POETRY.

I LOVE TO LIVE.

"I love to live," said a practing boy,
As he gaily played with his new bought toy,
And a merry laugh went celioning forth,
From a bosom filled with joyous mirth. "I love to live," said a stripling bold—
"I will seek for fame—I will toil for gold,"
And he formed in his pleasure many a plan
To be earried out when he grew a man.

I have labored hard in search of fame-I have found it but an empty name." "I love to live," said a happy sire, As his children neared the winter fire : For his heart was cheered to see their joy. And he almost wished himself a boy. " I love to live," said an aged man,

"I love to live," said a lover true,
"Oh, gentle maid I would live for you;

The old man was again a child. And ever thus in this fallen world, Is the banner of hope to the breeze unfurled ; And only with hope of life on high, Can a mortal ever love to die.

Whose hour of life was well nigh ran-

Think you such words from him were wild ?

I LIVE TO LOVE.

I live to love," said a laughing girl, And she play fully tossed each flaxen curl; And she climbed on her loving father's knee, And snatched a kiss in her childish glee. "I live to love," said a maiden fair, As she twined a wreath for her sister's hair ; They were bound by the chords of love together, And death alone could these sisters sever.

"I live to love," said a gay young bride, Her loved one standing by her side, Her life told again what her lips had spoken, And never was the link of affection broken. 'I live to love," said a mother kind-"I would live a guide to the infant mind,"

Her precepts and example gives, Guided her children home to Heaven. " I shall live to love" said a fading form, And ever thus in this lower world,

Should the Banner of Love be wide unfurled

And when we meet in the world above,

May we love to live and live to love.

[Southern Standard

Agreeably to your request I herewith send you the process of curing the hams I sent you in March, which called forth the admiration of the American Agricultural Association, and the Farmer's Club, at New York. I made a pickle of two quarts of salt, to which I added one ounce of summer savory, one ditto sweet marjoram, one ditto allspice, half ditto saltpetre, and one and applied the mixture beiling hot to one hundred pounds of hams, and kept them in the pickle three or four weeks. My process of smoking was not most expensive, but may not be the less available on that account. I smoked the hams in a seed cask, with one head in, with a small hole for the smoke to pass out, hung my hams to the head, and used about a peck of mahogany sawdust for fuel, which I happened to have on hand for packing goods. I smoked

We deem it our duly to say at once, that no such idle visions need be indulged in-no such ridiculous threats need be urged. The people of this portion of the Valley of Virginia will give no countenance whatever to any such ab. too clearly, to give the slightest encouragement to any such folly. We say this emphat. ically, because we feel authorized in this speaking in behalf of the people of this region. A majority of them may possibly be in favor of some alterations in the Constitution, but

They can conceive of no possible catalogue of grievances, under the present system, to get rid of which would drive them to the alternative of breaking up the Old Commonwealth, or impairing her integrity in the slightest degree. may, this district will not be found running wild with any one of the radical or ultra measures which many of the Agitators seem to have in view. Our people go for regulated freedom-that sort which is conservative and rational-and they scout all disorganizing doctrines, no matter under what specious garb they may be presented.

We will not even join in deliberation with those who hint at a division of the State, If they wish to go, they must go without us.
