in up our towns and cities with soldiers any longer. Where's your rekonstruktion that the papers say is going on so rapidly? Where's the liberty and freedom? The fakt is, General Sherman and his catterpillers made such a clean sweep of everything, I don't see much to rekonstrukt. They took so many liberties around here that there's nary liberty left. I could have rekonstrukted a thousand sich States before this. Any body could. There was'nt nuthin to do but jest to go off and let us alone. We've got plenty of Statesmen—plenty of men for Governor.

Joe. Brown ain't dead—he's a waitin—standin at the door with his hat off. Then what's the soldiers here for—what good are they dom—who wants to see 'cm any longer. Everybody is tired of the war and we don't want to see any more signs of it. The niggers don't want 'em, and as for the wimen—whoopee! I golly!

Artistra But you see, my friend, we are gettin restless about some things. The war had bekum mity heavy on us, and after the big collapse, we thought it was over for good. We had killed folks until the novelty of the thing had wore off, and we were mighty nigh played out all over.

Children were increasin and vittels diminishin. By a close calculashun it was purseeved that we did'nt kill our enemies as fast as they was imported, and about those times I thought the restless the hero of Shiloh—peace to his noble ashes.

In fakt its inging good Union reb, and my battle cry are mission. Boys had knowd they was gong to devilinent so long. We'd a made baptist of them sartin, payroll or no payroll. Hurraw for a brave soldier, I say, reb or no reb, yank or no yank; hurraw for our side too, I golly, the excuse me, but sich expressions will work their way out sumetimes, brakes or no brakes.

But I'm for Mr. Johnson. I'm for all the Johnson's—its a bully name. There's our Governor, who ain't goingut a discount; and there's Andy who is doing powerful well considerin', and there's the hero of Shiloh—peace to his noble ashes.

And there's Joe-my bully Joe-wouldn't I walk ten miles of a rainy night to see them hawalk ten miles of a rainy night to see them hatel eyes, and feel the grip of his soldier hand. Didn't my rooster always clap his wings and crow whenever he passed out quarters! "Instinct told him that he was the true prince," and it would make anybody brave to be nigh him. I like all the Johnsons, even to Sam—L. C. He never levied on me if he could git round it. For 20 years me and Sam have been working together in the justice court. I was an everlastin defendant, and Sam the Constable but he never sold my property nor skeered Mrs. Arp. Hurraw for the Johnsons.

Well, on the whole, there's a heap of things-to be thankful for. I'm thankful the war is over—that's the big thing. Then I'm thankful that I ain't a black republican, I'm thankful that Thad Stevens and Summer and Phillips nor none of their kin ain't no kin to me. I'm thankful for the high privilege of hatin all such. I'm thankful I live in Dixey, in the State of made Providence afflikt 'em with such a cuss.

But I can't dwell, on such a subjekt. Its highly demoralizin and unprofitable.

"Sweet land of Liberty, of thee," I could not sing in Tennessee.

But then we've had a circus once more, and seen the clown play round, and that makes up for a heap of trouble. In fact, its the best sign of rekonstruction I have yit observed.

Yourn, hopin,

P. S.—And they hawled Grant's cabin a thousand miles. Well! Sherman's war horse stayed in my stable one night. I want to sell the stall to some Yankee State fair. As our people ain't the sort that runs after big folk's things, the stall ain't no more than any other stall to me. State Fairs, its formale. I suppose that Harpers Weekly or Frank Lesly will paint a picter of it soon, by drawin on their imagination.

The following is the preface the batter and The following historical narrative of the events preceding the late rebellion was prepared soon after its outbreak, substantially in the present form. It may be asked why, then, was it not published at an earlier period? The answer is, that the publication was delayed to avoid the possible imputation, unjust as this would have been, that any portion of it was intended to embarrass Mr. Lincoln's Administration in the viscous prosectition of pending bestilities.

vigorous projectition of pending hostilities.—
The author deemed it far better to suffer temporary injustice than to expose himself to such a charge. He never doubted the successful event of the war, even during its most gloomy periods. Having drawn his first breath soon after the adoption of the Federal Constitution and the Union which it established, and having and the Union which it established, and having been an eye-witness of the bles el effects of these, in tecu ing liberty and prosperity at home, and in presenting an example to the oppressed of other lands, he felt an abiding conviction that the American people would never suffer the great charter of their rights to be destroyed. To the Constitution, as interpreted by its framers, he has ever been devoted, believing that the specific powers, which it confers on the Federal Government, notwithstanding the experience of the last dreary years, are sufficient for almost every possible emergency, whether in peace or in war. He, therefore, claims the merit—if merit it be simply to do one's duty—that while in the exercise of executive functions, he never violated any of its provisions.

The authorities cited in the work will show that Mr. Buchanan never failed, upon all suitable occasions, to warn his countrymen of the approaching danger, and to advise them of the proper means to avert it. Both before and after he became President, he was an earnest advocate of compromise between the parties to save the Union, but Congress disregarded his recommendations. Even after he had, in his messages exposed the dangerous condition of

I Havn't a Mother Like the Rest.

The weather had been unusually mild for two or three days before Christmas, joy the fun now, with so many admiring eyes fixed upon him. He made a bold dash; his little figure, upright and graceful, was balanced upon the ice. Then there was a crash. The ice gave way, and with loud cry, Harry disappeared beneath it. The group at the window seemed for a moment paralyzed with horror.—Then several voices exclaimed—

"He's under the water—father, father, Harry's under the ice!"

Every particle of color had gone from Farmer May's face. He trembled and throw up his Hands wildly. "Oh, help!" he cried.—"My boy! my boy! and I can't swim!"

"But I can, shouted a voice. "I can swim, and I'll save him;" and dashing past the weeping mother, Joseph Craig plunged in the freezing water.

How they watched him, breathless and excited. How they shuddered when they saw him grasp once twice, at a dark object under the water, and then rise, his face gashed and bleeding from contact with the ugly ice corners. He was some way out, but bleasting the ice, he swam slowly and with difficulty to the bank, with one arm holding up poor Harry.

"Thank God!" cried the happy parent, folding him in his arms. They bore him to the roaring fire in the sitting room, and rubbed him until he opened his eyes. Very soon he was able to sit up:

And where was Joseph? Sitting on the kitchen floor, squeezing his wet clothes and rubbing the great painful ges ies on his arms and face, from which the blood was still streaming.

A Storm Ahead.

It is evident, from the remarks of Ex-Speaker COLFAX and the tone of some of the Norththe part of the more Radical portion of the n party to President Johnson's sysoration of the States. Colfax is bent on negro equality with the whites, insistbe recognised as the law of the land," and this too, in the face of the statement of leading Re-publicans (Gov. Morton among them,) that his own State of Judiana would give 40,000 majority against negro suffrage. But, from all the signs of the times, it is plain that the Radicals mean to press a bill through Congress at the coming session to give negroes the right to vote at municipal elections in the District of Columbia—a helpless dependency without a representative in Congress, against which every sort of prejudice is created and cultivated; and this extension of suffrage to negroes is to be pressed by members from State in which no offer of equality has been made to

Not a single Northern or Western State h offered the freedmen hospitality or a home, with Johnson's firmness in resisting absurd men ures, at a time when he is laboring not only restore the Union to its proportions before th war, but to restore the era of good feeling. In this hoble work it is gratifying to have liberal man as Thurlow Weed, the veteran Edi tor of a leading Republican Journal. Hear him. There is manliness and magnanimity in every line which follows:

That Southerners should demand a repeal the test oath is very natural. It is exceeding-ly harsh in its application—excluding from a seat any man who is unable to swear that he did not voluntarily render aid and encourage ment to the rebellion. This application is entirely retrospective. It makes no difference whether a party has or has not been pardoned whether a party has or has not been pardoned by the President. The one fact to be decided is his status during the war. If that was disloyal to the Union, he is tabooed. We have only to remember how universally the spirit of execute its decrees of condemnation against those revolt dominated at the South, in order to pionship of their co-laborers in wrong-doing in Jefstriction. Probably there is not a score of men of prominence in any insurgent State who did not in some form voluntarily participate in, or ement to the secession movemen Gov. Perry unqualifiedly declares that there is not a single man in South Carolina can take the oath.

Of course it is desirable that, as the work of reorganization progresses, these communities shall be represented by men who are in sym pathy with the people, who have character and ability sufficient to direct them aright, and in whom they will have confidence. No matter how thoroughly "subjugated" a soldier from the Confederate army may be, he will always prefer to trust hereafter those who were "with the South" when he was henestly though mis takingly fighting her battles. For these reasons we have neither expected nor desired to see men sent up to Congress who have always been nobodies heretofore. WE ARE QUITE WILLING THE MAN SHOULD HAVE A SEAT THERE WHO HAS WIELDED A REBEL SWORD.

It is useless to talk of a thorough unity as having been re-established, if these men, who have always heretofore led their action, and who constitute its ablest minds, are to be left outside, in a condition of ostracism. The sooner we can extend to them the boon of complet and unconditional forgiveness, give them the warm grasp of sympathy and accord, and bid them join with us in labors for the glory and prosperity of the country, the better. To inflict upon them crushing and unnecessary revenges, to abuse their positions and mortify their pride, will be to keep continually festering and suppurating a wound, which in the interest of humanity should be quickly healed.

Winchester and Potomac Railroad.

Our readers generally will be gratified learn that this road has been given up by the government to the stockholders on favorable conditions, and that the road is hereafter to be run under the able and efficient management of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, who will doubtless finish it from Stephenson's to

It is but just to say that the Quartermaster's Department have put the road in good order, and have worked it with great efficiency, but every body will be pleased to see an end of military rule, in this as well as in other matters. The Washington Correspondent of the Balti-more Sun says:—

The Winchester and Potomac railroad, run ning from Harper's Ferry up to Winchester, Va., which has been in the possession of the Government for military purposes for so long, is to be forthwith given up to the stockholders. Mr. R. Y. Conrad of Winchester, so long prominentnected with the road, has had in quence to the people of the whole Shenan-hole of mankind. But, for some reason or other to have mounted their tripod or tripods, and in a column and a half have hurled the most ponderous and dangerous epithets with a wonderful energy at the heads of many good, quiet people who, we are sure, were no less astonished than ourselves, at whom the choicest of these missils have been throw of the conductors of the press, but at us as one of the hopelessly sinning and unpardonably reprobate 266 who, at the recent election, had the unblushing impudence and the almost unimaginable effrontery to cast their votes in the township of Charlestown.

Listen for a moment, "A mingled wail of ange and despair goes up from the conservative crew, because they cannot fasten a disloyal Judge upon the circuit by the still more disloyal and illegal voters of Charlestown in Jessesson County." "And who are the 'loyal voters of Charlestown' who have been so grossly outry by having their vote discarded by the Superv of Jefferson County? Are they loyal to the United States or to the State of West Virginia? Scarcely two weeks before our last election they contempla-ted and would have attempted to hold there an elec-tion in direct conflict with the laws and Constitution of West Virginia had not Governor Boreman and General Emory" &c., &c. Then the following ex-ceedingly dramatic and artistic picture is drawn "the morning of the election comes; like an avalanch they pour to the polls! We are informed the Govenor's proclamation is thrown contemptuously under the table—the law is disregarded, disciple of Stuart, Mosby, Mudwall Jackson, Ashby, & Co. all hover found like loyal men, to cast their ballots for Judge and Senator." I all la will all me un Now we think this exhibits a very unbecoming emper on the part of victors in the late election in Berkeley, and especially when we remember that they two bore off three shares of the opima spolia as rewards for their services in aid of the glorious achievements of the day. It looks very much like a diversion from a condition of things at home which will not bear a very creditable examination. The editors of the Berkeley Union have enough to an-

Their friends of the Board of Supervisors of this County have incurred but little indebtedness for the anner in which their action in the rejection of the vote of Charlestown has been defended. The Union says: "the Board of Supervisors had no authority to appoint inspectors. If the illegality of the Charlestown election came to the knowledge of the Board of Supervisors with sufficient certainty they should exclude the returns."

"It may be suggested," it continues, "that the Board having, themselves, erred in appointing the Inspectors, should not for that reason throw out the poll." The plea in the case, then, is ignorance,—a plea which we are sure would not have been urge had it for a moment been remembered that the Board, at each of its sessions, enjoys the broad, lu cid and enlightening rays of the luminous, legal mind of Joe Chapline, who is its Counsel, and who was a candidate for the Senate, and directly interested to have the election proceed formally and regularly. Can it be supposed that his attention was not drawn to the provisions of the law on the subject when the matter of the appointment of Supervisors to the vacancies in Charlestown came before the Board? Hence, there may be another expla-nation suggested for this repudiation by the Board of its own solemn official acts, and by which a grave and it may be, irreparable wrong was done to the voters of the Charlestown Township. This solution is less charitable and palatable than the Union's but it has the merit of equal plausibility. It is this that under the influence, direction or advice b some one, or on its own mere motion, the Board of Supervisors illegally appointed the Inspectors of Elections for Charlestown township, that if might afterwards, should circumstances require, take advantage of its own wrongful and illegal act to exlude the vote that might be cast in that township

The Constitutional Amendment.

The amendment proposed by Congress, for ever prohibiting slavery throughout the United States, has been adopted by the Legislatures of twenty-four States. Deleware, Kentucky, and New Jersey have rejected it, but the latter will doubtless adopt it at the next session. Twen -seven are necessary.

It is this amendment which President John son requires the Southern States to adopt be fore there can be full recognition of their re storation to the Union; and on this subject w find the following article, half sarcastic and half serious, We clip it from the Washington

The Charlottesville Chronicle, in its remark on repudiating the rebel State debt and adopt ing the Constitutional Amendment abolishing slavery, says:

"The President has made these points sine qua non to the admission of States to their full rights, and what power have we to resist him? Whom shall we appeal to? We think there is something much more important and much more practical for the South to be doing than crying over spilt milk, or attempting to recover what has been spilt. The discussion on the subject of the repudiation of the debt in the Georgia State Convention was perfectly tragic, and of course perfectly ludicious. Members and of course perfectly judicrous. Members talked about "rights"—the "honor of Georgia"—and so on. What stuff! Who's got any to do with paying or not paying the State or county debts contracted for the war, when Georgia is whipped out of her boots, and not defined the property of the specific of the Shenard Coarnet and Co

Gen. Grant and Mexico.

Gen. Grant recently attended a Union League meeting in New York, and was welcomed in a speech by Vice President Beekman, who, after alluding to his victories in the late war, referred to the foul wrong of the French occupation of Mexico, advantage being taken of our den tic troubles to invade and subvert a neighbor ing Republic, a see set up to owt atta from

Gen. Grant replied briefly, but significant saying there is one sentiment in your address which I heartily concur as to the future of Mexiof Dixey every 24 hours and pare 0.00

We have no doubt Gen. Grant could, in one month, if he would say the word, have 100,000 men across the Rio Grande. The spirit of the American people is rife for the enterprise of upsetting the French-Austrian Empire in Mexico

The publication of the Sentinel newspaper, which was suspended by the fall of Richmo Richard M. Smith, Esq., a gentleman we known in this section of Virginia as the for able editor of the Alexandria Sentinel. The Sentinel is a large and handsome paper printed on new type. It gives the latest and most reliable news, a full and accurate, report of the stock, money and produce markets—and is a strenuous advocate of the annexation of Jefferson to Virginia proper, and all other co

The Editor says :- "The Sentinel will, in good faith abide by the late pacification of the country; but it is a Southern newspaper, owned and conducted by Southern men, whose pecu-liar sympathies and interests, are all identified with Virginia and the South."

Mr. J. J. Palmer, formerly of the Winches ter Virginian, is now a travelling agent of the Sentinel, and is now amongst his old friends of Jefferson for the purpose of bringing to their notice the paper to which he is an attache. The Legislature will meet at Richmond on the 4th December. The proceedings will be of no lit-tle interest to our people—and this is therefore an appropriate time to subscribe for the Senti-

Public Meeting.

The meeting held at the Carter House, in this town, on Saturday last, was well attended, and the spirit evinced, one of unalterable determination to place the county of Jefferson in her true attitude.—
The meeting was organized by calling Capt. John Reed to the Chair, and the appointment of Benja F. Beall as Secretary. The object of the meeting was explained by Wm. H. Travers and Andrew E. Kennedy, Esqra, and is fully set forth in the able report of the Committee on Memorials. The following resolution was adopted by the meeting.

Resolved, That two persons from each magisterial district of the county, be appointed for the purpose of canvassing thoroughly their several districts for signers to the petitions to Congress and the Legislature of Virginia, now in circulation—and at the same time, to receive such contributions in money

Under the provisions of this resolution, the fo owing appointments were made for the severa making Establishment, and to his facilities for sup-plying the public with conveyances, as for hauling irposes &c.

Mr. CHARLES WARNER, General Commission Agent, &c., has located near the Depot, and attends to forwarding and receiving. He pays special at-tention to the sale of Coal & Lumber. See his adtisement which explains more in detail the nature of his business.

The most innecent, pleasant and efficient remedy in itse. A rentelly perfect in itslef.—

NO CASTOR OIL TO BE TAKEN.

In this Preparation we have included such remedies only, that have been tried for years and are known to possess powerful anthelmintic virtues, combined with mild aperients, pleasant aromatics and sugar. Anthelmintics of themselves cannot perform their peculiar functions or have the desired effect, unless the bowels are kept moderately open. To produce this gentle purgatives are recessary, and such only ought to be used as cannot interfere with the anthelmintic employed. The advantages we claim for this Syrup, are: 1st. Its power of Destroying and Expelling Warms!

2d. Its mild aperient effect upon the bowels.

CERTIFICATES.

Com a careful Chemical Analysis of Superior Old

Ryc Whiskey, Paucatharticonized by

JOHN E. WILSON of

The Company of the Com

This Whisker is characterized by the absence of heavy Fusil Oil, Sugar, and Poisonous Metalic compounds, and by retaining its ethereal oderous oil intained. It has the chemical composition of a pure, carefully defected Bro Whiskey.

Bespectfully,

State Assayer, 16 Boytston street.

Boston, Mass., 23d August, 1862.

Having made a careful chemical analysis of the Pancatharticonized Old Bye Whiskey of Mr. John E. Wilson, Baltimore, am pleased to state that it is entirely free from fusil oil, metalic salts, or other matters in any way detrimental to health. In aroma, richness and delicacy of flavor, it cannot be surpassed.

Respectfully yours,

G. A. Lieblig, M. D.,

Assistical Chemist.

Baltimore, July 26, 1862.

Careful chemical analysis of four kinds of Whiskeys—Superior Old Rye Whiskey, Superior Old Bourbon Whiskey; Superior Old Wheat Whiskey, Superior Old Corn Whiskey—Pancatharticonized by means of the patent apparatus invented by John E. Wilson, of Baltimore, Md., have shown them to be entirely free from the heavy fusil oils and from the poisonous metalle compounds often found in Whiskeys.

They retain the Etherial Products, entirely free from any taint produced by injured grain, or carelless fomentation, and being unmodified by the use of sugar, are remarkably pure products of delicate chemical operations.

Respectfully,

A. A. HAYES, M. D.,

State Assayer, 16 Boylston street

Boston, Mass, 23d August, 1862.
