SONG OF THE AMERICAN EDITOR.

BY WILLIAM WALLACE. I'm of the Press! I'm of the Press! My throne a simple chair, I ask no other majesty Than strike the gazer there. The horse of fire obeys my nod; My courtiers walk the sea; The lightnings lift their flaming manes, I'm of the Ress! I'm of the Press!

Do monarchs wear the crown? I waft my pen across my page, And crowns have tumbled down. The clouds float on-the nations strive; Without, the thunder rolls-Within, I brood the quiet thought.

That changes all their souls. I'm of the Press! I'm of the Press! The DEAD around me throng; Their awful voices whisper "TRUTH!" Their eves forbid the "wrong!" From them I gather joy and strength, Nor heed pale Error's curse-My faith in God, large as the arch-And in the "Universe."

I'm of the Press! I'm of the Press! My host-embattled types; With them I quell the tyrant's horde And ear the stars and stripes. I gave my hand to all my race, My altar Freedom's sod: I say my say and bend my knee

THE HEIR OF LINNS BY WILLIAM J. SNELLING.

There is a beautiful Scotch ballad by this title that I never saw but once in my lifebut it made a very strong impression on me, As the ballad is not to be found. I will endeavor to tell the story in plain prose. The Laird of Linn, in Galway, was one of the richest landed proprietors in Scotland. Besides his lands and dwellings, he had flocks and herds and a good store of gold. Moreover, he was a man of frugal and parsimonious disposition, so that the gentlemen of Galway avoided his company, and the whole country cried shame on him. Nevertheless, his riches grew and increased to a mighty sum, and there was no telling what heaps of

The Heir of Linn did not marry till late in life, and his wife died within a year after their marriage. Though naturally of a noble and generous temper, he was wild, reckless, and extravagant, Seeing and hearing his father ridiculed every day, for his miserly temperand habits, he resolved at all events not to be like him, and spent all he could lay his hands upon among low and dissolute companions, in drinking and riotous living. So monstrated with him; he only grew worse and worse as he grew older and older.

At last the Laird of Linn lay on his deathbed. He had outlived all his near relations, and he had no friends, so that he was in a his prodigal heir. Previous to his death, he called the Heir of Linn to his bedside, and

"My son, when my lips are cold in death, and my tongue silent in the grave, I know how it will be with you. You will spend all the substance of your ancestors, and all the gold I have got together, in dissipation and extravagance. Nevertheless, I do not wish my son to live a beggar. Therefore, give heed to my dying command, and if you disregard it, may a father's curse cling to you. You know the upper chamber of my house in Kippletringar. It is now locked ap, and I have thrown the key into the sea. When you have lost both gold and land-when you have not a friend that will lend you a hawbee, and when you are actually suffering for a crust to appease your hunger, break the door open, and you will find certain relief; but if you open the room before that time, I say again, may a father's curse cling to you."

With these words the old man fell back on his pillow and died. The Heir of Linn did not grieve long for his parent. He soon threw open his house to all comers. His forest fell beneath the axe, his chimneys were always smoking, a hundred men sat daily at his board, and he bought him horses and hounds, and lent money without counting to his dissolute companions. He feasted and drank, gamed, and, as if he could not get rid of his substance fast enough in these ways, he took no care of his affairs, but gave up the guidance of them to a bailiff or steward named John of the Scales, who was a knave, and a notorious usurer. John cheated his master in various ways, and put more than half his rents and moneys into his own pockets. At last, what the Heir of Linn's father had foreseen, came to pass. His money was all gone, and he had no means of keeping up his excesses, except by selling his lands, but there was no one rich enough to buy them except John of the Scales, and every one new how he came by his money. The young his gaming debts, and was moreover heated with wine, when his unjust steward offered to buy his estates. It was a hard case, but after much reluctance, he agreed upon a bargain. "Give me your gold, good John of the Scales, and my lands shall be yours forever," said the heir of Linn. Then John counted down the good yellow gold, and a hard-bargain his master had for it. For every pound that John gave for it, the land was well worth three.

The last money went like the first, and the Heir of Linn was a beggar. He first went to the house that had once been his own, but now belonged to John of the Scales, to seek some relief. He looked in at the window of the great banquetting hall, but there was no feasting going on in it. The fire was out, the dinner table was taken away, and all was desolate and dismal. "Here's sorry cheer," said the Heir of Line.

did no good. Some of them pretended not to know him, and not one would lend him a farthing, or even offer him a dinner. So he wandered about forlorn and hungry, for two days, for work he could not, and to beg he was ashamed. At last, in extreme misery, he bethought himself of his father's dying words. "I have not sold the old house in Kippletringar yet," said he, "for no one will buy it. I will go and break open the upper chamber. My father told me I should find relief there, and perhaps he meant pressure. If it should prove so, I will be a wiser man than I was, and not waste it upon knaves." and a blessing to his tenants.

John would not give him a penny, but told him to go to the friends he had spent his money upon so foolishly. He did so, but it

To the house he went, then, and broke open the door. He found relief indeed. There was nothing in the room excepting a high stool, and directly over it, a halter dangling from a hook in the ceiling. He looked up and read these words:

"Ah graceless wretch and wanton foolyou are ruined forever. This is the only relief for those who waste their patri nony as you have done. Behold, then—put the rope around your neck, jump from the stool, and save your family the disgrace of ending in a beggar." "Very excellent counsel," said the Heir of

Linn, "and I must either hang or starve. I think I'll take my father's advice and hang. It is the shortest death of the two." So he mounted, fastened the halter round his neck, and kicked the stool from under him. But the Heir of Linn was not to die so .-The board in which the hook was driven, gave away with his weight, and he fell to the floor with a shower of gold coin rattling about his ears. I will not say that he felt no pain in his neck the next day, but at the moment he certainly felt none. Joy rushed into his heart like a torrent, at seeing himself rescued from beggary. The space between the ceiling and the roof contained an enormous treasue. On the upper side of the board from which he had thought to hang himself, was fastened a letter addressed to himself. He hastily tore it open, and read

"My Dear Son :- I know your character, and that no expostulation or advice can turn you from the desperate courses you are now pursuing. Nothing but misery sharper than death can cure you. If, therefore, your misfortunes and suffering should be so grievous that you prefer death to enduring them. I have some hope that you will not rashly encounter them again. You have made the trial-take my gold, redeem your land, and become a wiser and better man."

The Heir of Linn did not leave the spot without putting up a prayer to heaven for the soul of that parent, whose admirable wisdom had discovered a means of raising him from beggary and despair to affluence, and of weaning him from the follies and vices which had disgraced his character. To evince his gratitude, he resolved to mend his life from that day forward, and become all a father's heart could wish.

more trial of his false friends on whom he had wasted his time, his substance, and his character. He therefore kept his newly discovered wealth a secret till he heard that John of the Scales intended to give a great entertainment, and that all the lords and ladies of Galway would be there. When the Heir of Linn entered his father's hall, it was crowded with richly dressed gentlemen; but he was in beggar's rags.

But first he thought he would make one

He appealed to the charity of the analy. said-"You have feasted at my board a thousand times-will you now deny me the crumbs that fall from your own?" To another-"I gave you a fair steed and trappings;" to the third—"I lent you a thoupany. But, instead of remembering his favors, they reviled him, and called him spendthrift, beggar, and all manner of vile names. Some said it was a shame that such a wretched object should be suffered to come among them; and one, to whom, more than all the rest, his purse had always been open, called on the servants to thrust him out of doors. But one took his part. It was Mr. Richard Lankland, a poor younger son of a wealthy gentleman. He stood up and said: " never ate at the board of the Heir of Linn I never rode his horses, or shared his purse, or received favors of him to the value of a farthing. But what then? He was a worthy gentleman when he had the means. I have twelve gold nobles and that is all I own inthe world; and here are six of them at the service of the man whose hand was never shut to the poor. And as I am a gentleman, no one shall lay a hand on him while I wear a sword." A glad man was the Heir of Linn to find one man worthy to be his friend. He took the six nobles and advanced towards John of the Scales, who was standing at the end of the hall, attired in gorgeous good bargain of my lands." Then John of the Scales began to revile him, and to declare that he had given much more for the lands than they were worth, and reprimanded him in severe terms for his extortion before so much goodly company. "Nay." said he to the Heir of Linn, "if you you for your father's estate, you shall have it

"Perhaps I may find friends who will lend me the sum," said the Heir of Linn; "therefore give me a promise under your hand and | they will be off in ten minutes!" seal, and I will see what can be done."

John of the Scales knew that few people was a common thing to lend money to beg-Laird was in desperate want of cash to pay | gars, and he had seen what reliance was to be placed on friends in such a case. He had not the least idea that the Heir of Linn would ever be the owner of a hundredth part of the sum. He therefore called for a pen and ink, and paper, and sat down before the company, and wrote the promise, and scof- arms of the struggling inmate with very litfingly gave it to his former master.

Then the Heir of Linn strode to the window and opened it, and took a bugle from under his tattered garberdine, and blew till the joists and rafters shook the din. Presently a fair troop of servants rode up, well armed and mounted, leading a mule with them laden with treasure. They dismounted and brought the gold into the hall. "My father's land is my own again!

cried the Heir of Linn joyously, and before the company had recovered from their astonishment, he counted out to John of the Scales the sum he had just agreed to take .-Then turning to his servants he said-Scourge this viper cut of the house of Linn with dog whips." And it was done. The company then crowded around him, congratulating him on recovering his patri-mony, and excusing their own neglect and ingratitude. He said to them, "Caitiffs, slaves, dogs, begone! Pollute the door of my house no longer. If ye enter my grounds again, I will have the servants loose the hounds upon you." To master Lankland he said, "Come to my arms come to my heart, my friend, my brother! Live in my house, and share with the Heir of Linn in all things."

And the Heir of Line became another man, and was an ornament to his country A CALIFORNIA LEGENDE

A story was told in regard to the climate It was of a man who had lived in California at Brooklyn, last Sabbath. until he had reached the advanced age of two hundred and fifty years! Although Tribune: that number of years had passed over him, such were the life-giving and youth-preserving qualities of the climate, that he was in the perfect enjoyment of his health, and every faculty of mind and body which he had This requisition was 'aithfully complied with. His body was interred with great pomp and ceremony in his own cemetery, and prayers were rehearsed in all the churches for the rest of his soul. He was happy, it was supposed, in heaven, where, for a long series of years, he had prayed to be; and his heir was happy that he was there. But what a disappointment! Being brought back and interred in California soil, with the health-breathing Californian zephyrs rustling over his grave, the energies of life were immediately restored to his inanimate corpse ! Herculean strength was imparted to his frame, and bursting the prison-walls of death, he appeared before his chap-falllen heir reinvested with all the vigor and beauty of early manhood ! He submitted to his fate, and determined to live his appointed time. Stories similar to the foregoing, although absurd, and so intended to be, no doubt leave their impres-gle, upon one of those singular and melancholy episodes in domestic life, which are not the less interesting from the fact that they seldom become public, though so frequently Of two brothers (English) of this city, fine looking and powerfally built men, one died suddenly on Friday. He was buried, and his living brother having been impressed with the idea that a project was on foot to resurrect the dead for dissection, watched over the grave on Saturday night. At 3 o'clock in the morning he, too, was a corpse. And now the sod lies heavy upon the two brothers dead, who; but a few days since were full of lusty life, breathing as deeply and walking as firmly as any of the thousands now living beneath the evergoing sun-There is more in this little history of domestic affliction, than in the labored sermons of learned and eloquent divines. A subsequent number of the Eagle states that the wife of the brother who died last, went out and watched over his grave all the next day, she too, was dead. It is a singular and melancholy episode in life's history.

AN ARTFUL DODGE FOR CALIFORNIA. It has been run ored that among the gentleman who have gone to California, are two or three who were owing small sums to their tailors and others. Some color is given to the report by an incident, which took place on the sailing of the Duxbury, last week .ought to relieve my necessities, for you are | One of the passengers on hurrying to the of a sheriff's officer, who was evidently on the look out for him Here was a check-mate indeed! What was to be done? In twenty minutes the ship would be under weigh! How should the unhappy passenger escape the lynx-eyed vigilance of the agent of the law? Perplexed in the extreme he rushed will but return me the half of what I paid | into a friend's stere and frankly told him his dilema. "What shall I do?" he asked; "the passengers are all on board, and if I miss this chance of going to California, I am rnined. Can't you do something for me? Hark!

The friend thus appealed to, looked around his store, then pulled down a large sugar-box in the country had so much money, even if it from a neighboring pile, pointed to it, and said laconically, "get in 'Quick! No matter stitching as well as leather; but the rosin if it is sticky. (let in, I say; or go, and be arrested!" Thus imporatively urged, the passenger made limself as small as possible, large as to admit of wearing cork soles.— trate to rescue it, but were driven back by the excessive heat. But a woman came rushing to the spot from a neighbor's; she threw and ensconced himself in the box. The cover was nailed on with business-like rapidity by his friend who pushed down the head and tle ceremony-for time was somewhat precious. Having sailed him snugly down he seized his marking-pot, wrote the words 'Medicine-this s de up with care,' upon the box, called a handcartman, tipped him a wink, and gave him half a dollar, to hurry the precious consignment on board the Duxbury .-The handcart arrived just as the last rope that bound the ship to terra firma was to be cast off. The sheriff's officer, who was pacing the wharf in the fetile attempt to keep warm glanced careless v at the box, and continued his strides. An unexpected obstacle now occurred. The mate refused to receive the box, not believing that it belonged on board. But after a variety of winks and blinks from the handcartman he began to understand the "dodge," and the "medicine box" was carefully carried on board, "this side up." Of the scene that transpired on being opened we as yet have no account; but the sheriff's officer continued to shiver and kick his heels on the wharf, till the Duxbury was out of sight, and then he retired disconsolate home, little suspecting what a trick had been played upon him -Boston Transcript.

A ROMANCE IN REAL LIFE.

About two weeks since a girl employed in the Merrimack Mills, Lowell, left her boarding house, stating that she was going to spend some months with her parents in Petersboro', N. H. After an absence of nearly a week, it was discovered that she had gone to this city in male attire, and was making preparations to leave for California. Her parents were immediately informed of these facts, who arrived here on Monday last, and at once commenced search for the missing daughter, who was finally found on board a vessel bound for California.

Her hair had been cut off-and with her monkey jacket and large pants, she made a very fine looking young man. It seems that | she had drawn some $200 from the Savings nia, purchasta historis, cetymed atthe De been on her way to the golden banks of the Sacramento, had it not been that a girl in the confidence of our heroine, who, fearingthe result, informed a relative, and thus exposed her whereabouts. 'Yes sir,' she replied, it is old and out of fashion, but it must not be altered while I live, for Tom Coron was born here.' While she spoke, I could see the patriotism flash in her eye. The birth place of Corwin is well known, throughout this region of country; it is a part of the old Hallock-farm, in Bourbon county, Kentucky, on the main road, about half way from Paris to WATERPROOF FOR BOOTS. Put a pound of tallow and a half pound of rosin in a pot on the fire; when melted and mixed, warm the boots and apply the hot stuff with a painter's brush until neither the sole nor the upper leather will suck in any more. If it is desired that the boots should immediately take a polish, dissolve an ounce of wax in a teaspoonful of lampblack. A day after the boots have been treated with the tallow and rosin, rub over them this wax in turpentine, but not before the fire. Thus the exterior will have a coat of wax alone, and shines like a mirror. Tallow or any other grease becomes rancid, and rots the Cork is so bad a conductor of heat that with | it in the boots the feet are always warm on the coldest stone floor.

"Now I lay me down to sleep, I pray the Lord my soul to keep;

It I should die before I wake. I pray the Lord my soul to take." And it is not only children and youth that repeat them. Many whose heads are "silvered over with age," have been accustomed to repeat them as their last prayer before closing their eyes in sleep, every night since they were taught them in infancy .-The late Ex-President of the United States, John Quincy Adams, was among the number. Jonesboro' (Tenn.) is about to lose one of its peculiar attractions. Parson Brownlow announces in his last Jonesboro' Whig, that he has determined to remove his office to Knoxville, and there to publish a paper to be called the Knoxville Whig. In making this announcement the Parson remarks: I have edited and published a paper, for ten dreadful years-the actual pecaniary result being a loss equal to the amount of three years' subscriptions out of the ten, which is to be found in small debts scattered over this Union, the mass of which, those who owe them have, apparently, no idea of paying, nor I of getting. This result is only unpleasant, as it exhibits the misfortunes, the earelessness, or the want of honesty, on the part of my fellow beings. THE LOCOFOCO CONVENTION.

The proceedings of the Democratic District Con vention will be found in another column, from which county, received the nomination for Congress on the sixteenth ballot. Mr. Parker resided for many years in this coupty, and is quite a conrteous and agreeable gentleman: But what services he has rendered the party to merit an honor of such magnitude? is the inquiry with more than one Democrat. He has never been in the front of the fray, battling for the principles of the Democracy: He has not spent his time, his money and his labor to advance the cause: He has not encountered the shivering lance of an adversary in the hustings: He has not been the volunteer to rescue the party from any emergency in which it has been placed, or to throw oil on the troubled waters when the party had nigh well been stranded by the breakers of faction.

Mr. Parker, we doubt not, will be able to represent, faithfully, the interests of the Democracy of the District in Congress. Could, or did not Mr. Bedinger do the same ? Has Mr. B. ever flagged in spirit, or cried "hold, enough," when subjected to the eloquence, wit and sarcasm of an opponent?artful schemings and intrigues.

The most dastardly means were resorted to in order to defeat Mr. B. in the Convention. Letters were circulated prejudicial to his interest, weeks ago, nity presumed that a Democrat would apply for the and the embryo thus kept alive, until the birth of that precious bantling which appeared in the Winchester Virginian of last week.

We have never supported Mr. Bedinger for Congress, and no one will attempt to convict us of parat the reputation of a gentleman, simply because

The deepest indignation is not only felt but freely some, who have hitherto professed great friendship for Mr. B. but who have used friendship as a mask, in order to discover the most indefensible point, sinking them to political perdition.

We, certainly, have no idea as to the course Mr. Bedinger will pursue. It has been surmised that Mr. B. will be an independent candidate, because of the unfair and illiberal means used to defeat his | tion for Mr. Harris, that none other than a Demonomination. If so, and the Whigs decline making | erat should be appointed, and with the recommena nomination, Mr. Bedinger will doubtless be returned to Congress, by a triumphant majority. The and love to listen to his bold dashes in the imagina- ty solicited the office. five and beautiful-they have marched to many a contest under his syren voice, and they cannot and a Whig the appointment, we are happy to believe, will not desert him in the hour of his need and

We will at least venture our testimony, although unsought and unasked for, in regard to the faithfulness of Mr. Bedinger as a Democratic Elector .-His efforts were not confined to his district, but wherever called on he hesitated not to enter the lists, and worked with all his indomitable ardor in the cause he had espoused. His time, the best efforts of his mind, and his money, were all spent in the cause of his party, and it is shameful ingratitude, now, to throw him aside, as a used-up politician.-The pretext that he had served two terms is almost too puerile to notice. In point of fact, Mr. Bedinger was only once nominated by the Democratic Convention. When first elected it was as an independent, or rather, in opposition to another gentleman of the same party, worthy and estimable in his public as well as private relations. So that Mr.

of the Democratic party? We only refer to these facts in order that justice may be done.Mr. Bedinger. We are for "fair play," and opposed to unscrupulous wire-working in all its lengths and breadths, and trust we shall have the independence to maintain our position, whether it be found in the Whig or Democratic party.

BACKING OUT-TOO LATE.

The Winchester Virginian of yestgrday morning contains the following communication :

JEFFTRSON Co., Feb. 23, 1849. Gentlemen :-- Since the publication of my communication of the 17th instant, relative to the Post Office at Charlestown, I have heard, and I take the earliest opportunity to state it, that Mr. Bedinger had not at that time, been made acquainted with the o fact, that a Democrat wanted the office, and that upon his hearing this fact he went heartily for the appointment of the Democrat. As the communication was not designed to do Mr. Bedinger injustice, and as it grew out of a misapprehension by my informant, of the actual state of the case, it is due both to Mr. Bedinger and myself to say, that I regret its publication. I would regret it the more were it not, that whatever influence, (which I knew was little or none,) it was calculated to have upon the Convention, was counteracted by your preceding remarks, by a Telegraphic Despatch received from Washington by a friend of his at Winchester on Wednesday evening, and by a note received on Thursday evening, by a friend of his also, which was made known to various members of the Convention long before its

It seem that some have misconceived the application of the word "faithless," used in my former communication. It was not intended to apply to Mr. Bedinger. But it was used in reference to a Whig, in contradistinction to a Democratic appli- hands will be gallantly and faithfully execucant, to whom the word "faithful" referred; and it was used of course, wholly in a political sense.

A TRUE DEMOCRAT.

There is an attempt at "craw-fishing," but unfortunately for Mr. Bedinger it came too late, and instead of its being an amende honorable, it is nothing other than adding insult to injury. The author confesses he made the attack on what has turned out to be a misapprehension of his informant, and disclaims any intention to injure Mr. B. before the Convention. If such was not his intention, why send off, in hat haste, the communication to the town of Winchester, instead of inserting it in the Democratic or-gan of this county? But disclaimers wont do!-The thing sticks out too palpably, and Mr. Bedinger is not the man to pass this by without a retrarit and apology. The Democracy of Jefferson demand it also, and woe be unto the unfortunate penman of that communication. His political hopes are blasted, and the eastles that have been so foodly built in the air, here vanished. "Truth is mighty and at Il Senator to fill the vacancy covasioned by the

HEWERS AND DRAWERS.

The Democracy of the right wing of the Tenth Legion have again been frustrated, as we expected, in the Lecofoco Congressional Congention. Their votes are well enough on election cay, but it is considered presumptuous to offer one of their own sons for a seat in Congress. Warren and Page give the Democracy the preponderance in the District, but neither of those counties have yet had the honor of sending one of the Tenth Legion Beys to Congress. The party were willing to give them "a show" for the spoils, and accordingly on the eleventh ballot, Mr. Cooke lacked only some 250 vites of receiving the nomination, but it being perceived in time that he was making a strong poll, the delegate from Mor- pany's funds. gan, who had previously voted for Mr. C., (and who assumed just about as much importance as a noted General Commander in the Locofoco National Convention.) changed his tack, and thus defeated Mr. .C. who would certainly have been nominated on the next ballot.

If Mr. Bedinger was to be thrown overboard, certainly, the Democracy of the District were deep enough in the debt of Warren and Page, to give them their man, and thus liquidate the claim of long standing. Seven years open account cannot be collected in Virginia, by law, and ac ing on this principle, we presume, the Democracy of the District repudiated the claim as being of too old a date to be now cancelled!

But the good and easy souls who represented thosecounties, caved in immediately, and pledged their counties to the support of the notatince. We have heard tell before of delegates doing this very thing, yet the lion-hearted, the masses have thrown off with boldness and without tem rity, all such attempts to chain them to the service of any one man. The Old Hunkers of Jefferson have triumphed in the nomination of Mr. Parker, and enjoy their success with a pretty good grace-kn wing that it is the Young Democracy who do the electing. Some of the young 'uns are considerably) ded at Mr. Bedinger's defeat, but we'll go "a gill of saw-logs" that it will be seen that RICHARD PARKER, Esq., of Clarke | she whip of the leaders will soon draw them into

RATHER UNGRATEFUL.

During the pendency of the Spring canvass last year, no gentleman was more active in his opposition to the Whig candidate for the Senate than Mr. James Castleman, of Clarke. It was well known that Mr. C. was to be a candidate for Congress, and large were the calculations of support he was to receive from the Democracy of the District as a reward for his activity. But how are the mighty fallen, and the weighty laid aside! Out of sixteen ballots Mr. C. was voted for on only five of them :-And out of nearly four thousand votes cast, Mr. C. received 1st, 40, then 8, 24, 286; and on the last bal- | E. M. THE CHARLESTOWN POST OFFICE.

The messengers to Washington were successful in procuring the appointment of a Democrat to the No, never! He has been game all the time, and is | Charlestown Post Office. This is all perfectly fair now thrown off, not because the body of the Demo- and legitimate, and we presume no Whig in the cracy are dissatisfied, but by chirping politicians, county will find fault with the fact, although they who see self reflected, and uppermost, in all their may deprecate the means resorted to, in order to bring about the appointment. At the time Mr. Bedinger, intimated he would favor the petition of Mr. John P. Brown, a Whig, no one in the commuoffice, as the tenure of the appointment of a Democrat was looked upon as being de short duration.

This was the state of the case when Mr. Harris. the present incumbent, made application; and the secret of the application's being made, has leaked tiality in his behalf. Yet we shall never be found out through some of the cracked vessels of the pargiving countenance to underbanded efforts to strike | 14. There were three objects it view by these who seemed to be most active in procuring Mr. H.'s appointment, and they are so apparent, that a denial will will further improve all di interestorbanersons Bedinger, a candidate for re-nomination, under peculiarly embarrassing circums ances-and that it did so, we have no good reason to doubt. > The "Spirit" talks about "pretended sympathy" in Mr. B.'s behalf on the part of the Whigs. But this sympathy of the Locofoco Convention, is so impudent, that "pretended" is too weak a term to apply to it. The Convention has bound Mr. B., and the Locofoco journals think they lave him in a fastness from which he cannot escape; but take care, gentlemen, bands are hempen, and the cry may yet be heard, "Sampson, the Philistin's are upon you!" at which the bands will be loosen and broken as the thread of the spider, and Mr. B. GEN. TAYLOR AT WASHINGTON.

Gen. Taylor reached Washington at 8 o'clock on Friday evening, after a long and tedious journey. The Washington Union, of Saturday morning. gives the following account of his reception in the metropolis: "Long before the cars arrived last night. dense crowd had gathered on the streets surrounding the railroad depot, anxiously awaiting the arrival of the President elect -The avenue in front of the depot presented a scene never witnessed before at that hour in this metropolis.

"About eight o'clock, the locomotive whistle, blazing bonfires, brilliant rockets and roaring artillery, mingled in splendid confusion with the darkness of the night, and loud, enthusiastic hurrals of the assembled multitude gave notice that the war-worn chief had arrived. Gen. Taylor, attended by the Marine Band, the committee of reception, and a large concourse of citizens, eached Willard's Hotel safe and sound .-On arriving at Willard's, the crowd called for "Old Zack," in shouts that made the welkin ring. Gen. Taylor made his appearance on the portico in front of the hotel, where he was received in tones of welcome such as seldom greet the ear of a guest in

"Gen. Taylor, being announced by the Mayor, then made a short address, in which he said that were he ever so well qualified, he could not make anything like a set speech. He alluded to the fatigues of his journey, and to the fact that he had not recovered from an injury he had received a few days ago, and concluded by thanking the citizens | and Col. Payne was introduced by the Committee, of Washington for the cordial reception they had given him, and expressed his sincere wishes for their continued health and prosperity. The President elect then bade the crowd good night, and returned amidst the most deafening huzzas and hearty demonstrations of delight on the part of the assembled citizens.

It was announced that he would receive his friends on Saturday morning, at Willard's Hotel, if sufficiently recovered, from the fatigue of his tedions journey; but, previous to the appointed time, a notice was posted, postponing the reception until Monday morning.

The House then resolved itself into a Committee of the Whole on the State of the Union, and proceeded to the consideration of the bill reported from the Committee on Territories, to establish a territorial government for California. The California Territorial Bill being under consideration in the Senate, Mr. Underwood, said he was in favor of leaving the settlement of the slavery question to the people of the territories themselves, while in the territorial condition, which he contended, would be just as proper, as to have it settled by them in the State Constitutions which they may hereafter present. In the House, Mr. Atkinson presented the resolu-

GEN. TAYLOR AT HARPERS-FERRY.

After spending Thursday night in Cumberland, Md., Gen. Tarloz, President elect, started on Friday Morning last in an extra train of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, en route for Washington, where he arrived at about 6 P. M., and took rooms at Willard's Hotel. At Harpers-Ferry in this county, extensive preparation had been made to give him a befitting welcome, and an immense number of persons from all parts of the county were in attendance. At about 111 o'clock the signal was given that the Car was in sight, and as may be very well imagined, from that time forward, every thing was helter-skelter. The Band was discoursing sweet music, the engine its shrill notes, the hearse voice of the cannon reverberated among the hills, men running, gazing, staring, boy's whooping and women screaming! As soon however, as order could be restored, it was ascertained through the Committee of reception, that the Cars would only remain for a few moments, and that the General peremptorily declined, from physical disability, to dine with the good citizens assembled; or permit more than a passing view.

DEATH OF DR. ATKINSON.

We are pained to learn of the death of the Rev. Dr. WILLIAM M. ATKINSON, at his residence in Winchester on Saturday night last. He was aged about 55 years. Dr. A. was regarded as one among the most efficient of the Presbyterian Divines attached to the Virginia Synod, and at the time of his death held the responsible position of Agent for the American Bible Society.

Those of our citizens in this region wh may design visiting Washington at the ceremonies of the Inauguration, have a pleasant and cheap mode of conveyance offered by the several Packets, advertised in our columns, to leave Harpers-Ferry on Friday next. The cost of travel is only one dollar, to Washington and back. The Captains' of the several-Boats we can recommend as being polite and accommodating, and who will leave no efforts untried to make the trip a pleasant and agreeable one.

REV. T. W. SIMPSON.

This gentleman, who has for about seven years past, been the Pastor of the Presbyterian Congregations of Wicomico and Monokin, some weeks since, announced his intention to apply to Presbytery for leave to dissolve his present pastora relation? During his residence among us, Mr. Simpson has fermed a large circle of friends and cquaintances to whom he has become greatly endeared, and who deeply regret the proposed sepa ration. Ris piety, fait fulness, ability and acceptableness as a preacher and his urbanity in social intercourse will long be remembered in our community. INDIA RUDDER GOODS.

One will be forcibly struck with the many useful purposes to which India rubber has been applied within the past fewtyears, in visiting the establish ment of Messrs, H. B. Field & Co., in Baltimore street, one door from Charles. Among the articles which particularly attract attention, is the metallic rubber tent, most admirably arranged and put together; it is about 10 feet long, by 7 feet wide, with jointed poles so constructed as to make them porta-ble, and occupy but a small space; is sufficiently commodious to accommodate six persons; weigh thirty pounds, and can be packed so as to be carried upon a mule without interfering with the travel of parties conveying it from one point to another. The tent is impervious to water, and is the best thing that could be devised for adventurers bound to the gold regions. We also observed clothes' bags suitable for pack mules, which can be converted a pleasure, into air pillows and life preservers; air beds, fifteen of which can be packed into the space which is usually occupied by a hair mattress; camp blankets, canteens, water tanks, caps and capes, gun owers moute clouds buckets and basins saddle bags for California, can here be found, and in perfection. These goods were manufactured with a view to meet the wants of gold diggers, exploring parties, and others, and made expressly to stand the climate of California; and well do they appear to answer the purposes for which they were designed. We would advise all, therefore, who desire to preserve health, as well as to seenre comfort, to pay Field & Co. a visit, if for no other purpose than to see the great improvements that have been made in this branch

GOV. M. DOWELL.

"Potomac," the intelligent correspondent of the Baltimore Patriot, in sketching the proceedings in the House of Representatives on Friday last, thus notices the speech of Gov. McDowell:

"Mr. Turner, of Illinois, obtained the floor, and made a speech on the question of slavery or no slavery in the newly acquired territories. His speech so-so, and attracted but little attention.

But after him rose Governor McDowell, of Virginia, who made such a speech, on the same territorial question, as has seldom been listened to in that or any other legislative hall. It thrilled all hearts, and bathed in tears many a manly cheek .-The Governor's manner is eloquent, his language is chaste and classic, while his sentiments are conservative and patriotic. The whole House was spell-bound by his patriotic, earnest and persuasive appeals to all sections of this blessed Union, to bear and forbear with each other like patriotic brethren of the same great Republican family, for the good of the whole. He set out by remarking, that he was ready to support a bill for the government of the newly acquired territories similar to the one proposed to the Senate by the Senator from Illinois, Mr. Douglass,) or the one offered in the House, by his kinsman and colleague, (Mr. Preston.)

He alluded to the almost insurmountable difficulies encountered by the fathers of the Revolution, to heir hardships and toils and sufferings, with Washngton at their head-to the great and noble achieve pents obtained-to the formation and adoption of the Constitution, and to its compromises, allowing the pigmy State of Delaware to be equally repre sented in the Senate of the United States, with the colossus of States, New York-to the sacrifices of Virginia for the good of the whole Union-to the stand in the cause of freedom which Massachusetts and Virginia took, side by side, and shoulder to shoulder-to the eloquent and powerful voice in freedom's cause of the elder Adams, and to the warning voice of the immortal Washington, and then he appealed to all sections to stand by each other, and to stand up all together for the honor, renown and preservation of this mighty Union. He pictured, in vivid colors, the consequences of a rebel-lion among the slaves of the South, which should be set on by the interference of those freed of slavery, and which should cause the blood of the people f the South to flow upon their own soil and at their own firesides, and proclaimed that that blood would, like Abel's, cry from the ground for revenge, and re venge would follow upon the perpetrators of that dreadful deed, though it should drain every remaining drop of blood coursing in a Southern vein.

So enraptured were the members of the House that when the Governor had spoken his hour through they paid him the high compliment never before paid but to one man, John Quincy Adams, of unaninously requesting him to "go on." He most politely bowed to the House for the marked compliment, and went on with his speech. He spoke, in all, an hour and twenty minutes. It was a speech to be remembered by all who had the good fortune to listen to it. In sentiment, it corresponded with the speech es which have been delivered upon the same vexed question by Messrs. Thompson, of Indiana, Taylor, of Ohio. Preston, of Virginia, and Thompson, of Kentucky.

GEN. TAYLOR'S ADDRESSES .- The reader we think, will be struck by the appositeness and beauty of General Taylor's extemporaneous addresses delivered at the different towns where he has been publicly welcomed on his way to the seat of government .-They are brief, pertinent, well conceived and well expressed. Nothing of the partizan appears in them-nothing but the patriot. Every thing so far, gives earnest of the wis-dom of the choice made by the people in their selection of him as their Chief Magistrate. May he realize our fondest hopes and expectations in his administration; and may, under his guidance, the executive department be once again directed according to the principles and practice of Washington.

Plaid Cottons; Bleached, at every price; Cotton Bags and Bagging; Knitting Cottons, &c., Together with a large and general stock of Goods, suitable for the season, which will be sold on pleas-

tor and Seeder, For Corn, Sugar Cane, Potatoes and Tobacco. THE undersigned begs leave to inform the agri-I cultural community generally, that he has purchased the sole right of making and vending the above Plough, which can be metamorphosed into a great variety of shapes, by the transposition of its shares, which consists of a right and left hand share. It mustes a row by once going through, by throwing the dirt to or from the rows or plants, and can be arranged to suit any desirable width. Thus, any man and horse can plough eight or ten acres in a day, and perform the work in the most admirable manner. This Celebrated Plough and Cultivator Combines the qualifications of performing double work in all branches of Agriculture for which it is recommended, with ease to the horse, and almost without any effort to the operator, by the adaptation of the shafts and the application of two or three shares at a time, thus giving it the self-sustaining principle, which greatly recommend it to an enlightened public, seeking the advancement of the usual arts.

Its different modes of application are thus described: In furrowing, the ploughs can be applied for making two rows at a time. Then, in cross-furrowing, they can be arranged to cover one row and furrow the next. The first and second ploughing of corn, &c., the Ploughs can be arranged to plough both rows, and throw the dirt either to or from them. The proprietor could, if it were necessary, procure a host of the most indubitable evidences from the most prominent Farmers of the States of Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky, Western Pennsylvania, Illinois, Iowa, Michigan and Wisconsin. But of what avail are such testimonials to practical demonstra-Farmers and Mechanics: to satisfy yourselves that it is no humbug, but practical reality, asdemonstrative as the many advantages derived from the aid of steam power, the power loom, or the press, come and examine with your own eyes, and handle with your own hands, and you will most assuredly give it that meed of praise which thousands before you have bestowed upon it, as being the cheapest, simplest, and most general agricultural implement in its various application now extant. The aforesaid Plough will hereafter be manufactured and sold by James M. Hessey, in the following counties: Jefferson, Berkeley, Frederick and Shenandoah, He is engaged in making them at Shepherdstown, where he will be prompt in filling all orders, either by forwarding or delivering the JAMES M. No property to be removed until the terms are complied with. Sale to commence at 10 o'clock, A.M. Isaac Isaa ginia, proverbially the Garden Spot of the State, is a sufficient guarantee of its ca sability, by the aid of clover and plaster, of amply cemeaerating the cultivator for his expense and laber. The purchaser will find on the premises every improvement necessary for comfort and convenience. The Direlling House s situated on a beautiful eminence, and is of ample dimensions to accommodate a large family. A well constructed barn with stabling underneath; ice house, corn house, and every requisite improvement. A large Orchard abounding with fruit of various kinds, and a very productive meadow below the dwellinghouse with a never-failing stream of water running through its centre, to which the slock can have free access at all times.

A suitable portion of said land is in fine timber, and its contiguity to the railroad, and consequent facilities afforded, of transporting produce to mar-ket, renders this property highly desirable. One-third of the purchase most will be required in hand, the residue in two annual instalments, with interest from date on the deferre payments, secured by a deed of trust on the land. On the same day will be offered,

This is a fast age, and the art of poetty is advancing, as will be seen from the following "Charge of Infantry:"

Sound the stage horn ! ring the cow bell ! That the waiting world may know; . Publish it through all four borders,

Even unto Mexico. Seize your pen, oh! dreaming poet, And in numbers emooth as may be, Spread afar the joyful tidings, Betsy's got another baby !

Posing the Priest.-The Rev. Father Hurley, one day in a sermon to his parishioners, repeated the trite quotation that "all fiesh is grass." The season was Lent; and a few days afterwards he encountered Terence O'Collins, who appeared to have something on his mind.

"The top o' the mornin' to your riverence," said Terence; "did I understand your riverence to say, 'all flesh is grass,' last Sunday?" "Sure I did," replied the father; "do you doubt it ?"

"Sorra a bit would I be after doubting anything your riverence plazes, but I wish to know whether in this Lent time I could not be after having a small piece of bafe by way of salad ?"

It is the part of woman, like her own beautiful planet, to cheer both the dawn and the darkness, to be both the morning and the evening star of a man's life. The light of her eye is the first to rise and the last to set upon manhood's days of trial and suffering." Who said this?

CHARACTERISTIC OF THE SEX -It is said that a celebrated English duchess, on being told that she must be bled or she would die, and replied, "I won't be bled; and I won't die " and she didn't.

TRUE. - Snip says that it will be quite necessary for Gen. Taylor to be publicly inaugurated on the fourth of March, as he will have been sufficiently bored in private.

An Irish knight was once disputing with a French courtier as to the age and standing of their families, when the latter, as a finisher to the argument, said that his ancestors were in the ark with Noah. "That is nothing," says the Hibernian, with a rich brogue, "for at the deluge, my forefathers were cruising about in a boat of Is the Fakir of Ava white or black ?"

asked Mr. Craighead. "Why, he's a negro man, sir " (necromancer) was the reply of Bemus. Craighead invited his witty friend to step round the corner and elevate his right el-

ICFA lady was overheard in earnest discussion with a gentleman noted for tenacity in his own opinion. Waxing warm, the gentleman observed, "Mrs. C., facts are stubborn things." And the lady rejoined, "then Mr. M., what a great fact you must be !"

Man without woman would soon degenerate into a brute. It is said that but one sex of the Lombardy poplar has been introduced into this country. The tree, the emblem, of the old bachelor, soonest dies at the top, and grows ragged all the way down.

ITA maiden lady of forty, in reply to an ironical question why she did not enter into the holy state of matrimony, said: "Why, by waiting, I may get one of the best husbands; and if I get a bad one, I shall have reason to rejoice that I have not long to live with him.

A cat of extraordinary intelligence was recently seen feeding a kitten with starch to make it stand upright! This reminds us of the maid who drank a pint of yeast to make her rise early.

traveller returns, attended by his friends." I ask leave to introduce a bill for the destruction of worms," as the woodpecker said in a stump speech.

PURIFICATION.

It is a settled creed in all correct medical jurisprodence, that unless the blood is kept free from impurities, the whole system must inevitably become diseased. When the blood becomes elogged, thick, and moves through the veins and arteries with a sluggish motion, we may rest assured that sickness, with its concomitant train of evils, is about to ensue. The uimbst care and greatest precaution are therefore necessary, and the system should be close: ly watched. Those who generally provide themselves with mild and aperion physic, should give a preference to such as are of a strictly vegetable nature. Brandrah's Vegetable Universal Pills appear to be the universal favorite, as they : r' composed entirely of Vegetables and co-operate so effeetually-cleansing the system-purifying the blood and removing all undue biliary secretions. THE SHENANDOAH PAPER MANU-FACTURING COMPANY.

For the Va. Free Press and Spirit of Jefferson. Messrs. Editors: It is known to you, and through your columns to your readers, that the above named Company were retarded last year through the entire seas to for constructing buildings, by the decease of one of the proprietors of the Striderian property. on which they purposed to locate, and thus prevented from completing the purchase and obtaining a title. This object now being accomplished, and a Deed for two lots of ground, each 300 feet in length by 140 and 150 feet in depth, one for dwellings and one for factory, with a liberal grant of water for 125 horse-power, and the right of more if desired, the main obstacle now seems removed, and with a moderate enlargement of capital, the company will be able to go on with a Paper Factory one-third larger than was at first contemplated.

The plans now drawn, (and which the great demand upon the company, for the supply of paper seems to justify as the Lucest capacity of the Factory.) are for a three-story stone building, 80 feet by 100, to contain 25 rag engines carrying 200 lbs, each, and a Machine room 80 by 103 feet-with six 52-inch machines—(8 cylinder and 3 Fondinger,)—capable of Manufacturing upwarls of 10 000 ibs of paper per day. Besides the lots and water-power, pwards of $22,000 of the stock has been subscribed and pledged, provided the other amounts are raised. so as to have the Factory entirely free of debt when it is completed, and ready to commence the manufacture of paper. This object (to keep the company entirely free from debt) seems so desirable, that large as their demand for paper is, it will still be manifestly the interest of the company to purchase only a part of the machinery stated, until the required amount of stock is taken, rather than incur a ed with its discipline and method of instruction. debt; and vet a regular cash market is a ready secured for all the paper which the mill, with its largest capacity, can manufacture. Having the ots, water-power, co-t of buildings, and of a part of the machinery recured, the object would seem so much easier attainable, to secure a sum for the balance of the machinery, and the profits to accrue so much greater, that we feel justified, and condent in the attempt to increase the subscriptions to capital stock some 10 or 12,000 dollars for that object. The full capacity of the mill would manufacture over $300,000 worth of paper per annum; which, al-

Harpers-Ferry, May 11, 1818 V Another Miracuists Cure.

READ the following letter, and then, if you are troubled with any disease of the lungs, go and get a bottle of DR. HASTINGS' COMPOUND SYRUP OF NAPTHA. St. JOHNSVILLE, New York, Feb. 5, 1848. Mr. Harrison: Sir-I will trouble your patience a few minu. by informing you of the great triumph which your Nap ha Syrup has obtained in the case of my brother. He inc. eased the does as you directed, and the result was that he began to mise very freely, and it seemed so badly that n was impossible to stay in the room where he was, on the nother the increase of the dose. In a day or so after, he began to get better, and at this present time is quite revived, has a good appetite, and don't cough a quarter as much as he did previously. A severe cough and immense ex-pectoration were the prominent symptoms of the dis-ease. I think his case was a singular one; none of the physicians here had ever heard or seen anything of the kind before. I mention all these particulars, as I am firm in the belief that, had it not been for the Naptha Syrup, he could have expected nothing but a speedy grave, as there was an immense number of inbereles formed on his lungs, which the medicine took immediate hold of, and in a few days he threw them no by the he improves as fast as he has done, I do not think tha he will need any more than the six bottles I now send for. Enclosed are five dollars. Direct the box as pe Ore to Jonas Snell. Care of Charles Kingsland, Rathread Depot. Yours respectfully, JENAS SNELL. After reading the above, who can loubt that hast, ings' Naptha Syrup possesses all the virtue that is claim, ed for it.
