On one of these occasions he had loitered, to look at the extensive prospect, indulging in a reverie upon its sterile appearance and the change that agriculture might produce, and in so doing suffered his family of Cashel. and servants to be considerably in advance ; perceiving this he hastened to make up for lost time, and was stepping out with his best speed, when a fellow leaped from behind a heap of loose stones, and accompanying the flourish of a huge club with a demonic yell. demanded "Money !" with a ferocity of tone and manner perfectly appalling. The bishop gave the robber all the silver world. he had loose in his pocket, hoping that it would satisfy him, but he was mistaken, for no sooner had the ruffian stowed it away in a capacious rent in his tattered garment, than with another whirl of his bludgeon, and an awful oath he exclaimed : "And is it with the likes of this, I'm after letting you off! a few paltry tinpennies ! It's the gould I'll have, or I'll spatter your brains. Arrah. don't stand shivering and shaking there, like a Quaker in the ague, but lug out your purse, you devil, immediately, or I'll bate you as blue as a whetstone." His lordship most reluctantly yielded his well filled purse, saying in tremulous accents, "My good fellow there it is, don't ill use me-I've given you all, pray let me depart " "Fair and softly, if you plase; as sure as I'm not a good fellow, I have'nt done with you yet. It was given up; a glance at the road showed that all hope of assistance from his Irish paper servant was unavailing, the carriage had disappeared, but the bishop made an instinctive movement as though auxious to escape from | mountain. The night was dark and stormy, further pillage. "Wait awhile, or may be I shall get angry with you; hand over your watch and sales, and then you may trudge." Now it happened that the divine felt a par ticular regard for his watch-not so much from its being of considerable value, but because it had been presented to him by his life in a vain effort to sustain that of her first patron-and he ventured to expostulate.

The surprise and joy of all parties may be imagined ;- they reached the inn where they proposed stopping for the night, and as the portmauteaus had escaped the dangers "After the billows of a stormy sea, Sweet is at last the haven of repose."

But not so when that stillness is to divide us eternally from others, when those we have loved with all the passion and devotion, the watchful sanctity of the weak human heart, are to exist to us no more. Whien, after long years of desertion and widowhood on earth, there is to be no hope of re-union in that invisible world beyond the stars; when the torch, not of life only, but of love, is to be quenched in the dark fountain ; and the grave, that we should fain hope is the great restorer of human ties, is but the dumb scal of hopelessness-utter-inexorable separation ! PRINTING PRESSES, PULPITS AND WOMEN.-These are the three great levers that govern the movements of the world. Without them the bottom would fall out, and society would become chaos again. The press makes the people patriotic, the pulpit religious, but women answereth all things. There would be no going to church if there were no girls there-neither would there be any going to war were the soldiers to meet with no applause except from the masculine. Without the sunshine shed by women, the rosebuds of affection would never bloom, nor the flower of eloquence germinate. In short she is the steam engine of delight, and the great motive power of love, valor and civilization.

We are prepared to do all kinds of job work as neatly, cheaply and expeditiously as any other establishment of the kind.

- Contine

Job printing, as we have already said. is very necessary part of the revenue by which a press is sustained. and Whigs may quite as effectually show their good will towards a newspaper which advocates their principles, by giving it their job printing as by taking the paper or advertising in its columns. Of course a publisher should not ask for the business of his political friends, unless he is prepared to do their work as cheaply and as well as any one elso will do it. But when he will do this, ve think there is some little obligation to sustain him, on the part of those who think his paper a necessary auxiliary in the support of principles and policy which they believe important to the interests of the country. Wo are far from subscribing to any such clanishness as would give his custom to a political or religious friend without regard to any other considerations. But where a man can be as well served by a political friend as by an opponent, there is considerable reason why the friend should have the chance to do the service. The influence of a newspaper, whether Whig or Locofoco, depends upon the substantial support which it receives in the shape of subscription, advertising and job work. We assure those who have heretofore given us their business, or whoever may hereafter favor us with their custom, that we are still prepared to do work cheaply, promptly and neatly. All we ask is for hem to give us a call, and if we do not suit them we shall not whine if they go elsewhere. We confidently make this request, knowing that we have the ability, success-and delivered.

ROMANTIC .- It is stated that a marriage of rather a romantic character took place at Lockland, on the Miami Canal. The daughter of a prominent citizen was betrothed to an industrious young mechanic, but she not being past "sweet sixteen." the parents opposed the wedding. The objections were removed by a compromise. The nuptials were cele-brated, and in an hour the young bridegroom took leave for California, thence to return in two years and claim his bride.

"AN OLD FRIEND."

The New York Commercial Advertiser of the 22d ult., sors it received that morning an annual call from a subscriber who has taken the semi-weekly "Commercial" since February, 1807; who never allowed his subscription to be over due for two months; and has never failed to pay it personally at the desk of the office of publication. The Commercial adds that this gentleman is upwards of eighty years of age, but is as halo and hearty, and likely for years of continued enjoyment as most men. He reads, without spectacles, the Commercial, and is altogether a noble specimen of a man. Pass that old gentleman round. Punch would call him "The Model Newspaper Subscriber." Let delinquents look at that man and blush. This venerable person has lived to an old age, and is hale and hearty, because he has a conscience at ease, and is regular in his habits, which is evident from the fact that he sustains his newspaper, and pays for it regularly. A hundred more years to the old sage, and may his example be contagious !

TO THE PEOPLE OF JEFFERSON.

FELLOW-CITIZENS: In presenting to you the name of TILLBOT S. DERE, E.q., for a seat in the next House of Delegates of Virginia, we deem it but an act of justice to that gentleman, as well as to yourselves, that the question so often asked, who Mr. Duke I should be answered by those who have known him from his boyhood to the present day, and who have always found him during that time, to be moral and upright in his conduct ; industrious, persevering and practical in his conduct, indus-gentlemanly, modest and retiring in his manners; firm and decided in his political views and opinions-yet never overzealous or arrogant in upholding them, granting to every man the same right as the best interests of the country appear to demand Well acquaiated with the resources of the State, its best mineral wealth, its agricultural and manufacturing interests,; perfectly familiar, also, with the wants and geography of his native County, he will make an enlightened, able and efficient segislator, if called by your kindness to the discharge of that important and responsible trust. It has been said, derisively, that the people of Jefferson county would not support a mechanic for a seat in the Legislature of Virginia; that they do not want a Marpers Ferry mechanic to make laws for them. Fellow chizens, we are not yet willing to believe that a man is to be proscribed and down trodden because of his occupation in life or his position in society, especially it both be honest, honorable and above reproach, as in the present instance. We are not ready to believe that, because a man's hand is hardened by honest toil, because he literally lives by the sweat of his brow and the labor of his hands, that he is unworthy of your support. We are slow to think that the people of Jefferson county, liberal, enlightened and unsettish as they are, have a wish to make us "hewers of wood and drawers of water," to them and their children forever, merely because we happen not to be the fortunate possessors of a large estate, or the equally fortunate inheritors of some good man's name, whose virtues and ta-lents have alike descended with him to the grave. We have ever been taught to believe that merit was the best and surest passport to public favor and confidence-that the adventitions aid of wealth and circumstances was as dust in the balance when weighed against it, and we believe it. So thinking and believing, we have proposed to you the name of Talbot S. Duke, whose merit entitles him to your confidence, and who is a gentleman every way worthy, and capable of attending to the interests of the County in a satisfactory manner. We present him to you because we think him worthy to receive your support. We present him because we think, according to long established rule, we are justly entithed to a delegate from this portion of the County.-We present him because our population of five thou-sand people have submitted long enough to have their claims overlooked, and their candidates set aside to make room for others. We present him, confidently, because we have supported cordially and in good faith, gentlemen from every part of the county, time after time, and because we have had no candidate of our own since 1840. We come to you now in all honesty, and ask that our claims may e considered calmly, and aside from all prejudice; that the same measure of right and justice be allowed to us that is awarded to our brethren. We ask nothing more-we are content with nothing less. Failing in this, our reasonable request, we must then organize upon a basis having for its object the ascendancy and supremacy of our precinct over the county of Jefferson, and then, those who ask but an equality with their fellow-citizens, will have become the rulers and dictators and you who spurp its now, as beings almost without the pale of civilization, or beyond the hope of redemption, may vainly sue for that which you deny us. For you may be certain that the day is not very far distant when Harpers-Ferry will poll a large majority of the vote cast in the County. Concede us, therefore, something, while concession may be esteemed a favor, lest by denving our request, you drive us to extremities, and thus sever our people from you, politically, forArrival of the Steamer Hermann.

ing a more exciting aspect. A chauge was expected in the French Ministry. All efforts used by the governments of France and Great Britain to renew the armistice between Sardin'a and Austria had failed. Hostilities were therefore to recommence, and be carried on with vigor on both sides. Although European sympathies were so strongly enlisted with the Italian cause, yet it was generally feared that King Charles Albert would try his enemy, who number ten thousand strong. Radetzky mediated a direct march upon Turin, the Capitol of Sardina. Telegraphic despatches have already announc-ed the passing of the Tecino on the 20th ult., they were received by the French government. On the 31st, three divisions had crossed, and meeting the Austrian army, experienced some resistance. It was feared that King Charles would be forced ing out in Calabria. Accounts from Hungary state that the imperialists were making little headway against the Magyars, assuccess had latterly crowned Kossuth and his followers. The Austrians have again been beaten in several battles.

Difficulties were feared between Prussia and Austria, on account of a mistake relative to the Emperor of Prussia being nominated Emperor of Germany.

The proposal to appoint the King of Prussia Emperor of Germany, was rejected by the Frank-fort Parliament on the 21st of March. This unexpected decision caused great excitement.

RETURNING GOLD-SEEKERS

The steamer Northerner, which arrived as New York on the 10th inst., from Chagres. brought as passengers quite a number of gold seekers, who had been as far as the Isthmus, but returned in despair of getting passage from Panama to San Francisco. Among those who returned were H. S. Ketchum and A. S. Smith, of the Syarcuse and California Trading and Mining Company, who sailed from New York in the brig Alida, on the 2d of March last. A portion of this company went round-Cape Horn in charge of their stores and other property, a part by the Nicaragua route, and the remainder by the late slight reaction in consequence of the Europa's advices. Business in the French manufacturing towns was improving, and an active spring trade was the company by the next steamer from Panama, but finds that he cannot secure passage earlier than by the July steamer, and thinks that the whole company will probably return. and that hundreds of others will also return by the earliest conveyance. Mr. K. comfirms other statements which we have published, that there are some two thousand five hundred vainly awaiting opportunity to sail for the "diggings." Some have been waiting two months, and many had exhausted their entire means, and were becoming desperate. Two young men who recently landed on the Isthmus, with each one thousand dollars, had spent the entire amount in dissipation and gambling, and offered six months' faithful service at hard labor to any one who would land them at any port of the United States, but could find no one to accept their propesition. Unless the great numbers on the Isthmus shall soon find means either to return or go on to the promised land, there must inevitably be much suffering-probably robbery and murder; for, being out of money, they must steal, rob or starve.

Mr. K. states that tickets for steerage passage in the next steamer from Panania, which here cost one hundred dollars, were selling when he left, at from four hundred to seven hundred dollars. One gentleman, who returned in the Northerner, sold his ticket for four hundred and seventy-five dollars. The climate is quite healthy, considering the latitude, and, as a general thing, only those who are dissipated, and unnecessarily expose themselves, become sick. a matter of great satisfaction to the Democrats, who hope to reap advantage in the future, from heartburnings and jealousies likely to arise from "family jars." The Whigs should be too wary for this. They can only vote for two of the candidates; and in doing this, it will afford no just ground of offence to the other two. They should be cautious how they fall into the snares of their political adversaries .-They should be particularly guarded, not to permit themselves to be mingled up with the schemes of those who are only anxious to "divide and conquer." MESSES, EDITORS-As your last paper contained two communications landatory of "the County Convention cundidates," it is but fair that the other side of the controversy should be heard. The first great cause of complaint against this omination is, that the individuals named arc not he choice of a large number of the Whig party, and cliered to be a large majority of them. As evidence against the senior nominee, it is stated, (and the writer hearned it, amongst others, from a personal which he claims for himself, of thinking and acting riend of the gentleman referred to.) that last spring, in a warm contest between the political parties of the county, he was indebted to the opposite party for his election, not having received enough votes from his own party to secure his election. This, then, is considered by those who disapprove of this gentleman's re-nomination, as conclusive evidence that the County Convention did not look to the true interest of the Whig party. And who will say that this is not good cause of complaint ? With regard to the other norainee, there can be no doubt of the impropriety of his nomination. And to advance an incontrovertible argument to prove this position. I will state the fact that this individual has not been eren seen by one out of one hundred of our citizens, and has never been heard of ont of his native town. And to make the case stronger, the writer will venture the assertion that the young man had never been seen by a large inajority of the nominating Convention; and that personally, they did not know any thing as to the amount of his qualifications for the office for which they have recommended him. These things are legitimate cause of complaint, and show sufficient reasons why the fromination should be disregarded by the Whigs of the county, and a stop put to this custom of "Olden Time." A word about nominations.

It is believed by the writer that some mode of concentrating the Whig vote of the county should be practised, although all modes of selecting candidates are obnoxious to abuse. But necessity which knows no law, compels the adoption of some method to prevent the triumph of the party in the minority .-But the abuses which have been made of the county Convention plan, have been such as to render it ob noxious to a large part of our citizens. The writer will state an instance which came unler his personal observation, to prove this position. He heard an individual, from the Harpers-Ferry precinct, get up in the Convention and call on the members to redeem a pledge, made the previous year to nominate a candidate from his precinct in consideration of the support given at that time by their delegates to a candidate from another precinct!-The appeal was answered to the exclusion of a man to whom the Whig party of this county are largely indebted, and who has their entire confidence, as was evinced by the large vote which he received in an open field the ensuing spring. The fact is, that the number of individuals who compose the County Convention is so small, that it favors intrigue. And even those who are honest and desire to reject the public will, are at a loss and frequently conjecture an individual will be acceptable, when in truth he is not, and which, it is believed, has been the case with a large majority of the late County Convention. A Mass Meeting at March Court is the only way fairly to ascertain who is the choice of the great body of the Whigs of the county. Nothing there is left to conjecture. Every voter states on a slip of paper who he prefers, and the interest of the body of our citizens is awakened. The humblest citizen has his full weight in the selection of the candidates, and is with the result Although a great deal more communication; nor had it the slightest effect on the result of the Convention. And besides, the fact that Mr. Bedinger had withdrawn his recommendation of Mr. Brown, and had endorsed the application of Mr. Harris, was known in Winchester to various members of the Convention, long before its final action. Now the office became vacant not through any agency of Mr. Harris or his friends, or of the Democratic party .--They neither attempted to forestal the action of the present administration, nor did they seek to baffle or thwart a fair competition for the office under the late. Mr. Harris had the same right to apply for the office that Mr. Brown had, and we have no doubt but that Mr. Harris would have been the very first applicant for the office, if the fact of Mr. Aisquith's resignation had been made known in time."--- Spirit of Jefferson.

CONGRESSIONAL CANDIDATES

- It may be true that Mr. Harris had made known his intention to apply, but it is equally true that he and abandoned the idea, and only resumed his position at the instance of men who had a game in Ticw.

The office had been promised to Mr. Brown, through Mr. Bedinger, who publicly declared at the Court House that he had not been advised that any thing of the application of one, until he found two of the leaders in Washington at work for Mr. Harris without consulting him at all. He accidentally found them at the Department, they never having paid him the usual courtesy of a call, the custom Apving always been, never to make an appointment without consulting the member of Congress from the District. It was on that occasion that Mr. Brown, the Second Assistant Postmaster General, declared that he would appoint no Whig to the office. Though the commission had been prepared for Mr. Peyton Brown, and was ready, except the signature, it was withheld upon the reception of a fetter from Chariestown, forwarded by those who had taken the matter in hand.

And now as to the assertion that the communication published in the Virginian, impugning Mr. Bedinger's conduct in the premises, had produced no effect on the Convention.

The "Spirit" says "we happen to know the fact that Mr. Bedinger did not lose one vote in consequence of that communication; nor had it the slightest effect on the Convention." Then it was a much more harmless missive, considering its character, than its author intended it to be.

Again, it is asserted that "the fact that Mr. Bedinger had withdrawn his recommendation of Mr. Brown, and had endorsed the application of Mr. Harris, was known in Winchester to various members of the Convention, long before its final action." We happen to know have and when the information was conveyed to Winchester. The letter did not reach there until at deast five balletings avere OFer. The question still remains to be answered, schy was the communication sent to the Virginian to be published only the day before the Convention, instead of being printed in the Spirit at an earlier date, unless it was designed for effect ?

"Mr. Harris, (savs the Spirit) would have been the first applicant for the office, if the fact of Mr. Aisguith's resignation had been made known in time." Weli, if Mr. Harris had ' made known to Mr. Aisquith his intention to apply for the office some weeks before his resignation, and had called on his friends to a id him in the matter months before," as is asserted above, how happened it that the name of the editor of the Spirit was on Mr. Brown's pedition only a few days before the office was vacant? Does not this show that if the idea had been entertained by Mr. Harris, it had been abandoned, and was only resumed under the circumstances menrticned ?

The simple truth is, and it cannot be controvert-

We hope those who are prematurely distressed at the idea of the results to follow this "bribing the press," will be relieved to some extent by perusing the following from the Richmond Republican :

The Enquirer is too liberal in its construction of the reports of letter writers from Washington, though we must acknowledge the kindness of the terms in which it alludes to the individuals named.

We can only say, if any honors are intended for us at Washington, we are yet unapprised of their character, from head quarters The report is altogether premature, and is evidently a confounding of names. R. H. G. has not been presented to the Administration for any appointment. And although the spontaneous and hearty voice of Democrats as well as Whigs had early pointed to S. G. as deserving some consideration in the filling up of vacancies, he has not yet had a sight of the Great Seal of the Union.

[Richmond Republican.

We should think there would be much more daner to the Republic from the sort of "bribing" reerred to the other day by the Lynchburg Virginian-that of giving pap to the opposition editors .-Not one of them, surely, will touch the advertisem nt ordered a few days by since Mr. Peter Hagner. The phrase, "no friends to reward," has been put into the mouth of Gen. Taylor by his opponents .-Henever uttered any thing like it. The following sentence, from his Allison letter, is the one which disturbs the "plunder" haters so much :

"I have no private purposes to accomplish, no party projects to build up, no enemies to punish-nothing to serve but my country." If the editors of the Lynchburg Republican will show us a line from their own files, or those of any other Democratic print, condemning the appointment of editors to office, or a syllable against proscription during the Democratic era, we shall be glad to give currency to their patriotic denunciations. Let us see something of the sort, gentlemen. Produce it speedily, lest Old Zach might be unaware of your purity and disinterestedness.

They can, however, recall at least half their grief. Gen. Taylor has not bribed the press. There was no necessity for it. The Taylor organs referred to took up the cause of the coantry at a time when even a prophet of old could scarcely look forward to the certainty of "reward." But just reprint one of your best articles against proscription. Do, gentlemen-

PROSCRIPTION.

It is amusing, and sometimes disgusting, (says the Petersburg Intelligencer.) to hear the Democracy complaining of proscription by the present Administration. For more than twenty years they have enjoyed every office worth having under the Government, and they now have brought themselves to believe that they have a fee-simple right to all the offices, and are disposed to treat as a trespasser any Whig who may get an office. It is high time that these gentry who patriotically desire a life-long term in the service of their country should be taught the doctrine of "rotation in office" is not altogether one of theory; and if we are not mistaken, they will learn the lesson before six months have gone by .-We arge no promiscuous or ruthless proscription, nor do we believe that any such will be practised by General Taylor's Administration. But we have a right te believe that, with a Whig Administration. we shall not witness the spectacle of a Democrat in the possession of every office worth $100 a year .-We claim for our party a share of that which the Democracy have heretofore monopolized. There are enough Democrats in office who have acted unworthily, is make room for a reasonable number of competent and honest Whigs, and we have reason to believe that in due time such room will be made Then brawling politicians-(men who even denied to Gen. Taylor military capacity)-may begin to sectional in their views, so prejudiced in their feelings, or so contracted in their policy towards us, as to wish to exclude us from a just participation in the rights and privileges guarantied to us all, upon the plea that Harpers-Ferry has no interest in common with the other parts of the County. the same air you do-we speak the same languagewe have the same wish to be worthy men and good citizens that you have-we are equally anxious to aid in preserving good order and promoting good morals, in spreading religion, and diffusing the blessings of education --- we share equally with you the benefit of wholesome laws, and the cvils of ill advised and hasty legislation.

Think over those things, Fellow-Citizens, and erhaps you may come to the conclusion, that those Harpers-Ferry folks are a part of the people after all. Come now, think of them seriously and earnestly, and give us a good hearty support; and, at some future day, when darkness and troubles fall upon you, it will be our time to come to the rescue. We leave these matters with you for your serious consideration. We bespeak for them your earnest attention, and await with anxiety the result of your four candidates before the people of Jefferson, all belonging to the same political party : Messrs. Worthington, Duke, Abell and Towner-the first an old member, the other three new men for unblic suffrage. It has been objected to the two first, that they are the nominees of a Convention at a time when no such machinery was necessary, and that in this case, as in some other instances, that body turned up the name of a gentleman unknown to the great body of the voters out of his own precinct. This may be true, gentlemen : Mr. Duke, from his condition in life, has been destined to "earn his bread by the sweat of his brow " and therefore is not generally known; but his obscurity, for the reason named, is no just ground of disparagement. James K. Polk was comparatively an unknown man to thousands who voted for him, yet it cannot be denied that he possessed talents of a high order, and his friends claim for him that he discharged his duties ably As far as I can learn, from those who know Mr Duke well, he is a gentleman of fine capacity, who has labored assiduously to store his mind with useful information, and has succeeded greatly beyond those who have had better opportunities. He is of irreproachable character and conduct-one who ought to have the support of the hard-fisted and in-

MESSAS, Epirons: A writer, over the signature of "Olden Time," (a very worthy and honored son of Jefferson, no doubt; one who has the busp of Caution in prominent relief.) has published in your paper of the 12th inst. among other things an "inrenary and appraisement of the inestimable, innumerable and invaluable benefactions, conferred upon the good people of Jefferson by the senior Nomince of the late Canens; but, self styled, Whig Convention of the 19th of March 1849!

The writer proceeds with his enumeration, with the following bold and impudent interrogatories-What kind of material composed that convention caucus)? Here follows the inventory above referred to, viz: "The question has been asked, what further claims has Mr. Worthington on the people of Jefferson ? Have they not honored him as their representative for three or more years?" &c. To all of which the free, sovereign and independent voters of Jefferson will answer: We did honor him, as you have stated, and he betrayed our interest in oining in the late infamous doings in the Legislature, by which the common treasure of the good old Commonwealth, designed for the common benefit and purposes of all the people of all the State-was parcelled out, (in some instances) to sectional. local and individual purposes. In short, it was boasted that political capital would be made of the matter, if a Democrat should get she office, and be removed by the new Administration. The managers overshet the mark. We have net a doubt, if there had been no scheming in the case, and Mir. Harris had been appointed to fill a vacancy under ordinary circomstances, he would have been permitted to hold the office, for notody doubts his capacity or his worth. The party are now welcome to all the capital they can make and we dismiss the subject. The public understand the facts pretty well, and can scarcely be misled by any special pleading. Every Democrat will be candid enough to admit that precisely the same course would have been pursued by Mr. Polk, if the circumstances were reversed.

NO DISCUSSION.

The public were somewhat disappointed, on Monday last, in not hearing a discussion between the Congressional candidates. We regtet to learn that this disappointment was produced by the sickness of Mr. Faulkner, who had been confined to his bed for several days by an attack of pleurisy, and was prohibited by his physician from venturing out during the late cool weather. This, and his former attack, have prevented him from visiting several portions of the District to which both duty and inclination would have taken him before this time.

We understand, however, that Mr. Faulkner is again out, and has resumed the canvass with increased vigor.

DIED, $505355°a

"Insatiate archer ! could not one suffice ! Thy shaft fire thrice, and thrice my peace was slain ! A mournful and startling affliction has befallen one of the families of Harpers-Ferry. On Sunday evening, the 4th of March last, was witnessed the death of Mrs. FARMY B. McDANIEL, the wile of Mr. Wm. McDaniel and youngest daughter of John and Priscilla Chapman, in the 27th year of her age. Scarcely had the earth settled upon her codin, ere her brother, Mr. Thomas Chapman, departed this life, on Wednesday, the 11th inst., in the 25th year of his age, leaving behind a wife and 2 little children. And while his triends and neighbors were sadly laying him in the grave, the fell destroyer was snap sing the cords that bound to earth mother child of the same parents. Mrs. Lyna L. Tunk, the wife of Mr. Wm. Turk, died just about the going down of the sun, on Priday, the 13th inst., in the 33d year of her age, leaving two small children to the care of her bereaved husband.

Three deaths in one family in so short a time, and tithout the porvalence of an epidemic, are well calculated to excite strange and melancholy feelings. It is true that the same insidious disease, consumption marked each one for its prey. But a lesson of no common character was doubtlessly intended to be taught by these mysterious events, and it behooves us to listen to the "great teacher." This life is no place of safety. And no man is secure who does net fix his affections on things above-

"He builds too low who builds beneath the skies." The rending of the ties that bind us together-the lass of friends whom we have known and loved-the failure of the human arm, are all intended to make us seek for the support of the arm Divine.

The superior excellency of Christianity was strikingly exhibited in each of these cases. Seldom has se triumphant a death occurred in this community as that of Mrs. M Daniel. When it was announced to her that she must die, she received the intelligence with almost unbounded transport, and spoke in rapturons strains of her blissful expectation of soon uniting with those " who have gone before," in singing the praises of God in "the world of bliss and glory"-carnestly entreating her friends whom she as leaving to meet her there.

In the death of her brother, Thos. Chayman, there was less of ecstacy, but not less of calm, heavenly peacefulness. On the morning of the day in which e died, he expressed himself to his pastor and other friends, his sure and certain hope of a blissful immontality beyond the grave. He, as well as his sister Mrs. McD , had for several years been members of the Method ist Episcopal Church.

Unlike her brother and sister, Mrs. Turk had never professed religion until arrested by the haud of disease-although her life had seemed to be regulated by the principles of morality. Several weeks before her death, however, she engaged with all her heart in the great matter of "working out her salvation," and, through grace, was enabled to "cast her burden upon the Lord," and to testify that "Jesus has power on earth to forgive sins." From that tune to the hour of her death, her prospects of endless life were unclouded; and, though she spske but reldom for the last two or three days of her life, we entertain the hope that she too rests with God. Capt. John Lock, in this county, Mrs. MAGDALINE inaterial; also Misses' Gaiters and Slippers SHERMAN, in the 69th year of her age. On the 13th inst., at Harpers-Ferry, Robert Ham mros, youngest son of Margaret and John Russell, aged 11 months. On the 9th inst., at his residence, in Loudoun co., JOSHUA OSEURN, aged 71 years. Enjoying in a large degree the confidence of his fellow-citizens, he had faithfully represented them in both branches of the Legislature, and in the Convention which amended our State Constitution. He was also, for many years, one of the Magistrates of Loudoun county. In private life, justice and benevolence marked his whole course; and those who most needed a friend. found one in him, whose loss is deploted most deeply by these who knew him best.

On the 11th inst., at Harpers-Ferry, Mr. Tuomas CHAPMAN, aged 28 years. It was a consolation to those who stood by him during the last few hours of his life, to witness the heavenly smile that illumin ated his countenance, while he discoursed in the most happy and beautiful language of gratitude and praise of the goodness of God to him. The impressions of the occasion can never be erased; and as he affectionately embraced his relatives and friends, his happy spirit winged its flight to realms of untold bliss. C. E. J.

On the 13th inst., at Pensacola, Fla., in the 21th year of his age, Dr. ALEXANDER ROBINSON, of Jefferson county, Va., Surgeon in the U. States Navy. He graduated in Medicine with distinguished honors at the early age of 20 years; served two years in the Alms House at Baltimore with much promise and ability, and received the high and unanimous encomiums of the Medical Board of examination, who recommended him as well and pe culiarly qualified to perform the duties required of bim as Surgeon. He enjoyed but a short period his hopes of the advantages of his appointment; but the knowledge of, and skill evinced in, the prin ciples and practice of his profession during his brief career, though suffering all the time from disease, gave an earnest of future useful as and tame. A few months past, his disease (pulmonary) became so alarming that he sought the genial clime of the South, with the hope that it would effect what his shill and that of his more experienced advisers could not, a cure. But alas! he but escaped by his removal, the cold clime and capticious winds of the North, to breathe his last, and resign his spirit to the God who gave it, from amidst the fragrance of the flowers, the balmy zephyrs and sunny region of the South. With the hope of prolonging life, he bid farewell to friends, kindred and home, to resign It prematurely among strangers, but yel among friends. For

"None knew him but to love him, None named him but to praise."

His moral worth, integrity of heart, brilliant in tellect, classical taste and superior acquirements accompanied by an unassuming, but courteous dignified and irresistible manner, that won all hearts, rendered him one of the most interesting and companionable men of his ages In the relations of Son and Brother, his conduct was worthy of emulation. Though an event fearfully apprehended by a loving and devoted mother, sisters and brothers, yet how sad and painful for them to hear and realize it .-And the Spring to which they had looked and hoped to herald his recovery and return, will be known to them, as the last was, as the season of sorrow, affliction and gloom. The bright and joyous days of nature's spring, will be to them the dark and dreary nights of the heart. It will be at least one consolation to them in their deep addiction to know, that though separated from them, and in a distant land, yet he was not as a stranger, but died in the midst of kind, attentive and sympathising friends. This is but a feeble tribute of one who has known him well and long; and who will ever cherish a lively temembrance of his many high and noble gualities.

sicians of Europe made the discovery of a Weed, the healing virtues of which was, until then pnknown, and is now nearly lost sight of. It was en considered the only remedy for Cancers, Uccers, Scald Head, Thrush, Inflamation of the Eves, lich, and many other Cutaneous Diseases. God has from experience, to be the most powerful and efficacious of any other ever known. I claim ar ment in the discovery, but I have tested its merits and | virtues. Sixteen years since, I cured a Cancer in my lip, of ten months standing, in eleven days. I have since cured the Scurvy in my gums, the teeth being bare to the jaw bone-Inflamation in the Eye, Sunburn, Poison, Tetter, Ring-Worm, Sore Mouths the Itch, and old sores in others. I believe it will cure St. Anthony's Fire, or Irrisepolis, Piles, or any other external affliction. Any person enclosing a one dollar current bank note, addressed to me, post paid, to Shepherdstown, Jefferson County, Va., shall receive full information of the manner of preparing and using the said weed, which grows in all parts of the United States. Notice to Volunteers. ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE, RICHMOND, March 22, 1849. NO erable the Governor to carry into effect the provisions of the accompanying act of March 10, 1810, the Captains who commanded the several companies of the Virginia Regiment, lately serving in the war with Mexico,-or, in case of the death of removal of any of them, then the next remaining officer-are requested to transmit to the Adjutant General's office, as speedily as may be, an accurate roll of the officers, non-commissioned officers, musicians and privates, of their respective companies, with the date of each man's enlistment, and the date when he was mustered into the service of the United States.

By command. WM. H. RICHARDSON, Adjt. Gen.

AN ACT concerning the Virginia Regiment of Voinnicers-passed March 10th, 1849.

Whereas no provision is made by the act entitled "an act providing for the pay and subsistence of the Virginia Regiment of Volunteers, called into the service of the United States under a requisition of the President of the United States, of the sixteenth of November, eighteen hundred and forty-six," passed December ninth, eighteen hundred and forty-six, for paying said Volunteers from the date of their enlistment to the time of electing their company offi-

Be it, therefore, enacted by the General Assembly, That the soldiers of said regiment shall be considered as having been in the service of the State of Virginia from the date of their enlistment until mustered into the service of the United States, and shall be entitled to be paid according to the following rates-the privates as privates, the commissioned and non-commissioned officers as privates until their respective organization into companies by the election of officers, and thereafter the officers so elected as officers, according to law: Provided, however, That all assignments or transfers made, or to be made, by any of the said volunteers, of the pay allowed by this act, of which it is amendatory, shall be null and void, and the disbursing officer, in paying the same, where and the disbursing officer, in paying the same, where Little, John Moore, Sen., W. DR. HASTINGS' COMPOUND SYRUP OF NAPTHA Sr. JOHNSVILLE, New York, Feb. 5. 1845. Sr. Johnsvinks, New York, Feb. 9. 1845. Mr. Harrison: Sir-I will trouble your patience a few ninntes by informing you of the great triumph which your Naptha Syrup has obtained in the case of my brother. He increased the dose as you directed. and the result was that he began to raise very freely, and it scented so budly that it was impossible to stay in the room where he was, on the fifth day after the increase of the dose. In a day or so after, he began to get better, and at this present time is quite review, has a good appetite, and don't cough a quarter as much as he did previously. A severe cough and immense ezpectoration were the prominent symptoms of the dis-case. I think his case was a singular one : none of the ease. I think his case which and or seen any thing of the physicians here had ever heard or seen any thing of the kind before. I mention all these particulars, as I are firm in the belief that, had it not been for the Naptha Syrup, he could have expected nothing but a specify grave, as there was an imprense number of inhercles formed on his lungs, which the medicine took immediate hold of, and in a few days he threw them up by the quantity , some of them were as large as a bean. It he improves as fast as he has done. I do not think that he will need any more than the six bottles I now send for. Enclosed are five dollars, Direct the box as before to Jonas Snell. Care of Charles Kingsland, Railread epot. Yours respectfully, JONAS SNELL, Atter reading the above, who can doubt that Hast-Depot.
