

Virginia Free Press. THURSDAY MORNING. APRIL 20, 1849. CONGRESSIONAL CANDIDATES. Whig Candidate. FOR CONGRESS, CHARLES J. FAULKNER, OF ROCKY MOUNT.

REMOVAL OF GEN. McCALLA. "The Spirit" copies an article from the "Union," setting forth in very lurid terms the circumstances attending the removal of Gen. McCalla, the Second Auditor. Every body expects the opportunity to make the most of such a case as this; not only can he tell the General himself it does not expect to give up his place. He has attended political meetings, and stated his all upon the hazard of the die. He must have known, long before leaving Washington, that his successor, Mr. Clayton, had been designated, and that he was expected every day to be Metropolitan.

REMOVING THE BARRONS. We deeply regret to have to record the loss by fire, on Friday last, of the extensive farm of Andrew Barrons, Esq., near Charlottesville. The farm contained nearly the whole property of Mr. Barrons. He owned about 500 bushels of wheat, only a small portion of which was saved. The loss also contained some hay, wheat, &c., and other articles. There was no insurance upon the property. The fire was produced from the want of a good watch being engaged in lighting shooting. Rather dear sport, and a serious warning.

OFFICE HUNTING. Paris papers, according to the N. Y. Mirror, say that L. M. Napoleon receives daily about 3,500 letters from the individuals who have applied for a passport to France. He has already received 754 petitions for the favor of a passport, and for a situation in the army, and 4,705 for one in the post office.

THE ELECTION—MR. TOWNER. The subject of this article was intended for last week's paper, but, to avoid a course of real and personal abuse, it was held over. It was a paper a day earlier than usual to give time for its perusal. Messrs. Editors: I think it is now pretty well understood that the cause in this county is settled in the most particular consideration, and that there is no opposition on the part of the Democrats, there being no excuse for a Convention, and, therefore the nomination of its members have no special claim to a preference over any other candidate.

MRS. PHELPS' SCHOOL. Sewersville, Va., March 28, 1849. Messrs. Editors—Should be glad of an opportunity to myself, as well as a course of real and personal abuse, it was held over. It was a paper a day earlier than usual to give time for its perusal. Messrs. Editors: I think it is now pretty well understood that the cause in this county is settled in the most particular consideration, and that there is no opposition on the part of the Democrats, there being no excuse for a Convention, and, therefore the nomination of its members have no special claim to a preference over any other candidate.

PROSCRIPTION. We are much surprised that so many of our Whig contemporaries should put themselves to the trouble of defending the Administration from the charge of proscription, now so unremotely made by the disinterested and office-despising Democracy. These gentlemen are just as wrong in their reasons as they are in their conduct. They never designed, as is charged, Gen. Taylor's Administration, and "Proscription" had as well furnish the vent to their dissatisfaction as any thing else. If Gen. Taylor, in order to propitiate them, had been guilty of the enormous injustice of allowing every office in his gift to remain in their hands, they would have complained that he did not give just as many more offices for their exclusive benefit. The horse-leech is an asthmatic man, when compared with these disinterested Democrats, and when we hear that it has changed its nature, we shall not be surprised to learn that the Democracy are beginning to learn that politics does not altogether consist in the gain or loss of offices. We say, then, let them grumble away as such as they like, and let the Administration go on and do what it deems to be its duty. [Philadelphia Telegrapher.]

This is the day for the exercise of an important right. The Democrats, always, are determined to stand by and look on, in high gratification, at a man "famously quarrelled," among the Whigs. They think by so doing they will encourage a feebleness to leave bitter fruits and destructive consequences. They will know that regular opposition in the election of delegates would avail nothing and therefore they concluded that the Whigs, seeing no immediate danger to their cause, so far as the County was concerned, would rally their strength in the Congressional canvass and thereby would be obtained all the difficulties otherwise likely to arise among the Democracy from late exciting events.

"The Union" grieans at the removal of Gen. McCalla as Second Auditor, at a time when he was on his way to his sick family in Virginia—more than a month after the inauguration of Gen. Taylor before he was removed. Gen. McCalla is reported to have said, that he had remained in office under a Whig Administration much longer than he had anticipated. The whole country expected his removal by the 1st of March, at the earliest. He was spared too long. But has the Union forgotten how Gen. McCalla was appointed, by Mr. Polk, and under what circumstances? Mr. Polk solemnly pledged Gen. Jackson, at the latter's dying request, that he would be retained in the office of Second Auditor. How did he keep that pledge? He gave no notice to Major Lewis that he intended to remove him—none whatever—But, on a certain morning, while Major Lewis was lying sick in bed, and attended, as he had been for two days, by two physicians, one of the messengers of the bureau came running into his room, exclaiming "Major, Major!" How did he keep that pledge? He gave no notice to Major Lewis that he intended to remove him—none whatever—But, on a certain morning, while Major Lewis was lying sick in bed, and attended, as he had been for two days, by two physicians, one of the messengers of the bureau came running into his room, exclaiming "Major, Major!" How did he keep that pledge? He gave no notice to Major Lewis that he intended to remove him—none whatever—But, on a certain morning, while Major Lewis was lying sick in bed, and attended, as he had been for two days, by two physicians, one of the messengers of the bureau came running into his room, exclaiming "Major, Major!"

In noticing the business concerns of the town, we must not omit the extensive Root and Shoe Factory of Mr. James McDonald. Mac has such a stock of credit to a City, and is always prepared with a choice stock, the greater part of it turned out by his own excellent workmen. His establishment is a good sample of what a shop ought to be, and his customers may rely upon being well served at all times.

THE NEW SCHOOL HOUSE. A new stone school house is now in the process of erection in District No. 29, under the charge of W. C. Worthington, Esq., Commissioner. The stone work is done by Mr. Tinsley in a very neat and substantial style, and the carpenter work by Mr. Southall.

THE SLAVERY QUESTION. FOR THE FREE PRESS. The results of Messrs. Shackelford, Conway and Semler, on the subject of the Slave Trade in the District of Columbia, and the slave trade in the last Legislature, have been but little read and considered by the good people at large in the city of Virginia. The Delegate from Fauquier has announced sentiments antithetical to the interest of the South and every slaveholder in it. And we confess it is not difficult to see how so many of the Delegates from Jefferson. They wish Mr. Scott to be the principle of free soil, to the utmost extent of the power of the General Assembly. Mr. Scott declares that he is not in favor of the slave trade, so far as the existence of slavery is concerned, while Congress enacts into the forms of Government of California and New Mexico the Wilmot Proviso, the Missouri compromise, or the Senate's resolution to restrict the slave trade.

CHARLESTOWN MINING COMPANY. An every word is of interest, to the relatives and friends of the Company recently embarked for California, we give some extracts of a private letter, from one of the members of the Company, who made the tour of Ohio, but fell in with his mess at St. Louis.

REMARKS ON THE NATIONAL WHIG PARTY. A little more than three years ago, Loudoun Lodge was established in Leesburg. Previous to that time the society was almost unknown, and its character entirely so. Since then, three other Lodges have been established in the County, viz.: Liberty Lodge, at Lovettsville; Evergreen Lodge, at Stafford; and another at Leesburg, at Snickersville; and these have acted as drama upon Loudoun Lodge. The latter, however, still numbers some seventy members. Among these, we believe, there have not been at any time, nor are now, more than three or four whose circumstances would exempt them from the necessity of daily labor for their subsistence. A few are engaged in the sale of horses, and a few have purchased for cash, and are having fitted up, a Hall, the whole cost of which will be about $8,000; and they have several hundred dollars still on their duty. Now we have failed to perform their duty toward sick brethren and brethren in distress—Loudoun Lodge.

THE CONGRESSIONAL CANVASS. Mr. Faulkner's health has prevented him from making a general canvass, but this should make his friends the more active. The Democratic party of the District are calling upon their party to rally, and to make their proclamation tell, and they are encouraging the "Whig" few in this county, openly declaring "the great mass of their party will laugh and grow fat at these Whig dissensions." They may laugh now, but they will reap no particular benefit from their temporary struggle. The Whigs will rally in solid column whenever their adversary meets them from door to door.

THE NATIONAL INTELLIGENCER. We learn from the National Intelligencer, that the Board of Directors of this great work are now in session at that city, for the purpose of making arrangements for putting the Canal in complete order, from its eastern terminus to Dan No. 6, the State of Virginia having, with a wise liberality, passed an act to enable the Company to raise the necessary pecuniary means to effect its important object. The new portion of the canal from Dan No. 6 to Cumberland, will certainly be completed within the period of time fixed in the contract, viz., 1st of November next.

THE LAST HOUR. The National Intelligencer, in alluding to a rumor that had found its way into the papers, that Mr. Bullitt and his associates had proposed to buy that paper, and that $50,000 was asked for it, says: "In justice to the gentleman, who is named in this paragraph, we state that there is no truth in the assertion, contained in the paragraph, that either he or his present associates—whoever they may be—have ever made any proposition or suggestion to us for the purchase of the National Intelligencer. In justice to ourselves, we state further, that the National Intelligencer could not, at any time, be bought for less than twice the sum stated; nor, at the present time, for any amount whatever, that any one in his senses would be likely to offer for it."

THE MESSIAHIC CHURCH. The cholera is playing sad havoc in all the towns on the Rio Grande. The N. Orleans Bulletin says: "In Matamoros, one of a population of seven thousand, one thousand have fallen victims to the epidemic, and there are not over five thousand remaining in the city. All the towns on the Rio Grande, from the mouth up to Mier, have been terribly visited by the scourge, and it was feared that it would visit every town on the river. Brazos Island and Point Isabel have suffered severely. In the neighborhood of Brownsville, the disease had materially abated."
