

WATER: WATER:

The importance of an abundant supply of water is never more forcibly illustrated than in the late threatening fire at Winchester. But for the regular supply from the water-works, the town would have been inevitably destroyed...

Do the people of Charlestown mean to fallow in their project? Are they not liable at any moment to a great calamity? And will they not provide such means as have saved their city from a similar fate...

THE SCHOOL FUND.

The Second Auditor, James Brown, Jr., Esq., has published a list of the Appropriations from the Literary Fund for the education of the Children of the Poor, for 1845.

EDUCATION IN TENNESSEE.

Gov Jones, in his message to the Legislature of Tennessee, refers to the Education statistics of the State, and says they present a dark and gloomy appearance...

In the credit of no other means being at hand, the Governor recommends taxation to support the schools of the State...

AMERICAN RAILROAD IRON.

The Harrisburg (Pa) Telegraph notices a quantity of the T. & O. Railroad iron at the Manoir Iron Works, in Danville, Pa.

The iron manufacturers of the country are enabled, by the Tariff of 1842, to compete with the English in the manufacture of Rail Road Iron...

No doubt can be entertained that as we advance in its manufacture, the price will fall, and before long the iron business will be an interest, that like the self-balanced tower, can stand alone.

The attention of such of our readers as desire rich and splendid articles in the Gold and Silver line, may very properly be directed to the elegant establishment of these gentlemen in Baltimore.

James G. Birney, the late Abolition candidate for the Presidency, is confined by a severe illness.

A PANDORA'S BOX.

The Charleston Mercury makes a real Pandora's box out of the Tariff, when it describes taxation, abolitionism, the Texas question, &c., all to it.

Those who suffer from false promises cannot so easily forget as those who make them. And while the burden of that iniquitous Tariff, which Democratic votes forced upon us, is still weighing as to the earth, we cannot forget, if we would, that truth in party is as dangerous as truth in principle.

So then, it was "Democratic votes" that forced it upon you? Mark you this, free-trade men of Virginia: The Charleston Mercury states explicitly, what is well known, though not acknowledged, that it was "Democratic votes," which fastened upon the country this "iniquitous black Tariff." The Mercury therefore reiterates its want of confidence in the powers that be, when it says—"that truth in party is as dangerous as truth in principle."

CONVERSION OF CANALS INTO RAILWAYS.

The N. Y. News notes a most singular movement which is apparent in the late advice from England, and indicative of the progress of the proposed conversion of the several water ways into railways, by means of a company to be called the Shropshire Union and Canal Co.

Should the experiment prove a feasible one, we have no doubt it will soon be introduced into this country, as railways can be used at all seasons, without regard to the rigor of the climate.

THE RESULT IN OHIO.

The following is the final result of the late election in the gallant Buckeye State:

Table with 3 columns: Party, Whigs, Democrats. Lists results for various counties.

Whig majority, 6. Members of the House, 44. Whig majority on joint ballot, 22.

It will be seen that the Ohioans have acquitted themselves with honor to themselves and glory to the great cause for which they labored.

The Journal says that we have gained largely on the popular vote of nearly every county.

It appears by the latest accounts from Florida, that E. C. CABELL (Whig) has been elected Representative to Congress from the new State, by a majority of some two hundred votes over W. H. Brockenbrough, his Locofoco competitor.

THE TARIFF-THE CABINET.

The correspondent of the New York Herald, generally well informed on passing events at Washington, writes under date of the 21st instant as follows:

We are informed, and our authority is semi-official, that at a meeting of the cabinet yesterday, on the question of the modification of the tariff, there was a palpable and unequivocal division as follows:

For the recommendations in the President's message, agreeably to the plan of reduction of Mr. Walker, to the lowest revenue standard, with discriminations for revenue exclusively, contrary to the minimum and specifically positions of the act of '42, including the abatement of the 75 per cent upon gold iron—The President.

Hon. R. J. Walker, S. T. Hon. Cave Johnson, P. M. G. Hon. John T. Mason, A. G. Hon. James Buchanan, S. W. Hon. W. L. Marcy, S. W. Hon. George Bancroft, S. N.

Majority in favor of a repeal of the law of '42, and the re-estimation of Mr. Walker's system, one, and that on the Executive. An explosion of the cabinet is dreaded upon this very issue.

Rumors from Washington.

The correspondent of the Baltimore Patriot, who is generally well informed, writes that he has been assured that the following appointments and promotions will be apt to take place before long, to wit:

The Hon. James Buchanan, now Secretary of State, Judge of the Supreme Court. The Hon. T. Hartley Crawford, now Commissioner of Indian Affairs, Judge of the Criminal Court of the District.

The Hon. John W. Mason, now Attorney General, Secretary of State. The Hon. Seth Barton, now Solicitor of the Treasury, Attorney General. The Hon. A. B. Neek, now Clerk of the Solicitor's Office, Solicitor of the Treasury.

Larger Sublimities.

The ears of Corn mentioned in the Winchester Republican, are indeed but nibbles, compared with specimens sent us by Mr. Benj. B. Welsh, near Smithfield. One ear contained 1154 grains, and another 1030—and Mr. W. has many such. It is probable we may have the shelling of our mammoth productions, ere long—because there is a laudable spirit of rivalry in such matters among our farmers.

The large and commodious hotel at Ellicott's (Md) was sold at auction, last week, for $500.

A MASTER OF REFLECTION.

Texas, although not entirely annexed, has cost our Government about $3,000,000 in making preparations to meet, in mortal strife, our neighbor of Mexico.

The whistle has been a dear one, and that in the end no great or permanent good was gained by its annexation. Like the cancer worm, it will be always gnawing at the vitals of our government—draining the Treasury until its platter glistens in its emptiness—creating a jealous feeling between the Northern and Southern interests.

Hunter Hill Convicted. The Norfolk Beacon states that Hunter Hill, tried at the late Superior Court of Nansemond county, Va., for killing Major Robert R. Smith, has been convicted of murder in the first degree.

The Judge, after a short but very impressive address to the prisoner, pronounced the awful sentence of Death to be carried into execution (by hanging) on Friday, the 2d of January next.

We have examined hastily the premises injured and endangered, (having been absent until 5 o'clock) and find damage to several adjoining buildings—Hammond's store, which is entirely destroyed. William Miller's residence, and the whole block South of it, were saved, though the fire had communicated to that, and to Mr. Bell's store and several other buildings further up the street.

On that side, the goods from the stores of Messrs. Hammond, Peter Miller, Wolf, Streit, Baker, Slagle, Ward, Bell, Breckenridge, Sperry, Lindsey and Russell, the Hat Store of Mr. Benson, Watch & Jeweller Establishment of Mr. T. B. Campbell, and the Tobacco Store of Mr. Atwell; Mr. Ender's Barber Shop; the Furniture of Messrs. Wm. Miller, Geo. W. Baker, Henry S. Baker, Dr. McCormick; all were removed, and many articles misplaced.

The goods of Mr. H. F. Baker and the papers of the Post Office were also removed. On the east side of the St. there was a heavy removal of law offices and furniture by Messrs. Aulick, Burgess & Luck, Anderson, Dorser, Evans, Tipping, Spangler, Senessee, J. & L. Miller, W. A. Baker, Wall, Keenan, Hensel and Haney.

Messrs. William Miller, Levering, and Shaw, did not remove their goods from the shelves, but shut up their stores, and are consequently free from damage in this respect. Mr. Kerr's Furniture is also safe.

The five tenements burnt in Hoff's Row were occupied by law offices and shops by Messrs. Williams and Barton, J. Tidwell, J. Amble, G. Frost, Geo. R. Long, R. Milton, Wm. D. Gilkison, J. E. Jackson, Wm. Seemer, and R. Bowen.

The haste with which the goods of Mr. Hammond were necessarily removed, caused many of them to be deranged and lost. So with Messrs. Tipping, Dorsey, Senessee, Bell, Wolf, Peter Miller, and others.

The scene, we are told, was terrific, the wind blowing strongly, and a large part of the town, and particularly Hoff's Row, occupied by Miss Frame, was on fire, and others not far from our own premises were saved by the timely application of wet blankets.

The roof of the Virginia office was also on fire, as was the Cupola of the office of the Clerk's office's.

The exertions of the firemen were almost super-human; they labored until they were frequently exhausted, and they were backed by the active efforts of citizens of the town and neighborhood, as even by some of our friends from Clark County, who were saved by the timely application of wet blankets.

It would be invidious to discriminate, where all performed their part so well, but every body is loud in the praise of the LADIES of the town, many of whom displayed not only coolness and activity, but great energy. They formed two lines to hand water, and many were employed in removing goods. Their example cheered and animated the other sex, and enabled them to redouble their exertions. Every tongue speaks approbation, yet we feel at a loss for words to express our admiration.

We can only say that our incentives are afforded to parents, husbands and lovers, for increased affection, devotion and tenderness.

The loss of property is, as usual, variously estimated. Mr. Taylor had an insurance of $15,000 on his tavern house, one half of the amount which the Messrs. Seever were to give him for the premises. The ground being still valuable, his loss will not be heavy. Mr. Danner had an insurance of $5,000 on his furniture, but we fear that, in addition to his being prematurely thrown out of business, his loss will be seven or eight thousand dollars. This is a severe blow, in which our citizens deeply sympathize.

Other losses are stated, several on individuals, but we cannot particularize. And, shame to say, there was some plundering amidst all the distress. It is hoped a strict search by the police will be made, and many articles recovered. The merchants have had their goods most sadly deranged.

We learn that a contract is already made for rebuilding the offices in Hoff's Row, and every body is busily at work, notwithstanding the fatigue, to put things to rights again.

Sudden Death.—We learn from the Norfolk Beacon that a female named Eliza Angell, aged about 30 years, and residing in Little Water-st., after engaging on Saturday evening week in a game of cards for a small wager, which wager she had won, and the payment of which she was awaiting on the return of the messenger, who had gone to purchase it, laid her head on the pack of cards which they had been using, and ere her return, being absent only three minutes from the house, in that position, died without a struggle. An inquest was convened by the Coroner, and the verdict was awarded, "that she died by the visitation of God Almighty."

The Factory of Alleghany city has resumed work, with nearly a full complement of hands. The Pittsburg Gazette says that at least twenty-five thousand dollars, in wages, have been lost to the working people of Alleghany by their unfortunate movement.

ALARMING FIRE.

Taylor's Hotel in Ruins. On Tuesday, about 1 o'clock, the alarm of Fire was given, just at the moment that was soon discovered that the fire was breaking out in the back part of Taylor's Hotel, occupied by D.S. Danner, and notwithstanding the most prompt efforts, the flames could not be arrested until the whole building was enveloped.

The wind blew almost a hurricane from the North West, and the loss of the greater part of the town seemed inevitable. The firemen were soon at work with their engines and hose, aided by the citizens of the town and country, made the most extraordinary exertions.

The result of the fire is, the burning of the Hotel and the building adjoining, occupied as a store by G. W. Hammond; also the range of offices and shops call Hoff's Row, opposite the Court House; and the wonder is, that the whole town, South and East, was not consumed. The high walls North saved the buildings occupied by Thos. B. Campbell as a jeweller's shop, and the block adjoining. Fortunately the flames from the Hotel, and back buildings of the Hotel, and directed their course towards the Court-House space.

We have examined hastily the premises injured and endangered, (having been absent until 5 o'clock) and find damage to several adjoining buildings—Hammond's store, which is entirely destroyed. William Miller's residence, and the whole block South of it, were saved, though the fire had communicated to that, and to Mr. Bell's store and several other buildings further up the street.

HARRISONBURG CONVENTION.

This Convention, we understand, finished its business on Monday last, in a very harmonious manner. It was Rockingham Court Day, and there was a large attendance of the people, who seemed actuated by a zealous spirit for the work.

We learn that the resolutions were adopted in favor of extending the Louisa Rail Road from Gordonsville to Harrisonburg, if deemed practicable; or, if not, then a MacAdams Road, Richmond City, and the Counties on the line, were all represented, and Col. Edmond Fontaine of Hanover presided.

We further learn, from various sources, that John Hampden Pleasants, Esq., the senior editor of the Richmond Whig, was called on for a speech, and his surprise responded. Mr. P. expressed his surprise at finding himself addressing the people of the South Legion face to face—that he deemed it a high honor, and considered it a propitious augury. He trusted that the better feelings thus evinced, would be mutually cultivated—and that both parties, burying unpleasant reminiscences, and forgetting past recriminations, would agree to embark in a generous contest, who should best promote the Prosperity and Glory of Virginia.

These sentiments, happily conceived and publicly expressed, were, as may well be supposed, received with cheering and applause—and made a proper impression. It was indeed a novelty, to find the senior of the Whig addressing the people of Rockingham—a people against some of whom he not occasionally sped a keen political shaft, but who, probably, had formed a very erroneous opinion of the man himself. The words doubly gratified to find other objects as worthy of attention as politics, and in this case a champion engaged for them, who, though unused to public speaking, could present as strong views in a speech as with his brilliant pen; and he, no doubt, was equally gratified to find himself doing battle for a people with whom he could cordially unite in an effort to promote the public weal.

The spirit manifested on the above occasion shows that the people are in earnest, and it now becomes this region of the Valley to wake up, and push for an extension of the Road from Staunton to Buchanan, and such lateral improvements as will maintain Winchester as the best Flour market in the State.—Win. Reg.

The Robbery of Mr. Rowley.—The Reg. caught at last.—Information came to hand this evening that Mr. Rowley, of Wrentham, of $27,000, has been arrested in Havana, and that steps have been taken for the delivery of the accused over to the authorities here, to answer for the offence. This will doubly prove very gratifying intelligence to Mr. Rowley, as well as the steamboat company.—N. Y. Herald.

The editor of the N. Y. Courier des Etats Unis, writing from Paris, states that the first joint rail on five new railways selected in France, recently paid in, amount to about $86,000,000.
