WINDOW-SASH FASTENERS.

Telle undersigned off points not Letters Patent for a most valuable and ground Sasa Fastenit by which you are enabled to raise the window-sash to any required height and bold it fast, without entting holes to the frame, and at the same time to let down the upper Sash so as to let ther beated air escape at the top and admit the root air at the hottom, and also make the Sasn perfectly air-light and keep it from fauling. Who is it that has not had his rest broken by the clairering of the window-sash in a stormy night, to say nothing of the amount of air admitted thereby? This Fastener has great advaniages over any other sach stopper, giving you complete control of the sash; and will accomodate itself to any state of the weather, wet or dry-the back of the ash being grooved, and a strip inserted which is forced out against the frame, thus accommodating itself to the frame, and behind this strip is an ecceptric or can fixed on a lever which passes through the sash, and thising or depressing the lever rastens or loosens the sast and enables you to local it fast at any point. Such is the estimate put on tals discovery that we have epolied them to several hundred windows, a stwitth tar ding but a fow weeks have etapsed since we got the fixtures and even before we obtained the patent, and many more have been engaged as soon as we can procure fas-

We would now say to the public that we have made arrangements for our castings with Mr. Rodgers of No. 40. High street, Old Fown, Baltimore, Md, who, by the by, we would recommend o such as may want eastings done-for the promptness and the manner in which it is done-and with Mr. Wernwag of Harpers-Ferry, the most distinguisted machinist of our country as any one will admit if he will call and see his shop, and the machinery ne has on hand. He has undertaken to finish our fastenings by machinery so that they will require no assorting, but can be put together with greatest despatch. Such as may wish to purchase State or County rights can apply (post-paid) to either of us, NATHANIEL MYERS, Charlestown, Jefferson county, Va. or F. C. SMITH, Harpers-Ferry, Va., Patentees. The fastenings can be forwarded from Harpers-Ferry to any point with the same facility as they could from any of our Atlantic Cities, it being immediately on the Baltimore and Ohio Rail Road, about 80 miles from Baltimore, and in telegraphic communication with the East To such as may be acquainted with either of the

ATTENTION, FARMERS.

THE undersigned respectfully invites the attention of the Farmers of Jefferson, and the neighboring counties to his superior and Improved Wheat Drills, which he can safely recommend to the Farmers, as being the best Drills ever offered in this country.-It is so constructed that it has advantages over all others that have been introduced heretofore. It moves on only one wheel, which makes the draft very light for one horse, and the drill is manufactured entirely of wrought iron and wood which makes it still better. The seeding operation can be stopped or put in motion in an instant, without topping the horse, and it so works that it is imposble for it to choke. Farmers desiring to test the capacity and value of the machine are requested to give the under-signed no ice to that effect and should it not "do he work as represented," the same may be returned Mr. Joseph C. Rawlins: DAVID E. ROHR. Charlestown, May 24, 1850 -tf. -Spirit.

POETRY. REHEMBRANCES.

Oft at the hour when evening throws Its gathering shades o'er vale and bill While half the scene in twilight glows, And half in sunlight g ories stril, The thought of all that we have been, And hoped and feared on life's long way, Remembrances of joy and pain, Come ming ing with the close of day,

The distant scene of youth's bright dream, The smiling green, the justering tree; The murnue of the grass tringed stream, The bounding of the torrent free; The friend, whose tender voice no more Shall sweetly thrill the listening ear, The glow that Love's first vision wore: And Disappointments's pangs are here. But sof nopes to Leevising scene, te heretaine eshues of Memory spread; And smiling then dark thought between. Hope softens every tear we shed. O, thus, when Death's long night comes on, And its dark shades around me lie, May parting beams from Memory's sun Blend softly in my evening's sky.

MISCELLANY [From the Boston Olive Branch ] THE PEDLAR AND HIS DOG. AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY.

Some years ago I traveled through a portion of Michigan. I went on foot or rode, as best suited my purpose. I carried rich silks and jewelry, for those disposed to buy. My only companion during my journey, was a large dog of the Newfoundland breed -Lion was fit to be the king of all his species. He was good natured, quiet, and there was something almost human in his eyes. He attended to his own business, and never quarrelled like curs of "low degree." He would bear an insult from worthless puppies, with philosophy worthy of emulation. And I never knew him, save on a few occasions, resent the undue liberties of puppies of larger growth. When his bile, however, was thoroughly aroused, he made such of-

He really took a strong dislike to those who were disposed to find fault with everything, and my price in particular. I believe he knew every article I carried, and the valan excellent watch dog, and there was no danger of anything confided to his care, being taken away. I found him very useful and companionable in my travels.

Conveyances were so scarce and uncertain that I was often obliged to was new feet from society anything but good, robberies were frequently perpetrated upon these lonely roads, and there were many, no doubt, to whom the rich stuff I carried would be a sufficient temptation to commit a murder -This idea frequently occurred to me in traveling through the wild woods of the West. But old Lion was by my side ready to die in my defence, and proud to share my wanderings. I always went armed. An excellent brace of pistols, steel-barrelled, and loaded with ball, were never from my pocket, save long enough to see that they were in order, and at night lay beneath my pillow. I felt quite safe with these and Lion, who was the companion of my nights as well as days. He always laid himself down between my bed and the door with his face towards the latter. No one could enter without attracting the attention of Lion.

One day, in the summer of 1840, I found myself in a small German settlement on the border of a small lake, anxious to get forward to the next one, which was about a miles distant. No conveyance could be obtained till the next day, so I set out on foot It was near night, and I walked forward briskly I was not long in discovering that my expedition would be by no means an agreeable one.

The road-if road it could be called-was very bad, and passed through the most gloomy forest in that part of the country .-The night, too, crept on apace, and promised to be darker than common. But Lion trotted along by my side. I was a smart walker, and was confident I was getting over there, will he?" the ground fast, so I didn't mind it much. The darkness was upon me before I was aware of it. It seemed to me that I had already walked eight miles, but could see no signs of a settlement. This surprised me a little, for I was used to traveling, and knew my ability to calculate distances But I kept up a good heart and went on until I was quite certain I had mistaken my way. or been misinformed in regard to the distance. I concluded it would be best to keep the road that I was in until I reached some In a short time I was glad I had made this resolution, for I saw a light glimmering from a cabin. I approached it as soon as possible. It was rather above the medium size. I thought I might be accommodated there very well. THE METHODIST DOG.

In the early days of Methodism, about fi ty years ago, meetings for preaching and prayer, though not near as frequent as at ble animal, on those occasions, invariably attended, he required the name of the "Metho-dist Dog." Being generally met by the congregation returning from the church, he was distantly abused and pelted by the boys belonging to the party. His regular attendance had often been the subject of public debate; and merely to prove the sagacity of the animal, the meeting for one evening, was removed to another house. Whatever were the thoughts entertaited concerning him, surprising as it may seem, at the proper and exact time, he made his appearance ! A few weeks after this, his owner returning intoxicated from the market at Leeds, was in a narrow, shallow stream, unfortunately drowned; and astonishing to relate, the faithful dog no longer attended preaching Diversity of opinions may prevail on this subject, but good John Nelson used to say concerning it: "The frequent attendance of this dog at the meeting, was designed to atthereby to visit the place; where hearing the gespel, he might have been enlightened, the bed, and commenced snoring, at the converted, and eternally saved. A Chinese funeral took place yesterday. The Chinaman died at the Chinese Restaurant of Macoa fi Woosung. The funeral was large, there being over one hundred and fifty Chinamen in the procession, each wearing a piece of white crape. A large number of persons visited the burying ground to witness the ceremonies, which were as follows: They lowered the coffin as we do. They then threw the white bandages worn on their arms into the grave : then matches and the wax candles, and a bottle of wine. Before covering the coffin, each person bowed his head to the earth, and uttered some few words not by us understood. Then each threw a handfull of dirt on the coffin, and passed round liquors, wine and segars, &c. of which they invited each American to partake, and the grave was then filled up. #### ADJOURNMENT OF CONGRESS.

Monday next is he day appointed for closing the present session of Gangress. It will have embraced a period of ten months - most of which time has been taken up in debating questions connected with slavery. The people of the country certainly have not been say sfield with this waste of time on such a subject, but the great body of them are gratified that there his been an adjustment-one which they hope to be permanent and final.

One good result, however, has been elicited by this long and irritating discussion, and that is, that ninety-nine hundreaths of the American people are proven to be in favor of the Union. They mo other than a feeling of abhorrence for the agitators who in sinely seek its destruction.

It is true, there are signs of a disposition to revive strife, but we think the coming elections will convince the Disunionists that their evil intentions will receive no constenance from the toiling millions-from the yeomanry, or the mechanics of the intry. Under any circumstances, rations or sixty days will catch the emigrant many miles on the eastern slope of the Sierra, and those who have their stock stolen by the Indians-er lose it by reason of the alkali waters, or from any other ave either been improvident in the use or lacked

The mule or horse is killed and the emigrant slices off ne delicious steaks-leaving the fore-quuarters at the mercy of the "Digger Indians," who infest the Humboldt country.

The eastern slope of the Sierra is somewhat settled at this time, and doubtless before many years there will be quite a respectable inland vity long Carson River. The bottoms along this river re large, and susceptible of being rendered quite productive. We have many reports of the exstence of gold along the eastern side of the mountain, and should the anticipations of many . knowing ones" be realized, a large population will locate in that region of country.

The small towns near the mountain, in mining terest on all loans, as well as the creation of a fund listricts, are rapidly filling up, and considerable trade is carried on between them and those along Carson river. The greatest disadvantage a settlement on the eastern side would be subjected to is the everlasting big snows which fall in that region. American genius can do almost anything-overcome anything, and probably some live Yankee might invent a plan for turning the congealed mass which falls into jucid, limpid water.

The timber on the Sierra is the noblest in the world consisting almost exclusively of the pine and fir tree. I have seen many out of whose base a comfortable room might be "dug," sufficient in dimensions for a young and growing tamily. It would be quite interesting to live in one of these natural shelters, and as the family increased all that would be necessary would be to add another story, not by building, but by "digging out." The mining country does not hold out as strong inducements this season as last, and it must natu-

As regards its mines, I have written that a few realized fortunes, whilst the vast majority made but little more than their boarding. A terrible riot, resulting in death and gruch blood-ned, occurred at Sacramento City to the 12th Arrive at it appears that a party, amounting to another early pursons, calling themselves "Squatters," or rather designed as such, proceeded to the prison ship to release some of their comrades. They were promitly controlled by the citizens, when a terrible fight ensued The mayor. Mr. Bigelow, was badly wounded during the affray. The city assessor and many others, on both sides, were killed and wounded.

The steamers McKins and Bianca were dispatched to San Francisco for troops and other assist ance. In the meantime, the squatters had been reinforced and numbered about eight handred strong. Lieutenary Governor McDougle pro-claimed martial law, and the city thus remained to the participants on both sides. The following extract from the marriage the Pacific News furnishes an insight of the questions at issue between the contending prities, as well as some additional particulars of the conflict:

Large tracts of ground covering the city and vicinity of Sacramento, are held by grants from Capt. Sutter, who claims under his New Helvetia Spanish grant. The settlers hold that Capt. Sutter's grant does and cover this territory; that It belongs to the Government. They have moved on and erected hundings; a suit for force le entry and detainer is brought against them; canded in the plaintiffs' favor's a writ of restitution issued; the officer attempts to execute it; is not by a body of armed squatters, who resist him. This occurred Saturday 10th; prior to this date an appeal to the county court had been made by the attorneys for the abttlers. Judge Willis presi ding, and the right of appeal denied Exasperation, of course, was the effect upon the party seeking redress in the higher court -Meetings were held and resolutions were passed to resist the law, Nothing was done more by legal process from Saturday until vesterday, (Tuesday,) when some six or eight per ons were arrested for rebellion or resisting the officers, and the process of the court on Saturday, and two, in default of sail, incarcerated in he prison brig. Forty or fifty shots were fired between the par-

"A tailor, who was married to a very sickly woman, got enamoured of a young girl who lived in his neighborhood, and, on certain conditions, he agreed to give her a promise, in writing, to marry her immediately on the demise of his wife; in consequence of which Mr. Snipp passed the following curious note of hand. "In two days after the demise of my present wife, I promise to marry Miss Moran or order, value received, under fifty pounds sterling. Given under my hand this sixteenth, day of May, &c., J. Shortly after Miss Moran received the above note, she died, leaving it endorsed to a female friend, who also, chanced to take a faver, and died, before the tailor's wife : however, on her sick bed, she also endorsed the note, and gave it to a cousin, whom the tailor absolutely married, agreeably to the endorsement, in two days after the death of his wife, and it is said the tailor and his wife are now living happily in the city of Kilkenny."

SAD HISTORY, The St Louis Republican relates the following sad history of an emigrant family:

A family called Kaufman, consisting of five numbers, part of whom reached this city last week, have all, with the exception of one, been swept into eternity since leaving their home in Germany, a period of about fifty or sixty days. As they embarked at Havre for this country, an older son who had just finished his education for the practice of medicine, fell overboard and was drowned. Three or four weeks after, as the vessel neared New Orleans, the father, Mr. Philip Kaufman, fell a victim to the ship Philip Kaufman, fell a victim to the ship fever. The mother, almost heart-brokes, immediately on reaching the city, brought her youngest son, a boy of about twelve years of age, to the hospital, laboring under the same disease, and the day following, she and a young daughter, the only surviving child, accompanied his remains to the cemetery. Three weeks only elapsed, and the two had got to this city, when the fell destroyer again made his appearance. The mother er again made his appearance. The mother expired last Saturday of a violent typhoid fever, induced and much aggravated, it is believed, by her correws. A little girl five or six years of age, homeless and penniless, is all that there is left new of the family. A Mr Samuel Lumsden, a worthy mechanis, has adopted the child and intends, we

The deceased possessed in a very high d gree those qualities of usind and heart, which command confidence, friendship and love In the family and social circle she seem d by common consent a favorite. At the early age of fourteen s e professed a change of heart, and join the M. E. thurch, and continued within its ; ale until Vesth signed her release to the Church triumphant.-The piety this young lady was not conspicuous but retiring, ser pu ous and carnest. In that providence which for six months foreboded the early approach of i eath, s e not only suffered with unnurranria; pati nee, but humbly, and even she rfully acquiesced. While to nu-merous and anxious friends, the cloud, by its increasing darkness, mysteriously augured, that one s young, so loved must really die-to her heart the same cloud refracted, made visible, and clothed in richer colors, the pure undying light of Heaven. Nor did the struggle of dissolution, east a single shade of gloom over so bright a prospect; for with a smile wreathing her dying lips, and eager blasful h pe beaming from her countenance, she gently slept away uttering audibly, distinctly and triumphantly "To BIE to GAIN!" QUARTERLY MEETING.

The second Quarterly meeting of the M. E. Church, published to commence at Harpers-Ferry, Sept the 28th. s postponed until the 12th of October, when the Presiding Elder and other Ministers are expected.

CAUTION TO DRUGGISTS AND THE PUBLIC. The unparallelled and astonishing efficacy of Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry in all the diseases for which it is recommended—curing many cases after the skill of the best physicians were unavailing—has effected a large and increasing demand for it. This fact has caused upprincipled counterfeiters and imitators to paim off spurious mixtures, of similar name and appearance, for the genuine Balsam.

BE NOT DECEIVED BY IMPOSTORS. The public should be careful to get the genuine arti-cle as the imitations and counterfelts, being got up by those who know nothing of medicine, or of the diseases of the human system, are entirely unsafe and dangerous, (From the Columbus (Ga..) Enquirer, Feb. S, 1848.] WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY.

We have an utter abhorrence for all kinds of puffs, and especially such as are calculated to mislead the public as to the curative virtues of patent medicines. There are doubtless many catch-penny nostrums, daily vended and hearly used, which are not only of no value, but absolutely deleterious to the physical man. There are other bulsams, extracts, &c., not embraced peradventure, in the charmaceutic arrangements of the apothecary or regular physician, that are in certain cases, at more value that all the prescriptions of Galen put together. Wistar's Balsain of Wild Cherry is admitted by the concentraties in any of those who have proved its virtues to be of the litter class. In colds and consumption, astinar and chessic coughs, as well as in other kindred diseases, it has been used with almost universal success; In a climpit so changeable as this, seperioducing and ingravating the family of diseases above aliaded to, this medicine has a value not to be estimated. anothecary or regular physician, that are in certain cato be estimated.

e preparation. The following certificate from Col. Samuel G. Taylor, a gentleman of high standing and extensive he. quaintance through the Southern States, and lately appointed Consul to New Granada, commends itself to the attention of all.

New York, January 7, 1848. Messrs. A. B. & D. Sands; Gentlemen :- Having used, and witnessed the effects of your excellent preparation of Sarsaparilla on different pers us in various parts of the Southern country, viz: Virginia, Louisiana, Texas and Mexico. I feel much pleasure in stating the high opinion entertained of its great medicinal value. In my own case it acted almost like a charm, removing speedily the enervated state of the system, and exciting in the most agreeable manner, a tonic and invigorating influence.

Your Sarsaparilla is highly approved and extensively used by the United States army in Mexico, and my cousin Gen. Zachary Taylor, has for the past five years been in the habit of using it, and recommends the same, he and myself adopted the article at the same time, and it is now considered an almost indepensable requisite in the army. In conclusior I would say, that the better it is known the more highly it will be prized, and I trust that its health restoring virtues will make it generally known, throughout the length and breadth of our widely extended country.

Yours very respectfully, S. G. TAYLOR.

This marvellous specific has not only relieved, but cured me; and I therefore think it may duty, gentlemen, for the benefit of suffering humanity, to give you this attestation of my cure.

Chi come to the Souls west, beautiful one!
This the clime of the beauty tis the shrine of the sun, Where the sky ever shirts with a passionate glow, And the flowers spread their treasures of crimson and show:

Where the breeze, o'er bright waters, wafts incense And gay birds are glancing in boasty and cong; Where summer smiles evero'er mountain and plain and the best gifts of Eden, unshadowed, remain! Oh! come to the South,

The shrine of the sun-And dwell in its bowers, Sweet, beautiful one!

Oh! coine to the South, and I'll build thee a home Where winter shall never intrusively come The quien like catalpa, the myrtle and pine, The gold-fruited orange, the ruby gemmed vine, Shall pason round thy dwelling, and shade thee as

While fards of all music, keep amorous tune: By the gush of giad fountains we'll rest us at eve No troubles to vex us and no sorrows to grieve! O, come to the South, The shrine of the sun-And dwell in its bowers,

Sweet, beautiful one! Oh! come to the South, 'tis the home of the heart No sky like its own, can deep passion impart, The glow of its summer is felt in the soul, And love keepeth ever it- fervent control! Oh, here would thy beauty most brilliantly beam, And thy life pass away like some delicate dream ! Each wish of thy heart should realized be,

And this beautiful land seem an Eden to thee Then, come to the South, The shrine of the sun-And dwell in its bowers, Sweet, beautiful one!

GOING INTO MOURNING.

A few weeks ago our friend Clarke was lying sick with the billious fever. The attack was severe, and he awoke from a short sleep to hear a hurried and smothered conversation in the adjoining room, in which his wife took part. The first words that Clarke caught were uttered by his better half-"On that ground," said she, "I object to mourning !" "Yes." said another, but the world looks for it-It is fashionable, and one might as well be out of the world as to be out of fash-

"Here," thought Clarke, is a nice wife .-She thinks I am about to die-to be planted, if I may use the expression, in the cold earth, yet she refuses to go into mourning for me. Ah me!"

"Now that I am 1 --- nerhaps I had better take your measure." "The unfeeling wretch!" exclaimed Una to think of sending for a dress maker before am dead! I'll live in spite. may all." mused the wife ... "I believe you mining and let it be gay as possible.' "What heartlessness!" said Clarke, woman like though. One husband is no sooner dead than they set about entrapping another. I can scarcely credit it."

"Of course you will have a flounce." "Two of them, as the body is to be plain. I wish you to get the wide gimp to trim it.' "How will you have the sleeves trimmed?" "With buttons and fringes."

"Well-well-this beats all," sighed poer "When do you want the dress inquired the mantua maker.

"I must have it in three days. My husband will then be off my bands, and I shall be able to go out."

"Oh! horrible--horrible," ejaculated the sick man, "I am only half dead, but this blow will kill me." His wife heard him speak, and flew quickly to his bed side.

"Did you speak my dear?" said she with the voice of an angel. "I have heard it all, madam," replied

Clarke. The mourning-gay dressesfringe-every, thing. Oh! Maria-Maria! "You have !"

"Do you take me for a fool?" "Certainly not, my dear."

"You expect me to be out of the way in three days." "Yes, love the doctor said you would be well in that time."

"What means the dress?" "It is the one you bought for me beforeyou were taken sick."

"But you were speaking of mourning?" "We were talking of Mrs. Taperly." "Oh! that is it?"

"Yes, love, you know she is poor, and the family is large, and it must be inconvenient for her to find mourning for them all. On this ground I opposed it',

"So-so that's it, is it? I thought you were speaking of me, and it distressed me. Let me beg of you to be more careful in future."

Clarke was out in three days, and he now laughs at the matter which then appeared so horribie.
