet of upwards of 50 pages, containing a statement of ex-Governor Thomas, in relation to his unfortunate domestic difficulties. We notice that the publisher has obtained a copy-right in the pamphlet, in order to prevent its appearance in the newspapers. A large number of copies, however, have been printed for gratuitous circulation.

The Supreme Court met on the 5th inst., and adjourned to meet on the 12th of December next, at which time the law of the late Congress will bring them together. A large amount of business has been completed during the three months past, but a great deal remains unfinished.

There was no Executive Session of the Senate on Monday the 31st inst., consequently many of the late appointments of Mr. Tyler remain unconfirmed. Among the rest is Mr. Reed of Pa., for a seat on the bench of the Supreme Court, and the Consul to Liverpool, which is considered one of the fattest offices in the gift of the President, being worth from $10,000 to $15,000.

Mr. DAVIS, the Senator from Massachusetts, continues dangerously ill. His family have been sent for. Mr. BARTON is also detained from the Capitol by sickness, but his illness is slight.

Mr. TILGH left Washington on Thursday for his plantation on James River in Virginia. He was followed by a few friends, and it is said being a little while behind his time, the boat would not wait for him.

MESSRS. EDITORS.

I have been notified to hear the name of Andrew HENRY, Esq., suggested as one of the candidates for the coming election; and I was still more gratified at hearing the probability of his acceptance of the nomination, if tendered to him.

Mr. Hunter has been twice called upon to serve as an Electoral Candidate, in an extensive district, and has performed his arduous service necessarily imposed upon him, by giving up for the time being, his lucrative and important business. But few persons take the trouble to estimate the amount of loss, trouble, and expense, which such an appointment imposed—and this, too, without fee or reward.

It is reasonable, then, in any Whig, when a duty for which Mr. Hunter's talents and services peculiarly qualify him, is suggested, to honor and ennoblement (the latter but small, however) in the gift of the Whigs of Jefferson—namely, to support him, as a candidate, in the event of his being elected, and to give him the cordial vote of the county?

Jefferson is generally looked to, for representatives of a handsome order, and his her delegates have heretofore occupied a prominent rank in the legislative councils. ANTHONY HENRY, Esq., is a gentleman of a high and elegant order of Whig principles, and he will well maintain, not only the reputation and interests of the County, but the dignity and character of the State.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRES.—A fire broke out at Norfolk on Wednesday week in the dry goods store of Messrs. Edwards & Admire, which was entirely consumed.—Loss about $25,000; insurance $10,000. The store adjoining, occupied by Mr. S. Dawes, dry goods dealer, was also destroyed but his stock was removed with slight damage. Two other stores, tenanted by Messrs. Bloodgood & Co. dry goods dealers, and Mr. James Waters, merchant tailor, were partially burnt, and their contents injured by water. The buildings were owned by C. W. Newton, Esq., whose loss is estimated at $12,000; insurance $8000.

The Richmond Equivocator is evidently in agony that his pet, Mr. Stevenson, will not be appointed Secretary of State. He sends in his adulation with the contentions of a phiz of one who is attempting to swallow a skid tail forrest!

Mr. Wise—What will this gentleman do—and what will be done with him?—Will he be the central and brave—descend to a petty office under "the petty tool of a party tyrant"? And if he consent to serve his country, will Mr. Polk keep in a high lucrative office, a man who shook his fist in his face, and for years kept up against him a war of the grossest personalities.—Petersburg (Va.) Intelligencer.

Steamboat Explosion.—Ten Lives Lost! The Moscow (Ga.) Democrat says: "The mail steamer Syren, Capt. Sharples, plying between Chattanooga and Apalachicola bay, burst one of her boilers on Wednesday night last, about midnight, as the boat was rounding out from Tony's landing, and killed at least ten persons, all belonging to the crew, with the exception of one negro boy, who was a passenger. Of the killed six were white men, and four blacks, and among the former a son of Mrs. Tilley, of this place—a lad who acted in the capacity of cabin boy. The captain was thrown aloft and fell into the water, from which he escaped unhurt—A lady passenger was rescued from the water by one of the engineers. One person was saved by the sinking of the boat, which floated off a bale of cotton which had been thrown on him by the explosion. We have not heard whether any blame is attached to the captain or not, but it is generally conceded that the boilers of the boat were of no account, and should not have been used so long."

On Wednesday evening last two brothers arrived at a hotel in Pittsburg, hired a room, and commenced drinking. When they became intoxicated, the one mistook the other for a robber, having five thousand dollars in gold about him, and almost beat him to death with a chair. Such is the advantage of drinking!

It contains 125 ACRES, of which 110 are cleared and in a small state of cultivation; the balance in excellent timber. The Farm is unsurpassed in fertility by any land in the Valley of Virginia. It borders on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, within half a mile of the Duffield's Depot, and is within three miles of a Depot on the Winchester and Potomac Railroad; the same distance from a Depot on the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal, and of the same distance from the Smithfield and Harpers Ferry Turnpike. It lies about equidistant from Charlottesville, Harpers Ferry, and Shepherdstown—the largest market towns—being about five miles from each.

Elk Branch, a plentiful and never-failing stream, runs through the Farm. The only building improvement is a comfortable Log Dwelling, for a small family, but it contains a very desirable site for a residence, sheltered by the timber land on the west, and overlooking the Railroad and nearly every acre of the Farm is now owned by the same person. There is an Orchard of good fruit on the land. Passengers from Cumberland or Baltimore, leaving their cars at Shepherdstown, arrive on the land to early dinner.

FARM for Sale.

BEING desirous of removing to Missouri, I offer for sale the farm on which I reside. It is situated in the high hills of Shepherdstown, on the county road leading from there to Charlottesville, and contains 313 ACRES: 185 of which are arable; the remaining 46 acres being in timber.

The improvements comprise a COTTAGE BUILT DWELLING HOUSE, A large barn, recently erected upon Stone, Corn, Pottery, and Root houses. Also a house for servants, together with other requisite out-buildings, all in excellent repair.

There is upon the premises a fine YOUNG ORCHARD of about 20 acres, situated on a hillside, and also near the house there is a large limestone spring which affords running water in most of the fields.
